Knapsack Supplied To New Students

The Knapsack, student handbook of Presbyterian college, was given to incoming freshmen this week in order to enable them to complete their orientation better. Published by the Student Christian association, the 1952 Knapsack has a striking cover of a PC upperclassman showing a freshman the way around.

Many freshmen have commented on the usefulness of this student handbook. It is a guide as well as good reading material.

College Choir Sets Plans for Jaunts

In a conference held Wednesday night at the home of Dr. Edouard Patte, the older members of the Presbyterian college choir decided that a meeting of the singers and all prospective gleesters will be held this evening, Sept. 12, at 6:30 p.m.

The first concert is scheduled for Georgetown on November 23. The choristers will start their annual fall Georgia tour December 7, beginning in Atlanta. Plans are nearing completion for a 10-day tour of Florida next spring plus other weekend jaunts around South Carolina.

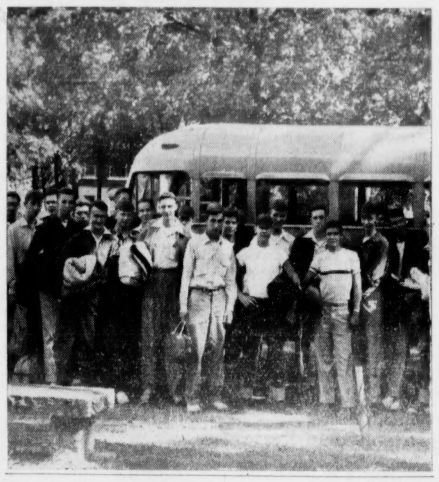
Sunday Vespers To Be Led by Dr. Turner

The Student Christian association each year sponsors a series of vesper programs which extend to freshmen as well as upperclassmen a well-rounded religious outline. Don Anderson, president of the SCA, announced this week that the cabinet was very fortunate in securing the aid of Dr. W. Redd Turner, pastor of the Clinton First Presbyterian church, to speak.

The service will commence promptly at 6:30 Sunday, Sept. 14, at the outdoor chapel. In case of rain ,the service will be held in the college auditorium. A. B. Plexico will have charge of the devotional. Special music by Mrs. W. Y. Thompson or Mrs. Norman Sloan will be rendered.

Anderson also announced that a schedule of well-known speakers have already consented to lead vespers, some of them from surrounding states. Everyone is urged to attend these Sunday vespers in order to receive a spiritual benefit.

Class Schedule To Be Met Tomorrow Morning



Classwork opening the first semester of the 1952-53 school year will get underway at Presbyterian college tomorrow morning with one of the college's largest student bodies in history expected to attend.

Approximately 210 new students already are on hand, and the upperclassmen registered today. The regular class schedule will begin tomorrow morning.

Newcomers have been at Presbyterian college since last Monday taking part in a full program of preliminary activities. During this time, they have been put through the paces of meetings, placement examinations, physical examinations, general orientation and a night on Lake Greenwood. They registered yesterday morning.

Facilities at Presbyterian have been extended to the limit in an effort to satisfy the clamor of students seeking to enroll. Dormitory reservations were completed last spring, and since then a number of off-campus arrangements have been necessary to provide living quarters for additional students, while numerous others have been turned away.

We're Moving On...

Freshmen Withdraw to Lake For SCA Orientation

Freshmen students were whisked away to Lake Greenwood Tuesday afternoon, September 9, and enjoyed a program of fun and fellowship away from the campus. The "retreat" is an annual process, whereby the new students may gather by themselves in order to become better acquainted with the campus leaders and to strike up friendships among themselves. The annual affair is sponsored by the Student Christian association.

The new students were taken out to Camp Fellowship by bus and truck at 3:00 Tuesday. Upon arrival, the freshmen broke up into groups to enjoy recreation facilities of the camp, including swimming, volleyball, softball, horseshoes, and ping pong. Supper was supplied by L. V. Powell and a portion of his dining hall crew.

The night program consisted of a short worship service, led by Paul Crouch, who read the scrip-

BLUE SOCK POLL

Friendlinss Takes The Cake

WHAT WAS THE FIRST IMPRESSION OF PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE ON YOUR ARRIVAL?

Al Ansley (Charlotte, N. C.): I liked it fine, but had a hard time finding anything.

Richard Nelson (Woodcliff Lake, N. J.): Friendliness.

Richard Cain (Oswego): What impressed me most was the friendly group of boys that showed us our rooms. Their kindness made me feel at home. It also gave me a good impression of this college.

Richard Oliver (College Park, Ga.): My first impression of PC was the friendly attitude of the students as well as the faculty members. Also the school spirit shown was very impressive.

Bill Blackledge (Homerville, Ga.): My best impression of PC was the friendly boys on the campus when I arrived. Everybody speaks and you feel almost at home.

George Nisbet (Jacksonville, Fla.): One of the things that first impressed me was the friendly attitude between the faculty and students.

Bill Dendy (Whitmire): PC has impressed me in many ways, but the friendliness and spirit of welcome has made me enjoy Presbyterian most of all. P.S.—Also the food.

Three Professors Make Debut At Presbyterian

Three professors have been added to the Presbyterian college faculty for the 1952-53 session which begins tomorrow.

The new men are: Charles L. Evans, English; Albert H. Wallace, French; and First Lt. Ernest M. Kelly, military science and tactics.

Evans came to Presbyterian from Emory university where he served as a senior instructor while working toward his doctorate in English. Some work still remains before he completes his effort in this field. A former principal of the Claxton, Ga., schools, Evans received his AB degree from Mercer university in 1941 and his master's from Emory in 1950.

Wallace is an alumnus of Presbyterian college, having received his AB degree in 1949. He did graduate work at the University of Alabama and was awarded his master's from that institution in 1951. The new French professor was employed by United Air Lines in Chattanooga prior to accepting the position at PC.

Lt. Kelly replaces Major Samuel Gray as assistant professor of military science and tactics in Presbyterian's outstanding ROTC department. He attended The Citadel as a pre-medical student and received his BS degree in 1947. One year later he went into the army as an infantry officer and has just returned from 36 months service in Germany.

College Obtains Student Residence

Because of the tremendous overflow of incoming students, the two-story brick residence at the corner of South Adair street and Calvert avenue has been purchased from C. D. Nance by Presbyterian college.

The new property, called the "Caldair House," has been purchased in order to satisfy an overload of students for the new college session beginning Saturday.

Living quarters for 14 students will be provided by the purchase. The "Calvert Apartments," which houses several professors will be ready to receive a number of students, as well as the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Young on South Broad street.

As early as the first of May, student applicants for enrollment had been received by the college and the matriculation was larger than accommodations for living quarters. The September matriculation has gone far above the enrollment of last year.

The Blue Stocking Salutes PC Scholars

From the Old to the New . . .

Dear New Students:

Upon setting foot on Presbyterian college soil, you immediately leave behind you your high school days and adjust yourself to higher learning. It is not an easy task forgetting the memories that have cropped upon you in your past twelve years — memories of dances after football games, clubs and organizations, athletics, etc. But if you are to become functional in college life, then a portion of these high school faculties of the mind must be discarded.

We understand firmly the situation you are presently occupied with. Orientation is a big word and you have come to find out the difficulties and complexities involved. However, as time elapses, your stay at Presbyterian college will become more beneficial—both to you and to us.

One main way that we have found to adapt ourselves to college life is to enter wholeheartedly into extra-curricular activities. Of course, we do not mean to shirk your academic duties. But all work and no play makes Joe Freshman a sluggish boy. You heard the various campus leaders at Camp Fellowship attempt to explain the clubs and organizations that you could indulge. You know better than we what activity you are best suited for.

Another important measure to remember is not to diddle away your time. Be active and efficient and you will win the respect of those associated with you.

You are most likely pondering over in your mind right now the possibility of your progress on the campus this first year. Let us who know by experience tell you that we were countered with the identical problems that face you. Make as many friends as possible . . . enter into campus activities . . . have faith in yourself and in the Father. We desire to be your friends. Don't hesitate to call on us for any guidance you need.

Sincerely,

The Upperclassmen of Presbyterian College.

From the New to the Old . . .

Dear Upperclassmen:

After a delirious week of fellowship, recreation, placement tests, talks by campus leaders and members of the faculty, we have acquired an allotment of the social and academic life at Presbyterian college.

The Student Christian Association cabinet has expertly run us through our paces since the initial day of our arrival. They have almost been a second set of parents and we would truly have felt a somber attitude if it had not been for them. The remainder of upperclassmen who have been in contact with us have gone out of their way to aid and help us find our lost ways.

We have heard numerous sources tell us about the abundance of spirit on the campus. Possibly the only way we have experienced vivacity in the past was at high school football games. We deeply trust that we, as freshmen and transfers may be able to meet the requirements for obtaining this liveliness.

At the present our clan may seem to be a little confused on the status of things here, but we all live and learn through trial and error, and we trust you will bear with us on this point. We hope you will continue in the future, as you all have done so far, to be of service to us. It is our sincerest expectation that we may come to you with our tribulations. The faculty has already offered their generous services to us.

We are now a small cog in the wheel of college activity. But a small tooth may do as much harm or good as a large tooth.

We ask you to set a good example to us so that our share in the pie may not spoil the appetite of your college life.

Sincerely,

The Freshmen and Transfers of Presbyterian College.

The Return of Cleland

Around We Go Once More

By JIM "SCOOP" CLELAND

"What! You mean to say that Cleland is writing a column again this year! I thought he sang his swan song back in May. I now open The Blue Stocking this year and find his musings staring me in the face once again!"

Since this is the first issue that most of you new students have ever read, and since all this life around P college is new to you, I would like to take it upon myself to acquaint you with a few pertinent facts about the place:

"Presbyterian college is located in Clinton, a progressive town of 8,000 in the Piedmont area of South Carolina . . . " — wait a second, I wrote all about this for the first issue of last year's paper. If you new boys want to find out all about this, please turn to pages 18 and 19 in your college catalog.

By the way, your college bulletin will be one of your best friends during your first days here—if you don't take it too seriously. For instance, take a look at that picture of "one of the entrances to Smyth Hall dormitory." I wouldn't say that is an old shot, but some of those boys sitting on the steps had sons to finish here several years ago. Also, those pictures don't even show the water that is usually splattering the steps of Smyth and Spencer, but you new boys will learn of all this soon enough so I'll not waste my typing ink telling you about it.

With the out-going of the old comes the in-coming of the new. Seriously writing, I would like to welcome all you new students who have found your way to a great college the very best of wishes. As I have said before, you will get out of your college life just what you contribute to it. So, here's wishing you all success.

Lou Kemia Sings the Farewell Blues

By THE EDITOR

Most likely you new students have never heard of Dave Stone. But his writings concerning a certain character, Lou Kemia by name, will always remain in the hearts of Blue Stocking readers everywhere.

Consequently, I was very vexatious to learn by letter that the versatile Stone had been summoned by a certain Uncle and would not take his place on this page as a columnist. His services and witty remarks will be greatly missed. But our loss is someone else's gain.

I want to use a little excerpt from "Happy Dave's" letter. It goes like this:

"I need not inform you as to how much I would enjoy prancing around the Plaza for another semester, but my country calls and I must join the colors.

"Remember, George, Lou Kemia is jolly, sporty, naughty, witty, and even zany, but he's filled to the gills with true BLUE spirit and may come across with some sincere and beneficial advice from time to time."

It is my opinion that these few sentences express the true sentiment belonging to Dave.

Mr. Stone could sit down at his trusty typewriter and peck away humorous notes on his favorite subjects — Chaz Horne, Daddy Jim Cook, Lou (the Nose) Dondero, and Charlies'.

If I were to put myself in Lou Kemia's shoes for just one paragraph, I would probably say this concerning the salutation to his creator—

"Boss, I just want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for the wonderful and exciting time I had while you were here. Some of the students and faculty may have criticized me for being so liberal and happy-go-lucky about certain principles. But, boss, I didn't really mean any harm. And if I did, I am truly sorry. I sincerely hope that this year will be the best for everyone. Boss, may God always be with you wherever you may go."

ll Hose Lettermen Bolster Grid Hopes

60-Minute Men on Tap

Back to the gridiron this fall are eleven lettermen returning to fight and win for the Blue Hose.

Most all of these boys played 60-minute ball last year and will probably be counted on to do just as much this year. Tommy Guillebeau, honorable mention All-State last year, and co-captain this year, will be the big gun in the defensive wall and the offensive center. Jumping Joe Kirven, third string Little All-American, second team All-State, and co-captain, will be the main pass receiver, and is a stalwart at his defensive end position.

In the quarterback slot will be Jack "Lefty" Harper. Little All-American and ace passer. Lefty will be running this year both from the halfback and quarterback positions and Coach Lonnie Mac expects great things from him both in the air and on the ground.

Emmett Fulk, running from the fullback position, will be cracking at the line and plowing for many yards and many touchdowns. In the halfback slot will be Tommy Jordan, state 100 and 220 dash champion, scooting around ends and catching passes. In the other halfback position will be Curtis Freeman, the junior standout. Freeman will also be counted on to do much of the punting as well as swivel hipping and side stepping runs.

In the forward wall will be powerful Tommy Sheriff, who has done a superb job in his tackle position, and this, his senior year, he is looking better than ever. Ced Jernigan ,smart, strong lineman, returning for his last year on the gridiron for the Blue Hose, will also play a number one position in the line.

Military Sponsors I-M Rifle Teams

In order to promote rifle marksmanship as a competitive sport, the Military Science and Tactics department has prescribed an intramural small-bore rifle team for competition during the 1952-53 rifle season.

Each fraternity will organize a team and the non-fraternity students will organize two teams. Each team will consist of six members, all of whom must be qualified ROTC students.

The firing will be conducted under the supervision of the ROTC rifle team coach, Master Sergeant William W. Young. Practice firing will begin Sept. 22 and the team elimination matches will start Oct. 10, with matches to continue for seven consecutive Friday afternoons. All firing periods will be coordinated by the team captains and the ROTC rifle coach.

A trophy will be presented the winning team and held in its possession until completion of the next intramural competition. An award will be given the individual member of the league firing the highest score.

All members who qualify will receive an army qualification badge, expert sharpshooter, or marksman. The 15 highest qualified riflemen to be selected will represent the Presbyterian college ROTC small-bore rifle team in the Third Army area intercollegiate and interscholastic matches from Jan. 1 to Feb. 15. Men who participate in this competition will be eligible for membership in the Block "P" club.

The schedule of participating teams will be published in this paper at a later date.

Big Line, Fast Backs Feature Freshman Squad

Twenty-nine freshmen reported to the Presbyterian college campus for fall football practice, and the coaches looked mighty pleased with the prospects that showed up. The boys can be classified into two classes: big powerful linemen and fast, shifty backs.

Coach Varney seems very pleased with the linemen, including Tommy Reames, Wayne Shoemaker, Hughie Taylor, B. Reagin, A. Bray, W. Adams, Frank Sudderth, Grady Faulk, G. Gregory, J. Franklin, W. Pittman, Oscar Bolt, S. McMurray, and Gene Carter.

KIRVEN

GUILLEBEAU

Kirven, Guillebeau Picked To Guide Hose Eleven

Two star linemen have been elected to lead Presbyterian gridmen through the 1952 football campaign.

End Joe Kirven, of Sumter, and Center Tommy Guillebeau, of Lincolnton, Ga., are the choice of teammates to serve as co-captains for the season.

Both players proved their leadership with superlative gridiron performances last year. Kirven, a 60-minute man at the flank, ranked among the nation's small-college leaders in pass receiving and ended the season by heading the All-South Carolina second team. This year, he will be a leading candidate for Little All-America, for which he received honorable mention as a sophomore and a junior.

Guillebeau rates as one of the state's best centers. He proved himself in 1951 with devastating force as a line-backer on defense and emerged with honorable mention for All-South Carolina.

Both gridmen have been tabbed as potential All-Staters in a pre-season pick by South Carolina sports writers.

Hose Open Season With Tigers Sept. 20; Play 2 Home Games

With only two home games on the Presbyterian football slate, the Blue Stockings open the 1952 gridiron season against the always deadly and powerful Clemson college Tigers September 20. The tilt will be staged at Clemson's Memorial stadium at 8:00 p.m. As usual, Coach Frank Howard's terribles will be rated the favorite.

On September 27, the traveling Blue Hose will take a jaunt to Livingston, Ala., where they will meet the Alabama State Teachers college eleven. This tilt will mark the initial meeting between the two squads. In this game ,the Hosemen are considered favorites.

The next weekend, Oct. 3, is THE game for Coach Lonnie Mac's men. On that date, PC plays Wofford college in Spartanburg at 3 p.m. This is the all-important contest on the Hose schedule, with the Little Three title at stake. Coach Phil Dickens and his Terriers will be rated as the team to win, but the Stockings will also be pointing for the victory.

A little rest will come on Oct. 11, as the Blue Hose will be enjoying an open date.

Action galore will take place on Johnson field October 17, when PC meets the Davidson college Wildcats. This game will mark Presbyterian's homecoming and also the first home game of the season. The Garnet and

Strock Goes Back To Flying Fleet

PC's snare of the year filtered into the gridiron camp, only to vanish away as quickly as he came.

Bobby Strock, a top-flight quarterback transfer from Erskine college, headed back to his old stomping grounds after a week and a half of Presbyterian football. Strock was the lad counted on by Coach Lonnie McMillian to share pitching duties with Lefty Jack Harper. However, with Strock returning to his old alma mater, the quarterback position is still a tough problem.

Tennis Story Next Week

In next week's edition of The Blue Stocking there will appear a feature article concerning the summer net tournament circuit. Be on the watch for it!

Hoping for a Successful Season...

Presbyterian college coaches Sloan, McMillian and Varney are looking forward to the 1952-53 grid season with bated breath. After a 5-won and 4-lost schedule last year, the mentors hope this season will be even more successful.

THE HOSE HAMPER

By CURT CROWTHER

With autumn in the air and school getting underway, the gridiron is gleaming with freshman standouts. Big linemen and fast backs is the topic of conversation among the coaches, and they have 32 newcomers to groom and to perfect into Little All-Americans.

In an intra-squad game last Saturday, the frosh, along with a few sophomores, hustled and fought down to the last minute to give the varsity and old-timers a run for their money.

But let's not ever underestimate these old-timers. Lefty Harper, looking as good as ever running from both the quarterback and halfback positions. Emmett Fulk, with his hard driving and shifty stepping. Joe Austin, running and crashing from the fullback position. Curtis Freeman, slipping off-tackle, side-stepping, swivel-hipping his way for many yards. Art Baker, the shifty, slippery little runner. And, of course, Tommy Jordan, the little speedster from Bishopville, looking just as good in a football outfit as he does in a track uniform.

Jumping Joe Kirven and Tommy Guillebeau, pre-season choices for All-State honors, have been living up to what they have been picked for.

Ced Jernigan, Wade Camlin, Tommy Sheriff! All of these senior linemen are doing superb performances in practice. Sophomores Jimmy Allen, Curtis Agee, Walter Yates, Charles Twitty, Joe Counts, Dave Miller, and Floyd Shealy are hustling and fighting for the number one position.

Several varsity newcomers are looking very good in practice—Moon McQueen, playing good ball at his defensive right halfback; Hardy Tyler, junior college transfer, has been very good at the fullback position.

All of these boys, and more, are hustling, fighting, and sweating on the practice field to give PC football honors when game time comes. The least we can do is support them 100% on the campus, at pep rallies, but most of all at the games. We need the team and the team needs us. Let's make this a great year for the Blue Hose.

Hose Open Season

Blue will rank as favorites as a result of their 14-12 win over the North Carolinians last season. Game time will be 8 p.m. Bailey Memorial stadium, with a seating capacity of 5,000, will probably be filled to the brim with football-hungry spectators.

The Hose don their road togs October 25 and meet heads with The Citadel's Bulldogs at Charleston in an afternoon game commencing at 2:30. The Citadel beat the Hose last year by a 35-0 count.

On November 1, the Presbyterians will tackle Catawba college at Salisbury, N. C. in a night game. The score of last year's tilt was 20-7, with PC coming out on top.

November 8 will find Presbyterian teeing off against the Furman university Purple Hurricane at Sirrine stadium in Greenville. Game time will be 3 p.m. Last year's score, which ended in Furman's favor, is hoped to be improved.

Western Carolina Teachers college falls on November 15. The game will be played at Cullowhee, N. C. The Stockings won over the Profs last season, 12-0, and will be rated to walk away again victorious.

The last game on the schedule will be the second home tilt. Newberry college comes to Johnson field Nov. 22 for a Thanksgiving day contest at 2:30. When these two teams meet, the outcome is unpredictable until the final whistle. Last season's score was 27-0 in PC's favor. Again this season, Presbyterian will be rated to win.

John Covin took over for the remainder of the program and introduced all the leaders of the various extra-curricular activities and honor organizations on the campus. The freshmen were especially urged to take an active part in these activities offered them and to perform their best effort at all times.

The entertainment part of the program was capably taken care of by Ray Smith and Bruce Galloway "Johnny Ray" Smith expertly imitated Nat King Cole's version of "Walking My Baby Back Home" while Galloway accompanied him on the ivories.

Afterwards, a marshmallow roast was enjoyed. The freshmen spent the night at Camp Fellowship and arrived on the campus in time for breakfast Wednesday morning.

President Don Anderson of the SCA termed the occasion a success in every respect and expressed his thanks to those taking part in the management of the affair.

Shifty little Art Baker is expected to play a lot of ball this year and Coach Mac plans to take advantage of his tricky running to gain many yards. Joe Austin, who come into his own at the end of last season, is looking very good and will probably be used a great deal in the fullback position.

Eight out of these 11 returning lettermen are seniors expecting to make their last year their best year.

PC's prospects for honors this season seem to depend upon capabilities at three phases of the game—speed, deception, and passing. However, the same type of team as last year's will appear on the field, playing the identical type of football.

The 1952-53 edition of the Blue Stocking football team will field another thin line, with the weight average hitting the 175-pound mark, and the boys in the line counting on their speed and maneuverability to furnish the opposition with plenty of trouble.

In the split-T backfield, Coach Lonnie McMillian will have his old standby, Harper, to rely on, and expects considerable aid from QBs Harry Hamilton and Bi Shillinglaw. Freshmen prospect both in the line and backfield, wi be heavily counted upon as th season progresses.

CHESTERFIELD

FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE

TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy — nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization — no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger — contains considerably more of the same tobaccos — enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs little more.

IRC Sets Forth Progressive Plan; Kelly To Speak

The International Relations club at Presbyterian college this year has set forth a progressive schedule which includes speakers to address the members at their bi-weekly meetings; conducting the annual Christian Citizenship week which brings to the campus noted and informed speakers to deliver addresses giving first-hand information of the world and its happenings; and giving to the members the feilowship that enables them to collect their thoughts and ideas to construct a logical and practical outlook upon the world.

The study of international relations has an important place in colleges and universities today, both in the training of specialists able to cope with complex international issues, and in the general education of men and women as community leaders.

Study in this field is a vital part of the extra-curricular activities of life in a university group. Special lectures and conferences on international matters serve to contribute to education on the campus. Among the extra-curricular activities of consequence in this field are International Relations clubs, organized and maintained by students under faculty sponsorship, on many campuses throughout the world.

International Relations clubs have a long history in American education, dating back almost 40 years.

Through the years they have grown in membership and vaulted to a height of national importance. Membership in the club at Presbyterian college is gained by a competitive examination on current world events given once a semester.

On September 24, the members will hear Lt. Kelly, assistant professor of military science and tactics, address them at their first meeting this semester.

Lt. Kelly attended The Citadel as a premedical student and received his BS degree in 1947. He has just returned from 36 months service in Germany.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting.

Stockings Encounter Favored Tigers In Memorial Stadium at 8:00 P. M.

The Presbyterian college football squad, 43 strong, open the 1952 grid season with Clemson college tomorrow night. The annual battle will take place in Memorial stadium at Clemson, with the kickoff slated for 8:00 p.m.

It will be the razzle-dazzle split-T of Coach Lonnie S. McMillian's charges against the deadly single-wing that Coach Frank Howard and the Tigers have used so expertly. With these two formations running loose on the turf and with the 53-6 defeat dealt by Clemson in 1951, anything could happen, and probably will.

Starting lineups are still in doubt, but the probable positions at kickoff time will appear something like this:

For Presbyterian, at the ends will appear Co-Captain Joe Kirven and either Joe Counts or Charles Twitty. At tackles, 175-pound Tommy Sheriff, excellent both on offense and defense, and Wade Camlin, the old standby, will fill the bill. The guard posts will fall under the supervision of Luther Shealy, who has been impressive in workouts, and smart Cedric Jernigan. Capably supplying the center fireworks will be Co-Captain Tommy Guillebeau.

Quarterback Jack Harper is a definite fixture under the center. Two speedy dashmen, Tommy Jordan and Curtis Freeman, will be the most likely halfback candidates. Pile-driving Emmett Fulk will probably man the fullback spot.

Clemson line-up:

Gleesters Prepare Unusual Program

The choir, having presented last year a program based upon the Lord's Prayer, is preparing a new one entitled "The Word of God," and the program consists of a variety of anthems, motets, and spirituals along with the spoken word.

Those who heard the choir last year were impressed by the high quality of voices and excellent taste in the selections. Again this year a new revitalized group will prepare to represent PC in South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida.

Jones to Speak At Sunday Vespers

Halbert M. Jones, president of Waverly Mills at Laurinburg, N. C., and prominent Presbyterian layman, will lead the vesper program Sunday night at the outdoor chapel. The program, sponsored by the SCA, will begin at 6:30, with Charley Woodson in charge.

An offering will be taken to be used in the support of the foreign student in Lebanon who is being aided by Presbyterian college students. In the event of rain, the service will be held in the chapel.

PC Dames, SCA Entertain Freshmen With Reception

The annual SCA formal freshman-faculty reception was held Thursday night at 8:00 in the College library. Mrs. E. H. Hall, SCA hostess, met the new students as they entered the building and supplied them with name tags. The members of the faculty and their wives greeted the guests.

The receiving line was headed by Mrs. Hall at the door, followed by Dr. and Mrs. Brown, Dr. and Mrs. Bellingrath, Dean and Mrs. H. G. Prince, Dr. and Mrs. Jones, Don L. Anderson, president of the SCA, E. M. Watt, president of the student body, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Michael Gussie, Prof. and Mrs. Charles Evans, Prof. Albert Wallace, Prof. and Mrs. James Parthemos, and Prof. George Whitehead.

The reception is given by the College Dames in conjunction with the SCA. Mrs. Newton Jones serves as president of the College Dames with Mrs. John Stevenson and Mrs. Edward Campbell as other officers.

For the reception the library was colorfully decorated, with the punch bowl serving as the center of attraction. Refreshments were served, under the direction of L. V. Powell, by the wives of college students.

The reception is a regular feature of the SCA program instigated to further better relations between students and faculty, and to introduce the faculty to the new students.

Why the Hurly Burly? Gee, It's Only Shirley

Have you seen a ray of sunshine going into the Science building lately? Well, don't rub your eyes too hard, because she's real, boys. She's Miss Shirley Casey, secretary to the military department this year.

Miss Casey is about five feet two and a half inches tall, blond, and weighs just about — well, that's a secret. She attended Laurens high school, where she sang in the sextette, participated as a cheerleader, and was also a majorette. Before coming over to ole P college, she had been working in the office at Laurens Mills.

When asked what she thought of our fair college, Miss Casey had this to say, "There really are so many good points about

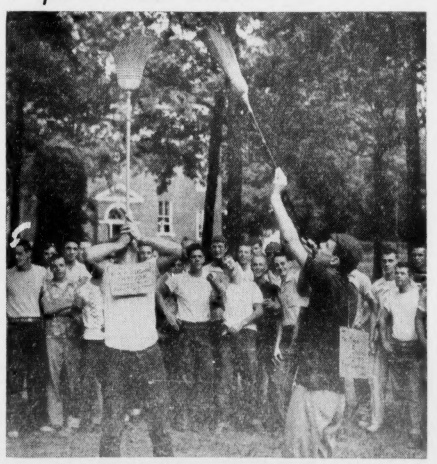
Pep Rally Slated Tonight at Stadium

The spirit for the coming football season is beginning to rise here on our campus in Clinton. The first festivities of this new season get under way this evening at 6:30 p.m. in the Bailey Memorial stadium with a huge pep rally and bon-fire. Everyone is invited to attend and all students are especially asked to be present.



Plans have been formulated to have the largest pep rally in the history of the school to send our team off to the Clemson game. Our boys are going to Clemson to give all they have for a victory and it is the students' aim to send them off knowing they have the entire student body behind them.

Coach Walter Johnson, athletic director at PC, has consented to be the main speaker for the pep rally. All members of the football team will be present, so let's make this the biggest and best rally of the year.

Everyone is especially urged to come and join in the fun and get that PC spirit which is known and respected all over the Carolinas.

A large and enthusiastic crowd is expected at the Tigertown game Saturday night to give the team the backing they need to put on a good show for the fans and bring a victory back home with them.

Terpsichorean Art...

A favorite pastime in a freshman's life at PC is a little game known as "spin the broom." Rats Hughie Taylor and Mark Ballad are pictured as freshmen participants while a galaxy of upperclassmen in the backgound get a large charge out of the stunts.

Vespers...

Stress Inspiration

The evening vesper services, sponsored by Presbyterian's Student Christian association, have again this year begun with a bang.

A large turnout last Sunday evening, including Thornwell Orphanage girls, jammed the outdoor auditorium to hear Dr. Redd Turner give a most inspirational message. On succeeding Sunday evenings, religious speakers will have charge of the program.

One cannot help but feel a presence of the Holy Spirit in these vesper meetings. The calm and sedate pervading influence drives one to forget his anxieties and cares and to place his burdens on a more stable bearer—the Lord.

If one desires to communicate with God through Sunday vesper services, that person will indeed receive a more spiritual blessing through the coming week and will strive to better himself in this world of confusion and chaos.

JCB...

Merits Applause

The Feshman Control Board, under the competent leadership of Tommy Jordan, deserves multitudinous praises from the whole of the student body, faculty, and administration for their noble efforts toward the betterment of Presbyterian college.

First of all, the governing board of the freshman class has sought to give the first-year men and women a more adequate program of study. As it stands now, all upperclassmen will be unable to require any duties of freshmen after 9:00 p.m. In turn, the freshmen must be in their rooms from 9:15 until 11:00 p.m. In this way, an application of diligent study under the right kind of atmosphere may be had.

Secondly, the board will not tolerate any new student participating in acts of drinking, cheating, or gambling. These three "dont's" were slightly curbed last year by the same organization and the indulgence in any form will require strict punishment.

Thirdly, acts of ginning in the dining room will not be participated in by freshmen. Also during Monday and Wednesday's chapel periods there will be no ginning. The atmosphere of religion is desired to be prevalent on these days.

The preceding are just three of the main rules and regulations emphasized by the board. A more complete list will be published next week.

With the strained efforts of the control board and student body living harmoniously with the freshmen, an abundant harvest would truly be reaped.

Jest Wadin' Around

By WADE AVANT

Last week there wasn't any junk in this paper, but since they had an extra column they let me have a little space.

We upperclassmen welcome you cats, lovers, musclemen and brains to this here fine college. We'll be glad for you to do anything for us you like.

You lovers have quite a record to beat, because Jim Sloan, our King Lover, pinned seven girls last year. (Don't quote me). Wade Camlin, George Blue and Rip Johnson aren't far behind. They've been known to snow a few, also. However, we can never forget those two famous "night riders," Lou Dondero and "Whiskey" Jim Cook. Of course, since they are gone, you have a chance.

We have quite a few muscle-men too. Bill Dudley is the chief he-man followed by L. P. Thaxton, Tommy Guillebeau, and a few more.

There has been some real news this week. The best is that A. J. Richards went to Spartanburg to date a little babe. She didn't show up. Guess what happened? Yep, she got married. Wasn't that a square one? Tommy Jordan has a little cup-cake called Nancy. Ask him if she loves him.

Art Baker and Worth Wilson made that fatal step. You have our sympathy—or is it sympathy?

News—E. M. Watt has a Cadillac. Please don't tell him different.

Reward—There's a reward out for three hunters seen shooting birds out of season, off telephone wires, and other various charges.

Brief—Lean Gene is still here. Her dating hours are from eight 'til eleven — for all those lovers who wish to know.

Though it's not much news, that's all for now. Let's go to Clemson and support our team. Remember, we don't need any anti-freeze for the game. Winter's not here yet.

Tooling With Toole

By BILL TOOLE

You know, the number of things which you can acquire during the course of a college education is surprising, and I think it's only fair to give the incoming freshmen some examples. Take Rip Johnson. When he first came to PC he had the original school girl figure. But just the other day he had to take his fatigue pants back to Sgt. Harrison because they were too tight around the waist. He was very unhappy with the new pair he received until he found out that Al Paschall had worn them last year. Al lost weight this summer!

There should be a moral somewhere in the above, but I can't find it. The only thing I can say is that it's a shame knowledge can't be accumulated as easily as weight. If knowledge were as easily acquired, Tom Alexander and Perry Randle would be among the leading figures on the campus.

Then there's Ty Hope. I'm sure everyone knows and likes the dignified gentleman from Archibald's Hangout. The following will be hard to believe, but I remember once in freshman English when Ty complained that a sentence wasn't "writ right." And look at him now. Ty is the epitome of urbanity. He speaks with an Oxford accent, wears a monocle, and is still one of the most popular boys in school. He even rides his bicycle on the left side of the street.

I could go on and on with these examples. Tommy Jordan, who is a major in ROTC, never rose above a rabbit when he was a Cub Scout.

George Everett is another good example of a PC success story. When George came to Clinton he could neither read nor write. He still can't read or write, but he is editor of The Blue Stocking.

George, if anyone tells you what I wrote in this column, I'm just kidding.

And, of course, the same goes for all the rest of it.

B-S Sends SOS for Journalists

Anyone desiring a position on The Blue Stocking is asked to meet in the B-S office in the library, next to Dean Bellingrath's office, for a conference with the editor.

He will be free for an interview on Monday afternoon from 3:00 to 4:30 o'clock and interested students are particularly urged to come at this time.

Open Letter From Joe

By JIM "SCOOP" CLELAND

Dear Mamma:

Well, I've been here almost two weeks now and I'm really beginning to get that ole Blue Hose spirit. Rah! Rah!

It really isn't bad here at all after you get kinda accustomed to the new routine. Not that it's so much different from home life, but the sleeping conditions and the food aren't exactly the same as they are at home.

The older students have really been sports about showing me all the sights and places to go around here. Last night they were good enough to take me to all the night spots such as Furr's, Roddy's, and the Milk Bar. I, of course bought them all something since they told me it was an old custom for freshmen to buy the upper-classmen refreshments when they first take them out.

My student advisor is a fellow named Yates. He is a very friendly fellow. Yesterday he came up to me and told me about my being his personal freshman. According to him, I am to be honored by doing little personal favors for him like shining his shoes, paying his way into the movies, writing themes for him, etc. I believe we'll really get along fine.

Mamma, I think it's really nice of the school administration to hire certain boys to entertain the rest of the student body. One fellow I believe they've hired is named Counts. He really keeps us in stitches. Joe, that's his name, is really versatile. He plays football, plays at basketball, and plays baseball. Yesterday he told me he could run basepaths in sixty seconds, slide with either hip, can play, but rather coach. Wow! What an idol!.

I'm signed up for some—as they say—"crip" courses. I've got algebra and astronomy under a fellow named Whitelaw. Some of the boys told me I could build up my quality points under him. I was advised not to take Spanish since I have already had two years of it, so I am taking a German course. Besides these I have English, Bible, and a career course known as MS.

Well, Mamma, I've got to close as some of the fellows want me to come out and play a game called spin-the-broom.

Your Blue Hose Son,
JOSEPH P.

Froshman Feelings

UNDERGROUND RETREAT, SOMEWHERE AT P. C., Sept. 19.-(VIP)—Greetings and I am having one swell bully of a time tryin to write a column. The very distinguished editor of this renowned journal confronted me at supper the other evening and said to me:

"You have a dry wit." That was a strange thing for him to sa so I told Mr .Everett, "Thank you, George, and you appear a bit w yourself." I didn't REALLY say that. I said "Yes, sir," and finish chewing the lemon. He told me to write something humorous abo freshmen.

I am a freshman; there is nothing humorous about it.

I am a freshman. I gin, I bow to mailboxes. I never bark at t moon. The craters are sickening to look at. Instead, like any go freshman, I joined up with the Reserve Officers' Tiresome Corps 1952. And like a good soldier, I salute brass. If it moves, I salute It it is motionless, I pick it up and throw it away. If it hollers, I g Last night, off the military subject, some guy asked me if I wa freshman. Yes. Gin once for me, he says. I asked him, like a fo "Are you an upper-classman?" Eleven gins later, I was convinc that he was. Back to the ROTC—it is the duty of any good soldier salute an officer. Up the Armory steps I marched. The PMS&T sto in my way. I saluted like a veteran. Then my foot slipped. I hit t steps with my face like a MIG-load of Gooks. Everybody laugh when the Colonel laughed.

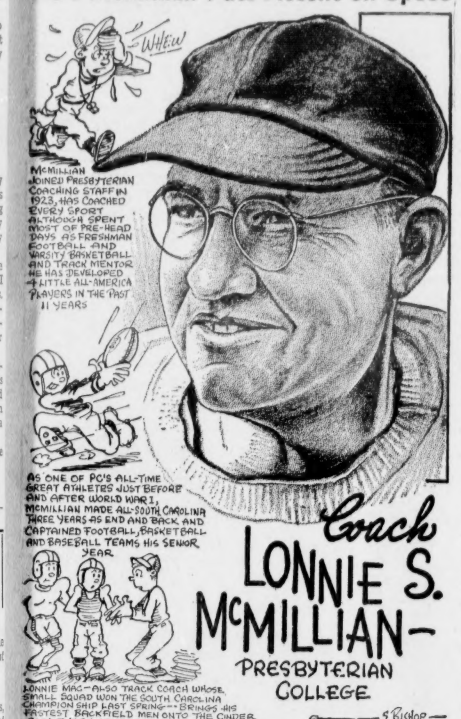
I laughed then.

Ho-ho (casually), so that's that. Pick 'em up, lay 'em down— o when I pick mine up, it falls down. My foot, not my shorts. One m thing:



I had a friend. He was the only man ever to take a picture Stalin and get a double-exposure. The print showed not only Stali smile, but what was behind it as well. But this guy wasn't a fre man—he was an FBI man.

I am a freshman.

That's not humorous.

PC's McMillian Puts Accent on Speed

Lonnie S. McMillian readies his forces to begin his 12th year as head coach of the Presbyterian College Blue Stockings this fall. He's the man who introduced the T-formation in the Southeast on becoming head coach in 1941. A keen strategist and razzle-dazzle artist, he has since switched to the Split-T.

The Hose Hamper

By CURT CROWTHER

Clemson vs. PC . . . .

There are many students at PC who do not have the ole spirit when it comes to the Tiger-Hose football battle. I have heard dozens of people say they weren't even going to the game, because it would just be a run-away, but I have heard many more say that they were going because they knew they would see a good football game. These other people are going because they know the boys on the squad; they are going because they know that every man on the team will be putting his best into the game. The team knows they can make it so rough for the Tigers that Howard will probably swallow his chewing tobacco. The team wants to do it and can do it, but the members of the team overhear some of their roommates or fraternity brothers saying: "The game won't even be close. I'm not going to waste my time going up there to watch a track meet." People who talk like that not only influence other students, but break down the team's morale and spirit.

There never has been a game won when the team did not have the right attitude and spirit. Don't blame it on the team—blame it on yourself. If you can't support the team, how can you expect the team to support you? Those people who sound-off about the game being a track meet—sure, there will be a lot of touchdowns, but PC also has a few boys who have been known to run pretty fast. I don't believe that Clemson will be the only team on the field running that track meet.

This is the first game of the season. It means a lot to the team. If they know the student body is behind them, they can go through the season with flying colors. If we don't have the right attitude and spirit they can't have the right attitude and spirit.

It kills Clemson for us to even score on them—and a cat has only nine lives. We are going to catch up with them one of these days—and this Saturday night may be the time.

PC isn't just located on South Broad street. It's in the lives of all of us, and the way we prove it is in spirit. When Saturday night rolls around, be at Tigertown, because I can almost guarantee that you will see one of the best games you have ever seen. When the Clemson student body starts cheering for the PC team you can be sure that the Hose eleven was putting out. Three years ago when Blake Watts ran a 75-yard touchdown in the last 30 seconds of the game, the cadet corps was cheering for us. When the other team can cheer for us, and our own student body can't support its team, it makes PC look pretty bad—and we blame it on the team. At least they try. Some of us don't even do that. It's not hard to get the "PC spirit." All you have to do is realize that it takes more than a team to win a game.

Sticking My Neck Out

By "SCOOP" CLELAND

It's strange how everything will be going along nice and easy for a person and then out of a clear sky he will decide to do something that might disrupt his entire easy way of life.

Well, that's what I've taken it upon myself to do for this football season. We all read so many of the predictions of the outcomes of the various football games from the sportswriters who really know about such things that I thought in my own naive sort of way that it would be "interesting" to see how a neophyte such as I would come out in this game of predicting the winners of games in which South Carolina teams participate. So, for the weekend of September 19-20 this is the way I look at it:

Clemson over PC — Clemson to win on points — PC to win on spirit. (How I hope I miss this first prediction!)

Georgia Tech over The Citadel —Tech had it last year, and it looks like they'll have it again this season.

Furman over Newberry — Furman apparently is considerably improved this year. They won't go unbeaten, but they should take Newberry.

Strictly Intramural

The intramural rifle matches will get under way Friday, October 10, with practice firing starting September 22. There will be two leagues composed of four teams each. In league number 1 there will be Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Nu, and military team No. 1. League No. 2 will be composed of Theta Chi, Alpha Sigma Phi, Pi Kappa Phi, and military team No. 2.

The two military teams will be made up of six non-frats, each of whom will be qualified ROTC students. Each of the fraternity teams will also be made up of six qualified ROTC students from within the fraternity.

SCA Tennis Contest

There will be a tennis tournament starting next week under the sponsorship of the SCA. The tournament will be open to all college students except members of the tennis team and those who played on the "B" team last year.

If you are interested in playing in this tournament, see either John Fesperman or Jake Privette and sign up before Monday. A trophy will be presented to the winners.

Four Hose Netters Make Summer Tourney Jaunt

Something new has been added in Presbyterian college's tennis program. That something was participation by four Hose net players in the 1952 summer tennis circuit. Made possible by funds supplied by Clinton townspeople and friends of the College, the tour was termed a great success from all angles. Those who bore the Garnet and Blue colors on the circuit were Allen Morris, Jerry Hunt, Ed Montgomery, and Bill Toole.

In the Alabama State at Mobile, Morris was beaten by Don Merritt, 6-4, 8-6, in the round of 16. Merritt is currently the 17th ranking player in the South. Hunt lost out to Bill Davis, 6-4, 6-4, in the round of 32 in singles. Hunt and Morris were defeated by Davis and Longshore in the round of 32 in doubles competition.

Traveling to Montgomery, Ala., for the Blue and Gray championships, Morris upset Davis, who was seeded 8th in this tournament, in the 2nd round, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2. Morris was whipped in the round of 16. After pushing to the round of 16, Hunt was downed by Don Floyd 6-3, 6-4. In doubles competition, Hunt-Morris lost to Vorhees-Warden in the round of 32.

At the Southern Tennis championships performed in Memphis, Tenn., Morris took defeat in the third round by Davis, the score being 6-4, 6-4.

Hunt lived until the 2nd round, when Glen Gardner administered

Memoirs of Summer Camp

By BRUCE GALLOWAY

If there were some quizzical looks on the faces of those who departed for Ft. Benning last June, they have surely disappeared now, because the seniors you see marching around the campus have had inculcated in them the full knowledge of summer camp.

On Friday, June 20, and the next day, 30 PC men, with just as many question marks in front of them, infiltrated the Sand Hill area of Fort Benning to spend the next six weeks as a so-called "vacation with pay." It was a little hard to take up this change of life so suddenly, but soon the duties and hardships became routine and the green cadets began their regular hours for sleeping and working.

Uncle Sam thought of everything last summer when, in light of keeping up the morale of the men, and, at the same time, making them feel right at home, he placed a man well known by all of them as their company commander — Colonel Michael Gussie. Needless to say, this made everything peachy, not only for the PC crowd, but for the University of Alabama, North Georgia, and Marion Institute. They came to know him even as we here at PC know him.

Within the first few days the men were asked whether or not they would like to be the best in the entire regiment. Of course, this came as a flattering challenge to them, and they decided to think it over for a few weeks. But, at the suggestion of the Co. CO, everyone settled down to business, and their motto became: "Work like dogs, eat like hogs, and sleep like logs."

Soon the results of their work began to break out of hiding and Company D, 1st Battalion, ROTC, rose to heights the like of which has never been seen. Out of the 18 companies in the battalion, Company D1 was the only one to possess both the best area and best mess plaques four out of six times. On the field day, a time when all sorts of athletic activities were being carried on, they lost first place by only half a point. Two parades were witnessed, regimental and battalion marches, and in both Company D1 came in second.

During the encampment period, Company D1 was selected to be inspected by high ranking officers on their tour of the ROTC summer camp. Among these were: Major General Beiderlinden, Major General Young, who is camp commander, Colonel William R. Blakely, who attended PC and is the deputy camp commander, and Major General Claude B. Ferrenbaugh, Army Field Forces. Our own Dr. Brown paid the company a visit during the period set aside for the different college representatives to come into the area. Beside all these honors, the men in Co. D1 were chosen to be the honor company at the beginning of camp.

As for the individual participation, most of the men did a good job all over, but the man who came out on top as the outstanding cadet in the company was Tommy Jordan of PC. Tommy was selected for his over-all leadership qualities and effort toward the morale and esprit de corps of the company.

All in all, the company with the best spirit of the battalion—and, most probably in the entire regiment—was the one represented by PC men. Upon recalling some of the experiences of the training, the thoughts which stand out are those that bring a smile, no matter how rough the going might have been. There was always someone in the group who would make some bright remark to lift the dark cloud when the rest of the men were feeling low. And those times did come.

the defeat. Hunt and Morris were beaten in doubles in the round of 16 by Millet and Daniel of Rollins college. At this tournament Montgomery joined "the troops" and lost to the first foreign seeded player, Alfredo Millet, in singles. The Toole-Montgomery combo lost out to the 2nd seeded Willet and Bobbit.

The Tennessee Valley Invitational championships were next on the list. Chattanooga was the scene of action. Morris fought to the round of 16 and was defeated by the participant who fell into the semi-finals. Montgomery and his racket went into the quarter-finals, only to lose to the Eastern Intercollegiate runner-up, 11-9, in the third set. Morris, playing doubles with Montgomery, had a near upset in store in the quarters over Kumamaru and Myagi, Japanese Davis Cup stars, but lost 6-4 in the third set.

In the Mid-Dixie tournament held at Spartanburg, S. C., Morris enjoyed a quarter-final rating before being whipped by number 3 seeded player. Hunt and Morris slashed to the finals of doubles by upsetting the number 2 seeded team, but were defeated in finals play. Hunt slipped into the quarters but lost to Jack Staton, 6-3, 6-4. Montgomery was beaten by 2nd seeded Tom Wyche in the quarter-finals. Montgomery teamed with PC biology prof, Cleo Wilder, in a quarter-final losing cause against Morris and Hunt.

Aside from her duties as a secretary, she loves to read and does it as a hobby, but she goes wild over football and basketball.

CHESTERFIELD
FIRST PREMIUM QUALITY CIGARETTE
TO OFFER BOTH REGULAR & KING-SIZE

BOTH regular and king-size Chesterfields are premium quality cigarettes and come in the smart white pack.

BOTH contain only those proven ingredients that make Chesterfields the best possible smoke: the world's best tobaccos, pure, more costly moistening agents (to keep them tasty and fresh), the best cigarette paper that money can buy — nothing else.

BOTH are much milder with an extraordinarily good taste and, from the report of a well-known research organization — no unpleasant after-taste.

BOTH are exactly the same in all respects. There is absolutely no difference except that king-size Chesterfield is larger — contains considerably more of the same tobaccos — enough more to give you a 21% longer smoke, yet costs little more.

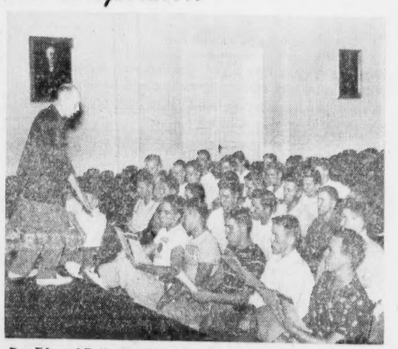
McMillian-men Keyed Up for Important Little-Three Tussle

Presbyterian College gridmen have turned single-purposed attention toward the Big One against Wofford tonight after registering their initial win of the season over Alabama State at Livingston last Saturday night.

Coach Lonnie S. McMillian, not at all pleased with his team's performance in the 16-13 victory, has been working long and hard trying to iron out kinks in both offense and defense before tonight's encounter in Spartanburg. He estimates his position in this way:

"We're not ready to play our best football, because we have been spending so much time on trying to bring some freshmen up to varsity standards. Last weekend proved that. I expect Wofford to be just as tough and rugged as usual, but we'll be doing our best to win."

Any "as usual" tag to the Presbyterian - Wofford battle means another hotly contested game in which both teams throw the football book at each other. Close scores and attendance of these engagements over the past several years have built the annual meeting into a season highlight.



How to stop Wofford Fullback Rosie McLellan and Wingback Eli Sanders are the main issues worrying Presbyterian Coach McMillian who labels these stars among the state's best runners.

The Presbyterian coach has a few stars of his own to help counter this one-two ground menace. Hose End Joe Kirven and Center Tommy Guillebeau rate as two of the top defensive men in South Carolina, and the versatile Kirven teams with Quarterback Jack Harper to form a quick-striking aerial combination. In PC's lately developed ground attack, Backs Emmett Fulk and Curtis Freeman carry the main punch.

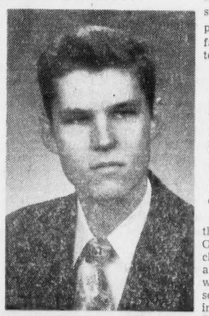
AF Rep to Visit Campus, Discuss ACP

A representative of the United States Air Force will be at Presbyterian College on Monday, Oct. 6, in the Training Aids room of the Science building, from 8:00-4:00 to discuss recent changes in policy in the Aviation Cadet Program and also to inform interested students as to the type of aircraft flown, training received, advantages graduates will incur upon completion of this program and also to answer any questions which any student may care to ask.

Anderson Chosen Senior Personality by Stocking

By BILL ADAMS

Our senior personality for this week is versatile Don Anderson. He is now president of the Student Christian Association, and has been a member for the past three years. Besides this, Don belongs to the International Relations Club, Blue Key Honorary Fraternity, Alpha Sigma Phi Social Fraternity. He is a member of the Blue Stocking (former editor) and PaC SaC staffs. Don was co-editor of the Collegian, the PC Magazine, his sophomore year. He also takes an active part in the Westminster Fellowship.



During the past three years Don has done outstanding work in his studies, having been on the Dean's List for his six semesters of attendance at Presbyterian College. He is majoring in English and minoring in Economics and Education, and hopes to make teaching his career.

Darlington Prep School for Boys in Don's hometown of Rome, Ga. was the place of his formal education before he entered Presbyterian in September, 1949.

Don lists shrimp, fried chicken, and apple pie—and bread—among his favorite foods, and writes up football, baseball, poplar music, literature, and politics as his hobbies. For recreation, he likes swimming and tennis.

When asked what he thought of PC, Don remarked, "PC is really a great school. The atmosphere and friendliness of the students seems to grow on you, and you sometimes don't really know how to appreciate it fully until you are about to leave."

Gleesters Train For Oct. 12 Engagement

Reports from Dr. Edouard Patte, director of the Presbyterian College Robed Choir, revealed that the opening date for concert engagements is Sunday, October 12, at which time the choir will be in Laurens to sing for the opening service of the Evangelism Campaign. Dr. Campbell Morgan, famous Anglo-American Bible teacher, will be the main speaker.

Entrance tests for singers have been given and a committee will select the first and second strings shortly. In order to iron out the kinks and to round the program into the desired shape Dr. Patte has set preparation for at least four times per week. Dr. Patte said. "We will train like a football team until we can throw our notes correctly."

The first weekend excursion of the choir will be on November 15. On Nov. 16, Sunday morning, the choir will make its initial appearance in Georgetown. Since this will be in the duck hunting season, some of the boys are hoping for a roast duck dinner. That Sunday night the choir, on its return to PC will sing in the Eau Claire Presbyterian Church in Columbia.

A 10-day fall tour has been planned for which the choir will visit a number of important churches in North Georgia and the Atlanta vicinity. The choir will leave on December 6 and return to school on the 16. Arrangements for a ten-day tour of Florida next spring are nearing completion plus numerous other weekend jaunts around South Carolina.

Dr. Patte is highly pleased with

Congestion at the Mailbox

The Student Christian association building, in all appearances of the truth, is the most popular locality that Presbyterian college students visit. Especially is the edifice pleasing at a certain period in the day, namely the interval when mail is being placed in the students' boxes. In fact, on Tuesday and Thursday morns, the stairway leading to the second floor of the building is so crowded with anxious expectants that one has a difficult task if he wants to ascend or descend.

It is not the fault of the postman for the compact. He delivers his contents in plenty of time. It is not the fault of students or professors, because they are privileged to check their mailboxes. Then, whose fault is it?

Perhaps some leniency can be chalked up to the increase in the number of enrolled students. This year's student body far exceeds that of previous years. Then, too, discrepancy may be found in the fact that the schedule of the student who is putting up the mail does not coincide with his delivering the letters at a more convenient time.

Whatever the cause might be, one thing is certain. Last year's system was more effective and it seems possible that some sort of arrangement could be satisfactorily worked out in order to handle the over-crowded condition.

First Hand Coverage

Scoop Surveys Columbia Spectacle

By JIM "SCOOP" CLELAND

One of the theater marquees in Columbia last Tuesday was advertising "The Greatest Show on Earth" with a "Welcome, Ike" sign hanging underneath it.

Well, it possibly wasn't the greatest show on earth, but it certainly was, or comes close to being, the most unprecedented show ever staged in South Carolina. Here, General Dwight D. Eisenhower became the first presidential candidate to carry his campaign into South Carolina since the Civil War. Here was a Republican candidate performing the unheard of deed of pentrating the fiery South Carolina Democratic state. Here were thousands of South Carolina and Georgia citizens voicing their approval of the great American general.

For over two hours those of us from PC who had gone down to watch this history-making event, observed with awe the spectacle that was taking shape before us. Peck sacks of Eisenhower-Nixon buttons were distributed among the crowd by pretty high-school girls; hundreds of "Greenville Likes Ike" hats were displayed by members of the crowd; "Georgia Women for Eisenhower" began to crop up in the multitude of signs; a "U.S.C. for Ike" sign was prominently displayed. High above the speaker's platform, floating lazily in the fall breeze, was a huge dirigible-shaped balloon painted with the letters "IKE" that could be seen far out from the city of Columbia.

Clothing stores were offering "I Like Ike" ties for sale before the speech. The side of the Hampton Hotel facing the State House was sold out for several days before the occasion, and the windows were crawling with spectators. People were hanging on the statues of old "Pitchfork" Ben Tillman and in the nearby trees. Newspapermen, cameramen, and radio commentators were present in mass.

At approximately 3:30 the crowd received word that the official plane had landed and the party would soon leave for the State House. At approximately 3:45 we received word that the party was now approaching the Cow Barn and the State House.

At the end of the speech as Byrnes and Eisenhower stood clapping to the tune of "Dixie" rendered by the University of South Carolina band, I could only think that here were two distinguished men in the history of the United States and the world who had given the majority of their lives to the service of their country and state.

Here on the steps of the capital of South Carolina stood a General who will undoubtedly rank with Lee, Washington, and the other greats of American history. A soldier who came from practically obscurity only ten years ago to lead the great and momentous invasion of North Africa on November 7, 1942; led the European invasions; became known as a "savior" to millions of war-torn European people; entered private life to become president of a great American university, and gave it up to return to Europe at his country's call.

Yes, as I watched Dwight Eisenhower tap his feet along with Jimmy Byrnes to the tune of "Dixie," I realized that September 30, 1952, would from now on be a date of required remembrance in American political history.

Talking With Toole

By BILL TOOLE

I was certainly pleased with the position of this column last week. It was very favorably placed compared with the week previous. I don't know if you noticed it or not, but the first week it ran in a small paragraph which was headed "Blue Stocking Seeks New Columnists." It was a bit disturbing. However, last week the column was placed almost directly beneath the Humor caption on the editorial page. Thank you, George. I don't think anyone's convinced though.

Seriously, I've received quite a few favorable comments. Just yesterday a guy came up to me and said, "I see you have a column in the Blue Stocking." I wasn't exaggerating when I said quite a few. A lot of people have made it a point to say, "I see you have a column in the Blue Stocking."

If I had to select an unsung hero on this campus, I would pick Dave Collins. Dave, as you know, is the campus mailman. Not even the foulest weather friend.

Dave takes a personal interest in the mail he delivers. And he is always eager to talk to you about it. I guess you could say he has a postman personality; he remembers everything. A typical conversation with Dave goes something like the following:

"Hey, Dave," someone says, "Have I got any mail?"

Dave smiles kindly. "Why, yes you do," he answers gently. "You have a letter from a girl in Chester. It was postmarked yesterday, and the stamp is on upside down, you dog, you. You also have a card from Joe; he's doing fine and wishes you were there."

"Thanks, Dave."

So whenever you want to know anything about your mail, don't wear yourself out by walking all the way over to the SCA building to check. See "Kindly" Dave Collins. Next to dogs and professors, Dave is a PC'un's best friend.

Flash—Jim (j-wash) Sloan got turned down on a date. Instead of meeting his date at the door he met her little sister and little sis informed him that Joan W. had gone out with another boy and would not be back until midnight. You are slipping.

Want ad section—Wanted by Joe Kirven, Wade Camlin, and E. M. Watt—One (1) each a girl for Homecoming sponsor. "Anything is better than nothing." I hear that the one and only Wade Avant can never open a letter to his one and only unless he tells her how much he loves her. Cupcake Dudley just hasn't got the gear to go. When he asked his little cupcake from Mullins did she want him to come down and see her in a couple of days, she nonchalantly took a drag on her cig and said, "Oh, if you want to." But like Dudley says, "It's luckies two to one," She sure must have got two because he sure isn't the one.

Get John Covin to tell you about "Covin's Cosy Corner" located in the right hand back seat of Ned Hollandsworth's car. It's a real combat story with all the trimmings, including tactical advances and strategic withdrawals.

Evil Harold Dunton and Paul Nye took a little journey over to Rock Hill a few weeks ago. They were parked in Stodie Gundunt's car viewing the lovely scenery by moonlight, when all of a sudden a monster appeared out of the night with one eye pointing one way and the other the other way. Ask the boys how many words it took them to answer when "he" told them to be moving on.

E. M. Watt—"Is this ice cream pure?"
Waiter—"As pure as the girl of your dreams."
E. M.—"Give me a ham sandwich."

Spook Sheriff's girl—"Oh, darling, I've missed you." And she raised her revolver and fired again.

I have received many reports that our upstanding student Bob Barclift is no good. Via the undercover movement at Converse, we have received word that Bob never dates a girl but once. It seems that all of the girls he dates try to get the most usefulness out of him. One girl even said that Bob made her feel like ten pennies, one nickel and a dime the time she dated him.

Jim Bell and Dick Loveland are always arguing to see who is going to drive that night. You don't drive that car too much, do you, Jim?

Bundy had a huge picture of a girl on his desk. If you measured it, I believe you would find it is 15 inches high. What a coincidence—and she only 15 years, too. The girl that Bob Edens dated at Winthrop last week was a queen. Like Bob says—it depends upon whether you are talking about bees or dogs."

I just got my disposal all fixed—so the rest of it goes down the drain. Byovitch, byovitch.

The Ike Rally...

As A Freshman Sees It

By DICK MENDENHALL

Convention Stadium, PC, Sept. 29.—(VIP)—Greetings and I am at this very moment surrounded by thousands of enthusiastic young Republicans. Tonight we have just witnessed a rally on behalf of Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard (certainly not "poor Richard") Nixon.

6:30 P.M. Many thousands of young people—and a few other kinds—were seated here at huge Convention Stadium to hear an address by a very distinguished orator from Columbia. Not Bogota, Colombia, as it may have appeared to a few Democrats, but Columbia, South Carolina. Great banners, flags, and photographs decorated the gigantic platform. Posters and signs reading SMYTHE, SPENCER, LAURENS, and BEAT WOFFORD were spread all over the place, listing the spots of their respective delegations. BEAT WOFFORD? Some Communist, I guess.

Suddenly a great splurge of 100 different tunes rose from 100 different bands. Very hard-looking officials of PCFSSC accompanied the main speaker to the rostrum where he took his seat. Television cameras pointed his way, microphones were adjusted, flash bulbs began to pop. Every eye was glued to the speaker. He looked sort of funny with all those eyes glued on him. Then he was introduced. Didn't need an introduction, see, but he was introduced anyway. Tradition is the thing down South. The addressee began to address. (Now, there's a catchy word—better get Mr. Everett to spell it for you, boys). Us Ike-lovers settled back. When the speech

By CURT CROWTHER

Hose-Terrier Tilt . . . .

Tonight is the big night as far as PC and football are concerned. The Presbyterian-Wofford game has always been one of the outstanding games in the state and the game tonight is expected to live up to its past reputation. The Blue Hose team is going over to Terrier Town with the determination to win and I believe we will. Wofford being our strongest rival, both in basketball and football, will make the game even more exciting. Usually during or after a PC-Wofford game of any kind someone loses his temper and his school's reputation as well as his own is slighted. Nothing is accomplished by starting fights and riots and no matter who wins you still come out on bottom and usually somebody comes out on a stretcher. If the team can play the game fair and square, and show good sportsmanship, the PC student body should be able to carry on good sportsmanship in the stands. Instead of trying to find someone to fight with, try yelling for the Blue Hose. In a game like the one tonight the Hose will need all of the support that they can get. If they don't hear their own school mates cheering for them it keeps them in the wrong state of mind, and any team in the wrong state of mind loses. Let's all blaze the trail to Spartanburg to watch PC BEAT WOFFORD.

I-M to Begin Soon . . . .

An excellent IM program has been set up this year by the SCA including football, tennis, swimming, basketball, track and softball. In past years the student body has not taken full advantage of the opportunities offered by the IM program. This year there are trophies and awards to be given to the winning team.

If you are in a Frat, get your football team organized and ready to play and begin thinking about your swimming teams. This year swimming will be held in December with the pool being heated. If you are a non-Frat, there are plenty of non-Frat teams that you can get on. Let's all get in the game and make this the best IM year that PC has ever had.

Senior Fullback Emmett Fulk, of Darlington, is one of the main reasons for PC's victory over Alabama State last week. The hard-hitting line plunger will rattle many Wofford bones in tonight's meeting. Joe Austin, of Laurens, is the unheralded linebacker who has been a big menace to PC foes so far this season.

Back of the Week

Presbyterian college fans hope Fullback Emmett Fulk, of Darlington, will show Wofford the same form he displayed against Alabama State Teachers last weekend.

The hard-driving Blue Hose fullback accounted for almost half of PC's ground gain in ripping off 204 yards to lead his teammates to the 16-13 victory. Emmett stands 5 ft. 11 in., and weighs in at 180 pounds. He is a smashing runner, hard driving, and very difficult to tackle.

Emmett's powerful running, both in the Clemson and Livingston games, made him the unanimous choice for back of the week.

Emmett is a senior, and his running, punting and excellent blocking have made him the No. 1 fullback for the Blue Hose. He is the No. 1 ground gainer so far this season and it's almost certain, if he keeps up the good work, he will help bring home many victories for PC.

Lineman of the Week

Tommy Sheriff, of Orangeburg, probably South Carolina's lightest starting tackle, is filling his Blue Hose position with A1 performances. "Spook" plays both offense and defense. He stands 5 ft. 11 in., and tips the scales at 172 pounds. He charges and tackles viciously on offense and is one of the team's best blockers on offense.

His competitive spirit cannot be beat. "Spook's" brilliant offensive and defensive play and his desire to win made him the choice for lineman for the week.

In the Wofford game, and in all of the other games that the Blue Hose play this year, "Spook" will be playing 60-minute ball, and every minute he is in there the fans will know that he will be giving them "all he has"—and that's all it takes for a victory.

PC Captures First Grid Contest

Alabama State Falls Before Hosemen; Fulk, Austin Star

The Blue Hose managed to eke out a 16-13 victory over a stubborn Livingston State Teachers college team last Saturday night at Livingston, Alabama. The PC attack relied mainly on the reliable pitching arm of Lefty Jack Harper and the powerful running of Fullback Emmett Fulk.

The first quarter of the game resulted in a scoreless deadlock. Curtis Freeman took a pitchout from Harper at the beginning of the second period and scampered 12 yards around right end for the tally. The play was a result of a 65-yard drive highlighted by the running of Fulk and the Harper-to-Counts passing duo. Emmett's place-kick was true and PC went ahead 7-0.

PC made it 9-0 when Bradford, of the Alabamians, was tackled behind his goal line for a safety.

Fulk scored again in the fourth quarter off right tackle on a 38-yard jaunt across the goal. His second conversion for the evening was true.

Livingston, trailing 9-0 in the third period, scored on a pass interception, but failed in the conversion attempt. In the fourth quarter, the boys from Alabama scored again on a pass. This time the extra point was good.

Freeman, Fulk, and Harper were the outstanding offensive performers, while Guillebeau and Austin stood out on defense.

PC's Coach Lonnie Mac was confident that the Blue Hose should have been victorious by a greater margin, but is looking forward to the Wofford game with the Blue Hose in Spartanburg tonight.

Sticking My Neck Out

By "SCOOP" CLELAND

Wow! What a rough weekend last week. It's a good thing that I'm not getting paid for doing this, or I would now not be getting paid for doing it. Only three correct out of seven last week. I hope I'll do better with this:

PC over Wofford — Perhaps our best chance to take Wofford in several years. The team and coaches are working hard for a victory in Spartanburg tonight.

South Carolina over Furman—could easily end up in a tie, but I believe Carolina will garner enough to ride out the Hurricane.

Newberry over Guilford—one of the toughest picks this week. Guilford will be no push-over for the Indians.

Maryland over Clemson — the powerful Terps have been scared out of their cleats for the last two outings. It's time for the big Turtles to come to life. Third win this season for Maryland over a fighting Tiger team.

Anklets Open With Baby Tigs Tomorrow

The Blue Hose Anklet football team will take to the turf for the first time tomorrow night at Clemson's Memorial Stadium where the gridmen will knock heads with Clemson's Baby Bengals. Game time is 8:00.

Coaches Jake Privette and Red Huggins have been scrimmaging against varsity players for the past few weeks in preparedness for for the game.

Riflemen Look To A Good Year

The Rifle Team has seven lettermen returning from last year's squad. Winners of the Marksmanship Medal last year were Arthur Pue. Edward Walpole, William Neville, John McLean, Chris Patte, Ed Hay and Carl Massey.

Last year's record consisted of 43 wins against 11 losses in the Mail Matches. In the Hearst Trophy the squad placed 18th in a field of 42. The 3rd Army contest found the squad in 13th place among a strong field of marksmen.

In the State Match, the crew placed fifth while in the Shoulder Matches the Riflemen faced only one loss which was easily offset by 5 wins.

Practice for the Rifle Team began with Preliminary Rifle Instructions yesterday and will continue for one week. Regular practice begins September 21 in preparation for the first Mail Match to be held December 5. This is the first of 98 Mail Matches scheduled for this year.

Stiff competition is expected in the Round Robin coming from Clemson, Furman and Wofford. The first event scheduled in the Round Fobin match is Furman at PC on October 30, followed by Clemson at Clemson on November 13 and closes with Wofford at PC, December 11.

Stocking Staff Back to Old Grind

Last Tuesday night, in the Radio Forum room, a formal meeting of the Blue Stocking staff was held. Al Dunbar, the Editor, said that even though the paper last year was very good, that he and his staff were going to do everything posible to make it even better.

There were quite a few new faces present at the meeting; the.. men.. there.. ranged.. from freshmen through seniors. All of these men have had experience in the newspaper field.

Crutchfield Will Advise WF

Dennis Ketchem, president of Westminster Fellowship, announced today that Coach Bill Crutchfield will advise the WF this school year.

Though the group is an organization of the Presbyterian Church, all interested students are urged to attend. The time of the first meeting will be announced soon.

Dr. Marshall W. Brown will be guest speaker at this week's meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shields acted as host and hostess at last week's meeting. However, Miss Judy Dillard will be WF hostess for the year.

Evans and Edge Will Aid In Revival of Dramtics Club

In 1951, a group of PC students conceived an idea. This idea materialized into the birth of the rernowned drama society, Blue Masque. During its short lifetime, the society, under the direction of Professor John Glover, was asked to present its interpretation of "Candlelight" at both Fort Jackson at Columbia and Donaldson Air Force Base in Greenville.

A couple of years ago, Blue Masque suddenly lay dying, It has lain as such ever since, but the idea has never succumbed.

Interest is once again being stimulated in the Blue Masque, not only by students, but by faculty members as well.

Anyone interested in becoming associated with the revival of the Blue Masque will meet in the radio forum room on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This includes both freshmen and upperclassmen.

According to various reports, the possibility of a full scale revival of this society is greater than ever at this time. Thundering appeals for recognition of such a revitalizatin process by some students apparently have been granted by a large majority of the student body.

There is more to the plays presented than acting. Designers, writers, directors, prop men, artists, lighting men, construction men—all are sorely needed. Success depends in a large way upop voiced support by each individual student on the Presbyterian campus, according to to an unidentified source.

The wholehearted support of all students, faculty and administration members is requested immediately, in order that organization and programming may proceed as rapidly as possible.

Professors Evans and Edge,

Old Time Revival...

Our churches hold revival meetings to rejuvenate their church members—to reinspire and reinvigorate. The teamster goads his oxen to cause them to move . . . to move faster, or to stimulate them to motion from a complete standstill.

In our colleges today athletic prorams are to a great extent overemphasized. Alumni are willing to contribute astronomical amounts of money to the promotion and expansion of athletics. Administrations, most generally, give their wholehearted support to such programs, for they afford one of the best mediums of advertisement that a college can have.

However, sadly enough, there are many extra-curricular activities in fields other than athletics that go sadly wanting. They are simply deemphasized, and consequently there is a lack of interest on part of faculty, students, and administration.

There are two such activities on the Presbyterian College c They are the Blue Masque, the dramatics club, and The Collegian, literary magazine. These two activities should be brouht back to

In its short existence, the Blue Masque did work of a near-prof calibre. There is no reason why it cannot be done again. At prese is considerable enthusiasm among student groups for the revival Masque. Will it die, again, on a desk as the once proposed campa station did? Let's hope not.

Some members of our faculty seem to think that there is enou on the campus to warrant trying to again publish The Collegia date in the not too distant future, we sincerely hope that this mig to pass.

We are in college, essentially, to broaden our intellect. Let us down on the job. What we need is an old-time revival. These extra cular activities are needed on the PC campus. LET'S HAVE THE

The Problems Come Alive

By DICK MENDENHALL

It is highly impossible for any one man, or for any twenty men, associated together on the staff of the Blue Stocking, to correctly and flawlessly evaluate student, faculty, administrative, and foreign opinions as to the success and appreciation of this publication. The primary reason is that we work here. We are the only persons on the campus who do work here, and we therefore cannot adjust ourselves to the position of the reader.

We do not know what you people think, as a whole, of this year's publication. Perhaps it is yet too early to discern schoolish sentimentality from fair writing Frankly, though, we think it's rather sickening in its present condition, but we have no apologies to make. So far we have done—with limited cooperatin and support from too many sources—the best we could do.

It is the firm belief, possibly, of a few of you that your campus newspaper is on the dangerous road to internationaliation. Perhaps others of you think we are shirking our work. Maybe some of you agree with some of us in that it is incredible for any human being with the least degree of common intelligence to believe that a 500-enrollment school, located in a small, cultured, and friendly vicinity, is big enough to produce outstanding news events every single week. And then, some of you may hold to the opinion that the staff is doing fairly well. We kiss your feet.

Last year's Blue Stocking staff was truly remarkable. We still can't see how they did it. It was a magnificent job—some of the top journalists in the United States thought so and said so. It was proven by the awarding to that staff of the coveted All-American Prize, given annually to the best college newspapers in America by the Associated Collegiate Press. With the outstanding and well coordinated staff-work rendered last year, the BS was somehow able to "go to press" each week with not only sufficient news to fill space, but with NEWS to fill space.

But the staff of 1953-54, like your staff of today, worked under a tremendous handicap. That handicap was a lack of spirited and impartial cooperation on the part of quite a few persons.

There is, or was, such a thing as the "Ol PC Spirit." Evidently that is dying out in its true sense. All student organizations also deserve full and unanimous cooperation. They are not getget it.

Insofar as the Blue Stocking is concerned, we will be greatly discouraged, but far from defeated, if this cooperation does not flare up this year in its original form. But other organizations — the Min-isterial Club, the IRC, the Science Club, the Foreign Missions Fellowship, the BSU, the Westminster Fellowship, the Band —need support.

Without players, a band cannot play. Without a band, ROTC, already dull to many, will still be duller. Without a Ministerial Club and a Foreign Missions Fellowship there is little chance of actively supporting students who wish to give their lives in the service of Christianity. Without the Science club, science would be just aonther subject to many folks.. Without BSU and Westminster Fellowship, many of our students would not set foot inside a church. Without IRC, some of us would never have even a limited knowledge and appreciation of international affairs. And without a football team—then what?

The Blue Stocking is eager to support each and every campus organization at PC, minus partiality in any direction. Fraternities, we can promise you, will be cut and dry in "The Greeks" column, except for major and outstanding events. As for our jokes—if you think they're bad, you ought to see those we can't print. Come by the office sometime when you feel lowly.

We frankly want to enliven this paper. We want to hake it more interesting to all types, high and low, of minds—low in the sense of IQ. We want to hake it appealing to your funny bone, to your tear sack, to your brain. And we think we can do it—with your support.

THE COLLEGE MOURNS VINSON

According to an anonymous source from the Department of the Military at PC, the Flag was lowered to half mast by the Officer of the Day last Monday morning to begin the official mourning period for Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, Fred M. Vinson, who died last week after decades of honorable service on behalf of the nation. Vinson once the Director of Economic Stabilization, was called the "peacemaker" in the Supreme court, because of his rare ability to appease personalities when important matters were at stake. He handed down the final decision on the great Rosenberg case a few months ago.

The Stars and Stripes will be hoisted to full mast once again on October 7th, after the official national mourning period for this great American has ended.

Please Reid!

By JIMMY REED

Ye gads, its time for football again, and all of the Little Lord Fauntleroy's have been chained to the gym in preparation for an axciting season. Now, let's be good little supporters and yell the teeth out of our mouth for them—shall we? After all we can't all be athletes, but we can all be good athletic supporters.

In case you people haven't heard, our particular school is endowed with a very valuable asset known as PC spirit. This heritage must be guarded with all our vocal chords. After all if we stop yelling, the deathly silence might awaken the cheerleaders.

Please, please, everyone in the student body learn the yells. We have several new ones this year. I will give you some examples—when one of our players intercepts a pass everyone must shout simultaneously, "You're running the wrong way," or if our opposing team should be kicking for an extra point (pronounced "PWA") we must chant the old familiar, "Move the goal posts—move the goal posts." This shout of course is the cue for the two men we have designated to move the goal posts.

After a thorough interview of the coaching staff I feel secure in saying that this coming year promises to be one of the most, to say the least. With this bright outlook for the future games, I can't see how we san pocsibly lose any sleep whatsoever. Coach Johnson says that the team is not too quick nor is it too slow. We believe that it is half fast.

In closing I would like to say to all you FRESHMEN, please give your caps back to the rats, because it's so nice to come home to.

Clemson Heavily Favored Over Lonnie Mac's Griders

Presbyterian College will [illegible] Clemson Tigers tomorrow night at Clemson. The Tigers will be heavily favored over the Blue Hose in their annual opening-date battle. Presbyterian last defeated Clemson in 1943 by a score of 13-12.

Seventeen lettermen return from the 1952 squad which won three and lost six. However, the success of this year's team depends on the development of sixteen freshmen.

At the ends, Presbyterian has sophomores Bobby Jackson, a 6' 1", 170 pounder from Charlotte and Ted Howie, a 6'3", 180 pounder from Greenville. Howie is a doubtful starter against the Tigers due to an injured knee and shoulder. Backing them up will be two juniors, Jumping Joe Counts, a 6'4", 185 pounder from Brunswick, Ga. and Charles Twitty of Charlotte, who stands 6'2' and weighs 170.

Freshman Lee Frierson, 210 lbs., of Arcadia, Fla., and Bob Harrington, 205 lbs., of Mont Clare, will be at the tackles. The reserve tackles will be junior Wayne Shoemaker, 205, of Charlotte, and freshman Ernest Turner, 220, of Lake City.

resbyterian's strongest position is guard. Here they have two juniors, Luther Shealyl, 195, of Pacolet, and Walt "Beaver" Yates, 175, of Norfolk, Va., junior, Bobby Dunlap, 185, of Pelzer, sophomore, Grady Faulk, 210, of Charlotte, and freshman Raymond Coker, 225, of Lake City, are reserve guards.

Hustling Jimmy Allen, a stocky, 190 pounder from Conway is battling with Frank Boulware, 205, of Rock Hill, for the center position. Guy Miseneimer, 195, of Maxton, has been hampered with an injured shoulder, but will also be in the battle for the pivot position.

Quarterbacking the Blue Hose will be sophomore Landy Avant of Georgetown and southpaw Harry Hamilton, a junior from Seneca. Freshman Felder Cook of North Charleston has looked good in scrimmage and will probably see action against Clemson.

Gene Butler, 150 lb. freshman from Conway and George Blue, a tough 155-pounder from Union will be the halfbacks. Gene Altman, an experienced offensive and defensive performer from Mullins, will alternate with Blue at right half.

Joe Austin, 175 pounder from Laurens, will be the only senior in the starting lineup. Gene Carter, 175 lb. sophomore from Concord, N. C., will probably be used as halfback and fullback as well to do the punting.

Halfbacks Curtis Freeman of Clinton and Bill Vandermeer of Morris Fork, Ky., will miss the Clemson game, but will see action as the season progresses. Freeman has a broken rib and Vandermeer is ineligible.

These Are the Boys Behind the Scenes

Hats off to the Presbyterian College football managers and trainers for their consistent, hard labor for which they seldom receive credit.

Harold Jernigan, a senior from Fayetteville, N. C., is the head man of equipment department. He is ably assisted by Lester Welch, a junior from Mayesville, and Bill Hart, a freshman from Anderson. Frank Suddreth is the washing machine operator. He washes the dirty equipment and is the assistant trainer.

By J. C. FOWLER

Gene Altman—The Presbyterian Blue Hose have the greatest potential material for some years now. This season will surpass any in the last five years.

Luther Shealy—We have the boys with the desire to play this year. We are all in the best mental and physical shape possible. The game will depend on the best spirit and I belive PC has got the spirit.

"Red" Huggins—It's going to take more than just the name of a more than overshadowed by the typical strong spirit found on any a more than overshadowed by the typical strong spirit found on any Blue Hose team. The coaches have the squad as near ready as possible considering the short length of time allowed for practice for our opening game.

Joe Counts—I think if we are ever going to beat the Tigers, it will be this year. The boys are in good shape and taking Clemson as another game. We hope to turn Congress out.

Guy Misenheimer—This should really be the year for PC to beat Clemson since they are changing their offense to the split-T and the free substitution rule went out. All our boys really have the will to win this year and Ithink we should let Congress adjourn.

Harry Hamilton—I believe we can hold Clemson to three or four touchdowns, but the question is, "Can we score more than that?" This is the best chance we have had since 1943.

Bobby Dunlap—I think we have progressed very much in what little time we have had to practice. This should be our year. We have the hustle and spirit for a winning ball club. As for the Clemson game, I believe Eisenhower's Cabinet will have to resign.

Joe Austin—I believe that this is going to be a better year for the Blue Hose than omst people think. We may be a little slow starting this year, but we will come through before mid-season. I think this is our year to give Clemson a mighty rough time.

"Beaver" Yates—There is no reason for the Blue Hose to worry because Joe Counts is in great shape and ready to go. Seriously thinking, however, we can use all of the support from the student body we can get.

Wayne Shoemaker—The team really wants to beat Clemson, but without 100% of the student body backing us we can't do it. We have good team this year and I don't think we will let you down.

George Blue—This year's Blue Hose will surprise a lot of people. The coaches and squad have been working hard and when we hit our peak it will be on "on."

Jimmy Allen—A lot of people seem to think we have no team

Edward A. Thilenius

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA FOOTBALL NETWORK

(Ed's Note: This is the first of a series of articles written for the Blue Stocking by famous Americans . . . . . .

EDWARD A. THILENIUS, termed by many leading sportsmen throughout the nation as "the greatest commentator to emerge from the South since Walter 'Red' Barber" of CBS Radio sports fame, was in Manila, 1945, as a war correspondent on the Press team assigned to the Pacific Headquarters of General Douglas MacArthur. Following the termination of the war, Thilenius returned to the United States to become Sports Editor for the Southeastern Region of International News Service, with his offices in Atlanta. His sports column, "Thilenius Says", was distributed daily to hundreds of newspapers and radio stations throughout the South. He was selected, in 1950, to head the Southern Night News Bureau for the Associated Press, with headquarters in Charlotte, N. C. He returned to his home in Athens, Ga., 1952, to accept an appointment as Director of Sports for Radio Athens, Inc., WRFC.)

Modern day enterprise demands that the once intangible word "specialist" be tagged to the name of almost every individual who applies for average position. Recently, the two-platoon system was eliminated from football; thus the once sorely needed specialist on the gridiron is no longer in such heavy demand. But the specialist in life's mysterious and sometimes industrate game, a dangerous affair in modern times, looms presently as the one individual "most likely to succeed" in business. My grandfather once told me:

"Son, no matter what you do—whether you're a banker, a preacher, or a crook—be a good one."

I have tried to be "a good one" in the field of radio and newspaper reporting. I chose this career because it is the one type of work which I do not consider work. To me, it is fascinating. I believe therefore, that if a person discovers a field of labor at which he does not "work" in the accepted sense, but at which he toils with the greatest joy and satisfaction—and, of course, fares well—that person obviously will have selected his correct profession.

Every individual must form and cultivate friends and contacts, as many as possible and wherever possible. It is not always what one knows as it is who one knows. This is not to be misinterpreted as an encouragement for the laggard of life. Even a perfectionist must have allies. If Franklin Roosevelt had not known and befriended Al Smith, FDR might never have been considered for the Democratic nomination, much less the election, of 1932. This is but one of any number of examples which could be cited in support of the above theory.

I have traveled many thousands of miles and have seen much of the world. I have fought in, and have reported through the miraculous facilities of Pres and Radio, many of the world's great battles, both hot and cold.

Having intimately known, having closely worked with, some of the outstanding personalities of the world, I submit to you, and to college students everywhere, my theories—which I regard as proven facts by my sometimes unfortunate experiences.

General Forrest summed it up rather well when he thundered out the immortal command:

"Git thar fustest with th' mostest!"

Canterbury Group To Be Organized

An effort is being made by All Saints Episcopal Church to organize Episcopal students into a Canterbury Club.

Last Wednesday night the men of the church entertained with a steak supper at Blazer's Restaurant. There were eighteen college students present at the stag affair.

Bill Trayler of Clinton has been designated councilor to the group.

All Episcopal and other interested students are asked to watch for notices concerning the organizational meeting which will be held in the near future.

Father Edwin Clippard, priest-in-charge, expressed a desire to see the PC group become a part of the state club.

IRC Steps Up Program

The president of the International Relations Club of Presbyterian College, Dennis Ketcham, has told the Blue Stocking that IRC policies concerning the promotion of student interest in world problems and personalities will be emphasized this year to a greater degree than ever before.

H. Randolph Holder, News Director for Radio Station WRFC in Athens, Ga., is scheduled to address the student body in Chapel on Friday, October 9. Holder, a captain in the United States Army Reserve, was captured by the Nazis in Tunisia in World War II. In 1945 he escaped to Russia, where he spent three precarious months in hiding. Later, Holder returned to this country—on VE Day, 1945. He will speak concerning the United States in relation to the present global situation.

Ketcham went on to say that membership cards for IRC men have been printed, and are prepared for distribution at the first 1953-54 club meeting on Wednesday night, October 7th, at 7 o'clock. All members are urged to attend. Plans are underway for a full scale discussion of international affairs at that time. Refreshments will be served.

IRC officials are presently considering the possibility of sponsoring, perhaps each week, an IRC Panel Discussion on world problems, to be broadcast through the facilities of a radio station in this area. A special committee has been set up to study this proposal. Movies concerning people and events of club interest will also be projected periodically this year.

Entrance examinations will be held for prospective members of the IRC twice this school year—one exam a semester. This is not to be confused with the idea that new members will be required to take two exams. Those who do not join the IRC this semester will be able to do so next semester, through the examination program. All questions will concern international affairs and personalities. The exact date for first semester IRC exams will be announced later.

News From Two PC Graduates

Lieutenant Kenneth R. Thompson of Brunswick, Ga., is on temporary duty at the Fort Benning, Georgia Infantry School for the infantry officer's basic course. He will then report to the 7th Infantry Division, Camp Polk, La., for permanent assignment.

Lieutenant Michael B. Sholar, Greensboro, N. C., is now on temporary duty at Artillery School, Fort Sill, Okla., for the artillery officer's basic course. Upon completion of the course he will report to the 47th Infantry Division at Camp Rucker, Ala., for permanent assignment.

CHARLIE SPIVAK

Dance Will Follow Wofford Game Oct. 9

Charlie Spivak, "The Man Who Plays the Sweetest Trumpet in the World," is the musician whose fresh and original idiom in trumpet playing is described as "honey in the horn." He is the leader of a great all-time band which rocketed to topflight stature so rapidly that it now ranks among the kings in the entertainment world.

Notches in Spivak's musical belt are 20th Century Fox's "Pin-Up Girl," starring Betty Grable, and "Follow the Boys" for Universal, and a flock of box office records created at the Paramount in New York, the Hotel Statler in New York, the Palladium in Hollywood, and other top spots. Spivak's music-making is so solidly established for its individuality that it can be identified whenever and wherever it is played as "indubitably Charlie's."

Born in New Haven, Connecticut, Spivak got his first trumpet while still in grade school: a tiny instrument with the first valve practically on top of Charlie's nose.

He went to Hill House School in New Haven, studying the trumpet on his own time with George Hyer, who is a member of the New Haven Symphony Orchestra. Spivak's family had charted out a medical career for him. But one of the country's outstanding bandleaders offered him a job. He signed up and remained with the outfit for five years.

He next joined the Benny Pollock Band, another number one outfit, and his next step was the Dorsey Brothers Orchestra, where he played alongside such musicians as Glenn Miller, Skeets Herfit and Bob Crosby. When Ray Noble came to America, he asked Glenn to help him organize a band, and the first musician he signed was Spivak.

When Spivak left to try his musical wings on his own, he became the highest paid free lance trumpeteer in radio, playing on the Ford Symphony Hour, Kate Smith and Fred Let's Play...

One of the most important student activities on the campus is the Intramural proram. This program embraces sports and activities of wide variety, and in the field of sports offers an opportunity for participation to those individuals who are not members of a varsity team. In the past few years, competition in the Intramural field has been unusually keen.

For this school year, the SCA is again sponsoring the Intramural activities. After much hard work and careful planning, the SCA has announced a greatly expanded program. The tentative program is as follows: rifle, football, basketball, softball, volleyball, swimming, track, pingpong, horseshoes, and possibly tennis. It is to be noted that there are several new games among those listed.

This column would like to especially endorse the new Intramural Council. This method of governing the IMs should prove capable of effecting more harmonious relations between the teams. This new plan gi representaion to all participating groups. Two members of the SC net, acting as co-chairmen, will preside—but not vote—at mee the board.

The great variety of activities afforded in this year's expan gram will give everyone an opportunity to take part. There sh greater turnout this year insofar as the whole picture is concer

Next week the Intramurals begin with the initial football contests. The members of the SCA Cabinet have pledged their s the new IM plan. The student body should do the same.

It should be safe to say that this year will be a milestone in PC mural program.

Through the generosity of Dr. Harris, classical movies of superior calibre are now being shown each Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the college chapel. And they're free of charge.

The pictures range from the most breathtaking intrigue to the most hilarious comedy . . . from the greatest music to the lustiest acting . . . to the most documentary documents ever recorded visually for documentation.

"Dragnet" does not compare with "Prelude to War."

One rarely discovers on American theater screens of today stories and productions of such high taste. The movie industry, what's left of it, is in itself more fascinating than ever before—but current productions, with few exceptions, are rotting at the core before they're ever shot. What's more, they're shot before they're shot.

Incredible, eh? The way Westerns and swashbucklings continually enthrall audiences. Each Western means a horse; each horse rates a cowboy, which means a girl, which means a bumpy stagecoach ride from Baltimore to Dead Gulch, which means outlaws and gold, which means Wells-Fargo, which means a bank, etc.

And the knights of old! Usually a ship, always an Englishman, a Frenchman, a Spaniard or two, plus a flurry of pirates and a keg of rum. Don't forget the wench.

The chapel movies are good. And they're true to the old saying . . . that they're educational as well as entertaining—which no longer holds true in our public movie houses.

Commercial movies are absolutely incredible.

PC really has something to show. So show for the show at eight.

I know what you're thinking, and I can hardly blame you, but this time you're all wrong. Instead of filling this column with a bunch of idotic nonsense, useless words, and pointless comment, I shall endeavor to proclaim to the professors at Presbyterian College our lament.

Before they grant our wishes as I know that they will be more than willing to do, I would like to express my sincerest sympathy for them. For you see, little do they realize that their shortcoming has been the fact that they refused to present their individual subjects as modern day subject matter.

In this week's column I would like to criticize the English department. I hope that they will see the light before it is too late. So to all you professors of English, STOP CHECKING THIS COLUMN FOR ERRORS! Excuse me, please. Now, as I was saying, you must present this language in such a manner as it is understood today. For instance, when you enter the classroom greet your pupils in this manner: "Hello, there all you crazy little mixed up pupils, here's your cool goon to lay down some more of those real gone rules." This speech, of course, will be understood by the class immediately, and you won't have to repeat it.

When it comes to literature, let's translate these ancient languages into an understandable tongue. Introduce "Sgt. Beowulf, Private Investigator" with six bars of "Dragnet", or read Elizabeth Barrett Browning in the following manner: "How do you sock me babe? Ah, let me agitate the brain waves for a few bars. I flip for you in every dimension my soul can claw for, when grabbing for nowhere and the bitter end. Man, you send me on like Nat 'King' Cole, by cosmic and used to be. You trip me, like Dick Tracy; and I go for you like a square from 'Ou-pop-pi-dap', you cut out the most, with me using the last drop of 'umph' that I had when I was the weakest, and like a young cat," etc.

The adventures of "Odesseyeus Fosdick would be twice as interesting if he had blasted his way out of "Cyclops J. Chippendale's" crazy residence with Marilyn Monroe under one arm

ennis Court Being Built

A year ago this past spring, a movement was begun by Coach a Leighton to build additional tennis courts at PC. The realiza- n of this program is coming true. Coach Leighton, in the past few nths, has spent many hours soliciting money from interested donors Clinton, as well as from members of the student body. These nors contributed very generously, and $1,700 was collected to be ed for the courts as well as to help Allan Morris on his tour of the stern Grass Court Tennis Circuit this past summer.

The ground has been cleared of all obstructions, and the tennis am, with the help of various PC students engaged in other fields of letics and work, is now in the process of collecting 275 cubic feet cinders which are vital in the construction of these courts.

Coach Leighton has recruited senior Bill Bradley to supervise e building of the courts. He is asking for the help of all interested embers of the student body in order that the courts may be comeed within a period of two or three months.

Socks Bow to Tigers

In a rain-drenched opening-date battle before an estimated crowd 15,000 at Clemson Memorial Stadium Saturday night, Sept. 19, the lue Hose suffered a 33-7 defeat at the hands of Clemson's Tigers. ne game was marred by a total of 20 fumbles, which were due to e heavy rain that began minutes before the kickoff and continued roughout the game.

The spirited Blue Hose fought ne heavily favored Tigers to a andstill the first quarter as either team scored. Clemson oke the scoreless tie in the sec- nd period as they marched 69 ards, with quarterback Tommy Williams sneaking over from the ne. Hubert converted and the iers led 7-0.

Fullback Don Ross scored the second Tiger touchdown on a 14 yard smash off tackle. The extra point was missed and Clemson led 13-0 at halftime.

Crimmins Hankinson broke trough for a 16 yard jaunt to aydirt in the third period and Hubert converted to put Clemson ahead 20-0.

Early in the final period, Joe Counts intercepted a Pooley Hubert pitchout and galloped 34 ards for Presbyterian's only touchdown. Gene Carter split the sprights and the Blue Hose trailed 20-7.

Billy O'Dell took a lateral from Hankinson and raced 56 yards for Clemson's fourth touchdown. The extra point attempt was blocked and Clemson led 26-7.

The final Tiger touchdown came on a 40-yard sprint by Buck George and Hubert converted to make the final score 33-7 in favor of Clemson.

First Quarter:

Ken Moore took Gene Carter's kickoff on the 18 and returned it to the 34, where Carter made the tackle. Don King fumbled three straight times, but PC was offside on the third fumble and Red Whitten gained eight yards to give the Tigers a first down on the 47-yard line. Three plays gained only three yards and King's short punt went out of bounds on the PC 36.

The Blue Hose failed to gain and Carter punted on third down to the Clemson 33. Moore and King carried for a first down at midfield. Wells fumbled and Frank Boulware recovered for the Blue Hose.

Again PC failed to move and Carter punted t othe Clemson two, but PC was offside. Carter's second punt was taken by Moore at the ten. Moore handed off to Ross, who tried to lateral to King, but the ball rolled loose and Wayne Shoemaker reacovered on the 16 for the Blue Hose.

A six yard loss, three incomplete passes and Clemson took over on their own 22 yard line.

Second Quarter:

Clemson's second team came into the game and continued the drive as Buck George gained 14 yards for a first down on the PC 28. Three line plays were good for another first down on the 11. Hankinson drove down to the four. Williams was thrown for a loss, but a Blue Hose piled on and PC was penalized to the one. Clemson drew a five yard penalty for being offsides, but three line plays by O'Dell and Hankinson pjut the ball back on the one. On fourth down Williams sneaked over and Pooley Hubert converted to put Clemson ahead 7-0.

Jackson returned the kickoff to the PC 35. Carter broke through the line for the initial Blue Hose first down at the 45. Avant fumbled, but Jackson recovered for a 9 yard gain to the Clemson 46. A 15 yard penalty set the Hose back to their own 40.

Joe Bowen blocked Carter's punt, picked it up and ran to the 15. The Tigers failed to capitalize on the break and PC took over on the six-yard line.

Carter punted from the end zone and Ross returned nine yards to the Hose 21. A pitchout failed to gain and Clemson was offside on the next play. King picked up 13 yards and Wells made a first down on the PC 14. Don Ross smashed off tackle from the 14 to score. Moore's placement was nullified by a Tiger roughness penalty and the attempt from the 25 was no good. Clemson 13, PC 0.

The kickoff was returned to the 32 by Jackson as the half ended.

Third Juarter:

King returned the kickoff to the 35, where the ball squirted

Tennis Team Has Bright Outlook

During the past decade, Presbyterian College has dominated the statewide tennis picture. This year the tennis team, under the able direction of Coach Jim Leighton, is expected to advance into view as a national court power—and if everything clicks as hoped, PC will probably be ranked among the ten top college tennis teams in the country. Coach Leighton states:

"I am unquestionably working with the best group I've ever had here at PC, both in terms of ability and in attitude concerning the game. It's a group that is really interested in working hard because they realize the chance of having a top-flight team."

For the first time in many years the team has tremendous depth. It would be impossible at this early stage to determine what the ladder positions will be. The positions will depend entirely on the amount of improvement of the individual players, from now until spring.

The team will be particularly strong in doubles competition because the group, as a whole, has an uncanny ability for working together. Each is greatly interested in the progress of the others.

Four lettermen return this year — Allan Morris, Jerry Hunt, Bill Bradley, and Warren Berry. All four have improved to a great extent because of much summer tournament play. Dick Macatee, who was ineligible last year, should be one of the top players in the United States this year, regardless of the position he might be asked to play when spring rolls around.

John Brownlow, a newcomer from Ohio, who reached round 16 in the National Juniors this past year—as a result of several astounding upsets—is also a strong contender for national honors and recognition. Coach Leighton says of Brownlow:

"He is the most receptive player to instruction that I have ever coached at PC."

Last—but far from the least in importance— is a diminuitive newcomer, Harvey Jackson. Jackson, ranked number one in southern tennis (junior) last year, should add much to the spirit and success of the net squad.

Coach Leighton is planning to expand his schedule to include such teams for opposition as Tulane, Rollins, Miami, Michigan State, and other top tennis schools in the nation. The team is expected to make its usual spring trip to North Carolina, and possibly a tour to the far North or the far South.

Blue Hose Defeat Alabama Teachers

The Blue Hose, led by George Blue, drove 76 yards with Carter going the last ten for the tally. Carter converted to tie the score at 7-7 with 4:20 remaining in the first half.

In the third quarter Gene Butler smashed over from the four yard line to climax a 35 yard drive and give the Blue Hose a hard-earned 13-7 victory.

First Quarter:

Gene Carter's first kickoff event went out of bounds. The second kickoff was returned 17 yards to the 37 by Dave Cotten. Hub Maroney was stopped by Luther Shealy after a 3 yard gain. Bobby Coley picked up four yards before Joe Austin made the tackle. After Cotton made one yard, Coley sneaked for a first down on the Alabama State 47. Maroney streaked around end for 21 yards to the PC 32, Jackson making the tackle. Red Henders was stopped by Dunlap after a two yard advance. Cotton raced around end for 15 yards to the Blue Hose 15 before George Blue knocked him out of bounds. Maroney was stopped for no gain by Counts. Coley plunged for six yards, Carter making the tackle.

Landy Avant returned the kickoff 14 yards to the PC 29. Carter made a yard, Avant failed to gain, and Avant's pass intended for Austin was incomplete. Carter got off a 40-yard punt which Maroney returned 15 yards to his own 45 before Joe Counts made the tackle.

Allen broadcasts.

When he felt ready to organize his own band, a lot of encouragement came from Glenn Miller who told him he had all the ingredients necessary for a winning combination. Spivak got his first big engagement at the Glen Island Casino, jumping off place for more than a dozen of the nation's top flight bandleaders. He was so successful that the Casino, traditionally a summer spot, broke precedent by keeping the doors open for the winter season to accommodate Spivak's drawing power. Spivak came to the Cafe Rouge of the Hotel Statler shortly thereafter, and broke Glenn Miller's and Jimmy Dorsey's records; then he went on to do the same thing at the Commodore. He has been a regular fall attraction at the Statler every season.

A highlight was his award by Downbeat Magaine as the top sweet band. Spivak is mild-mannered and soft-spoken. He is five-feet, eight inches tall, has brown hair, blue eyes and still blushes at a compliment. A baseball fan, Spivak has organized a team within his own band. Charlie plays center field.

Featuring the songs of lovely Miss Eileen Roders, Spivak will play for a dance at PC between the hours of 10 and 2 on October 9th.

Shocking...

The hair-raising feat pictured above is but one of the many spectacular features of the Bob Brown Science Circus that will be presented here next Wednesday.

Nationally Famous Scientific Show Will Come Here Oct. 14

Free Program at 7:00 P. M. In Chapel on Wednesday

Through the joint efforts of the College administration and the Science Club, the Presbyterian College student body is due for a thrilling program next Wednesday evening, October 14th.

The internationally-famed Science Circus, produced by Bob Brown, will be presented at 7 o'clock in the Chapel.

Mr. Brown, a newspapermen for a period of fifteen years, studied eletrical engineering at the University of Cincinnati. He stumbled upon his show by accident, while in the process of doing research work in the field of high frequency electricity. It was concluded that many feats performed in the laboratory were not simply amusing; they were educational in every sense as well.

For several years, now, Mr. Brown's "Circus" has played to student groups throughout the United States. During the summer months of 1949 he produced a weekly forty-five minute science show over the television network of the American Broadcasting Compnay.

This unusual attraction is being presented to the students—free—absolutely free—of charge. The administration is to foot the bill. All students are specifically urged to attend possibly the greatest exhibition of scientific electrical power in the world.

To further illustrate the dramatic grandeur and importance, as well as complete entertainment of this attraction, it may ran an article on Bob Brown's be added that Life Magazine Scientific Circus—with a full page of color illustration—only a few months ago.

Ten Members Are Added to Choir

During a recent practice session, all prospective choir members were given the Lakeshort music aptitude test. From the list of aspirants, ten students were chosen via testings. These are: Tenant Neville, Bill McInnis, Bob Hodges, Bill Jordan, Stan Johnson, Bob Smith, Frank Harrington, Noble Collins, Francis Barnette and Charles Dukes.

Selection of these individuals was made by the executive committee which is composed of the glee club officers and Dr. Edouard Patte, head of the singers.

The nationally-famed choir will now begin the final phase of preparation for their season's program.

36 Members Compose Band

Cadet First Lieutenant Paul W. Crouch is company commander of the band, Cadet SecondLieutenant Bill Shillingiaw is executive officer and Sergeant Eddie Kay serves as first sergeant.

The band is under the conductorship of K. F. Mills of Clinton. For the past few weeks, Mills has used a stepped-up program of rehearsals in preparation for the football games.

The best balance of instruments in many years has been made possible through the addition of players in the reeds section.

A variety of music is being studied by the musicians this year, with particular emphasis on popular music and marches at present. Plans call for more work on concert numbers in the near future.

To date, no concert engagements for the fall have been announced, but Mr. Mills is expecting to give several concerts in the spring.

ASP Leads Off Fall Social Season

The first in a series of six open socials will be given on October 14 by the brothers of Alpha Sigma Phi.

For the benefit of freshmen and transfer students, the Inter-Fraternity Council sets aside a date in thefal l for each of the fraternities on the campus to hold an open social. Everyone is invited to the fraternity room of the fraternity which is giving the social for an evening of dancing, watching television, etc. In other words, each fraternity plays host to the student body for one night each fall.

Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity was founded at Yale in 1845. The present Alpha Psi chapter of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity came into being in September, 1946, as a result of a merger of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity with Alpha Kappa Pi fraternity.

The ASP fraternity is one of two located off the campus; its fraternity rooms are located on South Broad street.

The brothers and pledges invite everyone to attend their open social Wednesday, October 14, at 8 p.m.

488 Students On Roll This Semester

The institution thus heads into its 73rd session with the second largest enrollment in its history.

All dormitories are crowded to capacity, and some 80 additional resident students have found roming accommodations in nearby homes of Clinton.

Of the 488 students now enrolled, 473 are men and 15 are women. The new students this year total 175.

Twelve states and three foreign countries are represented in the student body.

Three states, as usual, provide the bulk of the 488 students attending PC, a check of registration cards showed. These states are South Carolina with 283 students; North Carolina with 90, and Georgia, with 72.

Gahagan Heads Blue Masque

A large number of plays was suggested for production this year. Some of them are: The Monkey's Paw, The Twelve-Pound Look, Arsenic and Old Lace, Dear Ruth, and The Moon Is Blue.

A committee of three has been appointed to make up a list of plays which could be done with the limited facilities available. They are Bill Blair, Charlie Joyner, and Scott Pennington.

Messrs. Edge and Evans were on hand as faculty advisors, and made several good suggestions to start the group off.

Sam Norment and Scott Pennington will work with Gahagan to raise the money necessary to start the ball rolling.

The Block P, in the above picture, is one of the several formations that the Presbyterian College band will present at half-time during tonight's football game.

Please, Fellows...Gin!

For years there has been a tradition at Presbyterian College that is commonly called "ginning." It seems that ginning had become as much an integral part of freshman indoctrination at PC as square meals at most military schools. This year, however, apparently this tradition so cherished by our alma mater, is rapidly fading from the campus scene. A large percentage of the freshmen ignore the familiar cry of "Gin, freshmen!" The few that do respond with all the passion of a consumptive nun.

Ginning is not the only factor in our system of ratting that needs attention. Innumerable freshmen do not wear their signs. Why? One of the most outstanding characteristics of the P College way of life is the fact that the students know so many of their college fellows by name. How will the upperclassmen learn the freshmen names if they refuse to wear signs?

There are but two points. The freshmen do not observe the rules concerning walking: on the grass, the Plaza, or the driveway to Neville.

PC'uns for many years have observed similar rules—even though the Control Board may alter them slightly. Is it too much to ask of the frosh of today? The answer is a simple NO!

One of the most important results to be obtained from freshman regulations is the inculcation of "the spirit" that is a basic part of our College's heritage. We saw very little of this spirit at the ASTC game. This fact could perhaps be directly accredited to lack of enforcement of the freshman rules.

The pep rallies are designed principally to teach the yells to the freshmen. However the upperclassmen seem to be more enthusiastic about the pep meetings than the frosh. Maybe the cheerleaders could help in arousing the dormant spirit in the first year men.

Goof-off signs and buckets of bricks may be the answer to the question. A better solution would be the voluntary cooperation of the freshmen.

Is the PC spirit going to become a thing of the past?

About the Chow...

The general opinion of the student body seems to be that the food served in the dining hall is under par.

After a lengthy interview with the dining hall manager, it was found that Mr. Powell and his staff were unaware of the strong sentiment among the students. He is doing everything in his power to improve this situation.

It might be suggested that any complaint concerning the food be taken directly to Mr. Powell. He will be found most cordial, genial, and very receptive to constructive criticism.

Helo, out there, all you marvelous people. It's time once again to get out of the sack, chip the icicles from your noses, and benefit from the intelligent comment in this column.. If you question the verasity of that last statement then perhaps you have benefited. Anyway, you're prone to argue if you wish.

Things have really been jumping so far this year, but to no avail; the boiler room is not beneath them. Besides it's cool down there, too. There is one bright outlook on this situation, however. As the temperature drops, we become angry. This anger in turn burns us up. What's wrong with that solution? I feel better already.

Sooner than you think it will be spring again. The robin will flit about, the tender sprouts will peep through the warm earth, and the furnace will be going full blast. Why do they have to wait until the mercury hits a hundred and seven before someone finally gets the hots for us?

Oh well, life goes on even without the benefits of such luxuries, and we must live our lives as cheerfully as we can. Then at least we will have warm hearts, whether they be tender or not. We won't have to worry about any that are too well done, at that.

If you dont mind, I would like to change the subject for sentimental reasons. If this suggestion meets with your disapproval, youre too late to do anything about it. Comments are appreciated, however late they may be, nevertheless.

I read an article the other day that was very magnificent. If you ever get the time to do so, please read it. I would like to have it explained. Can I help it if I don't understand things too well. For instance, I can't understand how you managed to get this far into this column. The only logical explanation is that you forgot your anti-freeze this morning, and are now rigidly fascinated by this nonsense.

Read that last paragraph over again and see if you can figure out why it's there. I can't. Maybe it would be better if you don't try. As a matter of fact there wasnt much sense in reading this [illegible] you will excuse my stopping right here, I'll shiver on down to the room and chill myself.

The Pros and C[illegible]

By CHUCK GAHAGAN

On last Monday night, the people of the Clinton and surrounding area hear Mr. [illegible] Keyes of Miami, Fla., speak on the division of the union of the Northern and Southern Presbyterian Church. Dr. John M. Preston (of Columbia, S. C., spoke on the advantages [illegible]

The disadvantages of union were well presented by Mr. Keyes, he has studied the [illegible] of union with the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. (Northern) for the past seven years [illegible] is very familiar with the entire subject, but it must be said for Dr. Preston. Mr. Keyes' theme was the entire work of the Presbyterian Church the U. S. (Southern) would be affected by organic union.

He pointed out the fact that we have far [illegible] the Northern Church in all fields of Church endeavor. To put teeth in his argument, Mr. Keyes presented charts, which have been available to concerned parties, that showed the growth of the Church, its benevolent gifts, which are about [illegible] that of the Northern Church, but have not in a few years surpassed the Northern Church [illegible] have been doing it for many years.

Among other things presented by Mr. Keyes was mention of liberality in their interpretation of the Holy Scriptures. The much-quoted Affirmation is a weak argument but it is used by both sides to probe their individual points. Unionests say that these men were protesting watering down of the Confession of Faith, while those against the Union say that these men are pushing a more liberal interpretation. Who is right?

Dr. Preston presented just two points. His first was: "It is the will of God to present a united front to the world," and point two: he could see no objection to the plan as it is presented.

The comments which I heard after the meeting were that the message of Dr. Preston was an insult to the all who were there. If we are to have an informal Church, we need to have men as [illegible] believers of what they are speaking on such as Mr. Keyes, to present both sides of the [illegible]

This concerns us not only as students of the Presbyterian school, but also those of us who are members of the of Presbyterian Church.

Hose Meet Terriers Tonight at 8:00

Sloan's Basketeers Have Begun Practice

Three Newcomers Add Color to Picture

Since Octoer 1, Coach Norman Sloan has been drilling the Blue Hose basketball team two hours nightly in an effort to be more than ready for his opening game.

Coach Sloan is very elated over the prospects of his team. He says "that with much practise the team will be vastly improved over last year."

Two newcomers, Bob Burgess, Burlington, N. C., and Ron Ragan, Indianapolis, Indiana, and such able lettermen as Dave Thompson, Bill Toole, Arnold Stone, and "recently elected captain," "Bo" Beaumont returning, the starting positions will be wide open for the first game.

Two teams played last year have been dropped from the schedule and these are Georgia Teachers and Lenoir Rhyne, but a game with Detroit Institute of Technology has been added for February 3.

The team will also participate in a New Year's Day tournament at Davidson College. This will be a round robin affaid with Davidson, Wofford, and Lenoir Rhyne also participating.

This year's team should be a fast-breaking, wide-open team due to their depth, height, and ability to move the ball swiftly. Defense will also be stressed a great deal, but Coach Sloan says that much work is yet to be done on this phase of the game.

Several practice games have been scheduled with neighboring mill and college teams purely for the sake of gaining experience and practice. These games will be played during the months of October and November, and prior to the regularly scheduled opening game with Clemson here on December 1.

Clemson Frosh Down Baby Blues

Both teams put on a spectacular offensive show in the first quarter as Clemson scored twice while the Blue Hose tallied once. Charley Bussey returned a [illegible] Avant punt to midfield. Wells carried for six and Coleman gained six more for a first down on the PC 33. Bussey passed to Hudson for 28 yards to the 30, and then tossed to Wells for the TD. Bussey converted and Clemson led 7-0.

Cook returned the kickoff eight yards to the 27. Cook passed to Bowie for 12 yards and to Twitty for 11. A 15-yard penalty against Clemson put the Hose on the Tiger 35. Brockenborough made 3 and Cook's pass was broken-up. Cook for six yards and Collins [illegible] Daughtry grabbed a pass by [illegible] tunged to the 23 for a first down. After two incompletions, Cook hit Twitty at the 15 for an eight yard gain and Collins carried for nine yards and a first down on the Clemson was penalized to the five-foot line for unnecessary roughness. Collins plunged over and Faulk converted to tie the score at 7-7.

Bussye intercepted a pass and raced 55 yards behind beautiful blocking to score the second touchdown. The conversion gave Clemson a 14-7 lead.

Halfback Joel Wells smashed over from the four to cap a 60-yard drive for Clemson's third touchdown.

Bussey tossed to Hudson for eight, Wells rans for 12 and Griffith for five to the PC 35. Bussey passed to Coleman for 7 yards to the PC 12. Griffith moved down to the 3 and Wells placed over for the touchdown. Many Allen blocked the extra point attempt by Bussey and Clemson led 20-7.

Coleman gained nine, Wells made a first down on the 41, and PC was penalized to their 46. Wells broke through for a 46-yard touchdown gallop and Clemson led 26-7.

End Billy Hudson, tackle Jackie Anderson, and center Don Funk are outstanding on defense for the Clemson freshmen. For the blue Hose, center Jimmy Allen, guard Tommy Warren, and tackles Lee Frierson and Ernie Turner performed brilliantly on defense as well as offense.

Morris to Play At Greenbriar

This past summer Allan Morris created quite a name for himself among the prominent tennis figures of this country. In fact he has such a reputation, that he has been invited by Billy Tolbert, who has been ranked one of the top tennis players in the country for the past ten years, to appear in the Greenbriar Invitational tournament in Sulphur Springs, West Virginia.

This tournament is very restricted due to the fact that only twelve players have been invited.

Among those entered are Tony Trabert, who holds the Men's National amateur singles championship, Vic Seixas, who was runner-up in the nationals, Gardner Malloy, national champion last year, and Kurt Neilson, international star from Denmark.

Coach Leighton, who will accompany Morris on the trip to take moving pictures, says. "In view of the fact that Morris will play one of the stars in the first round of the tournament, this will be a proving ground on which to base his progress since playing the Eastern Grass Court Circuit this past summer."

In the tennis magazine Racquet, Hamilton Chambers says of Morris, "The Presbyterian College star is a loose, natural swinger, powerful in all his stroking with a serve that is dynamite. With his down the line and cross court passing shots here is the finest college tennis prospect to come alone in years. No player in recent years has come along with the build and the potential that belongs to Morris."

Student Tickets Will Be Sold at Gate

For the convenience of those students who did not have an opportunity to purchase date tickets to the PC-Wofford game Wednesday and Thursday, the Athletic Department will have a few such tickets available at the gate tonight. However, "it will be necessary to present your athletic card to purchase student tickets.

According to Dr. Walter Johnson, director of athletics, the game was not a sell-out this morning, but a large crowd is expected to attend.

Wofford Favored Over P. C.

Of the 36 games which have been played, the Blue Hose have won 21 to Wofford's 12, while three have been ties. Wofford has won the last five engagements between the two schools, including last year's 33-20 victory at Spartanburg.

The Terrier have won all four games this year while PC has won once and lost once. Wofford has defeated ECTC 7-6, Lenoir Rhyne 20-7, Elon 33-0, and the Parris Island Marines 19-6. The Blue Hose dropped their opener to Clemson 33-7 and defeated Alabama State Teachers College 13-7.

On the strength of their records this season, the Terriers will be slight favorites. Tonight's battle will pit Wofford's strong rushing attack against PC's passing attack.

Presbyterian will be playing without the services of Halfback Gene Altman and Quarterback Landy Avant. Fullback Joe Austin, Halfback Gene Butler, and Quarterback Harry Hamilton will see limited action due to injuries.

The probable starting line-up will be as follows:

I-M Football Gets Fast Send Off

The Intramural football season got a fast start this week with four games being played.

The opener was between the Laurens Rats and Pi Kappa Phi. The Rats came out on top of a 13 to 7 count.

The second game was a hard fought battle between Pi Kappa Phi and Sigma Nu. The score ended nothing to nothing with the Montana rules being applied to break the tie. The Sigs won out in the extra period by the penetration system.

Two games were played Wednesday. Theta Chi and Alpha Sigma Phi doing the scrapping in the opener and the Smyth Bedbugs and Kappa Alpha taking over in the night cap. Theta Chi edged the ASP's 6 to 4, while the KA's downed the Bedbugs 7 to 0.

All games will be played on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday this year. As the schedule now reads, there will be five or six games played each week.

Two I-M Rifle Matches Fired

Since this is the first year that intra-mural rifle competition has counted toward the SCA trophy, the rifle matches are expected to be a big boost in the intra-mural program.

Two matches have been fired in the contests.

In the first match, Kappa Alpha out shot the PiKas to the tune of 1520 to 1490. John McLean was high scorer for the winning team with 375 points.

The second match pitted Sigma Nu and PiKPhi. The latter team won the match, but no details were available.

Each Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock is the official deadline for the presentation to the BS editor of all articles written earlier by the staff.

When all stories are thus turned in, the editor and his reporters and typists sit down to a long, hard night of work. Articles are typed, re-typed, and typed again; stories are cut, lengthened, and dressed up. When there seems to be a lack of filling for space in the paper, reporters are sent out to cover the campus at night — with, figuratively, a fine-toothed comb. When all campus and other news and sports have been prepared for publication, the feature writers, editorialists, and columnists sit down to their work. And for the next hour or two, the entire library, emptied by now, sounds like the newsroom of NBC.

So far this year, usual quitting time has been 3 o'clock in the morning.

The reason for all this concentrated work is that all articles may be turned into the hands of the printers at the Chronicle office by noon on Thursdays. Be-

First thing on the agenda is prof-reading. The Chronicle printers have already made proofs that morning of the articles and now the BS specialists are tocheck for errors in linotyping).

Mr. Layton assistant [illegible] Mr. Harris — who is the owner and publisher of The Chronicle — the gentleman to whom all stories must come for final drafting. His linotype machine has accounted for the excellence of grammar and phraseology in many articles.

The paper is in type. Next comes the setting of headlines and the make-up into pages. Jerry Holland is the man who makes up the headlines to the size prescribed and who designs the page layout in these final hectic moments.

Ray Starnes, press operator, sits the sheets through the gigantic, ancient press every Friday afternoon. Every single sheet must go through exactly four times. About six hundred copies are printed every week. It generally takes about two hours.

Before starting his machine, Ray pours out the blackest, thickest, stickiest ink into a special receptacle that you've ever seen.

PC Alumnus Is New UNC Dean

A Presbyterian College alumnus is the new assistant dean of the school of arts and sciences at the University of North Carolina, the PC alumni office has announced.

He is Dr. Hugh Holman, class of 1936, who steps up to this position from his post as an assistant professor of English in the graduate school.

Dr. Holman, a native of Joanna, served on the Presbyterian College faculty from the time of his graduation until he went to the University of North Carolina for further graduate study in 1947. The last two years of this tenure he served as dean at PC. Dr. Holman remained on the UNC staff after receiving his Ph.D. degree from that institution in 1949.

In addition to his teaching ability, the Presbyterian College alumnus has received wide recognition as the author of a series of detective books.

Camera Fans Seek To Organize Club

'Mystery Man' Contests Start Again

The Blue Stocking, in cooperation with Dennis Ketcham, student representative for the makers of Camel cigarettes, takes pleasure in presenting for the benefit of its readers a new type of "mystery man" contest to be held weekly on the PC ampus.

Each week, two students will be selected by the Editor, Al Dunbar, to act as brother "Mr. Lemacs." Each student named will be in odd dress for a week. (For instance, a black shoe and a white shoe might be worn simultaneously.) The first person to inform the BS editor of the name, of just one, or both, of the Camel mystery men, will receive a free carton of Camel cigarettes.

All persons who believe they have the answer will inform the Editor of The Blue Stoking immediately. They must report in person for the choice, whether correct or incorrect, to be considered valid.

The meorial is in the from of a large fan for Doyle Infirmary, where Somerville served faithfully during his student days at PC. His brother, Walter G. Somerville, Jr. '41, of Oxford, N. C., upon instituting the memorial, wrote:

"Our wish is that this be a memorial of service rather than of show, for we feel that such was the theme of Severn's life."

Science Club Movie Shown

"Louis Pasteur Rolmoves," the portrayal of the story of aluminum development, was shown last night in the Science Building. It was the third of a series of movies sponsored by the Science Club this year.

Thirty persons attended the showing, not including the two classes under Dr. Carter, which had seen the picture earlier. The number of persons, then, who saw the movie, totalled 68.

Sons of Presbyterian Alumni Carry on Tradition

As Presbyterian College moves into its 73rd session, its tradition is probably most clearly evident in the number of students now enrolled whose fathers or other close relatives have attended the institution in past years.

More than 13 percent of the present student body is composed of young men whose fathers or uncles were former students here.

Of the 488 students who registered at the start of the 1953-54 session, a total of 23 were following in their fathers' footsteps, 35 others had brothers listed among the alumni and still another group of 16 followed their uncles to PC.

Those present-day students whose fathers are Presbyterian alumni include:

Earl C. Alford, son of Dr. D. C. Alford '21 of Spartanburg; James C. Bell, Jr., son of J. C. Bell '28 of McCormick, S. C.; Frank S. Boulware, son of Richard H. Boulware '19 of Rock Hill; Robert A. Thoughts ...and... Meditation

"The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction." (Proverbs 1:7)

How can we consecrate our school life? First by a right appreciation of wisdom. Knowledge isn't wisdom. A man may know a great deal yet utterly lack in education. Knowledge is a matter of books; education is a matter of the soul. The writer of the Proverbs urges his son to get wisdom: "With all thy getting, get understanding." To BE is greater than to KNOW. Our state penitentiaries have many college graduates within their walls, as prisoners. Our prisons contain many men who are capable of any position in the world; there is no task or project they couldn't carry through to success. What is wrong with them? An unfortunate moral twist. So, our first effort in the consecration of school life is to realize the worth mon idea of knowledge.

Please . . . . . Reid!

By JIMMY REID

It seems inevitable that the call for copy rolls around each week. It also seems inevitable that I am called upon to produce part of this copy. I keep telling them I'm of no value, but they insist that I fill up space, so away we go.

I got to thinking about something today (I do that occasionally), and it struck me as being well worth looking into. So being intellectually hungry, I immediately began to delve through many books, and disovered a few very unusual things.

Now if you are expecting the same type of column that you have been reading, now is the time to stop. But, if you are expecting something fresh, new, and entirely different now is the time to stop. It doesnt really matter when you stop; it's your time to waste.

Have you ever wondered what it yould sound like if several people of the past were to find themselves sddenly in our present day world under the same conditions that they were when they made their much qoaed statements. For example, instead of John Paul Jones saying, "I have not yet begun to fight," according to modern vocabulary it would be "I ain't started to get it on with 'em yet." Patrick Henry wouldn't have said, "I know not what course others may take, but as for me, give me liberty, or give me death," he would have ome in with, "Man, I don't dig what the rest of the cats are gonna invite, but I'm for real crazy freedom, or you can bump me off." David Glasgow Farragut might have said, "Damn the torpedoes! Go Ahead!", but if he were curising now you would more than likely hear, "What's the matter for you squares already? Damn the crazy mixed up little torpedoes! Cut out one time!" or Oliver Hagard Perry would have stated, "Real gone news! We done cooled out with the other gang and man they ain't wanting no more of us," instead of "We have met the enemy and they are ours." Plutarch would have trouble writing Caesar's account of the gattle if in place of his saying, "I came, I saw, I conquered," he would declare, "I'll give you the scopo, Jack; I fell in, cased the joint, and cleaned it out."

Of course, these famous quotations would not be the only ones to change form considerably. Poets and philosophers would have put their ideas into different words also. I can imagine them running somewhat like this:

Now—"Hittin' the sack before prowling time, an' hittin' the deck likewise only different, would give a at much gold, keep him IA, and make him real clever."

Now—"Crazy, no?"

John Selden: "They that govern the most make the least noise."

Now—"The bigger the cat, the lesssquealing."

I could give you more examples, but I think you get the idea. At any rate, I haven't got but one thing to say about it. Crazy!

Jawbone and Tongue

One woman driver to another: "The thing that I don't like about parking is the noisy crash."

From a student's examination paper: "A circle is a round straight line with a hole in the middle."

One man to another: "My wife cooks for fun—for food we go to a restaurant."

She's the kind of girl you bring home to mother —after you look your father in the garage.

Since women have been wearing shorter skirts, there have been fifty per cent fewer accidents. Why not eliminate such accidents entirely?

Travel isn't the only thing that broadens a person. How about just sitting around in one place?

A corporal is a man who knows much about little and learns more and more about less and less, until finally he knows everything about nothing—then they make him a sergeant.

Now Think . . .

Last week two of the editorial articles that appeared in The Blue Stocking were met with disapproval by some members of the Student Body. Those members of the staff that wrote them are sincerely sorry that this happened. We feel, however, that to some extent our writings were misunderstood, but we will agree that we were, perhaps, a little too blunt in expressing our thoughts.

The Blue Stocking is not only aware of the fact that there is a great deal of room for improvement in our paper, but we also realize that we ourselves are not above criticism. We feel the same, though, about those things that were attacked in our articles. It seems that we were accused of being radicals and revolutionaries. Our articles were not intended to be extreme, and it is unfortunate that they were so taken. We will endeavor, in the future, to use more tact, finesse, and care in expressing views on controversial matters.

This is a student paper. We only ask your cooperation in making it a better paper with which to serve the student and the college.

It is our sincere desire to foster and promote the "famed Blue Hose Spirit" that is so indicative of the unique Presbyterian way of life. That cannot be done without the wholehearted support of our readers. If, at any time, any member of the Student Body or faculty feels that we need a little correcting, let us have it . . . we will appreciate it.

Foiled by Oil

By DICK MENDENHALL

"You're kidding," I said.

He insisted he wasn't.

I stammered and choked at the news. He bade me follow him, so we went outside. Plunging behind him into the midst of the large mob, fighting and shoving my way down the street to the intersection, I felt a combination of shock and fear. We reached the corner. I lurched forward in disbelief; he caught my arm.

F. P. was lying motionless, face down, on the pavement.

The huge aggregation of people standing around were smiling—some of them were actually laughing. It disturbed me greatly.

"The milling throngs," I said, catching my breath. It was incredible! Here was what appeared to me to be Death before the eyes of the public, and yet the public was laughing. I was immensely perplexed.

Why would the public approve of such a thing?

With a start I awakened from the dream. Rubbing my eyes, I turned over and found the morning paper folded neatly on the table beside my bed. I opened it.

Sure enough, much to my delight, F. P. was still very much alive. Not only alive, mind you, but screaming at the top of his voice. As I turned the pages, the significance of the dream began to unravel itself.

F. P. had simply been walking to work; on the way, he had become so enthusiastic over one of his usual ideas that he started running. Almost as quickly as he had started, he fell flat on his face and knocked himself out.

I decided that the mob had not been laughing at the fact that he was unconscious, but rather because he had started running in the middle of a puddle of oil.

Free Press was still kicking, a bit abused, but kicking. And I realized I'd been wrong about his being killed.

The Responsibili Of Work

By RAY LORD

Joseph Conrad has said: "A man is a he is not that, he is nothing." How will fit into the last phrase of that quota many tenants at Presbyterian College serve the name "student"? To us has the opportunity to make something of How many of us are doing that?

Human experience has proved time the truth and wisdom of Conrad's statem it is to work that man owes everything changeable value. The Run . . . . of The Hose . . . .

By DICK ROPP

The PC Blue Hose should be very proud of the great game which they played against The Citadel Bulldogs. Although going down in defeat 20-14, the Hosemen were always in there plugging and were never completely out of the picture as the score and statistics show. The Blue Hose played inspired ball and should be congratulated by everyone.

* * * *

Judging from comments made by various students here at PC and other individuals in Columbia, S. C., it would seem very practical to play the PC-Newberry game in the Carolina Stadium on Thanksgiving Day if it is at all possible. There is a good bit of interest, especially in Columbia, and the game is almost sure to draw 5,000 to 10,000 people if it is played there. Due to the fact that the Newberry Stadium will hold only about 4,000, it would be a definite advantage both for PC and for Newberry if this could be arranged! How about it, Coach Johnson?

The fraternities and non-frat teams are to be congratulated on their good display of interest at a peak for the forthcoming volleyball and basketball playoffs.

Tennis Stars Clinic Termed a Success

Last Friday, Oct. 23, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hare conducted a very successful tennis exhibition on the Presbyterian College tennis courts. In addition to giving the clinic, Mr. and Mrs. Hare participated in several exhibitions with varied members of the PC tennis team.

Before the clinic began, Mrs. Hare, formerly Mary Hardwicke, a British Wightman Cup Star, lectured on the importance of tennis in the world today both in the world of sports and in the world of business. Mrs. Hare said that tennis was a great developer of concentration, as well as physical and mental alertness.. Mrs. Hare stressed the point that the most important aspect of tennis is the physical condition of the individual who plays. She gave many illustrations from personalities in the tennis world of today, and also those of yesteryear.

Mr. Hare, along with his wife, then gave demonstrations concerning forehand and backhand shots, as well as the volley from the net.

About thirty individuals, including girls from Converse College and young people from Clinton, and surrounding communities, took part in the clinic. Mr. Hare, a tall, rather jovial and good natured person, led the group in several drills which were created to develop coordination.

The first exhibition was between Mrs. Hare and Janie Haynie, a promising young prospect from Belton, S. C. They played four games, with Mrs. Hare winning all four. In the next exhibition Dick Macatee, a PC star, defeated Mrs. Hare 6-2. In the main event of the afternoon Mr. Hare played PC's ace, Allen Morris. Morris, after being down 4-0, rallied to defeat Mr. Hare, 7-5 in a well played match. The final duel was a doubles match between Mr. and Mrs. Hare, and Jerry Hunt and John Brownlow of PC. The Hares defeated PC's team 6-4.

Of the approximately 300 spectators, the general estimation was that the clinic was a tremendous success. Coach Leighton expressed the fact that he thought the clinic helped the PC team very much, and he was sure it helped those who had never played much tennis before.

Record Crowd Expected for H-C Game

Even though attendance has been good at home games this year, returning alumni and their families are expected to swell the crowd to stadium-filling capacity.

And then there was the professor who graded exams so strictly that he flunked three pupils for having periods upside down.

Bulldogs Down Hose, 20 to 14

The Citadel Bulldogs unveiled a new offensive formation resembling the short-punt, and also used an effective passing attack to down the PC Blue Hose, 20-14, in Charleston last Saturday.

The game, played before 5,000 spectators, was filled with pass-interceptions and also much razzle-dazzle ball-handling by both teams.

For The Citadel, the outstanding performers were quarterback Duby Rierson and sophomore end Jim Tyson. Rierson threw and Tyson caught, three passes for Citadel touchdowns.

The Bulldogs drove for their first touchdown within seven minutes of the first quarter. Neither team could muster forces for another score in that quarter.

As the first quarter ended, The Citadel intercepted a PC pass and started a 56-yard drive climaxed by a 10-yard toss from Rierson to Tyson.

Presbyterian's first score came midway in the second quarter, due to a blocked punt by Joe Counts. On the next play, halfback Landy Avant circled his own right end and maneuvered his way beautifully for 22 yards and PC's first score. Carter kicked the extra point and cut the Citadel lead to 13-7.

Presbyterian's second score came near the end of the third period. After Hamilton had intercepted a pass near midfield the Hosemen drove the rest of the field, mostly on passes, and Landy Avant climaxed the drive with a touchdown pass to Daughtry in the end zone. Grady Faulk converted and the Blue Hose led 14-13.

The Bulldogs, however, were not to be denied and bounced back with a 55-yard kick-off return. They fumbled on the one-yard line and PC recovered. After PC kicked out, The Citadel swept for 50 yards and their third score from Rierson to Tyson.

Outstanding for the Blue Hose offensively were Hamilton, Avant, and Counts, while linebacker Frank Boulware and tackle Luther Shealy stood out on defense.

Hose Face Catawba In H-C Tilt Tomorrow

Tomorrow night the Presbyterian Blue Hose will be trying for win number four after their loss last weekend to The Citadel Bulldogs.

Catawba has a big, rugged and fast team which is constantly on the alert for any mistakes made by their opponent. Tackle Bill England leads the Indians in the big forward wall. In the backfield Catawba has a very hard running fullback in the person of Dick Smith, and also some fine breakaway runners in Quarterback Paul Barnes and Halfback Harold Carter.

The emphasis in this game seems to be an offense as both teams have strong running and passing attacks.

Again the Blue Hose will be playing without the serviecs of Captain George Blue. In Blue's place the Presbyterians will start Landy Avant, a very fine runner and pass receiver. Harry Hamilton will again receive the signal-calling role. He has demonstrated his ability superbly in the last four PC games. He has completed 37 of 76 passes for a record which would warrant him mention as a Little All-American.

In the line the Blue Hose will be led by Joe Counts and Co-Captain Luther Shealy, along with Wayne Shoemaker and hard tackling Frank Boulware.

Probable satrting lineup for Catawba game:

Center	Boulware
Right Guard	Shealy
Right Tackle	Shoemaker
Right End	Counts
Q. B.	Hamilton
L. H.	Freeman
R. H.	Avant
F. B.	Carter

Sigma Nu Leads In I-M Football

With intramural football season just about gone, we see that the Sigma Nu's are just about the football champions for the third straight year. The Sigs, thus far, have compiled a 5-won no-loss record and also boast of not having their goal line crossed by any opponents. They have scored 35 points. This i sa good number playing by the rules this year.

In games this week, the Pi Kappa Alphas started things out with a rousing victory over the hapless Theta Chi's, 21 to 0. In the second game of the day the KA's recorded their fifth straight victory with a win over the Pi Kap's. On Monday, the 26th, the Sigma Nu's ran and passed their way to a four-touchdown advantage and then rested and coasted in with a 26 to 0 victory over the Theta Chi's. This is the biggest margin of points made in any game so far. n the nightcap the Kappa Alpha's had a rough time but finally came in on the top of a 14 to 0 score to beat the Rats.

The last games of the week were followed closely by a number of people and it happened that the Sigs had to be content with a 1 to 0 forfeit victory over the Alpha Sig's. But in the second part, the Pi Kappa Alpha's scored once in the first few minutes and again in the last seconds to eke out a 12 to 0 win over the Smyth Bedbugs.

Intramural football will lats for about two weeks more, and then it will be volleyball for two or three weeks.

College Receives $5,000 Bequest

The late Dr. Edgar Clay Doyle, husband of the recently deceased Mrs. Doyle, and prominent physician and alumnus, gave the college the necessary funds for the remodeling of the building into an infirmary. Prior to its renovation in 1942, the bilding was a dormitory known as Alumni Hall.

Former PC Co-ed Entertains on TV

The performer is Mrs. Frances Farrell Ratteree '42, whose husband, Milton Rateree '41, was killed early in World War II.

Frances—who came down to PC from Wilkes Barre, Pa., to study in the radio department—is now a television star with three programs of her own. Her young daughter Bootsie also has a short TV program on the Miami station.

Bag Suppers Will Be Served Tomorrow

Dining hall Manager L. V. Powell has informed The Blue Stocking that breakfast and lunch will be served tomorrow at the usual times, but that bag suppers will be distributed on the north end of the dining room from 5 until 5:30 tomorrow evening. Anyone who wishes to get an extra bag supper for a date or a guest is requested to register at the checker's stand in the dining hall not later than lunch time tomorrow (Saturday).

With the many meals the dining room will be serving on Homecoming Day, Powell asks that students be on time for meals, in order that he and the dining hall staff can enjoy their "holiday."

Reunions, Dance, Football Head Week-end Activities

It's Homecoming again.—Fun - Food - Football - Fellowship time. And alumni from all parts of the country have hastened their steps to Presbyterian college today to take part in elaborate festivities. A full slate of activity has been scheduled.

Beginning at 11 a.m. the Alumni association board of directors met in the library building. Then at 2 p.m. the alumni were guests at Judd dining hall for a luncheon. Class reunions were held in the class rooms of Neville hall at 3 p.m. and at 4 p.m. President Marshall Brown entertained the honored guests at the President's home. At 5 p.m. the Alumni association met in the college auditorium.

Past graduates are especially invited to come by and visit the college's newest addition—the Caldair House. An open house is slated for Friday and Saturday afternoons from 2 until 6 o'clock. The location of the student dormitory is the corner of Calvert and Adair Streets.

A pre-game smorgasbord, held in the dining room will commence at 6:15. Then there is the football classic between PC and Davidson at 8 p.m. on Johnson Field and the last scheduled event will be the fraternity open house following the game. Non-fraternity alumni are urged to attend any one or all of these informal gatherings.

Twelve classes have been singled out for special recognition and will meet in reunion: 1902, 1912, 1927, 1928, 1929, 1932, 1942, 1945, 1946, 1947, 1951, and 1952.

Stockings, Davidson Clash This Eve on Johnson Field

• Toe Meets Leather at 8:00

Classroom Classics

From a freshman theme:

"We wouldnt' know about things today if people back in those days didn't keep scrawls of what was happening.

An all-out offensive football battle, set against the backdrop of Homecoming festivities, will be staged at Presbyterian college tonight when the Blue Stockings entertain Davidson.

A capacity crowd of PC alumni and other sports fans is expected to fill Johnson field by the 8 p.m. kickoff for this annual clash.

The game is expected to see both coaches pulling all stops in their victory bid. For Presbyterian, Homecoming is a "must" occasion, and Davidson will be after its first, win of the season—not to mention revenge for the 14-12 licking of last year.

It will be the aerial assault against ground troops tonight. Whereas both teams have fairly well-balanced striking power, each has a particular weapon it wields with greatest effectiveness.

The Blue Stocking feature razzle-dazzle passing which has been the main yard-producer so far this year. Sparked by the Jack Harper-to-Joe Kirven team, this attack method has netted PC an average of 135 yards per game.

Davidson is expected to hit its hardest licks on the ground, with a rugged fullback and a defensive star turned breakaway runner leading the field. The hard-plunging fullback is Leroy Fargason. And Johnny Gray, starting at offensive right halfback, is the boy who shifted from defense last weekend to start lugging the leather against North Carolina State—including a 65-yard touchdown romp.

But this split-T engagement could easily follow another pattern. Presbyterian has a mean rushing game, by courtesy of Fullback Emmett Fulk and Halfback Curtis Freeman. And Davidson, with Quarterback Jack Ruth doing the pitching, has the power to strike swiftly by air.

It all adds up to an interesting football evening.

The probable starting lineups:

LE—Kirven	Kelley
LT—Sheriff	Wright
LG—Shealy	Davis
C—Guillebeau	Whisnant
RG—Jernigan	Patten
RT—Camlin	Tucker
RE—Twitty	Pierce
QB—Harper	Ruth
LH—Freeman	Thacker
RH—Baker	Gray
FB—Fulk	Fargason

ATTENTION, ALUMNI!

Welcome From President Brown

At an alumni luncheon in Anderson this week, Mrs. R. S. Thompson, class of '83, and still vigorous, told of the happy memories which have held her close to PC for the 69 years since her graduation. From the 19th century graduates to those who left the College last June, our alumni feel that this campus is a second home. And all of us here are delighted to bid you welcome on this Homecoming Day.

Gardin Here For Sadday Stomp To Put It "On" at The Armory

By A. J. RICHARDS

From the tango to the terpsichorean.

That's the theme of the first dance shindig of the year, as the Pan-Hellenic council gaily announced the Homecoming dance will be rolled off Saturday night from 8 'til 12.

The Clinton armory will be rockin' and sockin' to the strains of one certain Harry C. Gardin and his Rhythm Masters as past graduates will be trying to show these young cats a few ancient steps. Dress has been set as semi-formal and the cost of admission is $2.50 for non-frats with or without.

Howard Huggins, president of Pan-Hel commented on that semi-formal deal. "In Spartanburg," Howard states, "semi-formal attire is considered gals wearin' long dresses, ballerina style, or any other creation, while the gents put on a suit and a clean shirt. And iffen it's good 'nough in Spartanburg County, hits good 'nough in Clinton.

UN Day Next Friday

October 24 is to be recognized as UN Day at PC. A guest speaker will enlighten students on international relations as concerned with the United Nations on their 7th anniversary. The date will be celebrated throughout the world.

PC Studes At Converse Dance

The girls from Converse college invited members of the PC student body and the Wofford student body to a dance on their campus on Saturday night, October 11.

Cals from both PC and Wofford turned out for the occasion. The dance was held in the gym, which was appropriately decorated with Halloween trimmings of corn stalks, imitation pumpkins, and black and orange crepe paper.

A band was on hand to render music, both hot and fast, or slow and dreamy.

Frats Decorate; $$ Given for Best

Presbyterian's campus this year will sparkle by efforts of the Greeks—but in a more fraternal sense.

For Homecoming 1952, all fraternities were assigned campus landmarks for decorative purposes.

Pi Kappa Alpha had charge of the Library; Alpha Sigma Phi decorated the Science building; Theta Chi's task was Neville hall; Sigma Nu had the responsibility of souping-up the SCA building; Kappa Alpha splashed Smyth with elaborateness; and Pi Kappa Phi did a job to Spencer.

Prizes of 15 bucks will be given to first place winner, and a $5 prize is slated for second place.

Woodson Gets Gold P

The Gold P Alumni award for 1952 was given to Dr. Marshall Scott Woodson ('20) in special ceremonies at Homecoming this afternoon and at the same time certificates of award were given retroactively to Gold P winners of past years.

Dr. Woodson, president of Flora Macdonald college, Red Springs, N. C., was selected for the high honor by the board of directors of the Alumni association at its semi-annual meeting last spring.

The Gold P is Presbyterian college's highest stamp of approval to alumni. It is given annually to an alumnus who has made outstanding progress and achievement in his chosen profession.

Risher To Speak For Eisenhower

Col. James F. Risher, headmaster of Carlisle school in Bamberg, will address the Presbyterian college student body Tuesday morning on the presidential candidacy of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

This is another in a series of programs sponsored by the college International Relations club to present the political aspirations of the two major parties before the students. It starts at 10:45 a.m. Tuesday and is a substitute for the regular chapel program.

U. S. Senator Lister Hill, of Alabama, addressed the group in behalf of the Democratic party and its nominee, Adlai Stevenson, last week.

Col. Risher — headmaster, educator and inventor—has been officially designated by the South Carolina Democrats for Eisenhower headquarters to speak for their effort.

WF Pitches Dance

The Westminster Fellowship is sponsoring a party and dance at the Clinton armory on Friday, October 24. All old and new members are cordially invited to attend.

The party will be centered around a Halloween theme.

Anybody Got It...

$150,000 Wanted for New Dorm

Presbyterian college's greatly needed new dormitory has moved a definite stride closer to realization with Synod approval of a campaign to raise $150,000 for the project.

President Marshall W. Brown announced that a drive will be launched immediately through the churches in the supporting Synods of South Carolina and Georgia in which all members will be asked to cooperate.

The need of additional dormitory space is immediate, given vivid emphasis this fall when literally scores of students were forced to obtain rooming accommodations with Clinton residents while still others had to be turned away for lack of facilities. PC has had a waiting list for dormitory rooms for the past six consecutive years; but the need became even more acute this year, and the prospect is for continued high demand in the foreseeable future.

The College already has detailed plans ready to start work on providing more room space.

The plans, by an architect with a wide range of experience in the field, call for completely renovating Laurens dormitory—using only the four walls of the building—and adding two large wings on each end. The result would be facilities for 100 more students.

The Synod of Georgia, meeting at Savannah in September, gave its approval for raising $50,000 in that Synod. Then the South Carolina Synod, at its annual meeting on Oct. 6-8 in Kingstree, voted permission to raise $100,000 from among its church membership.

President Brown, in announcing the forthcoming campaign, said he feels certain the friends of Presbyterian college throughout South Carolina and Georgia will give the College the same loyal and generous support in this worthy effort as they have in other hours of need.

It is hoped that some individuals will be willing to give one room at $3,000, or $1,500, the amount needed to provide accommodations for a single student.

Blue Hose Seek Fifth Win Here Tonight

Choir is Prepared for December Tour of 2 Weeks

A source very close to the Presbyterian College Choir has announced that a full program for the year has been memorized by group, and that a "successful year is anticipated."

During an intermission at a recent singing practice, Choir President Buddy DuBose announced that it was the 20th wedding anniversary for Dr. and Mrs. Patte, and then presented the couple with a silver sugar bowl and spoon from the members.

The annual half-day dress rehearsal was held Thursday, November 12, at the First Presbyterian Church in Clinton. After some four hours of practice, the singers were dismissed; they met again later that evening for dinner at the home of Dr. Eduoard Patte, conductor. Supper, buffet style, was served, and immediately thereafter, Gold "P's" were awarded to those men who had served for four years with the Choir. The recipients included Roy Williams, Ray Smith, Paul Crouch, Jim Templeton, Jerry McCord, and Buddy DuBose.

College Dames Will Sponsor Drop-Ins

Under the sponsorship of The College Dames, the doors of the homes of various members of the Faculty and Administration will be thrown open to the student body in a series of "drop-ins" that will be getting under way in the immediate future.

According to Mrs. John Stevenson, president of The Dames, this will be the result of a desire on part of the faculty, to effect better relationships between student and teacher on an informal social basis.

If present plans materialize, these social functions will be held one night each month. On the designated evening several of the Faculty homes will be open, and students may attend one or all of the open houses.

CC Girls To Present Program

A deputation team from Columbia College will be the guests of the Westminster Fellowship at the regular meeting this Sunday night. The program will be given by the girls.

After the worship service, a fellowship hour will be held.

Any interested members of the student body are issued a cordial invitation by WF President Dennis Ketchem to attend this special meeting.

Plans Complete For Christmas Dance

Final plans for the Inter-Fraternity Council-sponsored Christmas dance are beginning to take shape, according to a member of the IFC.

The council has signed up Jerry Wald and his band from New York to furnish the music for the affair. Wald's 13-piece band has just concluded an engagement at New York's famous Paramount Theatre and will go on a tour of Statler Hotels throughout the nation this spring.

The Christmas dance will be an informal occasion in the Clinton Armory from 8 until 12 o'clock on Saturday night, December 12.

A Sad Story . . .

I had twelve bottles of good old corn whiskey in my cellar and my wife Lilli told me to empty the contents of each and every bottle down the sink, or else!

So, I said I would, and proceeded with the most unpleasant task. I withdrew the cork from the first bottle and poured the contents down the sink, with the exception of one glass — which I drank.

I extracted the cork from the second bottle and did likewise, with the exception of one glass, which I drank. I then withdrew the cork from the third bottle and emptied the good booze down the sink, except one glass which I drank. I pulled the cork from the fourth sink and poured the bottle down the glass—which I drank.

I pulled the bottle from the cork of the next and drank one sink out of it and poured the rest down the glass. I pulled the sink out of the next glass and poured the cork down the bottle. I poured the next glass out of its throat

Injuries May Hamper Hose In Season's Last Home Game

Presbyterian will unleash its nationally ranked passing attack against the running speed of Western Carolina here tonight in hopes of turning this final home game into victory number five for PC fans.

Kickoff time is 8 p. m., on Johnson Field.

The Blue Stocking aerial game was ranked among the first ten in the country in official statistics ... by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics. And Presbyterian's amazing Seneca sniper, Quarterback Harry Hamilton, stood right next to the top in the individual passing department.

Records show the PC team averaging 125.4 yards - per - game through the aerial route, while Hamilton personally is traveling by air at the rate of 139.6 yards per game after having missed the first two contests. His statistics read: 57 completions in 118 attempts for 693 yards and 6 touchdowns.

Leading receivers in this airborne assault have been: End Bobby Jackson of Charlotte with 14 catches for 189 yards and two touchdowns, and End Joe Counts of Brunswick, Ga., with 13 catches for 100 yards and three touchdowns.

This is the passing lineup which PC Coach Lonie S. McMillian hopes will be able to outgun the hard-running Western Carolina attack which whipped a strong Emory and Henry team last weekend. Scouting reports indicate the Catamounts have speed to burn in their backfield, sprinting behind a hefty forward wall.

One dark spot on the Presbyterian sidelines — injuries — have tackled the squad hard during the past week. The ailing list, none of whom are expected to see action this Friday night, now includes: Center Frank Boulware, Halfbacks George Blue, Landy Avant and Doug Dellinger, and Guard Bobby Dunlap.

Three seniors will play their last home game for Presbyterian this weekend: Halfback Curtis Freeman of Clinton, Joe Austin of Laurens and Center Guy Misenheimer of Maxton, N. C.

The probable starting lineup for Friday night:

PaC-SaC Still Needs Pictures

Roy Williams, Editor in Chief of the college annual, The PaC SaC, has informed The Blue Stocking that there is still an acute shortage of snapshots for this year's publication. These pictures will be accepted until around the middle of December, and Williams urges anyone that has any such pictures to turn them in to him as soon as possible.

The class pictures that were made at the beginning of the school term will be shown to the students at a date in the near future in the Prayer Room in the Library.

PC Plays Host To Church Meets

Presbyterian College will play host to numerous important meetings to be held within the Synod of South Carolina during the next year.

Latest event scheduled for the PC campus is the annual meeting of the Synod of South Carolina, which will assemble here on August 31-September 3.

Earlier, it had been announced that the Spring Rally of the Synod's Young Adult organization will meet at Presbyterian College on March 27, and the Synodical Training School for the Women-of-the-Church will be held ... June 14-19.

Also figured into the PC calendar of activities will be the two young people's conferences conducted each summer.

Volley Ball Next On Intramural Agenda

Volley ball will be the next item on the Intramural agenda upon completion of the football competition.

He has made possible, through soliciting funds, the trips that many of the tennis players have made with little or no expense to the College Administration. He has done a wonderful word for the school and community in his efforts for the Community Chest campaign and through this drive has aided the building of better relationships between the people of Clinton and the Student Body.

Coach Leighton has done a superb job in recruiting students for PC. These men that have been attracted by him have in several cases been tennis players that have brought recognition to the school on a national basi[illegible] those students that come into close contact with Coach Leighton have in all cases proved themselves in the academic field, and this source suggested that it was his influence that had caused this scholastic efficiency.

[illegible] Leighton is listed one of the strongest Christian characters among those individuals connected with Presbyterian College, and to say the least he is a gentleman of the old school.

In his capacity of tennis coach, he has done a work that is obviously unsurpased by other net mentors in the South. He has built the PC tennis squad into the nationally recognized organization that it is today.

Since, in his official capacity, few individuals come into close contact with Jim Leighton it is unfortunate that so few of the students really know him well, for he is an individual of which Presbyterian College should be unusually proud.

The Run .... of The Hose ....

By DICK ROPP

Last Friday night the Blue Hose went down 19 to 0 to the Furman Purple Hurricane. Many thought that this was about the worst game of the season for the Hosemen since they didn't score for the first time this season and because they seemed to be a little jittery at the start of the game.

It is my contention that this game could have gone either way. The Hurricane struck for two TD's in the first two minutes, but after this the Blue Hose were never out of the picture and [illegible]

I think that our boys realize that they don't have quite as good a pass defense as has been publicized, but I'm sure this phase of the game has been remedied somewhat for the WCTC game.

So let's go out tonight and show the Blue Hose that we're behind them "all the way." The spirit was excellent at Furman, let's make it better tonight.

The students who have been working on the tennis courts have done a good job. I'm sure Coach Leighton and the members of the team appreciate it very much. There is only one drawback—there is not enough help! If you don't have anything to do tomorrow, go out and help so these courts can be finished shortly! Thanks!

Choir Starts On Musical Miles

THE PRESBYTERIAN COLLEGE CHOIR

Fall Tour Begins Tomorrow; Trip to Last or Ten Days

The Presbyterian College Choir officially commences its fall season and tour tomorow when the singers leave by chartered bus for Charlotte.

Edouard Patte, choir conductor, is in his seventh year at PC in that position. During this period the choir has become a nationally recognized group, loved by and wide for the beauty and originality of its Devoted voices. The organization has twice been asked to sing over nation-wide hook-ups, and has traveled over 33,000 miles into all Southern states except Arkansas, Texas, and Kentucky.

This year, Patte once more has trained the choir—now consisting of thirty-two voices—into a group which reaches a standard of musical excellence.

The conductor's theme for musical programs is built around several interpretations "from the old 16th century school, chorals by Haydn and Bach, Russian liturgical anthems and Negro spirituals."

The Flora Macdonald College Choir will participate with the PC Choir in two special feature concerts later in the season. It will be the first such effort on the part of [illegible] [illegible] the concerts will be released later.

The PC Choir already has presented concerts in Lake City and in Newberry. Both programs were rendered Sunday.

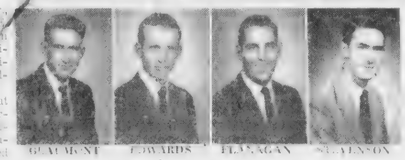
SCA to Publish Student Directory



For the first time in the history of Presbyterian College, a Student Directory is being published, and will be distributed to the Student Body the first week in December. The handbook is being edited by Greg Elam, member of the Senior Student Christian Association Cabinet, and is being published by Dr. John W. Harris, chairman of the Department of English.

Students will be listed alphabetically, and information concerning each individual will include class, campus address and telephone number, and home address.

Christmas Party Comes Dec. 16

The annual Sident Christian Association sponsored Christmas party is to be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 16. Plans for this year's pre-Christmas program are to completely separate the secular and religious programs. A social hour for the entire Student Body will close the evening.

Canterbury Club To Be Organized

A group of Episcopal students from Presbyterian College recently attended the semi-annual convocation of the Western district of the Upper Diocese of South Carolina.

At the meeting, concrete plans for the organization of a campus Conterbury Club were laid down. Conterbury groups from Clemson College and Furman University are expected to help get the group in shape.

Mrs. R. B. Holmes, superintendent of the PC infirmary, will act as adult advisor to the group during the organizational stage.

Community Chest Donations Fall Short

Coach Jim Leighton states that, although the final tally for the Communiyt Chest Drive has not been reached, contributions by the Presbyterian College Student Body are considerably under last year's total. Final totals for the annual benevolent drive will be announced later.

The Mr. LEMAC contests, sponsored weekly by the makers of Camel cigarettes in cooperation with The Blue Stocking, will continue this week with two Mr. LEMAC's to be identified.

The last Mr. LEMAC identification was made by Mack Matheson, who received a carton of Camels as a reward. Mystery man for the latest contest was Joe Elliott.

Absorb Some Culture

In many small colleges — or at any rate, colleges as small as ours — cultural advantages are often limited. Here at PC, however, we are fortunate in having many facilities at our disposal that are conducive to the cultivation of our finer cultural tastes. One of the most noteworthy of these advantages is the superb record library and listening room. Several thousand dollars are invested in equipment and records as well as many hours of work are spent in keeping the records suitably well-catalogued. Evidences of these facilities indicate that few students find it convenient to take full advantage of the music room. The Administration has made clear the fact that if more students show interest in it, the record library and listening room will be enlarged to [illegible] the students desire. Perhaps the reason for [illegible] is the fact that many students do not realize the [illegible] and privileges [illegible] to them.

Improved Relations

It is rather generally known in the Southeast that Presbyterian College is the friendliest college in the area. However, for some strange reason, there is considerable room for improvement in student-faculty relationships. In a school of this size there is a wonderful opportunity to "get to know" the professors.

The College Dames are going to begin a series of open-house drop-ins to give the Student Body the chance to visit the profs at home. If these affairs are enthusiastically attended, the Dames will, perhaps, feel that they can undertake other projects of this nature. Unquestionably, these drop-ins are a wonderful service to the Student Body, and the College Dames deserve a lot of credit for even attempting such a task.

The Moral Obligation to Study

By RAY LORD

Because man has been peculiarly endowed by his Creator, he has certain responsibilities and obligations which he must fulfill. Man, like no other being, has been given an intelligence; and, therefore, he has an obligation to develop this intelligence to the highest degree possible. Since the way to development of intelligence is through study, every man has the personal obligation to study. It would then be concluded that failure to study is a falling short of one's obligation or, in reality, a sin of omission.

Let us look to the foundation of our moral lives, the teachings of Christianity, and see what is said about man's moral obligations. Paul says that we should study to show ourselves approved unto God, workmen who do not need to be ashamed. Here is stated plainly that man has an obligation to develop the mind which has been given to him until [illegible] can we give to the PARABLE OF THE TALENTS than the development of ourselves, our minds and personalities. In refusing to develop ourselves through study, we neglect our moral responsibility. On the other hand, through study we develop our intelligence and, in turn, please our Creator.

Our attitude toward study should not be that it is a harsh requirement to take our time, but as an opportunity to fulfill our obligations. If we use the other parts of ourselves for their intended purposes, does it seem strange that we have a responsibility to use our minds to advance our knowledge. We believe that if we look at study from this view—if we regard it seriously as a moral obligation and conscientiously try to fulfill our obligation, we will attain inner satisfaction as well as the material benefits which naturally result. Let us keep in mind the pray of John Milton that

"To the height of that great argument
I may assert eternal providence
And justify the ways of God to men."

Thoughts and Meditation

ces will be proud of our past, and there will be a feeling of contentment as we await the sound of Gabriel's trumpet. But others of us are going to look back on our lives and wonder, "Have I really accomplished anything? Have I in my lifetime done anything worth while?"

Jacob looked back on his life and said, "Few and evil have the days of the years of my life been." Jacob was thinking mainly of the early days of his life, in which he acquired many things for himself—his brother's birthright and blessings, vast herds of sheep through trickery from his father-in-law Laban, a big family. But there was something lacking: a sense of innocence in God's sight. The things he had done had been to please himself, not God. Jacob [illegible] his back [illegible] and was sorry.

Paul also realized that the [illegible] he had done were out of a selfish motive. In God's sight they were worthless and only served to estrange him from God's favor. Later, when he wrote to the Philippians, "But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ." His life had been changed from one of purely selfish goals to one in which Christ was at the helm of his ship of life, guiding him toward "the prize of the high calling of God."

These men call to us today over the passing years to set our lives on the same course which they found in Christ.

Blues Rip Tigers In Opening Hoop Tilts

The Run . . . . of The Hose . . . .

By DICK ROPP

Once again, I would like to congratulate the Blue Hose football team, on a job well done during the 1953 season, [illegible]

They closed the record books on the best season PC has had in seven years, and both Student Body and College Alumni should be exceedingly pleased with the records.

Many people have not stopped to think that only 25 players carried the brunt of the attack for the Hosemen in nine games. In six of these games, the Blues started as underdogs, and four of the games were against Southern Conference teams.

PC had its defeats by Clemson (7-30), The Citadel (14-20), and Furman (0-19). The Blue Stocking defeated Alabama State (13-7), Wofford (7-6), Catawba (26-19), and Western Carolina (20-7) before last week's tie (7-7) with the Newberry Indians.

A big team, school spirit, and the ever present "will to win" proved to be the outstanding features of the season. If for no other reason, the Hosemen are to be lauded for their first win over Wofford in four years.

PS — Keep the same attitude, footballers, and your season will be even more successful next year!!

Not to be forgotten are head coach Lonnie S. McMillian and his two assistants, Bill Crutchfield and Norman Sloan. They did a fine job, as evidenced in the won-lost column. To these coaches, I would like to say: "Thanks for everything."

Just a reminder to all PC students: The Spirit has been good during football, but another sport's season has begun now: BASKETBALL! The men of the hardwood need your support also, so let's attempt to see every game and continue to yell like the mischief, but bear in mind that you are PC'uns. Show no disrespect or malice toward any opposing player, no matter how bad his attitude or sportsmanship may be.

Little Four Baseball League Formed

[illegible] Athletic Director Walter A. Johnson after a meeting of all representatives at PC earlier this week. The [illegible] Little Four colleges of South Carolina — [illegible] ford and [illegible] have long been [illegible] in a method of [illegible] sports.

Joel Robertson, Wofford athletic director, was named president and secretary of the league, and a 24-game schedule was drawn up pitting member teams against each other four times during the coming season.

Johnson said league standings will be maintained and released to the press and radio at regular intervals. A championship trophy —donated by Crutchfield Sporting Goods store of Spartanburg—will go to the league winner at the close of the season.

Johnson and Robertson met at Presbyterian College with Newberry Athletic Director Harvey Kirkland and Erskine Athletic Director Gene Alexander to complete details relative to forming the league and the 1954 schedule.

These four sportsmen and C. E. "Chick" Galloway, of Clinton, former major league baseball star, will serve as the league's protest board.

All athletic directors expressed enthusiasm over forming the highly competitive Little Four teams into an official baseball league. It was done to provide sports fans of the state with a spirited college league race which is expected to stimulate increased interest in the games and in college baseball as a whole.

The first shoulder rifle match of the season was recently fired on the PC range with Furman University's sharpshooters being guests of the Blue Hose team. The Hose routed the Furman team to the tune of 1733 to 1580. Arthur Pue and Chris Patte were high men for PC with 356 and 3355 points, respectively. Fletcher tallied 326 points for high score honors on the Furman squad.

In a more recent match, with Clemson's Tigers, the crack PC team defeated the Tigers 10 points by a 1735 to 1725 score. Pue and Walpole were high men for the Hose, and Moore and Watson were out front for Clemson.

The first mail matches will be fired shortly with the University of Akron and Westminster.

According to Sgt. Wood, the team blew its chances of bettering its position of 16th in the Randolph Hearst Trophy Match fired November 24. He thinks that the boys are capable of doing much better and is confident that they will in the future.

Joe Huggins has organized a group of PC students into a Basketball Referee's League. These men will attend a clinic conducted by Ernest Stokes, High School Basketball League Commissioner, in order to better learn the mechanical aspects of basketball in connection to officiating.

Fourteen high schools in the local district send their schedule to Huggins, and he assigns one of the fourteen boys in the group of college boys to certain games. Each individual connected with the referees league officiates at an average of three games weekly.

PC, Newberry Battle to 7-7 Tie

[illegible] ing the remainder of the game. rifle defensive games, PC and 22-16 and led at the half 46-27. Newberry's Indians battled to a 7-7 season's finale tie on Thanksgiving day in Newberry with an estimated 4,000 chilled spectators looking on.

The Indians, with a big array of hard-running backs, drove twice to the PC seven-yard line, only to lose the ball both times on fumbles. This was the way most of the first half was played, with PC backed up in its own territory.

The Hosemen drove 40 yards on six plays to score midway in the third period. A 15-yard penalty took the Hose to the one-yard line where Joe Austin scored after two unsuccessful quarterback sneaks by Harry Hamilton. Gene Carter booted the extra point for PC.

PC kicked off and the Indians immediately scored in three plays. The touchdown came on a sensational Brabham to Davis pass which covered a total of 62 yards. This completed the scoring for the afternoon as both teams resisted and fought down to the wire, but to no avail.

Hamilton completed 12 of 29 passes for 116 yards to lead the Hose in their efforts offensively. Joe Austin and Curtis Freeman gained 36 and 34 yards, respectively, on the ground for PC.

On defense, guard Luther Shealy and tackle Wayne Shoemaker each had 10 individual tackles for the Blue Hose.

For Newberry, Danny Brabham, Grady Roy and Stan Bessinger were outstanding on offense and tackle Grover Davis and center Ed Hester were the defensive stalwarts.

In addition to Thompson, PC's top scorers were Ronald Ragan who hit on six of seven field goal attempts for 13 points; and forward Bob Burgess, center Bruce Thompson and guard "Bo" Beaumont each had 10 points.

It seems that GEORGE BLUE has attached himself somewhat closely to a certain gal! If you would like to get the whole story, ask George about Sonny Steady. I'm sure that he will be glad to tell you all he knows. Right, Sonny?

Our most sincere expressions of sympathy should be extended to "Doc Reid." It seems that his most cherished desire to go to the Limestone Follies was disrupted somehow. At any rate "Doc" doesn't get along particularly well with a few boys from Chester. What's the connection, Jim ole boy?

Hey! It looks like a few of the co-eds aren't getting enough attention from the boys who attend PC. At least they could have shown their school spirit by not flirting with the Ft. Jackson basketball team. Nina, Sarah, and Joan would hate wearing goof-off signs for their actions.

Hey, "Herc" Coleman, is it true that Polly Anne has shown you the door? You can do better than that—or we thought you could!

There is an Agnes Scott pennant in Smyth A section that goes up and down as often as the flag on the Plaza does. It seems that this pennant has at one time or another been the property of Buddy DuBose, Willie Neville, and Tommy Stallworth. What's the matter, can't you guys hold on to those Agnes Scott Freshmen?

It seem sthat Ted McCullough isn't riding many of the boys home with him this year. It may be that he and Joan would like to be alone on those trips.

Three homes will be opened to the Student Body for one hour between 8:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Cadets Return

By LOCKY MURRELL

Members of the ROTC of Presbyterian College returned to drill uesday morning—well, most of them. I'm sure that Sergeant Johnon wishes he could say the same for their uniforms.

As I was strolling through Spencer Tuesday morning prior to rill, I noticed quite a number of boys cuddled in the sack. When sked why they werent attending drill, they gave answers such as left my uniform at home," and "part of the uniform was stolen.' I ecame concerned with the welfare of these boys and asked them hat they were going to do until their mothers sent their uniforms ack, or until they (the fellows) relocated the missing articles of lothing.

One guy had it all figured out. The basketball team was leaving Tuesday for the week, and he was going to use one of their uniforms. Most of the others were at a loss as to what to do. I suggested they see Sgt. Johnson, as he had absolutely nothing to do but sit around all day, and would love to issue them a uniform for a week or so. He would certainly welcome this wonderful opportunity to be charitable.

So when the roll was checked Tuesday morning, the attendance was very gdoo according to Sgt. Major Stallworth. Sergeant Johnson must have come through with those "extras."

Thoughts And Meditations

Psalm 23

The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul! He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointeth my head with oil; my cup runneth over. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

We live in a state of confusion. But we need not be confused, for we can find strength and confidence under God's guidance and protection When we were children we learned the 23rd or Shepherd Psalm. Many of us today can still recall all or portions of it, not because it was simple or childish, but because it would bring peace of mind—a new confidence, in spite of the disturbing elements of our every-day world.

Much of the discontent and dissatisfaction in our world is a result of our not thinking of God as our "Shepherd". A faith in God and an assurance of His guidance can give peace of mind and freedom from worries. Would He not lead us into "green pastures" and "beside still waters" if we would permit Him?

Watch for LEMAC

The first LEMACS since the Christmas Holidays will be running loose around the campus next Monday morning.

In cooperation with the campus representative for Camel cigarettes the Blue Stocking will continue the LEMAC contests for the remainder of this semester.

The first person to observe the oddity in Mr. Lemac's dress and report it to Al Dunbar will receive a free carton of Camels.

Pikas Take First Place In Skits

Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity was awarded first-place honors for their presentation of a minstrel show dealing with the College administration in future years at the annual Fraternity Christmas Skit Night, December 16.

Second place went to Theta Chi for a "review" of Christmas wishes made before Santa Claus by members of the PC faculty during their early childhood.

In the remaining three skits, Sigma Nu Fraternity presented a pantomime of three singing popular music; Kappa Alpha Order listened to a mock football game between Presbyterian College and Moscow University; and Pi Kappa Phi launched a take-off on "Dragnet," the highly popular NBC radio and television program.

Immediately following the program, refreshments were served in the rotunda of Neville Hall, and home addresses of all students and faculty, contained in recently published booklets sponsored by the Student Christian Association through the generosity of Dr. John W. Harris, were distributed to members of the Student Body.

$55 Collected By Council

A spokesman for the Student Council told The Blue Stocking a few days ago that almost $55 had been collected from the Student Body before Christmas to be used for charitable purposes.

Council President Andy Howard made the announcement in Chapel this morning. "We're very pleased over the student showing," he said

$28.22 was taken up for relief of a needy family, and the Christmas Seal Sale netted from the students a total of $25.71.

Say IRC Meeting Huge Success

Two "highly informative and entertaining" movies concerning global issues of economic and cultural interest were shown for the benefit of almost fifty members of the International Relations Club last Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. The fourth regular monthly meeting of the IRC for the first semester, and the first meeting for 1954, took place at the Radio Forum Room in Neville Hall.

The movies, secured by agreement with the Division of General Extension of the University of Georgia at Athens, included a documentary strip concerning United States trade and tariffs with relation to financial problems in other countries. The second film, and the shorter of the two, was a presentation of the March of Time, and dealt solely with cultural and historical data on the "Nation's Capital", Washington, D. C.

Immediately following the films, refreshments were served.

Canterbury Club Will Meet Monday

The first meeting of the campus Canterbury Club, organization of Episcopal students, will be held next Monday evening, January 11. Mrs. Bob Hellams will play host to the group in the college infirmary at 7:00 o'clock.

All Episcopal students and any other interested individuals are cordially invited to attend.

Plans call for a visit from Canterbury groups at Furman University and Winthrop College, in the very near future, to help the local group become properly organized.

McQueen Gets Orders

J. T. "Moon" McQueen of PC, has received official orders directing him to report to Ft. Benning on June 9. McQueen will complete college work on January 22, and will be presented his commission as a 2nd Lieutenant in the United States Army.

A native of Mullins, McQueen holds the rank of cadet captain in the Presbyterian College R. O. T. C. Corps.

Avant to Head PiKA Fraternity

At a special meeting held last Wednesday night, the brothers of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity chose officers for the spring semester.

Wade Avant, a senior from Florence, was selected to serve as president for the forthcoming term. Bill Hamilton of Atlanta, Ga., was elected vice-president, and Ralph McCaskill of Clinton, became secretary. John M. Cooper of Mayesville, took over the treasurer's slot.

Retiring president, Roddy Brown, was presented with the president's key.

Know Your Faculty

The Faculty personality for this week is Mr. E. G. Herbert, associate professor of Biology.

Mr. Herbert is a native of Spartanburg. He attended Wofford College in Spartanburg, where, in 1943, he received the Bachelor of Science degree. Immediately following graduation he was called into the service and spent four years in the United States Army. Upon his discharge Mr. Herbert became a member of the faculty at Georgia Military College. In 1949 he began graduate work at Emory University, and in 1950 had completed work for the Master's degree in Biology.

After receiving this degree he joined the faculty of Lees-McRae College where he served as Biology professor and Dean of Men. He was there until 1953 when he became a member of our faculty.

Mr. Herbert has many hobbies of which his favorites are tinkering with radios and phonographs playing tennis and swimming.

Thanks...

Every Tuesday night there is a moviee shown in the chapel. These films are either educational or they are classics from Cinemaland. Of course these films are not shown without expense, even though they do not cost the students anything. The generosity of one man has made these entertainments possible.

Dr. John W. Harris, professor of English, has done many things for the students of the college during his years of service here, but making these films available is certainly one of the finest things he has ever chosen to do for us.

Come to a Party

There is going to be a party held on the campus. In fact, this is going to be a very particular kind of party . . . a birthday party. For reasons unknown, there will be no banquet or cake to be cut. In fact, there will be no festivities.

If anyone is present it will be the spirit of a man . . . the spirit of a man who had a vision. Though the man himself ilved long enough to see some of his dream come true, his spirit has been ever present for many many years.

This spectre has been present—but never honored—at a goodly number of these parties. He has seen several presidents of Presbyterian College, some of them good and some of them not so hot; he has looked over quite a few Student Bodies, some of them good and some of them bad; faculties have not been spared and it is plausible that they have fallen into the categories bad, worse, and worst. What will he think of the over-all situation when this year's party comes off?

In fact, is there any good reason why we should not honor our founder when Presbyterian College is seventy-four years old this year?

Grunts and Groans

By JOHN ALLMAN

It is now the time for exams, and for the thoughts that go with them, especially those about cheating, or getting by one way or the other. I think that I am expressing the ideas of the majority of the student body when I say that if you are going to cheat, how about staynig away from me while you are doing it? I do not wish to have any decent grade that I might slip up and have taken away from me because someone was using my paper to cheat from. So please leave me alone during exam week and I'll be more than glad to do the same for you.

Congratulations, Mr. Powell. I have't received my usual case of stomach troubles since I have been back from the holidays. Now, I don't know if this is some oversight on your part, but so far I have not a single complaint on the food. It is still not like mama's but it will do until I get home to get some more of her food.

Is it going to be quiet on the campus during the coming days, or is it going to follow the usual pattern of January madness that seems to prevail during the time it takes to get adjusted to school again. So far, the noise has not kept me awake at night and no one has registered a complaint about it to Andy Howard. This appears to be a welcomed change and I hope that it stays that way for a few more days.

A rumor has reached my ears that a certain co-ed has lost something and would like it back. She would not say what it was, but inferred that it had something to do with her heart. This information reached my ears in the form of a letter that looked like it was written in feminine handwriting. So if any of you lads have this article would you please be so kind as to return it to her so she can get some sleep at night, and stop sleeping through all of her classes.

A big bunch of orchids to this week's "gentleman". A fine fellow and someone told me an excellent student. This lad is none other than the president of the student body, Andy Howard. Good luck to you through the coming year and throughout life.

On December 29-January 1, Alabama Polytechnic Institute in Auburn, Ala., was the scene of the Fifth Quadrennial Youth Convention of the Presbyterian Church in the United States. The eighteen hundred delegates to this convention were a representative group of Presbyterian young people representing 22 states and 8 foreign countries. All Southern state universities and all Presbyterian colleges and seminaries were represented. Presbyterian College had one of the larger delegations, having approximately 40 students from this college attending.

Among the distinguished speakers were Dr. John Mackay, President of Princeton Theological Seminary and Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, who delivered the keynote address to the convention. Dr. Henry Scott Latourette, Professor Emeritus of Oriental History at the Yale Divinity School, who is recognized as one of the foremost Church historians of today, was

THE MAN

By DICK MENDENHALL

His name shall not be mentioned in this writing, for intended purpose of the writer either to embarrass him him personally. Actually, he doesn't give a continental name is published or not.

For he is definitely one of the few open-minded p He is highly respected by a few, grossly misunderstood by yet, while much of his manner remains to me a complet I must nevertheless count him highly and benevolently of intimates.

Once he told me that music, secularly speaking, was factor in the essentials for a happy human existence. I am very uncertain.

I once knew a man. He was a fairly good musician, trigued by the majesty and splendor of the works of cla ters. Held spellbound by the most beautiful orchestral and blends ever composed, he was able to imagine himself from his everyday troubles and misfortunes into a haven and ecstatic delight. He loved what he thought was the —loved it passionately.

And then one day he heard a modern jazz band. He too—dance bands, hillbilly bands, and finally, military ba of his introverted nature, for which he believed he was responsible, he rebelled against these other forms of mus sion, terming them as "lesser" forms. His passion for bea was infiltrated with an innate hatred of the sound of bands and their compositions because, to him, they each a potential evil or a misfortune, or both. Dance and ja considered as the basic potentials for the sin of lust becau downbeats and filmsical presentations (lyrics, etc.) of wh could have perhaps developed into fair and delightful a The hillbilly music, I learned later, forced him to visual of past experiences in life, not the open countryside, bu bouyant and difficult existence of certain country-folk he had long been associated, and for whom he had a rare able distaste. And finally, the military bands—they repres once peaceful nature a propagandized fashion of music simply to smash out with shrieking trumpets and booming last traces of visible human decency. A military band, usu panied by the sound of hoarse commands and trampling him a hypnotic, precision-like machine of screaming pa screaming in tune. Military bands and martial music, to h war.

Electrified and sincerely hurt by his realization of wh so it was called by others, could actually be and do, he pr matically to feel a violent distrust surging forth from wit was a distrust of people—people in general—who, he fel using, or who were not being allowed to use, the media with which they were divinely endowed to bring forth the in musical expression that their very souls could produce he was speeding up his pulse over nothing. But it nevertheless him to look at many other persons with a great dissatisfact from these roots sprung the thing which was to eventuall his misery: his ultimate reversal of earlier sentiments. No he love even the classical music—at least, not to the mas gree that he once did. He began to hate emotion—tears, exp or mello-dramatic sorrowfulness—and to detest all that for in many cases. And now, today, he is unable to tolerate of singing, except in select incidents. He says he cannot reason. To him, it is a phenomenon; to others, it is foolish

The Rise of Vassals And My Downfall

Vassals are very similar to vessels. There are three ba ences. The first of these is too well known to take space her tion. The second has slipped my mind just now. For thes let us focus our attention upon the third. A vassal has two A's. Only recently (the day grades were turned into to be exact) did I learn that I am no vessel. Quite ironical all because of the vassals, but I can't make Mother and D derstand. You see, I had to learn a chapter about vassals I studied hard and learned it well, but I wasn't satisfied material in the book and I decided to do some research w own. I found an interesting little story in a dust-covered b of the long-forgotten closets of Neville Hall. The story, al translated from Middle English, ran something like this:

Lord Petrol, holder of a vast estate in Southern Englan dire need of a new method of lubrication. His horse-drawn which were the most beautiful in the land, had the most habit of squeaking loudly. You can imagine the embarrass this mighty feudal lord when he drove through the throng the wheels giving out ear-splitting squels. He offered any could remedy this 2,500 pounds. Just think, 2,500 pounds English money! One of his vassals, a slick character affe named Vaseline, immediately set out to find a suitable lubri ter many disheartening failures, he came up with an excep bricant which he named erl. In a great fit of delight, Lor conferred many honors upon the young vassal, among the the title, "Earl of Erl." The Earl asked that instead of the a quarter tons of English money that he be awarded an equal of horse manure, as it was then and is now by far more This was done, and they lived happily ever after.

When test time arrived I scribbled out as much of this as I could in fifty-five minutes and turned in my paper to fessor. Now, honestly, don't you think I deserved better than my strenuous efforts??

Selvy and Company Down Hose

The Run.... of The Hose....

By DICK ROPP

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

With the end of Christmas holidays and the end of football season, culminating in the bowl games, here's hoping for a terrific year in sports for the Presbyterian Blue Hose!!

In the final basketball games before the Christmas holidays Presbyterian went down before the Clemson Tigers for their first defeat of the season. This game was considered a sure bet win for PC in pre-game predictions due to the fact that Clemson had not won a game and also because the Blue Hose had whipped the Tigers by a decisive 20 to 30 point margin in their first meeting here at PC. I'd like to defend the Blue Hose slightly and say that in the first game PC had about a month of practice more than the Tigers. PC was primed for their game due to the fact that Clemson had whipped us twice last year. I think this is a plausible explanation for PC's win in the first game.

In the second game at Clemson there are several explanations for a poor game. (1) The Hosemen were riding a five-game winning streak and might have been just a shade overconfident. (2) They had just finished playing a game with a comparatively poor team from Catawba and this game against poor competition might have served to throw their timing and teamwork off to some extent. (3) The Blue Hose were anticipating leaving for Christmas holidays the following day, and this might have been a strike against them. (4) The Tigers had played several fairly good college and mill teams, including Georgia Teeh, Georgia, Pelzer and others, and they were in somewhat better shape the second night. One word of praise: The Tigers were very spirited and hustled from the opening whistle. They looked good from the start, and in my opinion this is fairly good justification for their victory.

* * * * * * * * * * *

One comment on PC's loss to Furman: I think the game could have gone either way. Frank Selvy, as usual, was the difference. He played an outstanding ball game, with little or no help from his teammates except Fraley, who garnered 19 points. I'll say this, Furman has the advantage of Selvy, but they better make good use of him now. The balance of their team is rather poor. Selvys don't come every year, and the Baptists better be ready next time or next year.

From time to time I would like to cite a senior athlete in order for those who don't know them to be able to become familiar with those who oftentimes are the backbone of our athletic teams. My first SENIOR SPORTSMAN is J. T. "Moon" McQueen. "Moon," as he is known by almost everyone, has been participating in sports at PC for a period of five years and has always been known to possess the ever-present PC spirit and hustle. Moon played football for a couple of years before developing an injury which caused him to become sort of a manager-coach and helping in whatever way possible on the gridiron. He has used up four years of track eligibility and he developed into a better than average half-miler and also ran on the mile relay team. In the State Meet last year he broke the state record in the half mile, only to be beaten by a USC trackman with a better time. At the present, Moon is using his talents as a valuable substitute guard on the basketball team. This writer would like to salute "Moon" not only for his athletic prowess, but also for being tops as a good sport!

Tigers Defeat Blue Stockings 72-56

The Tigers were led by the hustling 5'8" guard, Amos Wells, who scored 19 points to pace Clemson.

Clemson led from the start and PC, out to make it two in a row over the Tigers, never seemed able to get back in the game although giving it everything they had from the opening whistle. The Hose closed the gap to four points in the final quarter, but three quick goals by Wells "sewed" the game up for the Atlantic Coast Conference club.

Blues Fall in Close 67-66 Decision

The Furman Purple Paladins took a very close game from the Presbyterian Blue Hose in Charlotte last Tuesday night by a score of 67-66. The Paladins, paced by their All-American candidate, Frank Selvy, took a 10-point lead away from the Hosemen during the third quarter and held on for a thrilling one-point win.

The first half was a period of constantly changing leads until Furman finally forged ahead for a 35-33 half-time advnatage. The Blue Hose, who had a 5-1 won-lost record, came out shooting in the second half and held a 51-41 lead with only 6 minutes gone.

Selvy then took over, hitting four consecutive field goals, and doing much to bring Furman to the forefront with a 58-54 lead. Presbyterian Forward Dave Thompson hit on a couple of goals to put PC back in the lead 61-60. From here on out it was an exchange of one point leads until a shot by Selvy and two free throws by Furman forward A. D. Bennett put the game on ice. With about a minute to go PC guard Bill Toole made two free throws good, but they were not able to gain the ball back as time ran out.

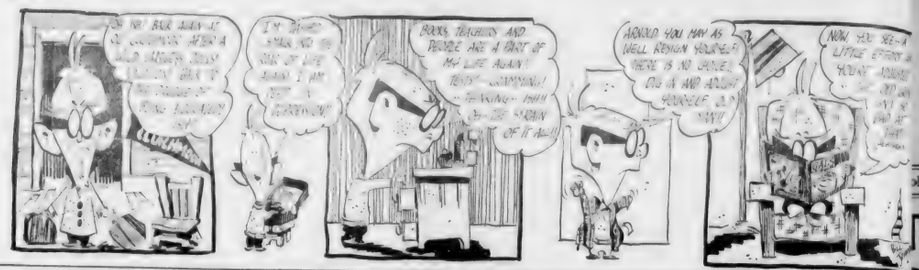
Intramural Volleyball



Intramurals got off to a big start Monday with two games scheduled but only one being played. The Alpha Sigma Phis took the measure of the Pi Kappa Phis. Two contests were played Tuesday with the Kappa Alpha's beating those same Alpha Sigs, and the Pi Ka's finishing up with a well earned win over the Theta Chi's. Two more games are on the card for this week with five being planned next week before exams start.

Basketball will be next on the agenda and it should start around the first of February.

Up to this point in the race for the coveted trophy, the points are well divided between six teams. The standings, not including volley ball, are as follows: Pi Kappa Alpha 7; Sigma Nu 5; Non Frat team 3; Kappa Alpha 3; Theta Chi 2; Pi Kappa Phi 1.

The purpose of this convention was "to make young people more aware of the implications of their faith in Christians in the world today, and more committed to a growing witness in their lives". Under the leadership of these and other speakers we believe that this purpose was carried out fully and that young people who attended have gone forth with a greater confidence in their faith and are more committed to the task that awaits them. Know Your Faculty

The faculty member in the spotlight for this week is Dr. Alexander Bell Stump, head of the department of Biology.

Dr. Stump is a native of Emmerton, Md., a small town twenty miles northeast of Baltimore. He attended the University of Virginia, where in 1930, he received the Bachelor of Science Degree. The next year he entered the Graduate School at Virginia and in 1931 he received the Master of Science Degree. After receiving his Master's Degree he continued his work and in 1934 he had completed work for the Ph.D. Degree. He returned to the University in 1935 and spent a year in Graduate Research work.

Upon completion of his research work Dr. Stump became Wild Life Technician for the National Park Service. In 1937 he was called to Flora McDonald College in Red Springs, N. C. He remained there in the Biology Department until he was called into the service in 1942. In the service he was a member of the 271st. Medical Detachment and served his tour of duty in the Fiji Islands. In 1943 he returned to Flora McDonald and was there until 1947 when he became a member of our faculty here at PC.

Dr. Stump has many different hobbies. He is a great lover of hunting and fishing, but since his work requires such a great deal of his time he ha svery little chance to engage in these sports. By far his favorite pastime is that of building furniture. He not only builds the furniture, but also makes the tools with which he does his work.

Next Dances Come Up in March

The next dances to be held will be the annual ROTC sponsored Military Ball and an Inter-Fraternity Council formal. These dances will come off on March 12 and 13 with the military affair leading of the week-end.

Details concerning both of these dances will be made known at a later date.

BSU Outlines New Program

The Baptist Student Unoin will begin this week holding regular meetings each Monday night at 6:30. All meetings will be in Neville Hall.

Several members of the Executive Council came to PC a day early from the holidays and plans were drawn up for the second semester's activities. The programs will be varied; deputation teams from other campuses, social events, and gust speakers—all will be included on the second semester BSU program agenda.

At Monday night's meting, Bryan Edwards delivered an inspiring talk to the members, entitled, "Resolving To Be More Christlike". Monday night's program will concern "The Honor System."

On February 1, Miss Sarah Kulb, a senior from Coker College in Hartsville, will be the main speaker for the BSU group. Miss Kulb is scheduled to show slide films concerning her trip the past summer to Rio de Janeiro. BSU cordially invites attendance of all students.

Dr. Brown Attends ACC Meeting

Dr. Marshall W. Brown, president of the college, has been attending the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges which was held in Cincinnati this week.

Dr. Brown left the campus last Saturday and returned today.

Canterbury Club Names Officers

At the first meeting of the organization, held last Mnoday evening, members of the Canterbury Club elected officers for this semester.

David Hicks, senior from Charlotte, N C., was selected to head the organization. Jimmy Reid took the vice-president's position, and will also serve as program chairman. Mills Peebles was the group's choice for the secretary-treasurer post.

Mrs. Robert B. Hellams was hostess to the group in the college infirmary.

New Theta Chi Heads Announced

Jim Bell, a junior from York, will serve as president, and Bill Unthank will again fill the vice-president's post. Jimmy Reid and Richard Infinger were re-elected to the offices of secretary and treasurer, respectively. Al Dunbar was chosen as junior Inter-Fraternity Council member.

Elam Again Heads PiKaps

Greg Elam was re-elected to serve as president of Beta chapter of Pi Kappa Phi social fraternity for the coming semester. To round out the panel of officers, Frank Young fills the secretary's position; Sam McGregor is treasurer; Bill Creech is the new historian; and Drayton Cooper is chaplain.

These officers were named last Tuesday night, and the Inter-Fraternity Council representative for the Pi Kaps will be elected in the near future.

R-E Week Dates Are Announced

Religious Emphasis Week will be held at Presbyterian College on March 2-5 this year, President Marshall W. Brown announced recently.

Dr. Brown said he is lining up an outstanding group of religious leaders to participate in the program.

Concerning Pledging

Fraternity Pledge Day is just around the corner. At that time a large number of freshmen and transfers will wish to become affiliated with one of the six national social fraternities on the campus.

The Inter-Fraternity Council, governing body for the PC fraternities, has set certain scholastic standards which must be met before a student may be eligible for pledgeship.

In order to become a member of any fraternity at PC, a student must have spent at least one semester's enrollment. During the semester prior to his pledging, the student must have carried a regular schedule of clases. He must have earned a number of quality points equal to at least one-half the number of semester hours for which he registered at the beginning of the semester. A "W" (withdrawn) or a "P" (passed but no semester hour credit) are not counted.

A student's scholastic average number of quality points that he is determined by dividing the has earned by the number of semester hours from which he registered. W's and P's again not being counted.

Registrar Urges That Seniors Sign up Early

Registration for second semester will take place beginning at 9:00 A. M. on Wednesday morning, January 27. Registration procedure, schedules, and registration cards will be available and can be picked up by all students from 2:00 to 5:00 on Tuesday afternoon, January 26. Each student must present a clearance slip from the Bursar's Office in order to secure his registration cards. Students who do not get their registration cards on Tuesday afernoon may pick them up on Wednesday morning at 9:00 A. M.

You will find that the photostatic copy which was furnished you first semester will be very helpful during the registration period for second semester. We will not make additional copies of your record, however, we ask you to bring the one which we prepared for you in September to registration.

Seniors are requested to confer with the faculty promptly at 9:00 A. M. Fershmen, sophomores and juniors are asked to wait until 10:15 before they begin to confer with the faculty. This arrangement worked very well [illegible] considered a senior previous

General Williams Inspects ROTC Unit

Maj. Gen. E. T. Williams, deputy commanding general of the Third Army, visited the college ROTC unit last Wednesday.

General Williams inspected the military detachment and received the batallion review during his visit. He was a guest of the college Administration for lunch in the college dining hall.

MSF Holds Meeting

Last Monday night at 7 o'clock the Methodist Student Fellowship met in Neville Hall. Rev. Rheinhart from Kinards, was the main speaker. The title of his subject was "Trust In God".

Plans for the stimulation of interest in the MSF were also discussed. According to a reliable source, students who are interested are needed and wanted.

The Military Ball will be held on Friday, March 12, from nine p. m until one a. m.

Drop-Ins Termed Huge Success

Mrs. John W. Stevenson, President of the College Dames, made comment this week concerning the open house drop-ins held last Sunday evening.

Mrs. Stevenson said that those faculty members whose homes were open were immeneely pleased with the turn out of the Student body.

Mrs. Stevenson further stated that the turn out was sufficient to warrant continuing the socials and that present plans call for the next ones to come up some time early next month.

Dr. and Mrs. George Bellingrath, Dr. and Mrs. Alexander B. Stump and Mr. and Mrs. G. Edward Campbell were the first to hold drop-ins.

This and That

Exams are here again, and for the convenience of the Student Body the library will be open each night until eleven o'clock. The library is a convenient spot to study, and it is quiet—except on nights when The Blue Stocking staff invades the place. Use the library.

The registrar is urging all students to look over their records before leaping headlong into the pandemonium of registration. Be sure that that you sign up for all required work that must be gotten off this coming semester before the classes are filled to capacity. Don't get left in the lurch.

Congratulations to the ROTC Battalion for their splendid showing Wednesday when they passed in review for the inspecting general.

As pledge day—preceded by the hectic activities of Rush Week—comes up, it is not too early for all interested persons to begin giving some serious thought to just what they expect of fraternities. This is an important decision, and should be made only after much careful thinking has been devoted to the matter.

The Blue Stocking staff will take a little break. There will be no issues of the paper for the next two weeks due to exams and registration.

This has been a good semester here at old P. College, and here is hoping that the next one will be even better.

GOOD LUCK ON EXAMS.

Have You Heard? . . .

By JAMI JONES

Hey! Exams are just about to get rolling, but I think it will be safe to take some time from the books to get in a little bit of "talking trash".

We saw Luther Shealy and Gene Altman last Friday afternoon, but couldn't figure out who was putting who to bed.

Wendell Capps isn't dating Sara any more. We hear that she came to pick him up in a Chevrolet instead of the Oldsmobile that he had become accustomed to.

Speaking of Saras we hear that Sara Caldwell is a dream girl these days. Let us in on the scoop, Leland Brown.

Walter Yates and his wife-to-be were seen talking to a certain sociology teacher that doubles as marriage counselor. We thought that you knew all about it, Walt.

Cliff Jones and Gene Webb have been doing some fancy sporting around town with none other than Little Red and Violet . . . do you cats like colors, or are you color blind?

Hey, Doc Rea, how come you are having such a hard time catching any smack mouth this day and time. Have all the women quit boodling? Or is it you?

How come Vass, Waddell, etc, inc., got off the train in Chester in stead of Clinton? They just passed on through the town, but did point out the general direction of the campus to the wim with them.

FORT DRAG—(PP)—The following is the text of an address delivered last night to the Military Staoes of Shamerica by the Issimo of all generalissimos and admiralissimos, and forwarded later through the mail for publication by the Persecuted Press:

"My Yellow Shamericans:

I wish to compliment you on your splendid execution of the orders for duty set before you by me. All of you are doing extremely well—all of you, that is, except you fools who insist on felt hats rather than garrison caps. You should know by now that all our felt materials are in Red China, thanks to Bunguland.

You should be deeply honored and proud to realize that you no longer are forced to be late to work in the mornings, due to oversleeping. Instead, someone gets you up. This should eliminate your worry about such things. But if you're late anyway, then that eliminates you. You'll never worry again.

I want to quote some things for you. Here is a porion of Shakespeare's 15th Sonnet, followed by an example of our beautiful present-day writing. See if you don't think the modern way is much more beautiful and expressive:

SHAKESPEARE

When I consider everything that grows
Holds in perfection but a little moment
That this huge stage presenteth naught but shows
Whereon the stars in secret influence comment. . .

AND NOW

No. 176382745-OO, 2 Apr 54, II (XCVBdd), SR 439-87-1:
Capt. D. O. Boye, PGMGCC-jc. . . LLTF (77643-2-0, jr.)
Atl Ga; Prgrph 7, etc . . . USA. . . . .

Isn't that magnificent? The last one, I mean. Only Major Bill "The Shakes" Spearing could have written anything so beautiful, so full of meaning and expression!

Ah, my lovely little robots! How cordial and benevolent you look in your monkey suits' I am so proud of you. So proud, in fact, that I think I shall send scores of you into another land and ask people to shoot at you, just to show them how fine you are. It makes wonderful propaganda for the Post Office windows! Join the Army, the Navy, the Air Force . . . tch . . . and now, look what's happened! What won't they do next? A Department of Civilians of all things. Well, we've needed one for a long time, I suppose . . . not many more of them left.

I almost break into tears when I think how sweet you are to wear your own personal gloves when you come out to walk around with your sticks on your shoulders. I am so touched and pleased that I believe I will let you have another contest real soon to see who can go the most without dropping his stick on the ground. Yes, I believe I will.

Oh, and one last thing—isn't it nice to know that you are no longer forced to do things? It was so good of you to volunteer to shell out ten bucks apiece the other day, in order that some of the smaller issimos might get a thrill. I know you did it just for me, though, no matter what who might say. You are all just as free as birds—so long as you don't fly off your handles. Because when you do, then (heh heh) I must take disciplinary measures, you know. . .

Just let me thank you once again for creating me. You did a good job of it and I helped you out a lot, you simple apes. But I've got you now, so enough of this nonsense. I don't care if your blood is made of mercury. Is it warm? Good . . . then follow me in a good old HUP TWO THREEP FOHP . . .etc . . . etc . . . etc.

Allen Morris, after losing in the first round of play in the Sugar wl Tournament in New Orlenas, made a startling comeback in Dixie Championships at Tampa Florida. Morris was defeated the semi-finals by Tony Vincent, ranked number seventeen nanally, who in turn was defeated by Gardner Mulloy. In talking h Allen, I can understand why he was beaten in such an early nd in New Orleans. From the time he left school until the Tourment began the temperature ranged anywhere from 15 degrees to degrees in Atlanta, and consequently he was not able to get in practice except for an occasional indoor game called squash, ich is a type of indoor badminton. In Tampa, Al said that Vinal was a good clay court player and was just "too strong".

An interesting fact about he Naional Amateur Men's Tennis nkings, and the Southern Men's Tennis Rankings—Morris is rank number 26 in the National Rankings and Don Kaiser of Louise, Ky., is ranked two steps down at 28th; but in the Southern nkings Kaiser is ranked number 2, while Morris is down at 6. unds like someone is confused, to me.

Coach Sloan said after the Elon game a week ago, which the Blue se won, 82-61, that it was the best game that any team he has ever ached here at PC has played. Everyone was hustling and there s just an abundance of good ball handling, rebounding, and de-se. It appears that the Hose took their defeat by Furman out Elon. Too bad, Elon, but that's (heh, heh) the way the ball unces. .

The Erskine Flying Fleet will bring a 99.9 scoring to PC with m Saturday night. The Fleet has scored over 100 points in six f of eight games this season. By the way, they are also undefeat-

Last night the Jacobs Blocking Trophies were once again given the outstanding blockers in South Carolina, and in the Atlantic est, Southern, and Southeastern Conferences. I'd like to comment that there have only been two PC players to receive this troy since the idea was originated by Dr. William P. Jacobs back in 3. These two players were Harry Bolick in 1934, and June ore in 1939. Dr. Jacobs originated the idea in 1928 to honor the ocker, unsung hero of the gridiron.

Morris Ranked 26th Nationally

Allen Morris, sensational Pres-byterian college tet star, soared higher on the national tennis scene with the release of official rankings recently.

The 20-year-old Blue Stocking junior, mentioned as a leading Davis Cup prospect, of the future, was placed 26th in the nation on the latest list of players rated by he ranking committee of he United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Morris also has been ranked sixth in the South by the Southern Lawn Tennis Association.

Two other Presbyterian college tennis players, meanwhile, appear read yto stroke their way into the national spotlight behind naional spotlight behind Morris One is Johnny Brownlow of Euclid, Ohio, who entered PC as a freshman last fall. As a result of his play as a high schooler last year, Brownlow has just been rated 13th in rankings of the National Juniors. The other star prospect is Dick Macatee of Front Royal, Va., a sophomore who entered Presbyterian as a transfer last year and had to remain out of action a year. Prior to going on the ineligibility shelf he placed 15th in rankings of the 1952 National Juniors.

Undefeated Erskine May Have Slight Edge

PC plays host to Erskine tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Leroy Springs Gymnasium. The Flying Fleet has a record of eight wins and no losses, and are sporting a 99.9 scoring average. This is the highest average of any team in the United States. The Fleet is also the only undefeated basketball team in South Carolina.

High point man for Erskine is Captain and forward Julian Robinson. Robinson has a 21.4 average. He is closely followed 20.3 average. The other three by Randy Whaley who has a regulars are only one point away from each other in total point reduction.

Leading the Blue Hose, who are second in the state with a 6-2 record, are Dave Thompson, high scoring PC All-State forward, who has just recently begun to hit his stride as a scorer. Rounding out the starters for PC will be Bob Burgess, Bill Toole, and "Bo" Beaumont

College Activities Curtailed for Exams

According to established practice, all athletic activities will come to a standstill during the examination period. Practice sessions will be held to a minimum in order to give the team members more time to prepare for exams.

Blue Hose Clip Elon, 82 to 61

Rebounding from a one-point defeat two nights before, Presbyterian came back to trim Elon's North State Conference five 82-61, on January 7.

The game was a rather rough affair, with 56 personal fouls being called. PC capitalized on 30 Elon fouls to score 32 points from the foul line.

After the Hose took an early lead, Elon rallied to be down only 21-19 at the end of the first quarter. With seven minutes to go before the half, Elon tied the score at 31-31. But Ron Ragan and Bob Burgess bonced PC back into the lead 39-32, and the Hose were never again threatened.

Ragan, who led PC with 20 points, and Bob Burgess who was second with 15, were the power men for the Blues.

Maddox and Gauldin paced Elon for the night with 14 and 11 points respectively.

Jacobs Trophies Awarded

Last night South Carolina sports enthusiasts assembled in Clinton at Judd Dining Hall on the PC campus for the annual presentation of the Jacobs Blocking Trophies.

A large crowd of sportsmen attended the function. Among them were many sports writers, coaches, and athletes of various teams over the state; and as special guests, the 1953 All-South Carolina football team.

Trophies were awarded to the best blockers in South Carolina, and in the Atlantic Coast, Southern, and Southeastern Conferences. It was a double winner for University of South Carolina fullback Bill Wohrman. Wohrman was voted the best blocker for 1953 for the Conference as well as for the state. Only once ing of these trophies has there been in the history of the given a double winner, and that was Dick Hendley of Clemson in 1950.

Crawford Mims, All American guard from the University of Mississippd, received the Southwestern Conference award, and fullback Tommy Allman from the University of West Virginia received the Southern Conference Trophy.

Three Clinton civic clubs, The Exchange, Kiwanis, and Lions, coperated with brothers William and Hugh Jacobs in sponsoring the banquet. The two Jacobs' brothers, co-owners of a Clinton printing concern, present the trophies each year as a memorial to their father, Dr. William P. Jacobs II. Dr. Jacobs, former President of PC, industrialist, publisher, and sportsman, conceived and carried out the idea in 1928 of honoring football's "forgotten man," the blocker.

McMillian Seeks Books for Athletes

Coach Lonnie S. McMillian has asked the six social fraternities on the campus to aid him in building a library of used textbooks for the athletic department.

Coach Mac said that if the fraternity men would donate their old books to the athletic department that they would be checked out to deserving boys that were on athletic scholarships.

To date no plan of organized cooperation has ben formulated.

DR. CARTER

Know Your Faculty

Dr. Kenneth Nolan Carter, Professor of Chemistry, is the Faculty Personality for the week of February 12.

A native of Due West, S. C., Dr. Carter spent his early life in that city and in 1942 entered Erskine College. Erskine is located in Due West. Carter's college career was halted in 1944 by the armed forces when he went into the Air Force, serving until the end of the war in 1945. Dr. Carter then returned to Erskine and in 1947 received his Bachelor of Arts Degree. Upon receiving this degree he immediately enrolled in Vanderbilt University. In 1949 he had completed work for the Master of Science Degree. Carter continued work at Vanderbilt and in 1951 received the PH.D. in the field of Chemistry.

It was also in 1951 that Carter became a member of the PC Faculty.

And ever since that time he has been in charge of all Chemistry classes, as well as having been very active in the activities of the various science clubs.

During his free time—he has very little of it—Dr. Carter engages in chemical research. His main hobby is the study of astronomy. He's built a very fine telescope and on clear evenings enojys studying the stars. This hobby is one that he picked up from Dr. Alexander Stump a few years back; now he (Dr. Carter) has become extremely interested in it and spends as much of his time as it is possible for him to spend with it.

Enrollment Stands At 466 for Semester

A total of 466 students are enrolled at Presbyterian college for the second semester of the 1953-54 session, Registrar G. Edward Campbell announced yesterday.

This figure represents a slight decline from the peak of 488 who registered at the start of the first semester but it is higher than the 462 students who enrolled for the second semester last year.

Classwork for the new semester started on January 28. The regular schedule will continue until April 15, when Easter holidays begin, and the six-day spring vacation will extend through April 21.

Final examinations, closing the semester and the academic year, will be held May 21-28, and the annual commencement exercises are set for May 30-31.

Choir Sings In Charleston Church

There are vacancies in every section of the choir. Ed Stultz and Fred Parker have become candidates for the touring choir

The choir journeyed to Spartanburg Wednesday night to hear the famous St. Olaf Choir of Minnesota, conducted by Olaf Christianson.

Kappa Alpha Elects 1954-5 Officers

Jim Lever of York was elected number two, and Eddie Kay from Greenwood was elected to the number three position.

A standing ovation was rendered Core, Bobby Guy (retiring number two), and Bill Shillinglaw (retiring number three) by all the brothers immediately following the elections.

Thoughts And Meditations

"In that hour he cured many of diseases and plagues and evil spirits, and on many that were blind he bestowed sight." (Luke 7:21)

Each of us at one time or another have known a person who has suffered from an unexpected accident or long illness. A person who has suffered from such an experience sometimes feels useless. Milton in his blindness was such a person, for in it he discovered that "they also serve who only stand and wait". This is not an easy lesson to learn, John the Baptist discovered this while he waited in prison, because of his fearlessness in condemning Herod Antipas for his loose living.

Few of us have ever been in prison, but many of us have built prison houses for our souls. In the prison houses that we have built for our souls we, too, find discouragement. As John the Baptist wondered, we also wonder if Jesus is the answer to our needs, and that of the world. Unfortunately we stop at this point, for we have made a great problem out of a simple thing. I CHALLENGE YOU to read what He said, look at what He did, and learn what He did for you. Somehow you will know (by the power of His Spirit) that nothing can separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus.

Prince Resigns As Dean of Students

Prince did not disclose his future plans, but he has been considering a change of climate for reasons of health.

Prince came to the college in 1940 as a traveling representative in the student recruitment program, and was later made dean of students. In addition to these duties, he taught several courses in economics.

Prince also has been active in local religious and civic activities. He is an elder in the First Presbyterian church and is in demand as a speaker in pulpits in this and in neighboring states.

President Brown announced that arrangements had been made for Professors Leon Hall and John Glover to assume charge of the two economics courses being taught by Prince this semester.

PC Invited To Ft. Jackson

Erskine has lost only to Belmont Abbey this season. Belmont Abbey has also been invited to the Tournament. These four college teams represent the college half of the Tournament bracket.

MENDENTORIAL

I'd like a word

Many new students on campus are going to find that some of the people, some of the ideas, some of the circumstances, some of the regulations at PC are rather vexed or else completely different from whatever it is they have heretofor encountered otherwise and elsewhere.

Some of these new people will learn that it's touch and go insofar as their academic existence is concerned. Others will be delighted to find that they will fare much better than they had previously expected to do. And still others will be greatly distressed because passing at PC is not as easy as they thought it would be.

Maybe somebody graduated from high school last summer and was out last semester for reasons of his own. Or suppose one is simply a transfer student from a larger school. Could be that some fellow just shed a uniform. No matter what the situation, though, most of the new students are probably realizing even now that things aren't what they used to be.

One should perhaps keep in mind that there is such a thing as a ::radical" independence of character; one should recognize also the misfortune of extreme gullibility. Indifference is not uncommon anywhere, nor is the allowance of one's self to be easily carried away with compassion a foreign matter.

The spirit of Presbyterian College is embodied in 488 different lights through each of the 488 separate minds and hearts residing here. There is of course, no true definition for such an abstract expression as "the PC spirit." The nearest descriptive adjective one could use would be either "good" or "bad."

There HAVE been cases, though, whe nthe intelligentsia and the uneduated, the radical and the conservative, and the boy and the man have lived side by side in a sense of peace and harmony—the peace of unselfishness and the harmony of understanding.

But not everybody is dirty, or all bad, or completely stupid and ignorant.

Some people are none—most people are all—of these things.

So a happy medium to us all.

A Letter

Dear Jim,

You who know Old Toole as an exemplar of the callous practical man will perhaps find it difficult to believe that there is—or rather was—o modicum of the romantic in his nature. Without further introduction I will plunge into the story which you are so eagerly awaiting. Can it be possible (I hear you saying to yourself) that the calm level-headed Toole I know could have been engaged in an adventure of high romance. No! (You are coming through well tonight.) He is joshing us, you say. But I say read further.

Once upon a silent night in September while I was perusing through a quaint volume of "The Practical Embalmer's Guide," I heard a strange ringing noise. Displaying that quality of quick thinking for which I have always been noted, I surmised that it was the telephone. My conjecture was correct. A seductive female voice asked for Bill. She had the sort of voice you would like to go to bed with every night. Unfortunately, I was not the Bill she had in mind. However, the coincidence was striking; and I, then believing that sometimes design is laid within the loom of coincidence, engaged her in conversation. You, knowing the conservative conduct of Toole, will find this surprising; but if you had heard this voice you would understand. These conversations became a nightly occurrence. We grew quite intimate, she discussing feminine fashions, sex, etc. and I discoursing on anicent or modern methods of burial depending upon my mood. At times she was quite suggestive, but I was never disconcerted. At such times I would just scratch my cigarette and light a nose talking all the while in the same cool tone.

After a couple of conversations I became suspicious. "She had given me her name and had said that she was five and a half feet tall and weighed about 126 pounds. The about bothered me, so I did some checking. I found that there was a girl by that name who was—my informant said—a little doll and who was given to the strange practice of stringing young lads along until they became too bothersome. He had a very harsh word for it. I, chuckling to myself, decided to teach the young wench a lesson. After playing the star-crossed lover for two weeks, I decided to move in for the kill. I was becoming a bit bored; besides she wouldn't date me. (She said she was engaged and was trying to let the poor chap down gradually.) I wrote the following letter and asked the Digger, one of my colleagues here, to read it when she called. Then I went out to supper.

—My dear Jane,

This perhaps will seem to you a strange way to end a strange affair, but I think it on the whole the wisest. Here at the outset allow me to say that this is in no sense intended to convey offense to you. I think it should appeal to your sense of humor and your sense of the ironic— if you have any of the last mentioned. And I'm sure you must. If you have followed my reader thus far, I want to assure you that he is merely a disinterested spectator of this little game of ours which is so rapidly drawing to a close. He will be in no way offended if you wish to give vent to your feelings by carefully replacing your receiver on the hook without so much as a (make sound of kiss here, Digger) or even a good-bye.

But now to the crux of the matter. I took the liberty of making inquiries concerning you immediately after your second call. I discovered wo important if not surprising things: (1) and I quote, "You rae a little doll." (2) and here I insert my own euphemism, you have a strange hobby. I think it unnecessary forme to go into details on the latter statement. In the event you found me a surprisingly good actor I will say for your elucidation that in spite of my foreknowledge I found the shackles of my reason weakened at times. Like Odysseus I almost succumbed to a Siren song; and if, unlike him, I had not been favored by fore-knowledge, in all likelihood I would have.

I am not delivering this last farewell myself because I did not wish to subject myself to invective in case I had misjudged your "type responses" completely. A coward, you say! Perhaps! But I aols thought its form of farewell was a bit more dramatic and would accordingly hold more appeal for the incipient young actress. Before I close I will say that I deplore your taste in hobbies. If your various vicarious affairs are carried on for the purpose of blighting the demon Lust, I can, tognue-in-cheek, applaud your motives. If on the other hand your purpose is merely to destroy the small amount of the romantic left in middle-20th century man, I cannot afford you the insignificant solace of my approval.

Upon my return from supper convinced that the whole affair was in the past, I was surprised to receive a reproachful look from the Digger who had gleefully taken part in the denoument. "You should be ashamed of yourself," he said. "She was all shook up." It did not take me long to learn that the Digger had changed sides. I told you that voice was something. He also said that she was coming over to see me. This bothered me. I was not in the mood to face an irate female. I took a dram of Tirtuat which is a mineral liquid leached from the stone Tirtuat. It is produced from the original mine developed by the late E. W. Dedmond. Since it contains ferric iron, ferrous iron, and alminum among other things, I figured it would help to stiffen up the old insides. It helped some, but not enough. I was considering going down to the local bar when she called again. I was surprised to find her most contrite. She acknowledged the truth of everything I had written and asked me if I would let her come by and apologize in person. Envisioning this Monroe-like thing sobbing on my shoulder, I said condescendingly that she could come. The Digger, who had been listening in on the extension, was most excited. I informed him that soon after her arrival I expected him to find some graceful excuse for leaving us as we would probably want to be alone. He did not seem inclined to comply, even when I threatened him with an early demise. (Business was bad at that time anyway.)

When she arrived, I became less excited. She was only a bit shorter than I (about your height, Jim), and she outweighed me by a hundred to two and and fifty pounds—a conservative estimate. After we squeezed her in the door we went into the office to chat. The Digger found a graceful excuse and departed saying, "I know you two want to be alone." A few seconds later he called me on the extension to tell me how much he admired my taste in women. I thanked him and told him to be sure and carry an umbrella the next day in case it rained as I did not want him to catch a cold. We chatted for about an hour. She told me that her nickname was Coach. (She had been a phys ed major in college.)

With no intention of picking on any one person, or any one group, should like to talk a bit about one of the phases of sports that's cking in our basketball games.

I mean CHEERLEADING.

PC has played Newberry and Furman away from home, and both these opponents have been represented by a group of cheerleads. Whn we played Erskine over here, the Fleet brought them about ven cheerleaders, plus practically the entire student body.

Sure, I know that PC has always been able to generate enough, supposedly enough, spirit at basketball games; but if the spirit d the cheers could be controlled by one or more cheerleaders, we uld have much more noise at the right times, and still excell our pponents in spirit. Coach Sloan and the team spend endless hours pratice and consequently I think that we could add a little better pport with cheerleaders. A group or a mob can injure the chances the team sometimes—more than it can help. Whoever is in charge this function, how about some action before PC plays in the Little ur Tournaments?

Last spring and throughout the fall and winter months the PC nnis team has been working very hard in preparing for a series rough matches coming up during the forthcoming season.

One person in particular has proved his ability by constant spirit d hustle, and also with a genuine love for the game. I mean War- n Berry from College Park, Georgia. Warren had never played nnis before coming to PC, and he participated in only two or three urnaments during the past summer. Last season Warren proved s worh by winning almost every match as a "B" team member. his year he will probably play in the number six position. In many stances this position is more important than number one because e team must have a great amount of deph in order to win the ally tough matches. If you want to watch a fellow who really has lot of spirit and a genuine will to win, watch Warren. I predict e will surprise some of those major net teams that PC plays. What o you say, Coach Leighton?

Congratulations to the basketball team on a successful trip to harleston. They soundly whipped both the College of Charleston nd The Citadel. Bob Burgess and Bruce Thompson did a terrific ob in keeping the Blue Hose in the win column while away from ome.

Intramural sports have been progressing very nicely. Football, olleyball, and now basketball, have added very much to the student ife on our campus. Once again, thank-yous are in order to John esperman and his staff for a job well done.

A total of 1400 fans, the largest crowd ever to pack Leroy Springs gymnasium, saw the Flying Fleet register its 11th straight win of the 1953-54 season.

Presbyterian, however, set the pace in field goals with 35 to Erskine's 30. PC's freshman forward, Ron Ragan, was the individual high scorer for the night with 27 points.

Center Randy Whaley led Erskine with 24 points, followed by Julian Robinson with 20 points. Dave Thompson of Presbyterian, also scored 20 points.

At the end of the third period PC led by 20 points.

Forward Tom Mixon of Mercer, was high scorer with 29 points; he was followed by Dave Thompson with 25 points, and Bob Burgess with 24.

Thompson Still High At Top For Basketball Honors

Presbyterian Forward Dave Thompson will attempt to nail down his bid for All-State basketball honors as the Blue Stockings move into the final one-third of their cage schedule against Mercer there tonight.

Wofford will entertain PC on Saturday night and the Hosemen are set to return to home court next Wednesday against Newberry.

Thompson — a relaxed, sure-eyed sophomore from Frankfort, Ind. — is averaging 22.5 points-per-game in the 16-game pace to date. His total for the distance stands at a robust 360 points collected via 126 field goals and 108 free points from the charity circle.

Forward Dave Thompson, who made third team All-State last season, stands out today as Presbyterian's leading producer despite his comparatively small size of 6 feet even. He is the big gun in the Blue Stocking attack points-per-night.

Those 82.6 points also have the PC quintet sporting a record of 12 wins against only four losses so far this season. The combined opposition has managed to average only 66.6 points, so the point spread stands at a respectable 16 points.

Individual records show PC's other leading point-makers also keeping up their pace, a few steps behind Thompson. Forward Ron Ragan continues to average 15 points each contest with his total 243 points. Forward Bob Burgess has climbed to a 12-point average with 193 points and Center Bruce Thompson maintains his 11-point average with 177 points.

Mercer is expected to be tougher on its home court in Macon than when the Bears fell before Presbyterian, 94-80, here on January 25.

The Blue Stockings currently ride a four-game winning streak, having whipped Detroit Institute, College of Charleston, and The Citadel in a flurry of activity last week. They trounced Wofford, 91-73, on January 30 to start the present streak.

Continuously we and our consultants have analyzed, experimented with and smoked all kinds of tobaccos . . . especially Southern Bright, Burley, Maryland and Turkish cigarette tobaccos.

Our own cigarettes and competitive brands have been submitted to the most exacting scientific scrutiny including thousands of analyses of millions of pounds of tobaccos.

From all these thousands of analyses, and other findings reported in the leading technical journals, our Research Department has found no reason to believe that the isolation and elimination of any element native to cigarette tobaccos today would improve smoking.

For four years we have maintained in the smoker's interest an intensified larger scale diversified research program. A half-million dollar 30-ton machine, the world's most powerful source of high voltage electronic designed solely for our use has tested tens of thousands of cigarettes. This program has already given to us direct and significant information of benefit to the smoking public.

Our consultants include Arthur D. Little Inc. of Cambridge, Massachusetts, "one of the largest and most reputable industrial research organizations in the country" (From Business Week Magazine) and eminent scientists from leading universities.

Today the public can confidently choose from a variety of brands — by far the best cigarettes ever made by the tobacco industry.

Religious Emphasis Week Opens Tuesday

Full Program of Activity Planned Through Next Friday

Religious Emphasis Week, sponsored by the Student Christian Association, will begin officially on Tuesday. All the final preparations have been formulated by the SCA and the committee of fifty, and a full schedule has been prepared.

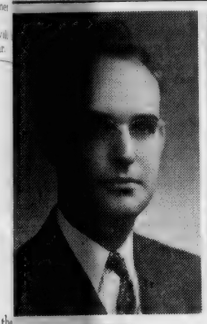
Monday night will be the banquet of the committee of fifty, with the guest speakers. This will provide for a "get acquainted" period at which the speakers will be formally introduced.

Tuesday morning will start things moving into high gear with the different speakers holding discussion groups in the classrooms.

At Chapel on Tuesday morning at 10:35, the Rev. James Davison Philips will deliver the first in his series of messages. He plans a series of talks which cover the basic elements of Christian faith such as commitment, service, loyalty, and prayer.

There will be chapel services every morning of the week. On Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings at 7 o'clock, services will be held again with Philips bringing the message.

All the guest speakers will be available for private consultation. A morning prayer service will be continued throughout RE Week at 6:45 in the Radio Forum Room for the benefit of the students.



Tuesday and Thursday nights have been set aside for dormitory discussion groups to meet at 9:45 P.M. Outside speakers have been obtained for most of the groups.

Wednesday night has been set aside as fraternity night with meetings to take place immediately after the evening worship service. Non-fraternity men are invited to attend the different discussions in the fraternity rooms.

The class schedule for the week:
8:55 class will meet at 8:55.
9:50 class will meet at 9:45.
Chapel will meet at 10:35.
11:20 class will meet at 11:30.
12:15 class will meet at 12:20.
2:00 class will meet at 2:00.

The speakers for the fraternities are: Alpha Sigma Phi—Mr. Anderson; Kappa Alpha—Mr. Wardlaw; Pi Kappa Alpha—Mr. McCaskill; Pi Kappa Phi—Mr. Kryder; Sigma Nu—Colonel Smith; Theta Chi—Mr. Hall.

Again this year all fraternity attendance will be checked at the night services and a plaque and trophy will be presented to the fraternity with the highest percentage attending. The only valid excuse will be official school business. Sickness and the like will not be excused.

REW Theme . . . 'Road to Life'

The students of Presbyterian College are facing the most important week of their school year and possibly college career—Religious Emphasis Week. Are we going to let this week slip by in the day by day routine we have become accustomed to for the past six months? Or are we going to come face to face with the situation of our world, country, state, and campus and realize more than ever we must put an emphasis on Christianity to gain a full, well-rounded, and meaningful Christian life.

This is a serious time which we, the leaders of tomorrow, are facing today. Shall we leave our campus this year with a solid Christian foundation to build our future tomorrow? If not, it is time to re-evaluate ourselves. There is no better time to chart our course toward Christ and eternal life than during Religious Emphasis Week.

Religious Emphasis Week is a time to put everything aside except Christ. "Count our many blessings!" How much time, thought, prayer, and thanksgiving have we given to our Lord in return for these blessings? We cannot even pretend to count our blessings, but we can start now and give a little more time to Christ.

No one is expected to "cram" all his religion into four days. That is not the purpose of Religious Emphasis Week. But, as you know, we all have a tendency to go astray, and in order to find our way back to Christ and a creative road to life, it takes a little emphasizing of our Christianity. And when Religious Emphasis Week ends, that doesn't mean we have finished our Christian obligation. It means we have just begun to promote anew the Christian ideals that Presbyterian College is founded on.

For many of us this is our last year at Presbyterian College. There are many of us who have not had a true Christian experience. Religious Emphasis Week is our chance to really find Christ and His full meaning on the campus. Everyone must enter into this week with an open heart—Christ only asks us to give him a chance to come into our lives.

We talk of and see "P.C. spirit" at the football, basketball, and tennis games, but where is our spirit during the religious activities? Let us all work hand in hand in Christian fellow in our prayers to have a successful Relig phasis Week that will be full of rich, experiences for every one of us.

Sincerely yours in Christian Fell

Ghost from Past . . TB Hits Campus

By Jack Edmunds

I was sacked in down at Mrs. Henry's the other night dreaming sweet dreams of that little doll I'm having down for the Military Ball when the sudden noise of someone stumbling over to my bed woke me up. Just then the lights came on and I muttered a few badly chosen words, thinking it was probably Hamilton and Newsome, who frequently spend the night with me when they don't feel well enough to walk up the plaza to A section. As I rubbed the slumber dust out of my eyes, I saw standing before me none other than my old friend and happy companion of many jolly times, TRUE BLUE, the real spirit of P.C. past.

I guess the last time I had seen TB had been in my freshman year. He had been pretty active in campus affairs back in those days but he had been slowly fading from the P.C. picture. Now, here he was standing before me like one returned from the grave. He had on a red cotton nightshirt down to his knees with "ALL THE WAY BIG BLUE" stenciled across the front, and a pair of bright blue socks extending from the top of his muddy brogans to the tip of his nightshirt. He had the stub of an old black cigar in his mouth (probably left from a 1952 fraternity smoker), and perched on the top of his head sat an old bronze derby. In a hoarse voice he said to me,

"Apple Jack, how you doing, boy?"

"TB, you beautiful little garnet ghost. Welcome home. Where have you been? What have you been up to? And what in the devil are you doing back on the campus? It's not even football season."

"Jack, I just came in on the Comet. They slowed up to pick up the sugar reports and I jumped out of the club car window. I'M GOING TO TRY TO REJUVENATE THE CAMPUS. How about taking me down to the station to get my grip and I'll tell you all about it."

So I hopped out of the sack, pulled on my oxford grey flannels, and we descended the stairs. True stumbled several times and could hardly keep his balance. I guess he must have been just too overjoyed at the idea of being home. On the other hand, maybe that wasn't hair tonic that I smelled. We hopped into my blue jitney, cranked up, and tooled down to the station. He told me how he had been kicking around the country trying to get a line on some of the "old school".

We picked up his grip which was an old beat up brown bag with a Blue Hose sticker on it, and started to return to school.

"Jack"

"Yeah True"

"Uh . . . . . I was wondering about something"

"Yeah"

"Is Charlie's still open for business?"

"Yep"

"Figured he was. Uh . . . . . do you reckon we might buzz by there one time to chat awhile and tease our tonsils.

"T, old boy, I thought you had quit those evil habits."

"You must be kidding. I'm still breathing aren't I?"

"That's for sure. I can tell it way over here. Anyway I've got to get some sack; classes tomorrow you know."

"I can hardly remember those unpleasant activities. All I can remember are the activities after classes."

We got back to the room and T began unpacking his grip. It was the usual thing he always carried with him: an old ragged P.C. banner, one change of jockey shorts, a toothbrush, razor, and the stub of an old pencil.

"What are you going to do with that pencil?" I asked him.

"Write of course. What else? By the way good buddy Jack, do you know this Lord fellow very well?"

"We speak"

"Reckon he would let me write a column every now and then in the PC paper?"

"I reckon".

"Jack, you don"t suppose Mrs. Henry will mind if I sack out here do you?"

"You reckon any of the students will mind if I poke around in their business a little bit?"

"Naw."

"You think the faculty will mind me poking a little fun at them every now and then?"

"I hope not. If they do I guess you and I both will have to pull up stakes and leave."

As we jumped in bed, I asked T, "Just how do you plan on getting back in circulation?"

"Oh, I dunno. I guess I'll start by taking in this Little Four Tournament this week-end. I figure the Hosemen can make a clean sweep this year; and by golly, the whole student body ought to be in Spartanburg to see them do it. I'm gonna take the name of anyone who isn't there and they won't be invited to my welcome home party."

"True, you know how much I'd like to be there but the Canary Club has a tour to the low country this week-end."

"Well, I'll consider excusing you this time. Jerome has told me about those low country women. You lads ought to do a job."

"T, YOU LADS better do the job, and rock that Wofford gym, cheering for the best basketball team in the state, bar none.

"Well, goodnight T."

"Goodnight Apple."

"Say, Apple?"

"Yeah."

"Got a cig?"

"Don't smoke."

"Good gosh. Won't take me by Charlie's. Don't smoke. I think I'll go back to looking for the 'old school'. Shades of Dondero. I can see that I've really got a job of rejuvenating to do."

DILBERT'S DIRT

By DILBERT LAMPOON

It seems as though the STOCKING is under new management and some of you Joe Collegians might be worrying about the local gossip and scandals. Put your fears away! Yours truly, Dilbert, has just arrived by way of the latest cattle boat to scoop all the local dirt. I reported to the STOCKING office, received my shovel and bucket, and I'm ready to do a job.

I suppose some of you bad dads have noticed the new poodle on the campus. Well, it isn't. Its only Dot Crawford with a new hairdo. You may have also noticed the new Beaver Patrol on the south-east side of the campus. Again a mistake —only the KA's grooming for the Old South Ball.

A little crocodoll who barmaids for Louie's Liquid Lunch tells me that she has the screamings for one of the many lovers on this fair campus. I hate to mention any names, but his initials are Yates Smith. Speaking of dolls, it seems that Wade Avant and Dave Thompson spent a lovely Saturday night with a pair. Did you get tired of playing cards?

The last few days have been complete chaos around the gym. I never knew PC had so many sports enthusiasts. For some strange reason everyone likes to congregate around a certain window in the gym. The southern exposure must be good there.

What's that Chi O's name? Now that the mating season is nearing, Bill (I've got the biggest aerial in town) Bradley is really going ape around the co-ed cuties.

The Laurens Dorm Beauty Shop has been going full blast lately. For proof, check the crazy pompadours that Lee Robinson and Bill Newell are sporting. They get a bucket of lard a week from Charlotte.

Well, my bucket is full of dirt, so I will close for now, but I will see you next week.

Book Review

Taylor's 'Sober Faith' Analyzes AA Problem

With complete honesty and ability to see the heart of the matter, G. Aiken Taylor has thrown open a subject of vital importance to those who have been, or may be, touched by the truly great work of Alcoholics Anonymous. As a minister who admits that the Christian Church often fails in its attempt to help alcoholics, the author asks the direct question: "Has AA found something in religion no one suspected was there?" He further discusses the means by which AA has taken the so-called outcasts and proved to them the availability of spiritual power.

In this book, one will find case histories of alcoholics, their actions, their problems, and their final helplessness. The author has worked with AA groups and describes in detail their great anonymous fellowship. He explains the twelve steps upon which their entire program is based, and points out the remarkable kinship between these steps and Christianity.

From a reading of these pages, ministers, teachers, social workers, students, as well as alcoholics, their families and their friends will better understand this great problem that has affeced their life.

G. Aiken Taylor, who is the son of Mrs. George Taylor, our Bursar, graduated from [illegible] in 1940 and attended Columbia Theological Seminary and received his Ph.D. from Duke University. As a Captain in World War II, he served as Heavy Weapons Commander in the 142 Infantry. After the War he entered the ministry, and since then has been in the pastorate.

Wonta Drop A Course?

Students who wish to withdraw from a course may do so at any time during the semester and are urged to get a drop slip from the Registrar's office in order to withdraw from any course.

This slip has to be completed by the student, signed by the professor and Dean Bellingrath, and returned to the Registrar. The grade on courses dropped during the semester will be "WP" or "WF" depending on whether the student is passing or failing at the time the course is dropped.

If a student cuts out of a course, he will be given automatically a failing grade of "E" on such a course; therefore, each student is URGED to withdraw officially from courses in order to keep his record from showing a failing grade in courses that were actually dropped and never completed.

Students Assist Sunday Worship

Last Sunday night the First Presbyterian Church resumed the evening worship service which had been discontinued. Prior to the beginning of this service, the Sunday meeting of the Westminster Fellowship was held.

The evening service is held at 7:30 p. m. The Westminster Fellowship meets at 7:00 p. m., and is entertained by the Women of the Church after the evening service.

Thompson Named All-South Carolina

Sixth Straight For Hosemen

PC Sophomore Star Averages 22.5 Points

Forward Dave Thompson, PC basketball star, has been named to the Associated Press' 1954 All-South Carolina basketball team, the Blue Stocking learned today.

Thompson thus continues along the glory trail of Hose basketball which has seen the college place a man on the All-State team every year since 1949.

The young sophomore from Frankfort, Ind., has been the leading gun in a PC attack which has averaged 83.9 points in 21 regular season games. He personally has accounted for around 475 points to average 22.5 per contest.

As a freshman playing varsity ball for the first time last season, Thompson scored 518—a 21.7 average—and was named to the third team All-State.

He is recognized for his all-round basketball talent, but the most outstanding of these is a deadly eye for the basket which makes him a consistently high scorer although a comparatively short six feet in height.

The string of six straight All-South Carolina cagers for PC began in 1949. Forward Dwight Groninger, who graduated in 1952, made it that year as a freshman and went on to become the only player in the state ever to make the mythical honor team all four years.

DAVE THOMPSON

Forward Paul Nye, Class of 1953, was chosen last season. And now Thompson continues the tradition a sixth year.

PC's chances are considered good for placing this year with three returning lettermen: Team captain, William Neville; Co-captain Horace Walpole, and Arthur Pue. Also experienced men like John McLean and Chris Patte will add their services. Three new men who are Phillip Canella, Charles Kinsey and Franklin Sapp, will add tremendously to the team strength.

Opening Action Starts at 7 P.M.

The PC game is scheduled to start at 7:00 p m., after which Erskine will meet Newberry in the second game.

The Blue Stocking cagers are seeded second in this tournament, behind top-seeded Erskine. Wofford is ranked next and then Newberry brings up the rear. Erskine is undefeated in the Little Four, while Presbyterian's only two losses of this conference play were eight-point decisions by the high-flying Fleet.

According to the pre-tournament estimates of the situation, the championship battle set for 9 p. m. Saturday night, should find PC and Erskine staging a point-happy battle for victory. Each has scored two decisive wins apiece over the other two entries.

Presbyterian dribbles into the tournament with more Little Four championships than any other team. The Blue Stockings won in 1951 and 1952, and went to the finals last year in an effort to retire the big trophy to the PC campus.

Erskine won the first of meets, which was held in 1950, and Wofford won in 1953. All tournaments have been held in Spartanburg

Forwards — Dave Thompson and Ron Ragan.

Cener—Bob Burgess.

Guards—Captain Clyde Beaumon tand Bill Toole.

Bradley Captains Net Team

He was the unanimous choice of the squad.

Bradley, in stepping into the leadership, will head what is expected to be one of PC's best net teams in history. An Coach Jim Leighton has been lining up what is perhaps its toughest schedule

Bradley is set to play the number five position in the 1954 campaign, and Coach Leighton notes that he is a capable college player greatly improved over last season He teams with Warren Berry to form the number three doubles combination.

Hi Meet Finals Set for Weekend

Final action in the Class B brackets of the upper-South Carolina High School Basketball Tournament will be held in Leroy Springs gymnasium tonight. Class A finals are set for Saturday night.

The Class B championship girls game will start at 8 p. m., the boys title match at 9 p. m. In the Sautrday night championships, the Class A girls will play a 8 p. m. and the boys at 9 p. m.

More than 300 young prep school athletes from seven upper-state districts have been participating in this eliminaion meet since Tuesday for the right to go to the sae championship ournament in Columbia next week.

Intramural Sports Roundup

In the recent intramural sport of volley ball Kappa Alpha came out in first place, Pi Kappa Alpha second, and Sigma Nu third.

George Everett and Ted Howie were outstanding for the champions.

Basketball

The first games in intramural basketball were played on Monday, February 15, with the Pi Ka's edging out KA in the last seconds to take the game, 51-50.

Theta Chi won its fifteenth straight game in the past two years by defeating the Ministerial Club in the nightcaps. A rejuvenated Sigma Nu team defeated Pi Kappa Phi in its first outing, and the PiKa's took a close decesion from the Ministerial Club Wednesday. Theta Chi earlier had defeated KA, 46-44.

Thursday of last week Sigma Nu defeated the Ministerial Club for its second straight this year, and in the last game of that week, Alpha Sigma Phi won over Pi Kappa Phi, 39-36.

The only games played this week found KA picking up its first win of the season with a 60-24 victory over the Alpha Sigma Phi and PiKa winning over Pi Kappa Phi.

There will be no more intramural basketball until next Monday due to the upper-State Tournament which is being held in Leroy Springs Gymnasium. Shortly after basketball is over on March 17, softball will begin.

Cagers Bucket Record Year

Presbyterian College will send its highest scoring team in history, sporting a 15-6 won-loss record, into the Little Four tournament at Spartanburg tonight.

Even so, the Blue Stockings will be running in a darkhorse role behind the heavily favored Erskine team.

When Presbyterian cagers closed their regular season play last night, they had racked up 1,761 points in 21 games for a hefty average of 83.9 points-per-game. Opponents over this stretch have managed to bucket a combined total of 1,414 points for a 67.3 average. That's a point spread of 16.6 points.

The Hosemen ended the regular season by losing to Erskine for the second time this year, but each defeat has been by an eight-point margin. So PC fans figure they have a possibility of riding that darkhorse right in to victory when the Little Four trophy is at stake this weekend.

Forward Dave Thompson is the PC pace-setter, and when the 21-game figures are tallied, this sharp-eyed sophomore comes forth with an average of 22.5 points-per-game on the basis of nearly 500 points scored.

A review of other Blue Stocking assets during the regular campaign would include: Toole and Guards Clyde Beaumont and Charles Sloan for their defensive work and ball-carrying; Ragan and Burgess for their rebound work against the backboards; and Toole again for his role as team sparkplug.

Presbyterian's regular-season basketball record:

Games won—Clemson (92-61); Catawba (55-44, 89-53); High Point (95-86); Elon (82-63, 82-61); Newberry (98-50, 103-69); Mercer (94-80); Wofford (91-73, 99-69); Detroit Institute (80-62); College of Charleston (106-50); Citadel (75-46, 106-43).

Large Indoor Meet Tomorrow Sets Track Show on the Road

Five men will open the sea- n for the PC track team tomor- ow in the non-conference divis- n of the Atlantic Coast confer- ce indoor track meet at Chap- Hill, N. C.

Coach Lonnis S. McMillian as had the track team out early n preparation for this opening door meet, in which some of he toughest teams in the nation ill compete. Those whom Mc- illian has selected are Bobby ass and Delane Johnson in the 0-yard dash; and Bobby Falls, immy Hancock and Jimmy Woods in the 70-yard hurdles.

With the loss of Tommy Jor- an and E. M. Watt last year, he coaching staff is depending on their returning lettermen and freshmen to carry more of the load.

Returning letterman Bobby Vass is expected to break the broad jump record officially this year, and his teammate, John Fesperman will be the strongest contender for the 2-mile run in the state.

The weight team will also be stronger with Bill Gray adding his powerful form to the team. He was fourth in the javelin for the record for the high and low hurdles in South Carolina.

These, plus other standouts like Freeman, 440-yard runner J. T. McQueen, half-mile runner and high jump; and Tyler, 440-yard runner make PC a strong contender in or out of the state.

Distance — John Fesperman, Bob Dowdle, A. C. Reed, and Marcus Prince

Middle Distance—Curtis Freeman, J. T. McQueen, Herbert Laws and Hardy Tyler.

Enrollment High in Survey

Presbyterian's second semester enrollment, near a record peak, has been surpassed by registration figures only twice before in the past nine years.

A total of 467 students enrolled at PC for the second semester of the 1953-54 session. Only two other years have bettered this mark. The first was in 1947-48 when 473 students registered, and the second came in 1949-50 when 475 signed up.

1946-47—448	1951-52—396
1947-48—473	1952-53—453

'Chang' Presented In Chapel Wednesday

The English Department's film for next Tuesday night at 8:30 is the 1927 Paramount Pictures production of "Chang". The directors, Meril C. Cooper and Ernist Bschosdack, called their sound film " a melodrama with man, the jungle, and wild animals as its cast." Many of the scenes were introduced for the sake of thrills alone.

Despite this effort to entertain, "Chang" was popular at the time of its release as worthy for the information it contained as for excitement it invoked.

Professor Evans claims it to be one of the best pictures to be shown in this year's series.

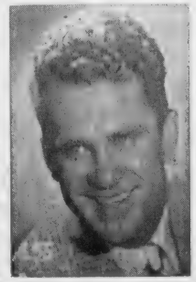
ANN LORAIN

Presbyterian College's 1954 spring hops have their beginning next Friday and Saturday when the annual Military Ball and IFC dances tear the first page off the spring social calendar.

Festivities are scheduled to begin with an ROTC batallion review and retreat parade next Friday afternoon at 4:30. During the ceremony, PC's chapter of Scabbard and Blade will tap selected juniors from the unit.



The highlight of the week-end will be the Military Ball itself, lasting from nine until one. Preceding the intermission, there will be a leadout honoring all cadet officers, members of the military ball committee, and their dates.

Walk Therein . . .

During this week we have been given a new perspective on life and the way to successful and happy living. The Gospel has been presented to us in a simple, yet profound manner. Through the Religious Emphasis Week services we have had a chance to turn aside from the material secular ways of life to a full and rich Christian experience.

We owe a great debt of thanks to Mr. Philips for his inspiring sermons on the great roads of the Christian experience. To Messrs. Kryder and Wardlaw, we are indebted for their timely and thought-provoking classroom addresses. Their guidance and helpfulness has been of inestimable value in setting our minds on the things that really matter in life. We also are grateful to Dr. Price for his part in this week of religious emphasis. To all who in any way contributed to the success of this week we feel a deep sense of appreciation.

Now that the organized services of the week have come to a close, we must not feel that their purpose has been accomplished. It has really only begun. The leaders have given to us the task of our continual spiritual development. With increased zeal we must face the problems of our lives and of the world. It will not be easy to overcome our problems, but with the foundations which have been given to us we can reach on towards our goal.

As one of our speakers said, "We are all students of the school of God. Indeed we have room for promotion but we can never graduate from it. God is with us all our lives." With an ever-present consciousness of God we will be able to walk the road of life.

Albert Schweitzer said, "Nothing of real value in the world is ever accomplished without enthusiasm and self-sacrifice." This is especially true in our spiritual experiences. If we expect this week to realize success, we must apply the lesson which we have learned with enthusiasm in our everyday lives.

With such an attitude, this, one of our most successful religious emphasis weeks, will make of us all better men equipped with a truth of the way of life.

The Honor System

By DR. JOHN McSWEEN

One of the vital and important features of life at Presbyterian College is Student Government under the Honor System.

The catalog of the College, under the head of "Discipline," states: "The aim is to inculcate, by teaching and example rather than by stringent rules and regulations, the principles of courtesy, truthfulness, purity, and reverence for sacred things; not simply to train rightly acting human machines to develop true Christian gentlemen. The students are put upon their honor, and a growing sense of self-respect and Christian manliness is cultivated in this way."

A student at PC is supposed to be a gentleman and is so considered such until he proves the contrary conclusively by his actions. Therefore, the College has comparatively few rules and regulations concerning a man's conduct. The ideal of the administration and faculty is stimulation of the best in a man and not reformation by repression.

The essence of the system is a consciousness on the part of each individual student of the relationship he bears to the larger bodies, viz., the Student Body, and the sensitiveness to the honor and privilege of which that Body is a living part.

While covering the whole range of student conduct at Presbyterian PC, the heart of the Honor System is the protection of the honest students and the Honor of the College on tests and examinations.

To be effective this protecting attitude must grow into a habit and can only have its authority in the attitude of the individual student and of the student body as a whole.

An honor system which needs the proctorship of the student for the authority of the administration to enforce is a farce and unworthy of the name.

Two things which present real difficulties in the development of the Honor System are: First, the prevalent custom in many High Schools and the childish attitude toward cheating which this group to feel that in this way one can outwit the teacher and stand out among his fellows as "Smart". Second: the natural tendance on the part of a student to report a fellow, whatever the individual attitude toward the conduct observed.

The Honor System would lead us to realize that cheating is wrong and that which cannot be replaced or restored. It is theft from students who make great sacrifice to enable us to do honest work ourselves for life. When we cheat our way by the test of college, what have we in the end? A diploma stained with dishonor lay at the feet of those who have sacrificed.

It is theft from ourselves in that we are undermining the character fiber which we will need in the great game of life. One goal of athletics is a developed disgust toward a player or a team that adopts unfair tactics. This fine training for life is counteracted by the wrong attitude developed by taking a dishonest grade.

Strange to say some persist in thinking that cheating is "getting ahead of" the professors. From an impersonal standpoint cheating in the life of a professor that one cheats the hard out of his job without breaking the crust. He is the only one involved in the student's life who is not the loser by cheating.

Finally, the Honor System defends the good name of Alma Mater. The greatness of any college depends to a large extent on the spirit of the Alumni. One cannot love very devotedly an institution where cheating is the accepted order. Pride cannot be based on a rotten superstructure of dishonesty and falsehood.

(This article is re-printed from the PsuC-SaC of 1931, at which time Dr. McSween was President of Presbyterian College.)

And Philosophy Too . . .

TB Gets Nabbed

I was walking up the plaza the other day when I spied TB coming toward me really looking a sorry sight. The little garnet ghost looked fit to be tied, so I figured he was still mad about the officiating last Friday. As he got closer I asked him, "True, what in the world are you so teed off about?"

"Jack, I just don't know what's happening on this campus."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, it all happened like this. I had just finished a quick game of hearts over in Dilbert Lampoon's room with him and Tojo, and was coming over to see you because I heard you were looking for me. I saw a big black Nash down the street and thinking it was Dr. Patte I naturally stuck out my tongue at the car. Well sir, before I could say 'the spider' the auto screeched to a stop and two fellows leaped out and began giving me the third degree."

"What did you do, T?"

"What did I do? What could I do? I quickly pleaded guilty to the charge of not paying my Military Ball assessment, and they finally let me go with a YFTWOK threat."

"A what?"

"You know, a YFTWOK — 'You'll Feel The Wrath of Kelly'."

"Smart guy. Well, what do you know good?"

"Well, Jack, I know that I have really enjoyed this Religious Emphasis Week."

"I'm glad you have, True, but it doesn't seem to have done you much good."

"Jack, you're just like everybody else. You think that if it doesn't show on the surface, this week hasn't done anyone any good. Well, you're wrong. This week might not change anyone overnight, but it will sometimes sow a little seed down in someone's heart. That seed will grow and grow with age and experience and one day, when it can grow no more, it will burst and sprout out, and that's where the change will come. And that person will think back to certain events—maybe Religious Emphasis Week at P. College back in 1954, and he will realize that the seed was first sown there in the chapel in Neville Hall. And Jack, it doesn't matter how long it takes for that seed to burst—if it does burst sooner or later, the way I look at it, that seed wasn't sown in vain."

"Enough of this philosophizing. What did you want to see me about? I'm pretty busy. Gotta go to the library and turn in my column for this week."

"I just wanted to tell you to watch your step this week-end, T. There will be some Westminster Fellowship girls on the campus."

"Okay, True, be good."

TB sends his orchids this week to:

Beaumont, Toole, Ragan, Dave Thompson, Burgess, Bruce Thompson, McQueen, Sloan, Stone, and "Tap". You're still the top basketball team in the state in my record book.

Lampoon's . . .

Dilbert's Dirt

Well, Dirty Dilbert is on the loose again. Since that last issue, much information has come to my little ears and I feel that it should be passed on to you bad dads.

First of all, I would like to inform you that Bob Falls and Jake Privette have reached the peak of success; yes, you guessed it, they are pinned. As a result of this dirty deed, Jake has received many sweet letters, which read as follows:

"My dearest Jake, let's get married."

I've mentioned that the Laurens girls are getting their usual pre-dance workout. I hope Cliff Waddell and Ed Hay don't come to blows over one 'certain little head. After all, Marlene isn't the only girl in the world.

The co-ed of the week is Joan Britton. It seems that the library has always been the home of assorted love affairs. I hope Dennis Ketchem doesn't get left in the stacks playing solitaire.

Next week-end must be a big one for Ted Howie. I understand that he has had his only pair of stove pipes patched up for the hop. Will someone please write to the Salvation Army and beg them to send him another pair of levis. Those old one have had it.

"Cico" Paite was grounded this week-end and could not make the Gleester's annual tour to Never-Never-Land. I guess the Love Counselor felt that those Manning girls were too much for his son. H'mm Boy, did you miss a dan-dan-dandy trip.

My bouquet of spring onions goes this week to Bill Price. It seems that a girl down Atlanta way heard that young William was dating at some of the local colleges. She wrote the following note:

"Dear Bill, this tops it all. You can pick up your jacket (high school hero) any time. Faye."

I believe I have done enough damage to my "cut buddies" for one week so I'll close until next Friday.

From the Bench

By BILL LITTLEJOHN

In two weeks the spring sports will spring into action, beginning with a tennis match with Rollins on March 16th. Among the spring sports we have baseball, track, golf, and tennis.

From the impressive records we have in our fall sports of football and basketball, we will have to work hard to match it in the spring. For such a small college, Presbyterian has one of the finest all-around athletic records in the state. To keep this up the team will need the support of the entire student body in order to be successful in the coming sports.

From mail reports, our tennis team this year should be one of the best in the history of the school. With a well balanced team as we have, we should go places in the tennis world this season. Besides the old team, we have the new faces of Dick Macatee, John Brownlow, and Warren Berry. These men have improved the past semester with practice and should be an asset to the team.

The track team made out with a successful meet of all the major colleges around the country. Even though we competed with some of the toughest teams, Delane Johnson made a noteworthy accomplishment in the freshman division. We have to consider that we were just a small college competing somewhat over our heads in that meet.

The golf team this year will be made up mostly of new men, and therefore, the outcome is hard to tell. The men have been practicing in the afternoons a little, but no coaching has been expressed as yet.

The baseball team this year is made up almost entirely as it was last year, with the exception of a few new faces. This year should be more profitable because of the experienced squad. The experienced nine will be headed by Coach Bill Crutchfield.

Riflemen Hit Third In State, Place in National Competition

Last week the Presbyterian Rifle Team journeyed to Furman where they participated in the South Carolina State Rifle Match. The six teams who participated in the match were Presbyterian, Wofford, Citadel, Furman, Clemson and South Carolina.

This match was won by The Citadel The placing was very close for the second, third and fourth slots. Clemson barely went ahead of PC to win second place. Presbyterian placed third by winning over Wofford a few points. Wofford was fourth with South Carolina fifth, and Furman placing sixth.

The final scores of the national match have not been received as yet, but Presbyterian has placed in the national competition as a team must be one of the nationals, a team mus be one of the top twelve teams out of some fifty-four colleges. Presbyterian will know exactly where they stand as soon as the final results come in. This match was fired in four stages and the totals for the last parts have not been turned in yet. All of these fifty-four schools which participated are in the 3rd Army district.

Basketeers Take Consolation Honors in NAIA Competition

The Presbyterian Blue Hose and the Erskine Flying Fleet were invited to the NAIA in Greenville, N. C. They were the two teams picked to represent South Carolina.

The Blue Hose met the No. 1 team in the tournament, Eastern Carolina Teachers' College while Erskine tangled with Lenoir-Rhyne in the first round of the tournament on Wednesday night.

The Hose were defeated 80-71 in the first game of the night. They led 41-37 at half-time, but Eastern Carolina came back strong the second half to win. PC's Ron Ragan was top scorer of the night with 27 points. Hodges was high scorer for E. C. T. In the nightcap, Erskine edged out the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears to win 81-78.

All-state forward Dave Thompson led the PC quintet to a 83-81 victory over Lenoir-Rhyne for the consolation game of the meet. PC was trailing ten points with a 45-35 score at the half, but tied the score with a 77-all score at the last two minutes of the game causing the contest to be extended into overtime.

The teams were matched point for point until Thompson froze the ball for one minute and 35 seconds. Just before the final gun he laid the winning basket giving PC a final win over Lenoir-Rhyne.

Terriers Edge Hose in Little 4; PC Trips Newberry Second Night

Lenoir-Rhyne Game Ends Spring Practice

Presbyterian's Blue Stockings racked up Lenoir-Rhyne, 26-7, yesterday afternoon in a spring practice football game which brought PC's month-long off-season workouts to a close.

It was the second practice game in less than a week for the Hosemen, who journeyed to Elon last Saturday. No score was kept in this engagement.

Quarterback Harry Hamilton and Halfbacks Gene Altman, Bill VanderMeer and George Blue led the PC attack against Lenoir-Rhyne. Hamilton passed to Ends Charles Twitty and Bobby Jackson for a touchdown apiece, and Altman scored twice on running plays. VanderMeer kicked the two extra points.

The PC coaching staff was reported much more pleased over the result of yesterday's game than with that of last week.

Johnson Ties 60-Yard Record

His time of 6.4 seconds tied the old Southern Conference freshman mark and brought PC five points in this meet against some of the nation's strongest track teams.

Represening PC in addition to Johnson were: Bobby Vass, Bobby Falls, Jimmy Hancock, and Jimmy Wood. Vass was fifth in the broad jump, and Hancock and Falls reached the finals in the 70-yard low hurdles.

Against such competition as Florida State, University of Florida, Georgia Tech, University of Georgia, University of Kentucky, Navy, V. M. I., and V. P. I., Coach Lonnie S. McMillian thought his boys did well.

Pi Kappa Alpha Receives Trophy

Mu Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha received the Riculfi Athletic Trophy for the school year 1952-53.

This award is given by the National Office of the Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity to the chapter having the higest percentage of member participation in both varsity and intramural sports. Mu Chapter was runner-up for the award in 1951-52.

This honor is noteworthy due to the fact that there are 109 chapters of Pi Kappa Alpha in the United States, many having more members to call upon for participation in sports.

Erskine Sinks Wofford for Title

Two free throws in the last few seconds of the first game of the Little Four Basketball tournament gave Wofford a close 93-91 victory over Presbyterian college. This naturally cut PC out of any chances for winning first place This was quite an upset for Presbyterian, having beaten Wofford twice during the regular season. This first game was tied 14 times. Wofford, who was seeded third this year, was defending her championship from last year. Burgess and Toole were high scorers for the Blue Hose. They were placed in the first ten men of the tournament.

The Erskine Flying Fleet had little trouble in defeating Newberry 103-62. This was an easy victory for the Fleet who lost only two of their regular scheduled games this season. This win gave Erskine the right to meet Wofford the next night for the title of the Little Four tournament. The second game of the tourney was an undisputed win for Erskine.

In the finals, Erskine beat Wofford to put the Little Four tournament title in the hands of the Flying Fleet of Erskine for the 1954 season. Presbyterian won over the Newberry Indians to place third. The results were: 1st—Erskine; 2nd—Wofford; 3rd—Presbyterian; 4th—Newberry.

Although this has been one of our most successful seasons of basketball with a rank of second in overall state standings PC only placed third in the tourney.

Netmen Open on 16th With Florida Journey

The Presbyterian College tennis team is expected to meet its toughest schedule this year. The netmen will be spearheaded by Ala nMorris who went undefeated during his first season of play. Even though Morris was not chosen, he was one of the six players considered for the four Davis Cup positions this past year. Morris is rated 26th in the nation and sixth in the south.

The tennis squad is expected to be greatly improved over last year, even though it may not hold up to the record of 15 wins and two losses of last year. The team lost only two men from last year's team, Bill Toole and Ed Montgomery.

In the second position will be Dick Macatee, a sophomore from Front Royal, Va. Macatee was ranked sixteenth in the national junior competition in 1952 and is now ready for his first year of college play.

The number three slot will be held by John Brownlow of South Euclid, Ohio. This freshman was ranked thirteenth in the national Juniors of 1953 Coach Leighton has high praise of John's exceptional amount of natural ability

In fourth place will be Jerry Hunt of College Park, Ga. Captain Bill Bradley, a senior from Bradenton, Fla., will occupy the fifth spot. Warren Berry of College Park, Ga., will play the number six position.

In the doubles combinations we have Morris and Macatee, Brownlow and Hunt, and Bradley and Berry.

In the past, only four single matches could be played at a time, but now with the great help of Coach Leighton, all of the singles matches will be played at one time. The two new Har-Tru courts will be ready for action on PC's first home match with Wofford on March 25.

Military Ball, Inter-Frat Dance Kick Lid Off 1954 Social Season

Hay Elected Synod WF Veep

Edward Hay, a sophomore from Wadmalaw Island, S. C., was elected to the post of vice-president of the Westminster Fellowship of the Synod of South Carolina at its conference held at PC this past week-end. It was attended by 160 Presbyterian students and their advisers from various colleges throughout the state. PC had twenty-eight delegates attending.

The W.F. conference was highlighted by several prominent speakers, among whom were Dr. Frank W. Price, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S.; Dr. David W. Sprunt, chaplain of Washington and Lee University; and the Rev. Ralph McCaskill, of Thornwell Orphanage.

The theme of the WF conference was "Christian Citizenship", and these speakers pointed out to the group the way in which each could make himself a better Christian citizen.

The officers for the new year are: Glenn Bell, the University of South Carolina, president, succeeding Anne Smith of Limestone College; Edward Hay of Presbyterian College, vice-president; Sara Rogers of Coker College, secretary; and Sue Carhart of the College of Charleston, treasurer.

The three-day conference closed Sunday morning when Dr. David W. Sprunt, delivered the morning sermon at the First Presbyterian Church.

Dennis Ketchem, president of the local WF group, expressed appreciation to the PC students for their help in making this conference a success.

Dean Hudson Plays Both Nights

The 1954 Military Ball tonight and the Inter-fraternity Council Dance tomorrow evening start things rolling as the spring social season gets underway. Both affairs are formal, with the ROTC boys wearing their Class A uniforms tonight and tuxes or suits being required Saturday.

The Military Ball climaxes a day of festivities and events in honor of the ROTC battallion and staff. The first event began at 4:30 this afternoon when the cadets had a retreat parade at Johnson Field during which the battalion was reviewed by the military sponsors. The Scabbard and Blade tapping took place at that time also. During the parade, there was a review and flag-lowering ceremony. A reception was held following the parade at Mrs. Gussie's in honor of the cadet officers and their dates.

At 9:00 o'clock in the Clinton Armory the ball gets underway. Dean Hudson and his orchestra will be on hand to insure the tops in music until one a. m.

A highlight of the evening will be the leadout featuring the Military Ball Committee and their sponsors and the senior officers and their dates.

One of the features of interest will be the selection of the Honorary Cadet Lieutenant Colonel. She will be selected from the host of senior dates. The winner will be announced after the leadout, just before intermission.

Dean Hudson and his orchestra, the Hudson A Capella Choir and other features, including Ann Lorrain, of Rome, Ga., offer full entertainment for the week-end.

Saturday night will see a return engagement of "America's New Look in Dance Music", as Dean Hudson plays for the Inter-fraternity Council Dance. The Saturday nighter will start at 8 and last until midnight.

'Underworld' Movie To Be Shown Tuesday

"Underworld," the first of Hollywood's long line of gangster films, will be shown at 8:30 next Tuesday night in Neville 107.

Starring some of Hollywood's finest silent film stars, "Underworld" reveals gangland of the late 1920's with such force that it is still rated by modern critics as one of the best gangster films ever produced.

Campbell Made Representative Head

G. Edward Campbell, the Registrar of Presbyterian College, was re-elected chairman of the Executive Committee of the South Carolina College Representatives group this week. Mr. Campbell has been an active member of this group for three years.

The primary aim of the South Carolina College Representatives group is to support a guidance program for the high school senior in order that he might make a wise choice in selecting a college. Fraternity Lodges Set For Trustee Consideration

Consideration of fraternity lodges for the Presbyterian College campus is now in the hands of the Board of Trustees and a decision on the matter is expected some time in the near future.

That's the report from President Marshall W. Brown, who brought the matter before the Board at its regular meeting last week.

A special committee was appointed by the trustees to study the matter thoroughly, and his committee was empowered to take whatever action it deemed appropriate. Therefore, should the project be approved by the committee, another full board meeting would be necessary to set the program into motion.

President Brown said he does not know what the decision of the committee will be, but he assured the student body that the matter will be given serious consideration from all angles.

Robert B. Smith, representing Sigma Nu fraternity, appeared before the Board of Trustees at his own request and presented this fraternity's plan to provide a large portion of the funds necessary to construct a lodge on the campus.

Dr. Brown, at the request of Kappa Alpha and Pi Kappa Alpha, presented their viewpoints, similar to Sigma Nu's, for building lodges.

The president also now requests other fraternities on the campus to contact their fraternity headquarters to ascertain heir viewpoints on the subject, so that they may be presented to the committee.

Those trustees named to the special committee include: P. S. Bailey and Robert Vance, both of Clinton; James C. Todd, Sr., of Laurens; Charles Plowden of Summerton; and the Rev. Cliff H. McLeod of Sumter. Bailey, Plowden and McLeod are PC alumni.

Challenge to Truth

In one of the most pertinent talks delivered before the student body this year, Dr. John McSween brought out the importance of standing up for what is right in spite of the consequences which might follow.

One of the greatest challenges in life is the challenge of being true. There is perhaps no more dejected a man than one who has been untrue to some person or ideal.

The basic, yet perhaps most neglected, consideration of truth is truth to one's self. As the Stratford bard has noted, a complete truth to one's self has as its natural consequence truth to fellow men. To fully realize the capacity of the individual and to fulfill as nearly as possible this capacity is the key to a life of unlimited resources.

Every man has a moral debt to society. He must be true to his fellow beings if he is to enjoy the happiness of community living. A dishonor to a man's associates may cause the degradation of the whole moral structure.

To every man there is the challenge of being true to those who love him, those with whom he associates, and those whom he influences.

We have a challenge to be true. Let each man accept this challenge and by earnest endeavor to meet it, open to himself a life of richness and fullness.

TB Turns It On

By JACK EDMUNDS

I walked in the room the other day and found TB walking up and down the floor from one end of the room to the other. I watched him for about five minutes then, puzzled, I asked him. "True, just what do you think you're doing?"

"Big week-end coming up you know, Jack, so I'm practicing walking a straight line."

"Yeah, well don't practice walking too straight or folks won't recognize you."

"Jack, have you got a date for the big ball?"

"Have I got a date? Can Joe Dimaggio still get curves thrown at him whenever he wants? Man, I've got a date with the cutest black-haired, brown-eyed little doll you've ever seen."

"Sounds like she's got you snowed, Jack."

"I wouldn't say that, T, but all she has to do is say race and I'm fighting for a starting position."

"Is the feeling mutual?"

"Afraid not, True. The cause seems to be as lost as Custer's last stand."

"Boy, all you need is a lesson or two from your old daddy here. Jack your only trouble is that then passed out LOVE, you thought they said SHOVE, so you started running to get out of the way."

I sat down and watched T put the shine to his brass torches. "What is the good word around Hoseville this week, True?"

"Yeah, whatta you think about that?"

"I think that is one of the best moves that's been made since Mamie married Ike, deciding that the life of a second lieutenant's wife wouldn't be so bad after all. Look where she ended up."

"You and your examples. Say, blue boy, do you have a date?"

"Nope, I kinda figured on birddogging on you."

"Well, you soldiers had better watch your dolls, or I'm liable to sneak one off to a strategic attack position and lay a fifty mission crush on her providing her main line of resistance isn't too strong."

"You're full of the military terms today aren't you?"

"Gotta be. I'm gonna try to bribe my way into the dance."

"You still haven't paid your assessment?"

"I shouldn't have to; cause Jack, the way folks treat me you would think I was an alumnus."

"Your plan of rejuvenating not working too well, eh?"

"No, but there'll be brighter days."

"I hope so. Lets go finish decorating the armory, T."

"I'd like to, Jack, but I'm gonna dash down and watch the baseball team work out awhile."

"Okay, but you're gonna be at the dance aren't you?"

"I'll be there in full force."

"Well just keep that force on an even keel this week end."

PC Wheels, Big and Little

By BILL HAMILTON

A recent campus survey has been taken to determine the make, year, and number of cars here at PC.

The tabulations reveals that Ford is the most popular automobile on the campus with a total of twenty-eight. Second to Ford in popularity is Chevroliet, of which there are twenty-two.

Plymouth take third place with eight. Seven Studebakers fall fourth place; Dodge is sixth with six automobiles.

Further survey shows that there are three Mercurys, three Pontiacs and two Nashes. The "lone rangers" include one Oldsmobile, one Morris, and one Crosley.

The most popular Ford on the campus in the 1946 model. There is a four way tie among Fords with the 1930, 1950, 1951, and 1953 models. Third place is a tie with the 1940, 1941, 1949, and 1954 models.

This survey shows that there are approximately 82 cars on the campus, indicating that about 18% of the students operate automobiles at PC.

Lampoon's . . .

Dilbert's Dirt

by Dilbert Lampoon

Well, the big dance is under way and there are some good looking "heads" roving the plaza. Dilbert would like to welcome all of you girls to our campus personally. By the way, if any of you "dolls" should get tired of your dates, I will be available anytime after 3:00 A. M. Saturday and Sunday morning.

I was downtown this week at the local apothecary, Howard's, talking to Betty Co-ed of 1901, Miss Irene, She, like all who deal with the public, was griping. Her latest complaint comes about our fair campus. It seems that Charlie Evans buys sandwiches on the installment plan (only half a sandwich at a time). Irene does not mind this too much, but it is making her too fat.

I was informed in a roundabout way that "Tubby" Warren received a nasty note from Columbia this week. Gene Butler is not the only boy who can not hold on to a nurse.

It seems that PC was well represented at the U. of Ga. dance last weekend. I do not know whether it was Ray Anthony or the women, but it took from our midst great lovers such as Warren Kendrick, Ted McCollough, and the one and only Bill (I get free hair cuts) Hamilton. I wish you lovers could have been here to help with the overflow of girls from the WF Conference T. Stallworth had a hard time explaining his love for the song "Margie". Go on, Tom, tell your past

I have been requested to ask the co-eds to lay low for the weekend, especially "Duck" Caldwell. Marcus' girl is going to be here.

My bouquet of spring onions goes this week to Bill Flanagan and Anne Lee. Bill pinned Anne Tuesday night and he has been all smiles this week. Congratulations to you both.

Well I have to close for now and write a little doll. Remember, Dilbert is watching you!

Faces Aough Tennis Schedule

The Presbyterian net team will face one of its toughest schedules as it enters the 1954 season. In this competition are three of the top five national teams in the nation; Princeton, North Carolina and Miami. As the tennis squad journeys north they will meet Duke, Georgetown, Virginia and Duke. The first match will be Tuesday with Rollins in Winter Park, Florida. From there they will match strength with the University of Miami. The tennis season will consist of 16 matches and seven home matches will be played.

The pressure will be on Morris, the No. 1 man who will lead the net squad into the season.

Off the Record

In the past week, nothing of great importance has happened as far as sports are concerned. Just because we aren't engaged in some sport doesn't mean we have to overlook the PC spirit. Before long we will begin our spring sports. As we have done in the past, let's take part in these athletic events by our loyal support. We have gone too far for the students of Presbyterian College to ruin the spirit of PC. This is just a reminder for us all to turn out in force to inspire a winning team on to victory in spring sports.

Netmen Open 1954 Season With Rollins Invasion Tuesday

Morris Leads Team on Tough Florida Trip; Coach Leighton Begins Fifth Year at Reins

ALLEN MORRIS

On Tuesday the Presbyterian College tennis team will open its 1954 season with a match with Rollins College in Winter Park, Fla. Rollins is rated as one of the best teams in the south, so this will be a tough game for the PC netters.

On Thursday the team will journey to Miami where two matches have been scheduled for March 18 and 19.

Al Morris, the PC national star, will be playing the No. 1 position as the team makes its trip to the deep south.

He will be backed by Dick Macatee in the number two spot. John Brownlow, an Ohio freshman, will hold down the number three position.

Jerry Hunt and Captain Bill Bradley will hold down the fourth and fifth places, respectively. Warren Berry will occupy the sixth slot.

In the doubles matches Morris and Macatee, Brownlow and Hunt, and Bradley and Berry are paired together.

After returning from the Florida tour the tennis team will play its first home match with Wofford on March 25. The match will be played on the recently enlarged Calloway courts on the campus.

COACH LEIGHTON

Morris to Play in Puerto Rico

Allen Morris, PC No. 1 man and prospect for the 1954 Davis Cup team, has received an invitation to participate in the second Annual Caribe Hilton Invitational Championship at San Juan, Puerto Rico, on March 29.

Bill Harris, tournament chairman, has invited Morris along with 15 other top ranked players, both foreign and American. The Caribe Hilton Hotel is probably one of the mosa famous resorts in the world.

Morris, besides getting a tremendous amount of tennis experience, will get a chance to see for the first time the Caribe Hilton, a monument to gracious living, and the very beautiful island of Peurto Rico.

In the past month Morris has also received other invitations including the Masters Tennis Championship held in St. Augustine, Fla., the Anniston Invitational, in Anniston, Ala., and also a week-end tournament in Knoxville, Tenn. Due to school matches he will not be able to participate in the three matches mentioned above.

Life Saving Course Now in Progress

The Red Cross Life Saving course which began this week-is well underway with approximately twenty-five boys taking part in it. The classes are meeting at night, Monday through Thursday, and the course will last at least three more weeks.

The boys are going through the first part of the course, which is personal safety and physical ability in the water.

The senior course consists of 20 hours in the water and from 2 to 3 hours in examinations, which are written, oral and practical.

The senior course serves as a prerequisite for the instructor's course which will be taught by a water safety specialist who will be sent out from the southeastern regional office in Atlanta.

The senior course is being instructed by Bob Hodges and he is being assisted by Ed Pyron.

Experienced Baseball Team Hits 18-Game Season; Eight at Home

Coach Bill Crutchfield has an experienced squad to work with this year. Almost the entire 1953 team is back. The Blue Hose had a 5 won-15 lost record last year; but with a new coach and experienced players the outlook for this year's team is much better.

The infield will be built around All-State first baseman, Don Hattaway, of Brunswick, Ga. Other experienced infielders include George Blue of Union at shortstop, Glen McGee of Clinton, third base. New infielders include Tom McKenzie, third base; Bo Long, second base; "Tap" Tobias, first base; Tommy Reeves, second base; Cecil Geddings, shortstop; and John Compton, second base.

Jennings Roberts of Georgetown is behind the plate again as backstop this year. Behind him will be Buddy Louthian. Also third baseman Glen McGee handles some of the catching chores.

The pichers back from last year are Bobby "Ace" Matthews of Manning, Billy "Lefty" Johnson of Whitmire, Harry Hamilton of Seneca, Guy Misenheimer of Maxton, N. C., Leland Brown of Sumter, and Gene Long of Columbia. The new pitchers are John Tennant and Bob Burgess.

Since the team will play home games on the college diamond here at school, we hope to have plenty of support from the students.

The opening game with The Citadel on March 23 begins the 1954 season. This first game will be a home game, so all the students will be able to give the team a big send-off.

New Honor System Vote Next Friday

The proposed constitution change in the honor system will be voted on next Friday, Paul Crouch, honor committee chairman, announced earlier this week.

Under the change, Article X will be taken out in its entirety.

Under Article XV, sections 1, 2, and 3 will be deleted.

The new proposal will be inserted as Article X if the required vote is received. The Student Council wishes to stress the point that the proposal is still subject to change.

A special faculty meeting is being called early next week to examine the proposed changes. The faculty will look the proposal over and make necessary changes.

Immediately after the faculty has approved the action, mimeographed copies of the constitutional change will be distributed to the student body so that they can become thoroughly familiar with the proposed changes.

Everett Presents Graduation Info

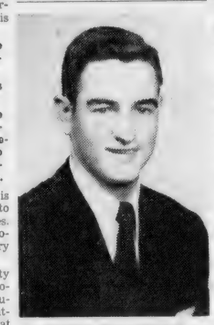
George Everett, senior class president, released this week information on three important subjects concerning the 1954 graduating class—senior invitations, diplomas, and caps and gowns.

The deadline for senior invitation orders and money is Tuesday, April 1. This date was prescribed by the Charles H. Elliott Co., of Philadelphia, invitation engravers, and if a prompt delivery of invitations is to be made, the date requirment must be complied with. Cost of the invitations is twenty cents each. Name cards are not included in the order, and each senior purchasing an invitation is responsible for his own card.

According to Everett, the diploma fee of eight dollars charged each senior is due to the bursar on April 1, or as soon as possible.

Measurements for academic regalia has begun, Everett stated. Lockey Murrell, senior secretary, will be in charge of collecting the $2.50 cap and gown rental fe and taking the necessary measurements. The rental fe should be given to Murrell by April 1st.

Dean of Students Gives Room Facts



The week of March 22-27 is being set aside to reserve rooms for the fall semester. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, March 22, 23, and 24 are the three days in which you can sign for the room which you now occupy. Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 25, 26, and 27 are set aside as the days you can sign for any room on the campus not already reserved.

It will be necessary for every student to pay a $10 room reservation deposit to the bursar and show the receipt to Mr. Collins who will assign you a room.

Record Number of Students Vote

Tommy Stallworth, a rising senior from Atlanta, Ga., was elected president of the Student Christian Association in the student body election Wednesday. Stallworth was chosen by outnumbering Dick Ropp in a record election.

Charles Twitty of Charlotte, N. C., was chosen to fill the vice-president's position vacated by Stallworth. Jack Edmunds of Decatur, Ga., will occupy the secretary's post for the coming year. Jim Fleming, also of Charlotte, will be next year's treasurer.

TOMMY STALLWORTH

Stallworth, who has been a member of the SCA cabinet for two years, succeeds Ray Smith of McClellanville in the head post. Stallworth is secretary of the student council of which he has been a member for three years. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity and the Presbyterian College Choir. He was recently tapped for membership in the Scabbard and Blade Military Fraternity.

Twitty, who was also a member of last year's cabinet, fills the place vacated by Stallworth. He is a member of the Block P Club, Charlotte PC Club and Sigma Nu fraternity. Twitty has served as co-chairman of the SCA intramural committee this year. While here at PC he has won a name as a varsity football star.

The new secretary, Jack Edmunds, follows Willie Neville in this position. Edmunds, a member of the 1953-54 cabinet, was editor of the "Knapsack", the student handbook. He is a columnist on The Blue Stocking staff and a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. Edmunds sings bass in the PC choir where he also holds the position of treasurer.

Jim Fleming steps into the shoes of Bill Flanagan as the new treasurer. He was on last year's cabinet of the SCA and was also a departmental assistant on the 1953 PaC-SaC. Fleming is also a member of the Charlotte PC Club.

Stallworth and Edmunds were elected by majority in the Wednesday vote. Stallworth and Ropp were the presidential candidates. Edmunds and Al Ansley were running for the position of secretary.

A run-off for the positions of vice-president and treasurer was held this morning between Twitty and Edward Hay for the number two position and between Fleming and Warren Berry for the treasur-

1954 Military Ball Termed Big Success

At the formation of the cadet corps on Tuesday morning Cadet Lt. Col. Clyde Beaumont, Battalion Commander, stated that he believed this year's Military Ball was one of the most successful that PC has ever enjoyed in recent years.

Beaumont stated also that he was expressing the belief of Lt. Col. Smith, PMS&T, and Capt. Kelly, Assistant PMS&T.

The batallion commander expressed his appreciation and that of the military department for the cooperation of all who helped to make the ball a success.

One of the classic events of the 1954 Military Ball was the selection of Miss Barbara Ann Harris of Charlotte, N. C., as Honorary Lt. Col. Miss Harris was the sponsor of Commander Beaumont.

'Thief of Bagdad' Coming

United Artists' 1924 film spectacle, "The Thief of Bagdad," will be shown in the chapel Wednesday night as another of the English department's series of great movies of the past.

Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., is starred in the tale of a thief and a princess, which is played against a series of fantastic Oriental settings designed by William Cameron Menzies, which were a triumph of the scenic designer's art. The scenery was of such tremendous size as to rival that of such modern extravaganzas as "Quo Vadis" and "The Robe."

The role of the "Thief" was ideal for Fairbanks. It gave him ample opportunity to exercise the particular brand of athletic charm that no other motion picture actor has ever quite duplicated. He made impossible acrobatic leaps from balconies and towers, raced up and down flights of stairs, and had a generally glorious time.

Fairbanks also had an opportunity to display his skill as a lover in scenes with Julianne Johnston, who played the princess.

Miss Johnston was a Fairbanks discovery, having first attracted his attention as a dancer in the prologue to "Robin Hood", which was shown in the chapel last semester.

This famous movie of the past is certain to delight everyone who attends for its glamour, adventure and romance.

The Traits of Capable Leadership

As the final pages of this year's activity are slowly being turned, the time approaches for the selection of the leaders for the next academic year. If the ultimate work for the advancement and betterment of our school is accomplished, we must choose capable leaders.

The primary purpose of Presbyterian College has always been to provide the essential training necessary to produce resourceful, enlightened, and competent leaders in the Church and nation. This must be foremost in our minds when we elect those who will be our new campus leaders.

The most important consideration for the students is to select leaders for their capabilities and not for personal friendship. A clear conscience and an open mind should be the tools which are carried to the polls.

We would like to suggest a few qualities which we believe are necessary traits for a good student leader.

The first quality essential for a leader is Christian leadership itself. A leadership built upon the principles of Christianity is the only leadership that counts, especially on the campus of a church college. The leader must have the ability to lead his fellow students, but he himself must be led by God in order to have an effective leadership.

A leader must have an earnest devotion to the task which confronts him. He must put his whole self into the position for which he is chosen. Half-hearted, mediocre leaders will have few followers.

Humility is an integral trait in true leadership. A leader's good work, his able leadership will speak for themselves. He must recognize the values of others' opinions. He must not doggedly enforce his opinions without the co-operation of his associates.

To lead one must put the interest of the school and fellow-students before his own. He must be one who will do what is right even if it conflicts with his personal desires.

He must do what is right and have the courage to stand up for that which is right.

Honor is essential in a leader. He must live his own life above reproach and with the respect of the faculty and students. Those who follow will more readily be led by one who lives his convictions and does what he says.

Let us all keep these characteristics in mind as we select the leaders of the various student organizations. A bad leader can cause the downfall of a whole organization. We must have capable leaders, and it is up to each PC student to see that they are selected by voting only for the persons whom he sincerely believes to be best qualified.

Students' Views On Honor System

WHAT IS YOUR VIEW OF THE NEW HONOR SYSTEM?

George Telford: "Rather than having an honor system that is essentially non-existant at the present time, I think that the honor system should either be accepted by the student body as a whole or completely abolished. I feel that the honor system as it now exists tends to make us hypocritical, but an honor system supported by all would be a great asset to PC. I am all for it."

Wilbur Joye: "I am very much in favor of the new honor system, and I believe that it will benefit the studenis as well as the school."

Jerry McCord: "I am strongly in favor of the new honor system at PC. An honor system against cheating, lying, and stealing is built on some of the basic principles of Christianity. PC, being a Christian institution, should by all means, adopt this system and her students abide by it."

Dennis Ketchem: "During the past days, rumors have been going about that the majority of the PC students are not of the caliber so that they could stand on their own honor. I disagree with this attitude. I believe, now, that the students themselves have an opportunity to show that they do have honor and at the same time make the institution of which they are a part of something that will not only exert its influence in the individual but in the communities which they will later find themselves a part of."

Mr. Glover: "I heartily endorse the new honor system and feel sure that all students will give their thoughtful, sincere, and continued support."

Robert B Smith: "I think the new honor system would be one of the great contributions that could be added to our college campus. It is something that should be a necessity on a Christian campus where students are supposedly followers of the Christian faith. I wholeheartedly endorse this as something which is for the betterment of the school, inidividual and our relationship to God."

Garnet Ghost Gets Serious

TB Plugs Honor System

By JACK EDMUNDS

TB and I were chowing down over at "Leo's Luncheon" the other day discussing prevalent conditions on the campus. True was still feeling weak from the big dance so as he downed his fifth glass of tomato juice, I asked him, "True, I hear you are all for this honor system."

"That's right, Jack. You know I told you that the old PC spirit needed rejuvenating. Well, the honor system should be a big part of the school spirit, and it is something around here that really needs rejuvenating. And I want it known here and now that I, TRUE BLUE, give my full endorsement to it."

"True, I don't know. It's a hard decision for me. I'm kinda mixed up on the idea."

"So was I Jack; but do like I did. Go talk to Senor Glover. He'll explain it to you in a way simple enough to understand, yet serious enough to make you realize that it is the right thing."

"I know it's the right thing, T, but can it work?"

"Jack, it's not a question of can it work. It will be hard at first, and it will get harder, but it must be upheld. There can be no if's, and's, or but's about it. For the sake of Alma Mater, for the sake of our fellowmen, for our own sakes, IT HAS TO WORK."

"I see what you mean, True, things are a little clearer now."

"Man, I hope so."

"Say, True."

"Yeah?"

"What were all those limousines doing down at the administration building the last few days?"

"Just a bunch of the big wheels."

"What were they up to?"

"Jack, I'll put it like this. They are like the carpenters that were called in to repair the house, and found that it wasn't that the foundation was rotten, but rather that the rottenness lay in the few folks that stood around pointing a finger at the foundation; and that the carpenters weren't needed at all. And neither were those that pointed their finger."

"I see. Well, let's drag on down the plaza, True. By the way, how did you like my gal last week-end?"

"She was all right."

"All right?"

"Okay, so she was a doll, so the state is full of them."

"Not like this one, TB, not like this one."

TB sends orchids this week to: The new SCA officers. Let's all back them during their term so we can keep always in mind those principles on which old P College was founded.

Mr. Beatty and Mr. Powell: For the splendid help they gave the juniors in decorating for the Military Ball. If you ever need a free idea or favor, see these two; they are two of the best.

Well, after the dance week-end, I guess a little dirt must fall. I hope too many of you didn't get stung after the last issue.

I guess the late-dating goes with a dance, but I believe that Cliff Waddell and Gene Altman win the prize this week. It seems that they took Ansley's and Marshall's girls while they couldn't defend themselves. Is this so, Al? I also heard that Hugh Betchman slipped out with Lawrence Huggins' girl Saturday night. I guess he had to get a date some way, he is out down in Columbia.

I have heard of a lot of ways to win a girl and thought Jim Sloan had tried them all, but I believe he missed this one. Bobby Jackson got all excited this weekend and asked a Winthrop doll to accept his fraternity pin. The part that gets me is her answer.

"I will have to ask Mother, first, Bobby."

Trackmen Meet South Carolina; Dual Clash Opens PC Season

Vass, Fesperman, Delane Johnson Spark Team

Presbyterian College will open its 1954 track schedule at the University of South Carolina tomorrow afternoon in a dual meet between the state's two top-ranked cinder teams.

The opening gun for the meet is set for 2 p. m. on the Carolina track in Columbia.

This dual engagement takes on added importance in view of the fact that it is expected to determine which team will hold the favored role in the state track meet at the close of the season.

Presbyterian and Caorlina dominated Palmetto track competition last year, and the Gamecocks nosed out PC by a hair-line margin for the state championship in the last event of the meet.

Pre-season estimates for 1954 give the Columbia team a wider edge this season on the basis of a greater number of returning stars. The Gamecocks are paced by Tommy Woodlee, a dashman who tied the 100-yard dash record of 9.7 seconds three years ago before entering the armed forces. He's back and moving as fast as ever.

Sonny Wilcher, an ace 440 runner, and distance man Garn McBride also are the top performers on the strong USC squad.

Presbyterian lost one-half of its track squad with the graduation of just two men—E. M. Watt and Tommy Jordan—who, together, averaged some 35 points per meet last year.

Although lacking team balance and overall depth, Coach Lonnie S. McMillian has developed a squad around several key individuals who are expected to give the Carolinians trouble. Two events, in particular, shape up as thrillers.

The first is the 100-yard dash where freshman Delane Johnson and Bobby Vass will challenge Woodlee. Johnson recently tied the old Southern Conference freshman indoor meet record for 60 yards, and Vass has been clocked in trials at 10 seconds flat.

The other event is the two-mile run. PC's John Fesperman is defending state champion on this distance, having whipped McBride last season, but the Carolina runner is reported faster this year.

Two other Blue Hose defending champions are Vass in the broad jump and Bobby Falls in the low hurdles.

PC's main weak spot will be the high jump for which there are no entries.

440-yard run—Hardy Tyer and Herbert Laws.

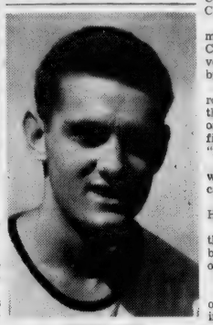
880-yard run—Tyler, Laws, and Sammy Salley.

One mile run — Arthur Pue, John McLean, and A. C. Reed.

Two mile run—John Fesperman and Marcus Prince.

High and low hurdles—Bobby Falls, Jimmy Wood, and Jimmy Hancock.

Broad jump—Bobby Vass.



Discus throw — Lee Frierson, Jimmy Regehr, and Bob Harrington.

Shot put—Regehr, Harrington, and Bob Cothran.

Pole vault — Richard Johnson and Bryan Kinner.

Javelin throw—William Gray.

Baseball Team Prepares For Opener Here Tuesday

The Blue Hose officially open the 1954 baseball season here Tuesday when they play host to The Citadel Bulldogs from Charleston. The game will be played here on the local diamond Tuesday afternoon.

In the meantime the PC team has been getting prepared for the opener by two intra-squad games and one game with the Clinton high school club.

In the first intra-squad game played this season the regulars defeated the second team by a 2 to 1 count. Guy Misenheimer, the regulars' starter, was credited with the win. The losing pitcher was John Tennant, starter for the losers. The big hit for the winners was the long single to right field by Luther Shealy driving in the first run. Leland Brown banged in the run for the losers.

The Blue Hose team defeated Clinton High March 15 by a score of 7 to 2. Tobias, Parker, Misenheimer, Compton and Young each had one hit for the Blue Hose. The big blow was a home run by "Country" Young. PC starting pitcher, Guy Misenheimer, picked up the win.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE SIGMA NU

The Sigma Nu Fraternity of Presbyterian College journeyed to Columbia, S. C., last Saturday to participate in the Division Seven Convention and Basketball Tournament.

This tournament is held annually and is made up of the intramural teams of the Sigma Nu Fraternity in North and South Carolina. These teams include Duke, North Carolina State, University of North Carolina, University of South Carolina, and Presbyterian College.

The University of South Carolina and Duke played the first round with Presbyterian College drawing a bye because they were the defending champions. Duke whipped South Carolina and went on to meet PC. Presbyterian won by an 18 point margin with the final score being 53-35. The team was led by George Blue and "Big" Bill Taylor, who sparked the team on to victory.

The team received a beautiful trophy exactly like the one they won the year before last. There was no tournament last year because of the conflict of a national convention which was being held The team was made up of Sam Cornwell, Bill Taylor, Harry Hamilton, Jimmy Regehr, Pete Sloan and Bill Vander Meer.

The Sigma Nu's are to be congratulated for not only winning the divisional trophy but also the championship in intramural basketball here at Presbyterian College. These boys should be proud of their team and the record they have set this season.

INTRAMURAL WINNERS

The intramural system here at Presbyterian College has worked out effectively this year. All of the teams have shown an active interest in all of the sports. The members of these teams are to be congratulated for their spirit and cooperation in sports.

Thanks again to all of the teams who participated. Everyone can try harder for the next sport, in order to win the tramural trophy at the end of the year.

FOLLOW THE TRACKMEN

Tomorrow Presbyterian College meets the University of South Carolina in a dual met. This meet proves to be one of the toughest we will have this year.

Everyone here at PC should make the trip, not only to see an exciting meet but to support your track team. With the help of the students at PC, we should win the meet. Everyone think about this and if it is possible, be in Columbia Saturday with PC spirit to support our team.

Golf Roundup

PC Linkmen Begin '54 Season Monday

The Presbyterian College golf team will begin receiving instructions from Al Gerring, the new professional golfer at the Laurens country club. The team is coached by Norman Sloan, who says the outlook for the team is very bright, due to the fact that most of the players are freshmen. Also the coach said we have some of the best material we have ever had with which to work.

The first match of the season will be played Monday with Clemson at Clemson.

The match should prove interesting, since two of the PC boys are shooting par consistently on the country club course.

The team is composed of the following men: Warren Mayes, Robert Odum, Waldo Dodson, Geen Mabe, Tom Ferguson, Chuck Gahagan, Spencer Johnson and George Baker.

The members of the team have not elected the captain yet, but will do so in the near future.

Each member of the team has been honored by being chosen as marshalls at the Masters Tournament in Augusta at the Augusta National Country Club on April 8-11.

Florida Teams Down PC Netmen

Presbyterian netters dropped the two opening matches of their 1954 schedule, according to reports of the Florida tour reaching The Blue Stocking today.

PC lost to Rollins, 6-3, in the initial match played at Winter Park, Fla., Tuesday, and was shut out by a 9-0 count at the hands of the University of Miami yesterday.

The Hosemen were scheduled to play Miami again this afternoon before returning to Clinton for a long home stand of six straight matches.

Coach Jim Leighton and his squad invaded Florida as decided underdogs to the opposition there. Both Rollins and Miami have two of the strongest net teams in the nation, and Miami is ranked among the top five college teams. PC fans will recall that Rollins whipped last year's Blue Stockings 8-1 on the home court here, so the Tuesday score represents a stronger showing.

The reports from Florida also indicated that Allen Morris, PC number one man bidding for Davis Cup honors, lost both of his singles matches. Against Rollins, he faced Alfredo Millet, Mexican Davis Cupper whom he whipped in a close match here last season.

Riflemen Place In 3rd Army Match

The Presbyterian College rifle team has placed fifth in a field of fifty-three Third Army R. O. T. C. rifle teams in the recent area match. This fifth position entitles the riflemen to compete in the national rifle match. Since only the top ten teams are eligible to enter the national contest, congratulations are in order for the Blue Hose team and its instructor, Sergeant W. O. Wood.

Because of Sergeant Wood's time and effort, PC is sending one of its highest scoring rifle teams to the national match, which is the first time this fifteen-member group has ever fired in national competition.

The team, which has been undefeated in the shoulder matches this year, is firing a much higher score in the national contest than they did in the Third Army match.

The fourth and final stage of the meet will be fired next Wednesday, and it is hoped that the team will be as successful in this firing as they have been all year. This last date will also end the season for the trigger-happy cadets.

Um-boy, what a week-end. I haven't fully recovered yet and it's about time for another one—week-end, that is. I want to thank all you boys for not causing any commotion the week-end as my roommate had to study. He is very much the bashful type.

Well, after the dance week-end, I guess a little dirt must fall. I hope too many of you didn't get stung after the last issue.

I guess the late-dating goes with a dance, but I believe that Cliff Waddell and Gene Altman win the prize this week. It seems that they took Ansley's and Marshall's girls while they couldn't defend themselves. Is this so, Al? I also heard that Hugh Belchman slipped out with Lawrence Huggins' girl Saturday night. I guess he had to get a date some way, he is out down in Columbia.

I have heard of a lot of ways to win a girl and thought Jim Sloan had tried them all, but I believe he missed this one. Bobby Jackson got all excited this weekend and asked a Winthrop doll to accept his fraternity pin. The part that gets me is her answer.

"I will have to ask Mother, first, Bobby."

Now that is very thoughtful.

Students' Views On Honor System

WHAT IS YOUR VIEW OF THE NEW HONOR SYSTEM?

George Telford: "Rather than having an honor system that is essentially non-existant at the present time, I think that the honor system should either be accepted by the student body as a whole or completely abolished. I feel that the honor system as it now exists tends to make us hypocritical, but an honor system supported by all would be a great asset to PC. I am all for it."

Wilbur Joye: "I am very much in favor of the new honor system, and I believe that it will benefit the students as well as the school."

Jerry McCord: "I am strongly in favor of the new honor system at PC. An honor system against cheating, lying, and stealing is built on some of the basic principles of Christianity. PC, being a Christian institution, should by all means, adopt this system and her students abide by it."

Dennis Ketchem: "During the past days, rumors have been going about that the majority of the PC students are not of the caliber so that they could stand on their own honor. I disagree with this attitude. I believe, now, that the students themselves have an opportunity to show that they do have honor and at the same time make the institution of which they are a part of something that will not only exert its influence in the individual but in the communities which they will later find themselves a part of."

Mr. Glover: "I heartily endorse the new honor system and feel sure that all students will give their thoughtful, sincere, and continued support."

Robert B Smith: "I think the new honor system would be one of the great contributions that could be added to our college campus. It is something that should be a necessity on a Christian campus where students are supposedly followers of the Christian faith. I wholeheartedly endorse this as something which is for the betterment of the school, inidividual and our relationship to God."

Garnet Ghost Gets Serious

TB Plugs Honor System

By JACK EDMUNDS

TB and I were chowing down over at "Leo's Luncheon" the other day discussing prevalent conditions on the campus. True was still feeling weak from the big dance so as he downed his fifth glass of tomato juice, I asked him, "True, I hear you are all for this honor system."

"That's right, Jack. You know I told you that the old PC spirit needed rejuvenating. Well, the honor system should be a big part of the school spirit, and it is something around here that really needs rejuvenating. And I want it known here and now that I, TRUE BLUE, give my full endorsement to it."

"True, I don't know. It's a hard decision for me. I'm kinda mixed up on the idea."

"So was I Jack; but do like I did. Go talk to Senor Glover. He'll explain it to you in a way simple enough to understand, yet serious enough to make you realize that it is the right thing."

"Jack, it's not a question of can it work. It will be hard at first, and it will get harder, but it must be upheld. There can be no if's, and's, or but's about it. For the sake of Alma Mater, for the sake of our fellowmen, for our own sakes, IT HAS TO WORK."

"Man, I hope so."

"Say, True."

"Yeah?"

"What were all those limousines doing down at the administration building the last few days?"

"Just a bunch of the big wheels."

"What were they up to?"

"Jack, I'll put it like this. They are like the carpenters that were called in to repair the house, and found that it wasn't that the foundation was rotten, but rather that the rottenness lay in the few folks that stood around pointing a finger at the foundation; and that the carpenters weren't needed at all. And neither were those that pointed their finger."

"I see. Well, let's drag on down the plaza, True. By the way, how did you like my gal last week-end?"

"She was all right."

"All right?"

"Okay, so she was a doll, so the state is full of them."

"Not like this one, TB, not like this one."

TB sends orchids this week to: The new SCA officers. Let's all back them during their term so we can keep always in mind those principles on which old P College was founded.

Mr. Beatty and Mr. Powell. For the splendid help they gave the juniors in decoratung tor the Military Ball. If you ever need a free idea or favor, see these two; they are two of the best.

Trackmen Meet South Carolina; Dual Clash Opens PC Season

Vass, Fesperman, Delane Johnson Spark Team

Presbyterian College will open its 1954 track schedule at the University of South Carolina tomorrow afternoon in a dual meet between the state's two top-ranked cinder teams.

The opening gun for the meet is set for 2 p. m. on the Carolina track in Columbia.

This dual engagement takes on added importance in view of the fact that it is expected to determine which team will hold the favored role in the state track meet at the close of the season.

Presbyterian, and Caorlina dominated Palmetto track competition last year, and the Gamecocks nosed out PC by a hair-line margin for the state championship in the last event of the meet.

Pre-season estimates for 1954 give the Columbia team a wider edge this season on the basis of greater number of returning stars. The Gamecocks are paced by Tommy Woodlee, a dashman who tied the 100-yard dash record of 9.7 seconds three years ago before entering the armed forces. He's back and moving as fast as ever.

Sonny Wilcher, an ace 440 runner, and distance man Garn McBride also are the top performers on the strong USC squad.

Presbyterian lost one-half of its track squad with the graduation of just two men—E. M. Watt and Tommy Jordan—who, together, averaged some 35 points per meet last year.

Although lacking team balance and over-all depth, Coach Connie B. McMillian has developed a squad around several key individuals who are expected to give the Carolinians trouble... Two events, in particular, shape up as thrillers.

The first is the 100-yard dash where freshman Delane Johnson and Bobby Vass will challenge Woodlee. Johnson recently tied the old Southern Conference freshman indoor meet record for 60 yards, and Vass has been clocked in trials at 10 seconds flat.

The other event is the two-mile run. PC's John Fesperman is defending state champion on this distance, having whipped McBride last season, but the Carolina runner is reported faster this year.

Two other Blue Hose defending champions are Vass in the broad jump and Bobby Falls in the low hurdles.

PC's main weak spot will be the high jump for which there are no entries.

440-yard run—Hardy Tyer and Herbert Laws.

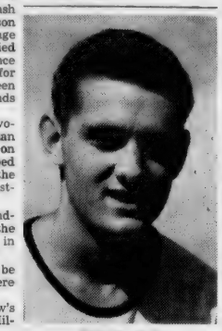
880-yard run—Tyler, Laws, and Sammy Salley.

One mile run — Arthur Pue, John McLean, and A. C. Reed.

Two mile run—John Fesperman and Marcus Prince.

High and low hurdles—Bobby Falls, Jimmy Wood, and Jimmy Hancock.

Broad jump—Bobby Vass.



Discus throw — Lee Frierson, Jimmy Regehr, and Bob Harrington.

Shot put—Regehr, Harrington, and Bob Cothran.

Pole vault — Richard Johnson and Bryan Kinner.

Javelin throw—William Gray.

Baseball Team Prepares For Opener Here Tuesday

The Blue Hose officially open the 1954 baseball season here Tuesday when they play host to the Citadel Bulldogs from Charleston. The game will be played here on the local diamond Tuesday afternoon.

In the meantime the PC team has been getting prepared for its opener by two intra-squad games and one game with the Clinton high school club.

In the first intra-squad game played this season the regulars defeated the second team by a 2 to 1 count. Guy Misenheimer, PC regulars' starter, was credited with the win. The losing pitcher was John Tennant, starter for the losers. The big hit for the winners was the long single to right field by Luther Shealy driving in the first run. Leland Brown banged in the run for the losers.

The Blue Hose team defeated Clinton High March 15 by a score of 7 to 2. Tobias, Parker, Misenheimer, Compton and Young each had one hit for the Blue Hose. The big blow was a home run by "Country" Young. PC starting pitcher, Guy Misenheimer, picked up the win.

PC Linkmen Begin '54 Season Monday

The Presbyterian College golf team will begin receiving instructions from Al Gerring, the new professional golfer at the Laurens country club. The team is coached by Norman Sloan, who says the outlook for the team is very bright, due to the fact that most of the players are freshmen. Also the coach said we have some of the best material we have ever had with which to work.

The first match of the season will be played Monday with Clemson at Clemson.

The match should prove interesting, since two of the PC boys are shooting par consistently on the country club course.

The team is composed of the following men: Warren Mayes, Robert Odum, Waldo Dodson, Geen Mabe, Tom Ferguson, Chuck Gahagan, Spencer Johnson and George Baker.

The members of the team have not elected the captain yet, but will do so in the near future.

Each member of the team has been honored by being chosen as marshalls at the Masters Tournament in Augusta at the Augusta National Country Club on April 8-11.

Florida Teams Down PC Netmen

Presbyterian netters dropped the two opening matches of their 1954 schedule, according to reports of the Florida tour reaching The Blue Stocking today.

PC lost to Rollins, 6-3, in the initial match played at Winter Park, Fla., Tuesday, and was shut out by a 9-0 count at the hands of the University of Miami yesterday.

The Hosemen were scheduled to play Miami again this afternoon before returning to Clinton for a long home stand of six straight matches.

Coach Jim Leighton and his squad invaded Florida as decided underdogs to the opposition there. Both Rollins and Miami have two of the strongest net teams in the nation, and Miami is ranked among the top five college teams. PC fans will recall that Rollins whipped last year's Blue Stockings 8-1 on the home court here, so the Tuesday score represents a stronger showing.

The reports from Florida also indicated that Allen Morris, PC number one man bidding for Davis Cup honors, lost both of his singles matches. Against Rollins, he faced Alfredo Millet, Mexican Davis Cupper whom he whipped in a close match here last season.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE SIGMA NU

The Sigma Nu Fraternity of Presbyterian College journeyed to Columbia, S. C., last Saturday to participate in the Division Seven Convention and Basketball Tournament.

This tournament is held annually and is made up of the intramural teams of the Sigma Nu Fraternity in North and South Carolina. These teams include Duke, North Carolina State, University of North Carolina, University of South Carolina, and Presbyterian College.

The University of South Carolina and Duke played the first round with Presbyterian College drawing a bye because they were the defending champions. Duke whipped South Carolina and went on to meet PC. Presbyterian won by an 18 point margin with the final score being 53-35. The team was led by George Blue and "Big" Bill Taylor, who sparked the team on to victory.

The team received a beautiful trophy exactly like the one they won the year before last. There was no tournament last year because of the conflict of a national convention which was being held

The Sigma Nu's are to be congratulated for not only winning the divisional trophy but also the championship in intramural basketball here at Presbyterian College. These boys should be proud of their team and the record they have set this season.

INTRAMURAL WINNERS

The intramural system here at Presbyterian College has worked out effectively this year. All of the teams have shown an active interest in all of the sports. The members of these teams are to be congratulated for their spirit and cooperation in sports.

Thanks again to all of the teams who participated. Everyone can try harder for the next sport, in order to win the tramural trophy at the end of the year.

FOLLOW THE TRACKMEN

Tomorrow Presbyterian College meets the University of South Carolina in a dual met. This meet proves to be one of the toughest we will have this year.

Everyone here at PC should make the trip, not only to see an exciting meet but to support your track team. With the help of the students at PC, we should win the meet. Everyone think about this and if it is possible, be in Columbia Saturday with PC spirit to support our team.

Riflemen Place In 3rd Army Match

The Presbyterian College rifle team has placed fifth in a field of fifty-three Third Army R. O. T. C. rifle teams in the recent area match. This fifth position entitles the riflemen to compete in the national rifle match. Since only the top ten teams are eligible to enter the national contest, congratulations are in order for the Blue Hose team and its instructor, Sergeant W. O. Wood.

Because of Sergeant Wood's time and effort, PC is sending one of its highest scoring rifle teams to the national match, which is the first time this fifteen-member group has ever fired in national competition.

The team, which has been undefeated in the shoulder matches this year, is firing a much higher score in the national contest than they did in the Third Army match.

The fourth and final stage of the meet will be fired next Wednesday, and it is hoped that the team will be as successful in this firing as they have been all year. This last date will also end the season for the trigger-happy cadets.

New Camel Contest To Begin Next Week

The PC student Camel representative announced today that a new "Camel Cavalier" contest will begin Monday.

A box will be placed in the canteen in which students can place their votes as to who is the "Camel Cavalier." The votes must be written on the back of a Camel or Cavalier cigarette wrapper. There is no limit as to the number of votes that one person can make.

Clues as to the identity of the "Camel Cavalier" will appear daily on the bulletin board in the dining hall.

The Blue Stocking will announce each week's winner and the lucky man will receive 200 Camel and 100 Cavalier cigarettes.

Support the New Honor System

Open Forum Held Tonight

TOMMY STALLWORTH

All Urged to Attend

Student Christian Association president Tommy Stallworth has announced that tonight at 7:30 there will be an open forum on the Honor System proposal in the college chapel.

The forum will be conducted in a formal manner with a panel and moderator. At this time any student may present any question concerning the Honor System.

All students, faculty and administrative personnel are invited and encouraged to attend.

The main reason for the forum, sponsored by the Student Christian Association, is to promote a chance for students to clear up any questions concerning the amendments that have been distributed to the student body and will be voted upon.

Administration's Views on System

Acting Dean Anderson said,

"Saint Paul told the early Christians that every member of the body, be it foot or eye or ear, has a duty to the body as a whole. The discussions of the past weeks have served to remind us that every student has a responsibility to the student body, and that in a very real sense we are our brother's keeper. I believe that Presbyterian College students will vote for the proposed amendments to the Constitution and that they will consistently abide by their decision to create a workable Honor System."

Registrar Campbell stated,

"One has certain privileges only when he is willing to assume certain responsibilities. Responsibilities for one's own action is of first importance. However, in organized society one has to assume certain responsibilities for the group of which he is a member. The Honor System will work when each student seeks privileges for himself first and for his associates who willfully and openly break the system which has his respect."

Academic Dean Bellingrath added,

"I hope very much that the students will vote to inaugurate an effective Honor System at Presbyterian College."

Prof. Glover Plugs Honor

Professor John Glover spoke in chapel last Friday on the Honor System. Senor Glover was asked by the Student Council Honor Chairman Paul Crouch to speak to the students about the proposed changes in the constitution. He gave to the students a clear presentation of the principles of the Honor System.

Sock Takes A Stand

We of the staff of The Blue Stocking do hereby attest that we will support the Honor System of our college to its fullest extent.

This is not done to gain recognition, but to show our loyalty to the college we love and represent.

"I don't know."

"What will happen if it doesn't pass?"

"Oh, I think it will pass."

"But if it doesn't, what advice do you give?"

"Well, Jack, it will be a bad thing to say that the student body didn't want an Honor System. But, it's just like everything else in life; make the best of it however the vote comes out. If it doesn't pass, the students who wanted it need not go around griping and rejecting those who voted against it. If they start saying that the school is going to the dogs and that the student body is ruined, they are going about it in the wrong way. If they really want an Honor System and are honorable themselves, each and everyone of them should just pretend that it passed and start upholding that which might have been. That might sound silly, Jack, but believe me, if certain groups and individuals set the example, I believe that little by little students will begin changing their opinion and perhaps before too much longer every student will come to the realization that it is the best thing for the school."

"Jack," time and precept change a lot of things. So remember, never consider this Honor System a failure just because your opinions are overshadowed by those of someone else . . . . . opinions change too, you know. But let's not be pessimistic. It ought to pass all right."

"I hope so, but thanks for the advice, true. It will be well for us all to remember what you said. Well, let's go bathe our bodies and hit the big road to Winthrop."

Personal and Campus Affairs—George Blue of Union.

Publications — Greg Elam of Lansdale, Pa.

World Relations—Bill Dantzler of Birmingham, Ala.

Public Relations—Ray Lord of Dublin, Ga.

Publicity — Bill Littlejohn of Columbia.

Music—Dick Ropp of Columbia.

Camp and Delegation — Chs. Dukes of Atlanta, Ga.

This group along with the officers, president Tommy Stallworth, vice-president Charles Twitty, secretary Jack Edmunds, and treasurer Jim Fleming, form the nucleus for many student activities. Among these activities are intramural sports, spring picnic, Religious Emphasis Week, dormitory discussions, "Knapsack", and student directory.

The Student Christian Association is a fellowship of students and faculty members who by study, worship, and service are seeking to understand Christ and in His Spirit to serve their fellowmen on the campus, in the nation, and throughout the world.

Frat Lodge Report
To Be Released Soon

P. S. Bailey, a member of the Board of Trustees.. Fraternity Lodges Committee, has submitted a statement to The Blue Stocking to the effect that the committee is very much interested in the proposed fraternity lodges for PC. Mr. Bailey stated that no defenite action has been taken in the matter, but the committee is to meet in the near future to discuss this proposal.

Charles N. Plowden of Summerton, serves as chairman of this committee. Mr. Plowden is an alumnus of PC and, as a fraternity man, is well informed on this phase of fraternal life.

Non-Frat Price
Set for Dances

The Inter-fraternity Council has ruled that for the dance week-end in May, non-fraternity men will be able to purchase tickets for both nights for the price of $6.00. If, however, the tickets are bought separately, the price will be $3.50 per dance.

Thus, tickets for both dances at the same time will save the non-frats a dollar. This proposal was made so that the IFC will not be dependent on door receipts to complete payment on the week-end's expenses.

The IFC feels that this is a fair proposal and hopes that the non-fraternity men on the campus will extend their co-operation.

Greg Elam Will Edit
Student Handbook

Greg Elam of Lansdale, Pa., has been named to the post of editor of the "Knapsack" for 1954. The "Knapsack" is the student handbook of Presbyterian College. It is published by the Student Christian Association of the college for the students and new freshmen.

Elam, a rising senior, served as public relations chairman of the SCA last year and heads the publications committee on the new cabinet. He is president of Pi Kappa Phi Fraternity, vice-president of the International Relations Club and a member of the Glee Club. This year Greg is news editor of "The Blue Stocking."

The new editor says that his staff has been selected and will be announced soon.

New Uniforms
Issued to Cadets

Spring is here and with it come new looks of all sorts among which are oddly shaped and wierdly designed rain hats, "skivvy skirts and those bleu trousers that seem so popular", and suntans of all descriptions. Even the army has taken this suntan fad to heart. Not the same old olive drab garrison caps, but brand new khaki lids are the official covering for the ROTC man's cranium. So that these beanies will not look out of place, Third Army Headquarters has devised an economy program whereby the old HBT's (Herring Bone Twill fatigues) are made obsolete, and in their place is found the most modern cotton khaki uniform. Already issued to the cadets are two khaki shirts, two pairs of khaki trousers, PLUS an ROTC patch and a Presbyterian College patch for each shirt.

The donning of tan officially takes place at drill on Monday morning, April 5.. An interview with "second floor Science Hall headquarters" revealed that this new uniform will have all brass worn on the collars and that ties will be worn army style with the running end tucked between the second and third buttons.

The new look is designed to make the entire batallion appear snappier. Presbyterian College, proud of its ROTC unit, was the first in the state to integrate Military Science and Tactics with its established curriculum, and one of the first units in the Southeast to be organized. Since its establishment here in 1914 the local unit has brought many honors to the schol.

Certain rules have been set up by the Military Department to govern the wearing of the uniform and one of thtse which has most recently been stressed by the department is that when the uniform is worn, it must be complete.

Diploma Fee Due Now

Mrs. George Taylor, Bursar, would like to remind all seniors that an $8.00 diploma fee is due at this time.

As no invoices will be mailed out, seniors are urged to take care of this matter as soon as possible.

Large Student Body Turn-Out to Vote

A majority of 302 students voted today to revise the student body constitution's articles on the Honor System. During the six hours that the polls were open 389 students cast their ballots. This number comprises 66 per cent of the entire student body. Of this number of affirmative votes totaled 78 per cent of those counted.

Student body president Andy Howard stated that to his knowledge this is the maximum number of votes taken in any student election in recent years.

The vote concerned the (1) deleting Article X in its entirety, (2) deletion of Sections 1, 2, and 3 of Article XV and (3) adding of a new Article X. This article reads:

ARTICLE X
The Honor System

PREAMBLE: It is presumed that any student who matriculates at Presbyterian College is willing to conform to a pattern of gentlemanly behavior, of mutual trust, and honor; that he shall deal honorably with his fellowmen. Specifically not being given to lie, to cheat, or to steal, constitutes the Honor System.

Since cheating is frequently a problem on college campuses, certain specific provisions in regard to it are set forth clearly as part of the Honor System.

Section 1. Cheating is defined as the employment of any illicit aid in any assigned work.

Section 2. Further, in regard to cheating, the giving of any illicit aid in any assigned work is equally a breach of the Honor System.

Section 3. It must be clearly understood that the enforcement and maintenance of the Honor System is not a special and exclusive responsibility of the Student Council which is a judicial and not a law enforcement body. The enforcement and maintenance of the Honor System is the individual and collective responsibility of all members of the Student Body whose duty shall at all times be to refrain from, to discourage, and as far as is posible to prevent all attempts at cheating, and where these efforts are unsuccessful to report all such cases to the Student Council for appropriate disciplinary action. Failure to discharge this responsibility is in itself an attack on the Honor System and will eventually procure its downfall.

Section 4. The signing of a pledge, though not an integral part of the Honor System, may be used at times as a healthy reminder of the inviolability of on's word. Yet the omission of such a pledge does not release one from the responsibility of his honesty.

Section 5. The instructor may use his descretion concerning his presence during tests and examinations as well as concerning arrangements appropriate for such

Lest We Forget

Though it may seem ironic, the only thing that a person keeps when he dies is his life. A person's material possessions, his reputation and even his memory become less and less.

Institutions are in reality the living symbols of persons. They are living remainders of great men's lives. Emerson said that every institution is but the lengthened shadow of one man. Indeed Presbyterian College is but the lengthened shadow of William Plummer Jacobs.

Dr. Jacobs was one of the most remarkable men of the last hundred years. His was a life completely dedicated to God and man. It is particularly fitting that we take this opportunity to turn to the life of Dr. Jacobs and examine the foundation of his life and therefore of this college. On this 112th anniversary month of his birth, let us pay a tribute to the founder of Presbyterian College.

Perhaps one of his greatest attributes was the fact that he had the courage to stand up for what he believed to be right. He could stand opposition and yet go on with his work.

There was a sublimity in the way in which he gave himself whole-heartedly to his work. Nothing seemed to quench his zeal for achievement. Although physically handicapped, he would not let anyone take his job but continued with even greater perserverance.

We should take the qualities of this great man's life as an incentive to us to develop ourselves to the fullest extent possible. His consistent faith and perserverance in spite of opposition should hold us back from giving up when we are confronted with difficulties.

As it has been said by another writer, the greatest tribute we could pay him today would be to model our lives in some fashion after his life.

Dr. Jacobs' motto perhaps most accurately describes his life: "Seekest thou great things for thyself? Seek them not!"

In his Last Will and Testament, Dr. Jacobs stated that his most urgent hope was that Presbyterian College would ever remain a devoted Presbyterian institution. He said, "I pray God that my offspring to the remotest generations may uphold, defend, and assist it."

The Blue Stocking wishes to pay tribute to the founder of Presbyterian College and to challenge its students to fulfill the desires which he set forth.

His Eyes Are Dim . . .

TB's Casino

By JACK EDMUNDS

I walked in the room tne other night to find TB and some of his cronies engaged in a little gentlemanly sport at the "gaming table." I decided to stick around and watch a real gambler operate.

From behind his jack-high straight, TB could just manage to see over the half-empty bottle of bliss and through the inch thick Lucky smoke that filled the room, to the greasy goon sitting opposite him over the blanket-covered Samsonite two-suiter. He saw the goon's four dirty finger nails and wondered exactly what he was holding in that quintet of "bent bicycles."

The shark to his right with the dirty blonde crew cut picked up the wet bottomed bottle and slipped his Bible 54 note book under it so as not to moisten the blanket. He then bet two and looked to T with a satisfied smirk on his face. To his surprise, T saw his two and raised him two more.

This completely confused the saintly-looking ministerial student on True's left. (He justified his entering the game by saying that he, being blessed with diabolicalness, was sure to win since he could bluff the fins off a fish). However, he needed time to survey the situation and while he scratched his Lucky Tiger soaked cranium, True turned to me.

"Jack, how you doing?"

"Well, I'm glad you finally saw me. What you got to say?"

"Jack, you know, these wee hours of the mornings that I spend trying to fatten my wallet should, so it seems to me, be good for something else. And if these darn students on the campus who would bet their last peny in a game in which I'm dealing the "plyable plastics", would drop that penny in the put it in the collection plate next March of Dimes wheelbarrow, or Easter when they go to church, I might get to bed at a decent hour and get some sacktime.

I might note that the real trouble comes after the game when I try to collect all those IOU's that are written on the back of torn sheets of Dr. John's all American Lit. quizzes. Getting money out of some of my customers is as hard as trying to get the last Roosevelt dime in circulation away from a die-hard Democrat."

He finished talking just in time to catch the dismay in the ministerial student's face as he folded up.

"Well, I'm closing up the casino for the evening, Jack, cause this floor is beginning to sway and the cards are slipping off the table.

"At thees time I must quit, because:

My eyes are dim,
I cannot see;
Must hit that sack,
It's half past three."

"Good night, True."

Dilbert's Dirt

By DILBERT LAMPOON

Well another week and some more dirt for you cats. This past week has proved both prosperous and otherwise. First of all I would like to relay a message from the editor concerning the author of this lovely ditty. Newsome, Hamilton and Edmunds are not the guilty ones. I wish you would get off of these boys, as you know these three have had a pretty tough week. Jack (I've got a million dollar line) Edmunds has bitten the dust. It seems that a doll from Winthrop has knocked a hole in that line. Tough luck, Jack.

Ole Jelly Belly is up to his neck with troubles; he doesn't know whether he is in love or not. Some of you love counselors help the old man out.

Hamilton went home for the weekend and no girl. She was visiting friends. As you can see these three have enough troubles for the time.

It seems that some of our fine students date some of the local high school queens. Well, they left town last week on the senior trip. Being the gentlemen these fellows are, they went to see these fair ones off. Moments later George Everett, Curtis Freeman and Joe Frye were persuading the conductor to stop the train. I am glad you boys did not decide to ride all the way to Washington.

This paragraph is dedicated to two blue-eyed girls named Nancy, one at Agnes Scott and one at Flora MacDonald. Lets hope Willie Neville doesn't get them mixed up in the future, and I hope you girls never meet Um boy, that would be dandy.

It seems that mothers are getting rather popular at PC. Jim Brickell had a visitor last week. It seems that she was the mother of Jim's girl. I quote, "I like you, Jimmy, but my daughter is too young to get serious with anyone and I would rather you didn't date her anymore." Sorry Jim.

In closing, I would like to congratulate the baseball team in winning the ball game Tuesday. You fellows made a good beginning. Keep it up!

Navy Documentary Presented This Week

All who have been awaiting an action picture in sound in the series of movies presented weekly by the English department will be pleased at this week's presentation. Action, noise and excitement are all stressed in "The Fighting Lady", a Navy documentary sound film of an aircraft carrier in action.

The movie gained much acclaim when it was released during World War II. This is one of the most recent releases to be offered to the student body by the English department in their selection of the best movies ever produced.

The film will be shown in the chapel at 8:30 on Wednesday night as usual.

'Eternity' Film Year's T...

By BILL HAMILTON

"From Here to Eternity" is coming to the Broadway Theatre on April 12 and will play until April 15. The story is taken from James Jones' novel of the pre-Pearl Harbor Amercian soldier. Burt Lancaster stars in the role of a tough, two-fisted, yet sympathetic sergeant.

Montgomery Clift plays the part of a young soldier with an over - independence of spirit. Frank Sinatra excels in the role of a little Italian-American soldier.

The story is about a young soldier, Clift, who refuses to box for his company team. Because of his refusal, he is given the "treatment" by the company.

Burt Lancaster wins Deborah Kerr, the company commander's wife; but, since he will not attempt to become an officer because of his hatred for them, Lancaster loses Miss Kerr. Clift is killed in the attack on Pearl Harbor and Sinatra dies in a prison.

This promises to be one of the top films of the year. It is full of adventure, romance, and emotion.

If Winter Comes, Can Spring Be Far Behind?' . . . PC Style -- 1954

The extensive spring sports program at PC has fallen into full swing with this year's arrival at the vernal equinox. The four major spring sports have been snapped by The Blue Stocking photographer during action. Tennis, track, baseball and golf make the sportsmen agree with the weatherman that spring is here to stay.

Presbyterian College track lost its first meet of the season to the University of South Carolina by a score of 81-50. Presbyterian won only 5 out of the 15 first places.

Starring for PC was Delane Johnson, a freshman from Spartanburg, who won both the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Johnson placed in front of Tommy Woodlee, who is the state record holder for these events. In the 100 yard dash, Johnson won by beating Woodlee by a few inches. This dash was run in 9.8 seconds and the 220 was won by running it in 22.4 seconds. In these dashes it was very close and both did some great running.

John Fesperman, last year's miler, was edged out by South Carolina's Garn McBride who went on to win the 2 mile race and also the 1 mile.

In the 440 yard dash and half mile, South Carolina went on to an easy victory.

First places for Presbyterian were: the broad jump, won by Bobby Vass; the shot-put, won by Bob Harrington; and the 120 high hurdles, taken by Jimmy Hancock.

Bastile Falls Again

Citadel Loses to PC in Baseball Opener

The Presbyterian College baseball nine opened the 1954 season with a win over The Citadel 10-5. During the entire game rain prevailed, and despite this difficulty, the PC team won after a period of play of 6 1-2 innings.

The Blue Hose team went ahead with one run, but The Citadel came up in the third inning with 5 runs. Presbyterian scored eight runs in the fourth inning to clinch the ball game.

For the Blue Hose, Luther Shealy had a triple and a single for four times at bat. PC got nine hits altogether, while The Citadel hit only four singles which made up all of their hits. The Citadel collected their 5 runs in the third inning by two hits, three bases on balls and one error.

Misenheimer was the picher for Presbyterian and Roberts took the catcher's mitt. For The Citadel it was Proctor and Matthews.

Golfers Win One, Lose One Match

The PC linkmen redeemed themselves yesterday by downing Wofford 18-3 after losing to Clemson at the beginning of the week. Warren Mayes was medalist in the match with a low score of 76.

The golfers are improving and all the team played exceptionally good matches with Warren Mayes over Hawkins 3-0; Robert Odum over Canady 3-0; Dodson over Moore 2-1; Gene Mabe over Brabban 1 1-2-1-2; and Foster over Suggs 3-0.

PC Net Team Wins First Meet

PC Claims Beta Founder

The faculty member interviewed this week is Dr. John W. Harris, professor of English.

Dr. Harris was born in Spartanburg, South Carolina, in 1895. He went to elementary school in Spartanburg and received his high school education at Fairforest High School in Spartanburg County.

He enrolled at Wofford College in 1912. When he graduated in 1916, he received both an A.B. and an M.A. degree. Upon graduating from Wofford, Dr. Harris taught English at the Darlington School for Boys in Rome, Georgia, for two years.

In 1918 he enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Force. He was an instructor in flying for fourteen months in Texas and was a first lieutenant at the time of his discharge in 1919.

Dr. Harris continued his schooling by enrolling at Columbia University in 1919. He studied law there for a year before going to Wofford, where he taught in the department of English. He remained at Wofford until 1934, taking a leave of absence from 1924 until 1928 in order to work on his Ph.D. at the University of North Carolina.

The Beta Club, a service, scholarship organization, was founded by Dr. Harris in 1934. He worked with the Beta Club exclusively from 1935 until 1940. Due to his efforts the club now has some 2100 chapters in 16 states and approximately 60,000 members. Headquarters for the Beta Club are in Spartanburg, Dr. Harris' hometown.

Dr. Harris came to PC in 1940 and since that time has taught in the English department. He is now head of that department.

His hobbies, for which he has little time, include photography and carpentry. In the way of photography, he has taken many motion pictures of athletic events here at PC. In the field of carpentry, he makes tables and chairs.

TWO MORE RESOLVE

The president of the Glee Club has brought to the attention of the editor that two names were not turned over to The Blue Stocking office for publication on the Glee Club's Honor System Resolution in Thursday's extra edition. The two additional members are Chris Patte and Sam Workman.

HONOR SYSTEM CHANGE

tests and examinations

Penalties

It cannot be too strongly emphasized that all forms of cheating are breaches of the Honor System; however, recognizing the fact that attitudes prevalent in earlier areas of school life may render it difficult for some to adjust themselves to this particular aspect of the Honor System, there will be two classes of penalties as follows:

1. For cheating: (A) for the first offense—2 weeks suspension: (B) for the second offense—expulsion.
2. For any other violation of the Honor System—

PC Students Seek Better Mail Distribution System

Because of the marked student concern regarding the new system of mail distribution, The Blue Stocking has taken a poll of the student body regarding this matter.

The question which was asked the various students was, "What is your opinion of the new mail system?"

Buddy DuBose—"It seems to me that a much more efficient system can be worked out which will enable students to receive their mail on time when they want it."

Andy Howard—"I think it is a great inconvenience to the student body. Surely some better solution to the problem can be worked out."

Rip Johnson—"There must be an easier way. Even the Army does a better job than this. Possibly a system could be worked out in co-operation with dormitory deliveries."

Ed Hay—"I don't think it is very effective, but due to the circumstances it seems to be the best for the present."

Ray Smith—"The new mail system is entirely inadequate. Because of the schedules of many students and the line that is always there, it is impossible to get the mail daily. There must be a change in the very near future."

Jimmy Stevenson — "It is very confusing and inconvenient. I stood in line fifteen minutes yesterday and then I did'nt have any mail. Some changes have got to be made."

George Everett — "A tedious process. However, improvements could be made that would save time and ease of strain."

Moon McQueen—"It is a waste of time now, but with the way mail is missing, it seems to be the only solution unless new mail boxes are installed."

Bobby Vass—"It's too bad you can't trust the boys you live with. The present system is entirely too slow. A better method should be worked out in order to give the boys better service."

Means of Healing A Broken Right A

"When I contemplate the extent to which the moral sentiments, the intelligence, the affections of so many millions of people,—sealed up by a sacred charm within the cover of a letter,—daily circulate through a country I am compelled to regard the post office, next to Christianity, as the right arm of our modern civilization."

These were the words of Edward Everett and are seemingly the sentiments of the student body of Presbyterian College.

We are confronted with one of the greatest and most widespread problems on the campus during our college days. The problem of mail distribution vitally concerns every student on our campus.

Certain very urgent factors have developed over the course of the year which have demanded a more systematic and efficient system of mail distribution.

We would like to point out to the students that this request was made by the United States Postal Inspector, and the present system was suggested as a possible solution to the problem.

We wish to emphasize that this new means of mail distribution is not an attempt by the administration to further regiment the student's life, but an earnest effort to clarify the situation which had been created by the loss of letters containing checks and sums of money.

According to the new system each student calls for his mail personally each day. The hours during which the student post office remains open are 9:30 to 10:40 and again from 1:30 to 2:00 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday. On Tuesday and Thursday the mail is distributed from 9:30 to 11:15 and from 1:30 to 2:00.

The Saturday hours are 9:00 to 10:40. The evening delivery each day, Monday through Friday, is at 5:15 to 5:30. The Sunday mail has also been eliminated under the new set-up.

In considering this problem and attempting to offer some suggestion for further systematizing the mail system, the Blue Stocking wishes to make its stand clear.

Our approach to this problem is not an antagonistic one. We simply feel with the aid of student suggestions that we may in some way be able to help the college to arrange the system so that the mail may be distributed more at the students' convenience.

The first suggestion that we would offer is one which we feel would solve the problem once and for all. It would involve considerable expense, but we feel that a thoroughly efficient mail system would pay for this expense in the long run.

This suggstion is that the college purchase a new set of mail boxes to be installed in the student post office. We propose that enough boxes be bought so that each student would have his own separate, indivdual box. By an arrangement of using keys or combination locks, the individual student and he alone would have access to the mail. In this way there would be no chance of mail being lost or stolen.

However, if because of the lateness of time in the semester it would be impossible to secure these boxes or if such extensive changes in preparing the SCA building for the installment of these boxes before the summer vacation would be necessary, the Blue Stocking offers a scond suggstion for the mail set-up for the rest of the semester.

A number of students have expressed the feeling that the present hours in which the post office is open are set more for the mail clerk's convenience than that of the student body as a whole.

It is true that a considerable number of required courses are taught during the ... riod. This is the period during wh... office is primarily open. When it ... for the post office to open at th... hour as was the case on Monday o... those students who plan to get the... back after lunch if they wish to ge... fore the second period begins to h...

Dilbert's Dirt

By Dilbert Lampoon

Spring has sprung and the sap's rising thus brings about a little gossip.

A good bit of activity has been going on around Winthrop this past weekend. Robert Odum had his third and final date with Martha Ann. I hear his theme song was "Baby I Want Some Good Lovin'," and she answered with "Didn't Want To Do It."

I hear that "Round Around The Middle" Paschall had a date last week; these fat boys are ly the lovers.

The Steak House in Spartanburg is a rather popular place nowadays. It seems that Gene Altman and the followers of the "Red A" had a nice time there last week-end. This place really inspires you. King Martin challenged the entire Wofford student body. I'm glad "Daddy" Huggins was along to care for them.

Edgar Wrenn is sporting a new picture, fellows—Dean Hudson's vocalist and Edgar all wrapped up nice and neat. "Red Fox" is a lover with a little bliss in him.

The bouquet of spring onions goes this week to Bob Falls. They are having a sale on diamonds in Rock Hill and he just couldn't resist. I guess Jake is waiting on the military check so he can make a down payment.

Well I guess that's all for this week. Be careful, Dilbert is everywhere. Best of luck to the "Tweety Birds" as they leave on their spring tour.

Leslie Howard Stars in 'Pygmalion' Tuesday

George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion," starring Leslie Howard and Wendy Miller, will be the main feature of a double feature sound film presentation in chapel Tuesday night at 8:30.

As an extra feature "Endland's Shakespeare", a film of special interest to all English majors, will also be shown.

In "Pygmalion", a demanding language professor tries to transform an illiterate flower girl in... to a gracious lady of high society. The result is one of the funniest stories ever written. Mr. Evans considers the dialogue so funny that, even though he has seen the film several times, he is planning to see it again next Tuesday.

"England's Shakespeare" is an effort to contrast what the commentary calls the peaceful humanistic age of Shakespeare to that of our own coldly mechanical era, in terms of typical travelogue shots.

All of the buildings and monuments connected with the poet are shown. There are also shots ... Memorial Theatre and of action in costume from some of the famous roles.

The total length of time that these two pictures will take will be aproximately forty - five minutes.

MR. MORRIS

During his first year at the university, Mr. Morris was in the V-12 Naval program. At the end of his first year he was selected for the Naval Reserve Officers Training Course. Upon graduating in 1946, he received a S. B. degree in naval science and a commission in the Navy.

Student President Expresses Appreciation

• Honor System Depends on Individual •

On behalf of the Student Council I would like to say "thanks a lot" to the student body for the splendid participation in the voting on the Honor System.

You not only showed that you believe in and stand for an honorable way of life by 66 per cent of you voting in favor of the system, but you also showed that you are interested in campus affairs and will express your opinion on important matters as 78 per cent of you did in this balloting.

As far as can be checked from records, this is the largest number of students who have ever voted in any election at Presbyterian College.

The Honor System is now a part of our Constitution, clearly defined and set forth. Its effectiveness now depends not on the Student Council or the faculty but on each student who attends PC.

With each sudent giving this system his fullest co-operation the dream we had in mind when we drew it up can some day be realized—that of the Honor System not being a set of rules to be enforced by the Student Council, but rather being a tradition and a Spirit here at PC.

—ANDY HOWARD,
Student Body President

Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. says . . .

FOR more than thirty years we have used research day in and day out learning about tobaccos and cigarettes in the public's interest.

Continuously we and our consultants have analyzed, experimented with and smoked all kinds of tobaccos . . . especially Southern Bright, Burley, Maryland and Turkish cigarette tobaccos.

Our own cigarettes and competitive brands have been submitted to the most exacting scientific scrutiny including thousands of analyses of millions of pounds of tobaccos.

From all these thousands of analyses, and other findings reported in the leading technical journals, our Research Department has found no reason to believe that the isolation and elimination of any element native to cigarette tobaccos today would improve smoking.

For four years we have maintained in smoker's interest an intensified larger diversified research program. A half-mil dollar 30-ton machine, the world's powerful source of high voltage electr designed solely for our use has tested ten thousands of cigarettes. Coach Bill Crutchfield Returnd to Hospital

The Blue Stocking regrets to learn that Coach Bill Crutchfield has had to return to the Hays Hospital because of an infection that set in after his operation two weeks ago.

However, he is in good spirit and his condition is described as fair. He will be released from the hospital by the end of the week and will be at his home until he is able to return to his duties as head baseball coach.

The Tragedy of Wasted Time

Time has been spoken of as one of our most important possession. It is important from the standpoint of what we do with our time, the manner in which we use it, the end for which it is the means.

The very wise advice was once given to a young man that every moment lost is so much character and advantage lost, and every moment usefully employed is so much time laid out at prodigious interest.

One of our most pressing problems is the employment of our time. A period of time can contain only a certain amount of thought and activity. It is up to us to decide how it will be used.

With the mid-semester reports already at home there is an indication that somewhere along the way time which could have and should have been spent wisely, was squandered.

However, with the reelase of grades there is always the immature practice of putting the blame for low marks on the instructors. We should realize the folly of this attitude and accept the obligation which we have to ourselves and to Presbyterian College.

We are morally obligated to develop ourselves to the fullest extent possible mentally, physically, and spiritually. This is our most important obligation.

We also have a responsibility to hold high the name and ideals of our college. When we enrolled here, we accepted this responsibility. We must realize that the academic standing of the college is the combined standing of its individual students. The name which the college receives in the outside world is the collective worth of our own individual characters.

The principal complaint for low grades is that a person cannot-find time to study. To tell the truth, a person generally makes time for what he really wants to do. It is not a matter of time, but a matter of will that is lacking.

It has been wisely said that it is astonishing that any one can squander away in absolute idleness one single moment of that small portion of time allotted to us.

Time has been said to fly, but it is not so much time that flies as that we waste it. Any failure to make the most of time is a waste of time.

Indeed time is a sacred gift and every day a little life. There is no excuse for being dull. There is too much to be done, too much to be seen, too much to partake of to waste a single moment.

A consistent application to one's studies leaves ample time for the enjoyment of recreation and fellowship. However, mismanagment of time can only result in failure and the individual alone can be blamed.

It is not too late now to resolve to make the best of your time. A careful allotment of time will end in greater satisfaction for the individual.

Every good thing depends on time for its value. What we get from college will depend upon the time we put into the acquiring of an education. What we receive from life itself will depend upon the time we spend in trying to make it meaningful.

We should determine now to make the most of time. The result will be an education that will mean something worthwhile and a life that will be worth living.

Dear Dilbert,

I was sitting here blowing the foam off my bliss when I thought of all you lads hard at work back at old P College; so I thought I'd scratch you out a few lines on the back of this parlay card.

From the way the mail system is so messed up down there, I'll probably be back before you receive this. Some of those letter-starved lads will be so desperate after they miss mail call a couple of times that they will start tunneling under the SCA building. If Dean Andy thinks it's bad that some of the doors are off the mail boxes, wait until he comes in some morning to find the SCA building minus one mail room.

Dil, old boy, I really wish you could be up here with us. We've really had some experiences.

"King Kong" Cooper was mistaken for a senator by some darn tourist and before they found out any different, Drayton had them believing that South Carolina was going to secede from the Union. the PC ROTC was going to march against Washington, and Sumter was going to be the new national capital.

No formal meeting of the Kappa Alpha fraternity was held this week.

Mack Ballard has been named as Pi Kappa Phi's representative on the favor committee. At this week's meeting final plans were made for the closed social on April 23. Dilbert's Dirt

By Dilbert Lampoon

I just received a letter from my friend TB and he tells me that the song birds are turning it on in ole D. C. They ran in to a small amount of trouble when Joe McCarthy questioned Buddy DuBose on his loyalty to PC. Joe was under the impression that he thinks more of Glee Club.

Lake Greenwood has become popular again as the temperature is rising. Last Saturday night was the scene of the season's first party, thanks to the Laurens girls. Some of the couples seen around the fire were Cliff Waddell and Marlene, Betty Lee and Vass, and Tommy and Frankie Cliff wanted to take Ollie, but he's true lovin' these days.

Well, Jim Sloan has done it again. Yes, he has pinned another girl. I guess the pinning is in order as she is the only girl that has dated him over two times in the last year. The part I like is that he used Bobby Jackson's pin.

George Blue had a visitor this week from Limestone. Too bad that George was practicing baseball, so that "Pig" Medlin had to entertain her. Um boy, what an afternoon.

Remember the holidays don't ... Thursday, I don't want to catch any of you Dean's List boys leaving before time.

Tennis Clinic Is Held For Clinton Children

A tennis clinic is being held on the PC courts from 3 to 5 o'clock every Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoon for the youngsters of Clinton.

Coach Leighton and the entire tennis team are helping with the instruction which deals with every phase of the game. The children must furnish their own racquets, but all of the other equipment is furnished by the team.

There has been a great response to this instruction, with from 60 to 75 children turning out for each lesson.

Blue Hose Diamond Men Defeated Twice

The Presbyterian College baseball team met visiting Wofford on the home diamond Monday afternoon and dropped a 5-1 decision.

Southpaw Harry Hamilton started for PC and pitched fair ball until he became wild in the sixth inning. He was removed in favor of Bobby Matthews who came in and permitted Wofford only one more run.

It took PC nine innings before they finally tallied, that run coming in the bottom of the ninth. Wofford played errorless ball and the Wofford pitcher scattered the PC hits so that they were ineffective. Hamilton was charged with the loss, his first of the year. This gives him a 1-1 record for the year.

The Newberry Indians invaded PC Wednesday afternoon and went home with a close 2-1 decision under their belts.

Guy Misenheimer went all the way for PC and pitched a nice game. His mates failed to back him up at the times that counted and two runs were scored.

PC brought the crowd to its feet in the bottom of the ninth when George Blue doubled and scored on Luther Welsh's single. Then with a man on third and two outs, Red Huggins grounded to the second baseman.

Misenheimer was charged with the loss, giving him a 1-2 record so far.

Holiday Sports . . .

Although spring holidays are just around the corner and everyone is thinking of relaxing for a few days, the sports picture for PC's athletic teams is far from relaxing.

The three major teams will be on the road during the entire period of the holidays, with the tennis team going north and the track and baseball teams heading south.

On April 10, the tennis team travels to Chapel Hill to take on the UNC net team. After this encounter, the netters take on Georgetown University in the nation's capital. As if this wasn't enough competition, Morris and company have to travel up to the Ivy League and take on Princeton and Yale.

On the way back, they stop off at Charlottesville to take on the University of Virginia. However, we've got one of the best teams in the nation and after this tour, you can bet that everybody else will know it, too. Good luck, boys!

We were among the spectators at the PC-Newberry game on Wednesday, and if those Blue Ho... don't quit trying to win their games in the ninth inning, they're going to be minus a few fans due to broken hearts.

Maybe the warm Florida sun will bring out the best in them. They play Jacksonville Naval Base on April 16 and 17, and then take on Rollins and Stetson in that order. Here's hoping that the moundsmen will go through Florida like Sherman went through Georgia.

Reminder to Students . . .

If you don't want to miss a good trackmeet this week end, stay on the campus until about four o'clock Saturday afternoon. The thin-clads take on Wofford and we should se some fine running by the future state champs.

Remember that although these teams are on the road, they're still your teams and they need your constant support. Let's give the boys a good send-off and let them know we're proud of them!

PC Racketmen, Davidson Vie in Tomorrow's Match

Last Match Before Tour

The Davidson Wildcats, arch rivals of the Blue Hose, invade the racket squad on PC ground Saturday afternoon. Davidson has always been a formidable opponent for PC and this year's team proves to be no exception.

As usual, PC will be led by Al Morris, one of the finest tennis players in the south. Johnny Brownlaw will play number two and Dick MacAtee number three.

The latter, a Port Royall, Va., native, has shown up well in recent matches and pushes Brownlaw for the number two slot.

This match will be the last home appearance for these six men before they leave on their northern tour.

Dunning, Gaines Will Give Commencement Addresses

Two religious educators will deliver the principal addresses at Presbyterian College's 73rd commencement exercises on May 30-31.

Dean George C. Bellingrath today announced that Dr. Norman C. Dunning will preach the baccalaureate sermon on May 30 and Dr. F. Pendleton Gaines, Jr., will give the commencement address on May 31.

Dr. Dunning is an internationally prominent British minister and president of Haworth Hall, University College, at Kingston-upon Hill, England. Dr. Gaines serves as president of Wofford College.

The British minister-educator is familiar to Clinton residents, having conducted a series of services at the First Presbyterian Church two years ago and more recently during a week last January. Recognized throughout the world for his preaching ability, he gave up a lucrative law practice to go into the ministry. Dr. Dunning was graduated from Cambridge University with the M.A. and L.L.B. degrees, and after deciding to enter the ministry, he returned to the University for training. He was ordained in the Methodist church.

Dr. Dunning served as a chaplain in the Royal Air Force during World War II and became president of Haworth Hall ministry training college after the war.

Dr. Gaines, this state's youngest college president, has been head of Wofford since 1952. He came there from Southern Methodist University, where he served as dean of students. Prior to that time, Dr. Gaines held positions as director of public relations and development at the University of Houston, superintendent of the Gulf Coast Military Academy, and dean of men and assistant to the president of Birmingham Southern College. He received his A.B. degree from Washington and Lee in 1937, his M.A. and Ph.D. degree from the University of Virginia.

SCA Sponsors Relief Collection

The U. S. Government is releasing to Church World Service almost unlimited amounts of surplus commodities to feed the hungry abroad, according to a recent announcement. Only distribution costs, which are estimated at 5 per cent, must be paid by the church. Hence every dollar contributed to this cause is worth twenty dollars in food, to be given through Christian channels.

As a result of this release of commodities by the government, the campus SCA is sponsoring a drive to raise money for this cause. A collection was made by canvassers on the campus Friday night and another collection will be made during chapel on Monday.

This is a school-wide campaign; the faculty, as well as the student body, is urged to contribute.

SCA President Tommy Stallworth stated, "I hope that every person on the Presbyterian College campus will take advantage of this opportunity for real Christian service."

SCA Spring Retreat Held At Camp Long

"Seek Ye First . . . Then?" will be the theme of the South Carolina SCA Spring Retreat held this week at Camp Long in Aiken. The Rev. Vance Barron, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Charleston, will be the main speaker for this statewide meet.

Five workshops will be conducted during the week end. The group on Personal Relations will be led by Miss Eleanor Foxworth of Kingstree; the Leadership Workshop for Christian Association Officers is to be led by Roy Cooper of Clemson; Fellowship for Other Christian Association Workers will be conducted by Ted Ledeen of the University of South Carolina; After College—What, by the Rev. Jim Tubbs of Florence; and How to Really Live in College, by the Rev. N. C. Kirkland of Conway.

On Sunday morning there will be the installation of new officers, the closing address, and a communion service.

William Neville of Newberry, is the present state treasurer for this group. Miss Kittie Stanley of Winthrop, is state president.

Elections Deserve Attention

The students of PC will be called on to select their student council leaders for the coming year on Monday. The position of a student council member is one of the highest honors on the campus, and, therefore, the election of these men deserves the careful and deliberate consideration of every voter.

A deep look into the candidate's character and leadership potential should be made before voting. This position requires a person of strong will, absolute absence of favoritism and partiality, and genuine Christian personality.

During the Honor System vote a majority of students went to the polls and the change was inaugurated. If everyone supports this election as the last one was supported, there can be no doubt that the persons elected are the choice of the student body and will have the support of their backers.

The leadership of the PaC SaC should be awarded to a person who is conscientious in his desire to uphold the name of the college and will put his whole effort into the publication of a yearbook which can be looked back upon with pride.

A college annual holds in it the memories of some of the most pleasant days in a person's life. The person who prepares the record of these memories should be one who will take this responsibility and, with the help of the students, give his best talents to this purpose.

Netmen, Coach Merit Praise

Coach Jim Leighton, in his fifth year at the helm of the Blue Hose tennis program, has begun to realize the full fruits of his court efforts. He has assembled a talented squad of players, arranged the college's most ambitious schedule in its history, and produced a star who has already received serious consideration for the United States Davis Cup Team.

This season has shown without doubt what the right team with the right training can do. Six players from a college with an enrollment of less than 500 have downed teams from some of the largest schools in the nation. They have shown their strength by defeating some of the top tennis teams in the country.

Certainly this year's team takes its place as one of the foremost leaders on the Southern scene. To a very great degree they fulfill the ambition of the late President William P. Jacobs who began the program of tennis superiority at Presbyterian College.

The Blue Stocking's hat is off to these men who have carried high and gloriously the proud name of the garnet and blue!

Dilbert Lampoon's Dirt

By Dilbert Lampoon

The holidays are over and so are many of the campus love affairs. I hope all of you had a nice vacation.

Roy Spann ringed his doll up Greenville way and she still has it. Roy, you are a lucky boy.

Davidson has knocked Gene Carter out of the saddle. Cecilia refused to go "steady" with Gene and informed him of his competition.

A number of the students are related to each other at PC, and it certainly brings about a closer atmosphere. Buddy DuBose found out that he and Joan Britton are cousins. I wonder if they are "kissin kin."

Rip Johnson pinned Rose Martin a couple of weeks ago. Now he says he has gotten it back and given it to a girl at Converse. From his roommate I found out that he has two pins. Boy, what an operator!

"Preacher" Ketchem pinned a nurse in his home town, and he is floating on the clouds. He is even using her for his sponsor for two organizations in the PaC-SaC.

Jack Pope has pitched a tent on the Agnes Scott campus and is enjoying the outdoor life very much.

Katie and Bill are hitting it off smoothly. She even invited Bill to spend the holidays with her. How was everything in the hills, Bill?

I would like to congratulate the tennis, track and baseball teams for their fine work over the holidays.

See you next week . . . . .

Nazi Propaganda Films Will Be Shown Tuesday

Four Nazi propaganda films made during World War II will be shown in the college chapel Tuesday night as the twelfth presentation of the English department's series of significant films of the past.

These films are released and made available to select groups by the American Museum of Modern Art Library.

These four short releases give an idea of the type of propaganda perpetrated by the Nazi government upon the people of Europe.

PC Netters Seek 14th Straight Crown; State Invitational Tournament To Begin

• Over 30 Men Enter New Meet

wo state-wide intercollegiate tennis tournaments—one of inaugurated this week—will be held at Presbyterian College week, beginning Tuesday.

he South Carolina Intercollegiate Singles and Doubles Champship is scheduled for its 1954 edition. Held in conjunction with ll be a new meet, the South Carolina Invitational.

Presbyterian College, annual tournament host, is favored to win its 14th consecutive state tennis championship. And this domination by PC of the Palmetto net sport is the reason for the newly inaugurated Invitational.

The PC squad, one of the best in history and paced by Davis Cup prospect Allen Morris, will be restricted to participation in the closed Championship — along with those top players of other colleges who wish to compete.

Netters entering the Invitational will come from the University of South Carolina, Furman, Wofford, College of Charleston, Erskine and possibly Clemson and the Citadel.

PC Coach Jim Leighton developed the idea of staging two tournaments because of declining interest in recent years in the one championship meet. Presbyterian players have dominated these meets to such an extent the past three seasons that by the quarter-final round, only Blue Stocking entries have remained.

Plans to inaugurate the Invitational already have brought a good response, Leighton reports. More than 30 players from other colleges are entered in this meet which will be limited to single play. The closed Championship is expected to have at least 15 singles and 7 doubles entries. Of these, nine singles and four doubles will be from PC.

Netmen Play Host to Kalamazoo; Back from Successful 5-Win Tour

• Single Loss Ceded to Princeton Squad

The PC racket men will play host today to visiting Kalamazoo in the last dual match of the 1954 season. This marks the only meet of these two schools this season.

This match comes at the end of a successful 12-day northern tour for the first six men on the PC team. Victories were landed over North Carolina, Duke, Yale, Georgetown, and Virginia.

The only defeat of the tour was a 7-2 loss to Princeton on Monday.

Allen Morris was the big key as the Blue Stockings handed Duke its fourth setback of the season with a 5-4 score. In the featured No. 1 match Morris gave the Blue Devil Buzzy Hettleman a 9-7, 6-0 decision.

Morris again led the PC team in giving North Carolina a 5-4 setback, the second loss of the season for this first-rate team. Powerful service and vicious cross-court shots by the PC star were responsible for the outstroking of the UNC lead man, Herb Browne. PC made a complete sweep of the doubles matches in this second tour win.

The Leighton men completely routed the Georgetown University players of Washington, D. C., in a 9-0 decision. In only two matches was it necessary to play three sets. The closest play came between Georgetown's Al McNabb and PC's Jerry Hunt who finally won 7-5, 6-8, 8-6.

The Princeton Tigers handed the Hosemen their only defeat of the tour by outscoring them 7-2. Jerry Hunt posted PC's only singles win by beating Ed Dailey. The Tiger doubles combination of Pablo Eisenberg and Earl Schulze were routed by Allen Morris and John Brownlow by a 6-3, 6-4 score.

The strong Presbyterian team edged out Yale's Ivy League team 5-4, in Monday's match. Morris' booming service aided him in defeating the Yale sophomore sensation, Bill Cranston, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

The Blue Hose powerful tennis team added Virginia to its impressive list of major college victims, 6-3, Thursday.

Trackmen Clash With Clemson Today

• Blue Hose Take Meets from Wofford and Mercer

The PC cindermen meet the Clemson track team today in Clemson for their third meet this month.

Clemson has already met and defeated Furman, and a comparison of scores against Furman makes this meet very close.

In the April 10 meet the Blue Hose men entertained Wofford and soundly trounced the Terriers 115 1-2 to 15 1-2.

The PC tracksters captured first places in all except one of the events, the high jump, and coasted to victory through the last five events.

The Presbyterian team journeyed to Mercer University in Macon, Ga., for a holiday meet on Friday, April 16. The Macmen returned to school with a 91-35 victory under their belts.

Delane Johnson started PC off in fine style by taking first place in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Jimmy Hancock and Hardy Tyler both took first places in their events, the high and low hurdles and the 440 and 880 yard runs respectively.

Ed Brockenbrough hurled the javelin 144 feet to take first place in that event, and John Fesperman won the one and two mile runs. Bob Vass took first place in the broad jump.

Coach McMillian was pleased with his charges and felt that they have an exceptionally good record with only one loss handed to them this season, that one coming from the USC Gamecocks.

Hose Face Three Games After Even Florida Count

The PC baseball team will meet the Furman Paladins Monday on the home field. Two games with Newberry, one at Lexington and the other at Whitmire, will be played on Wednesday and Friday. Both Newberry games are night games which are listed to begin at 8:00 p. m.

The PC baseball team took on Jacksonville Naval Station as their first opponent in the annual spring tour. In the first meeting between the Blue Hose and the Blue Jackets, PC emerged victorious, 3-2.

Guy Misenheimer toiled his full nine innings and two extra innings before his mates could score the winning run. This win gave him a 3-2 record in the won-lost column this season.

In the second game with the Jacksonville crew, the Blue Hose fell victim to errors and lost to the Navy by a score of 19-4. Harry Hamilton was the starting pitcher for PC. He Billy Johnson and Bob Matthews.

PC got back in the win column by defeating Rollins 6-4 to give the Winter Park team its downfall in an eight-game winning streak. Harry Hamilton was the starting pitcher in this game which Rollins was favored to win.

Stetson handed PC a 13-10 score in the last game of the tour. Guy Misenheimer took the loss for the Hosemen. The game was loosely played and errors were frequent. This defeat gave PC a 2-2 record for their tour.

Wofford's Terriers toppled Presbyterian College, 8-2 Thursday behind the air tight fourhit hurling of Don Reeder, soph righthander. Lefty Johnson took the loss, five errors and seven walks hurting in clutches.

Criticism—Its Need, Its Misuse

It seems that criticism inevitably follows responsibility and work. Practically every person who has any position—whether on the group, school, or national level—is subject to criticism.

Criticism that leads to progress is desired. Constructive criticism is one of the best means for improvement. In a great many contests criticism sheets are returned to participants so that with the advice of those who are authorities definite advancement can be made.

However, the type of criticism that is used for spite, jealousy, or want of anything else to do is useless and discouraging to the person to whom it is addressed. A person should not criticize something about which he knows nothing.

Considering the moral side of this issue, we can remember the words of the Master who said that a man should first cast out the beam in his own eye before he attempts to cast out the mote in his brother's eye. So much empty criticism could be abolished if the person who voices it would think twice, examine his own mind, and consider what he would have done in a similar situation.

We have elected our student council for the coming year. They will need our co-operation and constructive criticism. On the other hand, let us make sure that our criticism is for the progress of the school and has some solid foundation. To criticize merely for the sake of doing so shows lack of character and poor thinking.

Let us remember that our leaders will be striving to do what is best fo the college and its students. They will appreciate suggestions for an effective student government. Give suggestions, give them as such, and they will be accepted as sincere motives of those who give them.

The Persians have a proverb that states: "Sticks and stones are thrown only at fruit-bearing trees." When unjust attacks are made upon someone or his work, it would be well to keep this saying in mind. Thoughtless criticism in the end shows that the critic realizes the worth of what the person whom he attacks is doing and unconsciously acknowledges it.

Think twice before a meaningless, destructive criticism is laid to your charge.

Criticize—yes, but do so with the purpose of making progress and betterment for all people concerned.

Co-eds Tell Reasons Why

By BILL HAMILTON

I had just settled down in my sack for a long afternoon of hibernation when suddenly the door to the room was ripped off its hinges, and in sprang "Blue Stocking Lord. He ran to my bedside and began slapping my face in order to get the blood to circulating again. As I came to, he was screaming something idiotic like "Round up the co-eds and find out why." After giving Ray a shot of penathole, he began to quieten down and I found out my assignment for the week. It was this—a poll to find out why co-eds come to PC.

After an exhausting chase of some thirty minutes, I finally tackled one. (These girls don't know what to expect now that spring has sprung). I found the girl to be Nina after the dust cleared. After asking her the all-important question, she scratched her head and came out with this brilliant statement, "No other college would accept me. Besides, I like boys. I might add I did not know that Bill Bradley would be here.

After I recorded this gem of information I was off again after another co-ed. I stumbled across Joan Britton out on Jacobs' Hill. I apologized to Herbie Laws and began the interogation. Joan's answer was that her preacher had talked her into it. She also stated that if she had not come to PC she might never have met Herbie.

Next, I decided that Sarah Caldwell would be a good co-ed to ask. I knocked on her door for about fifteen minutes before she woke up, peeked out the door, and mumbled for me to make like a mix master and beat it because she was losing sack time. After such arguing, she decided to reveal her hidden secret. It seems that the word had gotten to her that PC had some excellent sack time courses, so she enrolled. Then she excused herself and went back to the sack.

By this time I was weakening fast, so I made a dash for the library to see Frances Winn. She said that she had never been able to figure out why she came to PC, but she never transferred because she made a D in biology. If she transferred she might have to take biology again.

When I had finished listening to Frances, it was late in the afternoon and my sack time was all shot. Besides, the mental strain had been terrific because of my efforts to make any logic out of the answers I received. I crawled into the Blue Stocking office, placed my article at Lord's feet, and passed out. He patted me on the head and stated, "The press must go on!"

Lampoon's . . . Dilbert's Dirt

"Tests or girls, which shall I surrender to?" Please excuse me, I was reading out loud. I guess that is the question confronting most of you students one week before a dance and in the middle of a week of tests. I guess everything will work out O. K.

I believe I overlooked a few pins and rings last week. Jake Privette traded in his pin for a ring and he is getting married October 31, 1954, in Gastonia. Yates Smith pinned "Bill" Kelder of Newberry College. I wish the co-eds would notice this and please leave Yates alone.

It was nice to have the young ladies on the campus Tuesday. I'm glad Morris and Blue have the connections so that a little beauty can be added to the campus every week or so.

The 4-F's turned out in full force for the parade Wednesday. It is nice to know that our ROTC unit is protecting such fine fellows as "Buddy Jim" Sloan, "Carpetbagger" Elam, and "Moon" Misenheimer.

Guido Morell spent his Easter holidays in Greenwood and since his return he has received many phone calls. Guido says Cuba was never like this.

A lot of "Dear Johns" are received at PC but Drayton Cooper got one from his girl's mother. Tough luck Drayton, but she was too young to get serious.

Got a Scoop . . . Ten Easy Lessons On How to Pass

The ten rules below are nothing original with The Blue Sock, but it is rare when they fail to give rise to a laugh when read for the first time. The author of these rules for staying in school is Robert Tyson. With exams only two week off, they are particularly pertinent.

(1) Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clipping. He thinks everything deals with his subject.

(2) Look alert; take notes eagerly. If you must look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelievingly and shake it.

(3) Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you, this seems exaggerated. To him, it is quite objective.

(4) Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake). If you're going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are.

(5) Laugh at his jokes. You can tell; if he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has told a joke.

(6) If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of an hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.

(7) Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like the book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math, match the books for size and color.

(8) Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it, just ask.

(9) Ask any questions you think he can answer. Also, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he could not answer, and in your little brother's second grade reader at that.

(10) Agree with his views. If he is a staunch Republican, refrain from asking him why the Democrates have won so many national elections.

I came in from federal inspection to find True Blue lounging back in his rocking chair, cigar in one hand and a supposed limeade in the other. His bare feet were propped through the screenless window and his toes wiggled to the beat of the music from Fleming's Marching Society still sounding off down the plaza. He was chuckling to himself over a joke book, belching between chuckles. He casually looked over his shoulder and laughed at me.

"Boy, you look so pretty."

"No sarcasm," I said, "just turn that electric fan on me one time. Were you at the parade, True?"

"I was there until one of the battalion dog chasers spotted Tojo sitting beside me and gave him the old bum's rush. Since he was a little shaky from a party we had had earlier, I felt I'd better accompany him to the room. He's in your sack now."

"Just as long as he smooths the covers when he gets up."

"I doubt if he will, Jack."

"Will what, straighten the covers?"

"No, get up. He's a regular sack hound these days."

"I, did you enjoy the parade?"

Bulldog Thinclads Invade PC In Last Dual Meet of Season

• Stockings Edge Clemson Tigers by 66-65 Score

On Saturday, May 1, PC plays host to Citadel here at Clinton at 2:30 p. m. Citadel is reported very strong in field events and PC will have to take a majority of running events to offset this advantage.

One of the finest hurdlers in the state, Tyson of the Citadel, will be skated to give PC's Falls, Hancock and Wood a close race. However, PC is favored to win this meet and finish out their home season with a 5-1 record.

On Saturday, April 24, the Presbyterian College track team visited the Tigers of Clemson College at Clemson and came back home with a close 66-65 win under their belts.

Delane Johnson, unbeaten in the dashes so far, again swept the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Bob Vass took the broad jump and Jim Hancock won in the high hurdles. Bob Falls won the low hurdles, and John Fesperman led all the way to win the two mile event. Hardy Tyler placed first in the 440 yard dash.

Hose Face Indians After One-Win Week

Tonight at 8:00 p. m. the Blue Hose diamondmen will meet the Newberry Indians in Newberry.

The Presbyterian College baseball team will round out its '54 season next week by meeting Wofford and Erskine.

The Wofford game will be played Monday in Spartanburg. The last home game will come Tuesday against Erskine. The Hose will go to Due West for a return game, the season's last, on Thursday.

The Wofford baseball Terriers went on a run-scoring rampage against Harry Hamilton and Guy Misenheimer to defeat the PC Blue Stockings 15-7 at Spartanburg April 23.

PC scored all their runs in the last five innings, but that was not enough to overcome the lead Wofford had built up.

Hamilton took credit for the loss when he went out in the fifth one run behind. Misenheimer took over and allowed 12 more runs to score before the game was over.

A walk and two errors in the ninth inning gave Furman a 9-8 victory over PC here at Clinton on April 26.

Tom Reeves, PC's second baseman, led PC's attack with two triples, one with the bases loaded.

Leland Brown started on the mound for PC and was relieved by Harry Hamilton. Hamilton was the losing pitcher.

Presbyterian collected eight hits off three Newberry pitchers for a 5-1 Little Four baseball victory Thursday in Lexington.

The win gave Presbyterian a 2-1 edge in the season series between the schools. Each won earlier contests by 2-1 scores.

Netmen Take Laurels . . .

PC has come through again and captured the state tennis title for the fourteenth straight time. By reading this first sentence one does not need a picture of PC tennis drawn for himself. As expected, Al Morris won the singles crown again and other PC men occupied all the other top berths behind him.

A wild surprise came in the doubles finals when Morris and Brownlow dropped MacAtee and Hunt. When a person starts winning, it is awfully hard to lose.

Track Meet Proves Exciting Event . . .

The 1954 spring sports season of the Blue Hose will be brought to a brilliant climax in the South Carolina State Track and Field Meet next week end. The PC trackmen are currently ranked with USC as the leading teams in the state. Both teams have won four meets and lost one. The coming state meet should prove to be exciting down to the last event, with both teams in dominating positions.

Linkmen Finish Successful Season . . .

Although it is not seemingly very well known on the campus, the Blue Stockings are completing one of their most successful golf seasons. PC is now tied with the Citadel, each team having lost two matches and won four. The two sharpshooting freshmen, Warren Mays and Robert Odum, have led the linkmen all the way with solid support the rest of the team.

Hudson and his orchestra e by no means new at PC is year. He was a favorite re as far back as 1940 when was a college man leading college band.

n a Blue Stocking of that year is quoted as saying, "We keep mind that the primary func- n of a dance band is to furnish dance music: aside from this it's a question of how much emphasis we put on each style of music—on most jobs we run the gauntlet from swing to Strauss waltzes." This typifies the Hudson orchestra.

Choir Finishes Enviable Year

The Presbyterian College Choir under the able direction of Dr. Edouard Patte has sung its way into the hearts of people all over the greater portion of the southeast this year. In so doing they have brought the Word of God in music to thousands and enriched their lives with the story of divine love.

The theme, "The Living Church", was presented this year in Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, and Washington, D. C. Forty-two concerts were sung during the 1953-54 school year.

The choir has distinguished itself with notable achievements which merit attention and appreciation. Given no academic credit and working entirely as an extracurricular activity because of their love of music and devotion to the propogation of the Gospel, these men and their conductor have achieved acclamation and recognition for the Church and Presbyterian College.

A television program of sacred music was among the most outstanding activities inaugurated by the choir.

Two joint concerts with the Flora MacDonald Choir, of Red Springs, N. C., were given this year also.

Considering the economic side of the group, the choir was again self-supporting through its expense-defraying collections which ranged from $35 to $187 in a single service.

When the gleesters concluded their service Sunday, May 2, Dr. Patte had conducted his 326th concert with the Presbyterian College Choir.

So ends another year of service to Presbyterian College by a group of men who are worthy of our praise and support.

In truth, they have striven to obey the command of Christ by proclaiming His gospel to many.

Welcome, Prospective PC'uns

Presbyterian College is very happy to have as guests a group of boys from the Atlanta area this week end. Through the joint efforts of the Atlanta-PC Club and the Atlanta alumni this trip has been made possible.

The students of the friendliest college in the South extend a warm welcome to you. We hope that you will look over our campus, become acquainted with our students, and then return next year to become a part of the PC family.

We say "PC family" because in reality Presbyterian College lives as a congenial group of men with Christian ideals. When a man joins himself to this family in the right spirit, his whole being is enlarged and he leaves the campus after four years joyful because of the opportunity afforded him for genuine Christian education.

It is indeed a pleasure to have you visit us. Make yourselves at home; then come back and make PC your college home.

TB Greets Week End

BY JACK EDMUNDS

I was trying awfully hard to go to sleep the other night. Hot as it was, I had the covers pulled up over my head to keep out the light and some of the noise that True Blue was creating.

True, Dilbert Lampoon, and Tojo were pitching pennies across the room. The scratch line was made up of their empty cans stretched from one end of the room to the other. I finally gave up trying to sleep and raised up in bed to join the conversation. I said, "TB, you might as well forget it, there is just no way that you can spike that lemonade at the SCA picnic and get away with it."

"Man, I won't be able to watch anything after noon Friday but that track meet. My eyes might be blurred but that's one that I'm not going to miss."

"How will it go, T?"

"It'll be close, Jack, mighty close, but I believe that we can win that thing. There's no reason that we can't get a good crowd down there; that ought to help the cindermen out a little. This is the last big sports event of this school year and I sure hope that everyone will turn out to cheer the Blue Hosemen on to the state track championship. I'm personally going to go around Saturday afternoon and drag all my guzzling buddies out of the sack and throw them into the shower. We'll take in the track meet, then start in on another night of fun."

"You really planning on a big week end, aren't you, True?"

"Yep; I hear from our IFC prexy, the 'Florence Nightingale', that Hudson will really be hopping those two nights.

"And I reckon that you will be hopping with him."

"I reckon."

"Talking about the SCA picnic, True, what will be happening out there?"

"All kinds of things, Jack. Say, can you give me and my equipment a ride out there?"

"I expect so. What does your equipment include?"

"My poker chips and portable icebox."

"That icebox really does get around, doesn't it?"

"Yeah, and those chips don't do so bad either. By the time those chips got back from Washington they had paid for the icebox and its contents."

"What's wrong with that lemonade that will be out there, True?"

"Too much acid in lemons."

"Of course; I forgot that you had to watch your diet. Well, where are you going to use those chips?"

"I'm challenging all comers to a game. The table will be on the top of my icebox, in Hambone Hamilton's boat out in the middle of Lake Greenwood."

"Well, TB, it looks like you are all set for the rest of this school year."

"You're right."

"How about cutting out the light and hitting the sack."

"Aw, turn over and go to sleep. I've got to win some of my pennies back."

P. S.: TRUE BLUE sends wishes that everyone enjoy the big dances, and he hopes in all seriousness that everyone will turn out for the track meet today and the SCA picnic next Wednesday.

New Classic Records Added to Collection

A representative number of new classical and semi-classical records have recently been added to Presbyterian College's already large record collection. They are available for playing on the hi-fidelity record system in the music room between the hours of 7:30 and 9:30 each evening.

The following new 45 rpm records are available for use in the college library:

Top hits from Gershwin's opera, "Porgy and Bess", as sung by one of America's foremost operatic baritones, Lawrence Tibbett. The recording was made in 1935 under the personal supervision of the late composer and stars Helen Jempson as Bess. "Summertime", "Bess, You is My Woman Now", and "It Ain't Necessarily So" are among the numbers on the recording.

The ever-popular Rise Stephens sings "Songs of Idabell Firestone". Accompained by Howard Barlow's orchestra, Miss Stephens sings among others, the unforgettable "If I Could Tell You (of My Devotion)".

Among the new 33 rpm long playing records now in the library are:

Gabriel Faure's "Requiem". Inspired by the passing of the composer's father, the "Requ... is an expression of the deepest sincere and moving grief of a man who can accept death and its terrors in a wise and confident tranquility. This unique modern choral work is sung by Les Chanteurs de Ly...

Several new albums have been add to the college's collection of recordings of complete operas. The new additions contain such works as:

"Romeo and Juliet" by Hector Berlioz, performed by the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Charles Minch. This is a dramatic symphony drawn from Shakespeare's famous tragedy.

"Faust" by Charles Gounod. This is an opera in five acts based on Goethe's dramatic poem about an eminent scholar who undertakes to master the magic arts, and ... up losing his soul in ... with the devil.

'Silent Village' Film Ends Semester Series

"The Silent Village", which will be shown in the college chapel at 8:30 next Tuesday night, is the last of the English Department's series of outstanding films of the past.

Dilbert Lampoon's Dirt

...Warren Berry will be gracing ... dance floor as an eligible ...g. He refused to play "Harry" ... a high school junior-senior ...ce in Atlanta this week end. ...Chuck Mayers is not even as ...unate as Berry. He has com...ely exhausted the Clinton ...erators by making so many ... distance calls and he still ... not found a date by press ...ne. Chuck called two girls at ...inthrop who were roommates ...d he didn't know it.

...I saw "Geech" Creech wearing ... new spring barrel yesterday. ...on inquiring I found out that ..., too, had gone overboard on ...one calls without any success. ... said he didn't know it was ...sible to make $6.10 worth of ...ils.

..."Apple Jack" Edmunds is also ...aying "Long Ranger" this ...eek end. He got knocked out ... the saddle by a Clemson kay...t.

...Oh, yes, before I forget—Rob... L. Smith. He has been both...ing the Blue Stocking staff all ...ar to put his name in the pap..., so here it is.

From what I hear Bob Burgess really has Miss Rica snowed. Bob went to Rock Hill for a date and Rica was already dated for the night. Rica told all of her friends not to date Bob as she wanted him for her own.

The local supper club, Lake Thomas, is becoming very popular with the lads and lassies in this area Seen in the corner booth last week were Bill Hamilton and Harriet Eagan of Cross Hill. They surely did look contented and happy. I guess it was soft lights and sweet music that did it. Also present were little Bo and Gene Carter.

Well, I guess that will be all for this time. I hope every one enjoys the dances and remembers to be out of the frat rooms by 12 o'clock.

Blue Sock Publication To Stop Next Week

The last issue of The Blue Stocking for this year will be published next week, May 14.

The publication for this semester is being stopped at that time so that there will be no conflict with the final examinations which begin the following week.

Movie Review . . .

Glenn Miller Story' s Factual Musical Film

"The Glenn Miller Story," soon to be seen here in Clinton, is one of the most interesting film biographies produced in recent years. James Stewart portrays the famous band leader, while June Allyson stars in the role of his wife, Helen. The story follows the rise of Miller from humble circumstances to one of the popular kings of the musical world and, at last, to his untimely death in an airplane accident during World War II. The Miller Story should prove to be popular to many since it is a true story blended with Miller's ever-popular musical stylings.

This picture also boasts of being one of the most factual biographies ever filmed. Of the top twenty-seven speaking roles, only three are fictional. This is due to the fact that the identity of those persons could not be traced, but the characters do represent real-life persons. Other incidentals which add to the authenticity of the picture include the use of Miller's own trombone and the old Miller Orchestra music stands.

The unique orchestral styling which brought so much popularity to Glenn Miller was followed in recording nine of his all-time hits. In order to perfect the styling, seven members of the original Glenn Miller Orchestra participated in the recording sessions. Frances Langford, Louis Armstrong, Gene Krupa, and the Modernaires appear in the picture acting the parts which they actually took in Glenn Miller's life.

Lovers of popular music should especially enjoy this picture because of the musicians who make their appearance throughout the story and also because of the wide range of music from smooth stylings to red hot jam sessions. The feature music, too, will add to the film's popularity.

This includes such perennial favorites as "String of Pearls", "St. Louis Blues", "In the Mood", "Tuxedo Junction", "Basin St. Blues", "At Last", and Miller's theme song, "Moonlight Serenade."

Producer Aaron Rosenberg has done a masterful job on a first-class theme. It is one of universal appeal and should be one of the most popular pictures of the year.

Bates Gives Platform To PC Student Body

Lester Bates, Columbia insurance executive, and candidate for Governor of South Carolina in the June primary, addressed the student body of Presbyterian college yesterday morning at chapel hour. His addressing the students was a project of political emphasis by the International Relations club, headed by Greg Elam as president, who presided.

Mr. Bates discussed several planks of his platform and emphasized the need of diversified industry and giving assistance to the poor counties in need of help.

He stated his position on the school question, saying as he had stated, in the announcement of his candidacy that he stands for race segregation in the public schools. He said that in the event of a U. S. Supreme Court decision against segregation he would appoint a committee of leading educators, attorneys and business men of the state to make a complete study of the problem and would take no hasty action. He said he is opposed to a dual system of schools. He advocated a state civil service commission that will afford protection to employes of the state and give opportunities for advancement on a real merit system. He stated he is in favor of 90 per cent parity for farmers and will support legislation to this end.

Mr. Bates stressed his platform of "more business in government and less government in business." He said he is opposed to the centralization of power in Columbia and that taxes should be reduced. This was promised taxpayers, he ... the outset of the sales tax proposal the people were told it would produce about $28,000,000 annually, when as a matter of fact it has yielded $50,000,000. There must be a decentralization of power, he said.

LESTER L. BATES

I am seeking this office, he stated, not on qualifications and business experience. I am obligated to no special group and will not be dominated by professional politicians.

Andy Howard Named Outstanding Senior

Three men from the senior class have been selected to receive Gold P's at the commencement exercises on May 31. Andrew Swofford Howard, Paul William Crouch, and Roy Lampkin Williams, Jr., have been chosen by the Student Activities Committee, with the approval of the faculty, for the coveted awards.

Gold P's are awarded annually to those seniors who, in the opinion of the faculty, have performed outstanding meritorious service in extra-curricular activities other than athletics.

Howard was singled out by a vote of his classmates and a faculty committee to receive the Outstanding Senior Award.

This award, formerly known as the Founder's Medal, is given each year to that member of the graduating class who, by his conduct and character, physical fitness and mental ability, most nearly approximates Presbyterian College's ideals for young manhood. It s given by the Charlotte chapter of the Alumni Association.

Howard is the retiring president of the Student Council. Under his leadership several much-needed changes have been made in the student government. A member of Kappa Alpha fraternity, he has also served on the SCA cabinet. Cadet Major Howard holds the post of S-1 in the ROTC batallion.

Crouch, diligently executing his position as vice-president of the Student Council and chairman of the Honor System, was largely responsible for the change inaugurated this semester in the student constitution. He is company commander of band company and a member of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity. Crouch also has been a member of the SCA cabinet and the College Choir.

Williams, a member of Sigma Nu fraternity, is editor of the 1954 PaC-SaC. He held the position of vice-president of the PC Choir this year. Williams has also been a member of the Student Council.

Their excellence in scholarship and Christian leadership has warranted the selection of these men for one of Presbyterian College's highest student honors.

Six Colleges Enter Annual Classic Eve

Trackmen from six colleges will match cin in the 27th annual South Carolina Intercolle and Field Meet finals which open at Presbyte this afternoon.

Seeking to snatch the title away from the Univer Carolina this year will be entries from Presbyterian C son, Furman, the Citadel and Wofford.

The meet is billed as a parade of champions, with ing titlists forming the largest group of past winners o

Dr. Walter A. Johnson, PC athletic director and meet chairman, said track interest throughout the state this season appears to be at its highest peak since before World War II, and he predicted an even larger crowd than the one which saw the thrilling photo-finish spectacle of 1953.

The freshman meet was revived yesterday after a two-year lapse, with South Carolina, Clemson, Citadel, and Furman entering. They cannot use freshmen in varsity competition because of conference rulings which became effective this year. PC and Wofford are permitted to use freshmen in the varsity meet and will limit their action to the big show.

Once more, Carolina and Presbyterian appear set to go down the line neck-and-neck for the varsity championship. They are tied for the state lead in regular-season competition with identical records of 5 wins and 1 loss. The Gamecocks line up as favorites, however, on the basis of having defeated PC in a dual engagement and of having last year's championship squad intact, plus additional strength.

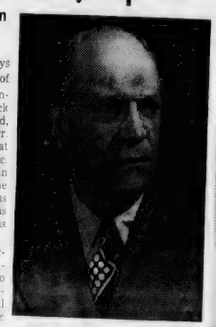
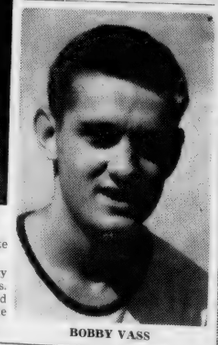
W. A. Johnson Directs 27th 'Little Olympics'



Southern Sports Dean Came to PC in 1915

As Presbyterian College plays host to the track notables of South Carolina in the 27th annual state intercollegiate track and field meet on Johnson field, it will be the 27th year that Dr. Walter A. Johnson, has been at the helm of the Palmetto Classic.

Born of Swedish parents in Milwaukee before the turn of the century, the clean, courageous blood of his Viking ancestry has shown nobly in all that he has done.



Under his direction Presbyterian College sports have developed from practically nothing to the high standard they have today. Johnson has coached in all of these sports at one period or another of their development.

In 1915 Johnson came to Clinton to take charge of athletic activities at Presbyterian College, an institution of about 185 students. Fourteen men reported for the first football practice, and yet out of that fourteen he molded a team that won five of seven contests and had two all-state men on its roll.

DR. WALTER A. JOHNSON

Awards Track Medals

DEAN GEORGE A. ANDERSON

Crack Riflemen Cited In Marksmanship Skill

Members of the Presbyterian College rifle team were awarded medals for the year's firing Wednesday morning at drill. The ratings, considerably higher than last year's, had been announced earlier in the year, but at that time the medals had not arrived.

The last event of the year for the rifle team is to be a hamburger supper given by Captain and Mrs. Ernest Kelly at Camp Fellowship on Thursday, May 13. Also included in the afternoon's activities will be softball and swimming.

The team had a successful year by placing third in the state meet, losing no shoulder matches, and winning 44 out of 53 mail matches. Sgt. Wayne O. Wood, team coach, stated that he was proud of his boys for placing fifth in the Third Army Match which entitled them to firing in competition for top honors in the National Army Match, the results of which are still unannounced.

Baseball Team Takes Erskine and Newberry

The PC baseball team downed the Newberry Indians by a score of 4-1 in a game played Friday, April 26, in Lexington. Guy Misenheimer worked for the full nine innings for the Hose and received credit for the victory.

• • • •

The Erskine College Fleet fell victim to a 14-5 defeat at the hands of the superior Presbyterian team on Tuesday, May 4.

Luther Shealy and Glen McGee led the PC hitters with three hits each. Shealy batted in three runs with a home run and a triple. McGee drove in three runs with three singles.

Presbyterian doubled the score on Erskine 6-3 in a Little Four baseball game in Due West Thursday.

Winning pitcher Bob Matthews yielded nine hits, one a two-run homer by Paul Nickell in the ninth, but never was in trouble. Julian Robinson was Erskine's top hitter with three for four.

Presbyterian Linkmen Defeated by Carolina

The PC golf team played South Carolina on their home greens on Monday, May 3, and suffered a 17-1 defeat. PC's only point came when Robert Odom was defeated 2-1.

All the other members of the team suffered 3-0 defeats.

This was the final match for PC and gave the team a 4-4 record for the season.

The Fred J. Hay Memorial Bible Medal will be presented to the student whose average in the two years of required Bible courses is the highest.

In memory of Joseph B. and Maria B. Fraser, parents of Dr. T. Layton Fraser, the Freshman Bible Medal will be awarded to the freshman of exemplary character who has the highest average in Bible for the year.

Every year the Ministerial Club Award is presented to the senior ministerial candidate who has best exemplified the qualities of scholarship, interest in extra-curricular activities, and Christian leadership.

The Blue Key Intramural Trophy will be awarded to the social fraternity which has the highest record in intramural activities.

The Kappa Alpha Athletic Cup will be presented to the senior who in the opinion of the coaching staff, the athletic council, and Kappa Alpha fraternity, is the outstanding athlete of the year.

Col. Robert E. Wysor, Jr., former PMS&T of Presbyterian College, awards each year a saber to the senior who, in the opinion of the military officials, has been the best company commander. Cadet Capt. William C Freeman, company commander of Company A for both semesters, receives the saber this year.

Registrar Offers Aid for Deferments

Students who have not received a Military Science deferment are encouraged to check into the possibility of getting an academic deferment for 1954-55 before they leave school.

Each student seeking an academic deferment should give the registrar certain information before he leaves the campus so that the necessary measures can be taken in regard to local draft boards.

Registrar Edward Campbell urges students not to give up the chance for a deferment to continue in college. The academic average of a number of students will be good enough to place them in the proper bracket, thereby qualifying for an academic deferment.

Freshmen must be in the upper one-half of their class. Sophomores have to be situated in the upper two-thirds of their class, and juniors must be rated in the upper three-fourths of their class.

Campbell said, "When you take into account all of the factors involved, one can get into the proper bracket in his class without too much difficulty. Check your deferment possibilities before you leave the campus."

Nouncement

Miss Marian Burts, librarian, announced today that all materials which have been checked out from the library by students must be returned by May 21 in order for the student to be eligible to take his final examinations.

"A Tale Full of Sound and Fury..."

It was a typical May morning as I strolled unhurriedly over to the canteen to catch a bite of breakfast before class, my roommates having forgotten to awake me in time to partake of the usual fare of eggs and grits in Judd Coffee Shoppe.

With no overwhelming problem on my mind, I whistled to myself as I walked, thinking of the little queen I had met last week end, when my glance happened to be turned in the direction of the outdoor chapel.

Now I must say that, though we have a very attractive little outdoor chapel, there is nothing in it which would normally draw one's attention so abruptly as it did mine on this particular morning. For what I saw that was so alarming was two men calmly painting away at the woodwork and benches as if it were just any edifice that needed a freshening up. Well, you might ask, what's so different about painting the outdoor chapel?

In answer, I do not hesitate to say that it was not what they were painting that was so alarming; it was the reason for which they were painting it at this particular time—graduation!

Immediately I stopped whistling, shoved the thoughts of women into the back of my mind, and began to dwell upon this new thought which had so unceremoniously forced its way into my consciousness, disturbing my pleasant reverie. "Graduation is closer than I thought," I mumbled to myself, "which means that in just a matter of days you will don your cap and gown, join a procession out of Neville Hall to this same outdoor chapel, there to receive your sheepskin and then, after the furor of congratulations and packing and such, quickly take your leave of PC." Thinking a little deeper, I realized what all graduating seniors are aware of sooner or later—that what is now, for a short while yet, a reality, a part of their life, will soon become only a pleasant memory.

This realization, for me, was somewhat disconcerting, for we as seniors will, in an exceedingly short space of time, cease to be a part of Presbyterian College, and it in turn will become for us part of a memorable past. And what will this memory be like? What will we think of when the name Presbyterian College is mentioned? Just what is this thing called PC?

The catalog describes it as a "small college with a student body of approximately 500, located in Clinton, a progressive town of 8,000 in the Piedmont section of South Carolina." Very nice for a catalog description, but isn't PC more than that? Isn't it more than a number of buildings where a group of men attend classes toward the earning of a baccalaureate degree?

Think senior! You can tell me. What is PC to you? What are its sounds and smells? What joys and sorrows, thrills and displeasures have you known here? In years to come, when you run up on some old classmate, what will you talk and laugh about? Of what will this memory of yours consist?

And the answer comes back . . . We shall remember the little things and the big things which happened to us, the people we knew, the things such as . . .

. . . Orientation week when we were freshmen and the encouragement which Dean Bellingrath gave to us, "Gentlemen, college is hard! Huh, huh!" . . .

. . . learning the Alma Mater under the tutorship of such lovers of music as "Hunk" Miller, "Bozo" Weir and T. W. Edwards . . .

. . . having David Hicks Armstrong of Bladenborough, N. C., spell out his name and hometown with a belt on our posteriors (also his girl's name; Miss Jane Love Butler) I learned well! . . .

. . . the time when Mr. Laffoday ripped his coat from flexing his muscles too hard in biology . . .

. . . that sleep-producing sound of Coca-Cola bottles rolling up and down dormitory halls . . .

. . . Major Gray's joke about the "Mugwump". . .

. . . PC beating Furman in football 13-12 . . .

. . . standing freshman guard during all hours of the night to keep Wofford from painting up the campus . . .

. . . the whoosh of water as a trash can full is launched from the top of Smyth . . .

. . . Shirley's visit to the campus . . .

. . . looking forward to reading Kiker's column in the Blue Stocking each week . . .

. . . the tragic death of Psycho, the campus mascot . . .

. . . the reign of Paul Moore's protege, Tojo . . .

. . . the wild cheering and stomping of feet in Leroy Springs Gymnasium as Groninger, Hill, Hawkins, Blewitt and Skinner made Blue Hose basketball history . . .

. . . the state track meets and the storm of '52 when the roof of the gym came off . . .

. . . the SCA picnics at Camp Fellowship . . .

. . . And who could forget "Lean Gene, the Campus Queen"? . . .

. . . Mr. Anderson saying, "Am I carrying coals to Newcastle when I say . . ."

. . . the spring dance week ends and the Masquerade Balls . . .

Then on the serious side of life we will remember . . .

. . . Religious Emphasis Week with Dr. John McSween as principal speaker . . .

. . . dormitory discussions sponsored by the SCA . . .

. . . the Presbyterian Church of Clinton and Dr. Redd Turner's unceasing devotion to PC . . .

. . . the religious life of PC, regretting that we did not enter in as we should have.

Yes, these are the things that we will remember—the things which make up the life of PC, its spirit and its fun, little things which bring to mind the kind of place PC really is.

And as we leave here and go out to far distant places to play our part in the life of our community, our church, and our government, these memories will draw us together and ever remind us that for which PC stands. The job ahead is a big one, but even an inadequate as we feel in facing the task, we are assured that, having come and stayed to the end of four years, we are far better prepared for the accomplishment of what is in the future.

Lest We Forget . . .

TB Salutes Seniors

By JACK EDMUNDS

I walked in the other night and caught True Blue wiping his eye with a corner of his nightshirt. I asked him, "What in the world, True, is that a tear in your eye?"

"Yep, sure is, Jack; I've just been over to see some of my buddies who are gonna be graduating this time."

"What did you do?"

"Well, we drank to all the good times we had had, then we drank to all the bad times we had had, then we drank to all the times we were out cold and didnt know if they were good or bad times."

"Well, don't worry about it, T; it's the same story every year. By next September you will have forgotten them."

"Not these boys, Jack. You know, we've got some mighty good boys in the junior, sophomore, and freshman classes, and they can step right into the slots where these seniors step out; but these seniors have been in that slot for four years, some even longer, and when they go they aren't gonna leave all that P College spirit behind them—they'll take some of it with them. It doesn't matter how well the underclassmen can fill the shoes of these guys, they are taking away with them just a little bit of PC, just as the seniors do every year.

"Men like "Bo" Beaumont will take away just a little bit of that sportsmanship that characterizes a True Blue man, athletic or otherwise; guys like "Moon" McQueen will take away some of that friendliness common among PC men which goes to make the school the friendliest little college in the South.

Roddey Brown and Bryan Edwards will take away a little of the good disposition that shines out all over the campus; a little of the Blue Hose cockiness will go with Buddy DuBose, and some of the coolness with Bill Toole.

Paul Crouch will take away some of the resoluteness with which so many PC'uns stand up for what they believe in; and Bob Westmoreland takes with him a big chunk of individualism.

Every senior will take away something, Jack, and we will miss it. Moreover, we'll miss them, every one of them, but we'll wish them God-speed in whatever they do when they get out."

"Me too, True."

"They'll be back, through, cause knowing the kind of guys they are, they can never forget TRUE BLUE; and when they come back we WILL have a party."

"Very good, T. Say, what are you gonna do this summer?"

I've got a dealing job in a night club. I'm gonna try to get up to Bragg one time, though, and watch you guys sweat awhile."

"Do that thing, True. Well, I'll leave you to your weeping. See you later."

"Okay, Jack."

PS: TB sends wishes that everyone has an enjoyable summer. He'll see you next fall. Let's all be ready to hit the big road to Clemson next September and start the football season off right by TAMING THOSE TIGERS.

Athletic Dept. Loses All-round 4-Year Man

"Too much cannot be said of Jimmy Stevenson as to the man and services rendered the athletic department during his four years attending Presbyterian College.

"His faithful and proficient work has been appreciated by this office.

Jimmy has always been loyal and honest in all his work. He is the only student that has completed four years as student secretary for the department.

"It has been great pleasure to have this man associated with the department. It was also so nice to be associated with him, and his pleasant manner of dealing with the people will always be remembered."

Stevenson

Those are the words of Dr. Walter Johnson, director of Presbyterian College athletics.

During his four years as secretary to the athletic department, he has been the right-hand man to Coach Johnson. With duties ranging from ticket selling to stenography, he was available at any hour for the summons of "Say, Fella."

A number of his summers have also been spent in the service of the athletic office.

Stevenson, a senior from Abbeville, will graduate with an A. B. degree, taking his major in English and minor in Bible. He is a ministerial candidate and plans to enter Columbia Seminary this fall. He was a member of the SCA cabinet for two years and served as secretary for that organization. He is also a brother in Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity and last year served as corresponding secretary.

He was also a member of the Westminster Fellowship Council and treasurer for the IRC. Having been in ROTC for four years, Stevenson was assistant platoon leader in Company B this year.

He is a member of Blue Key National Honor Fraternity and an honorary letterman in athletics.

Company A Hits Top In Field Day Events

Company A placed first in the field day competition held this week by the ROTC unit with a total of 37 1-2 points.

The nearest contender, Company C, made 25 points. Donald Rickett, who was judged best drilled freshman and individual, is a Company C cadet.

Placing third, fourth, and fifth respectively were: Company B with 18 points; Company D with 15 1-2; and Band Company with 7.

The events of the annual military field day included: disassembly of the M1 rifle, heavy machine gun, and Browning automatic rifle; grenade throws for distance and accuracy; a tug of war; and competition for the best drilled freshman, individual, squad, and platoon.

Cadet Capt. William C. Freeman is company commander of the award-winning company.

Clinton mayor Hugh Eichelberger this week requested Presbyterian College students to cooperate with the city in conserving the city water supply.

An extremely long dry season has resulted in a serious decrease in the amount of water in the city's water source, Duncan Creek. It has been necessary to use auxiliary wells which had formerly been disbanded in order to augment the water supply.

Eichelberger asked students to co-operate by turning off any water fixtures which might be left running and also by refraining from washing automobiles until the shortage is over.

Afterwards, an informal "get together" with the members of the Student Christian Association was held on the porch of the SCA building.

'To Whom Much Has Been Given'

"To whom much is given, of the same shall much be required."—Bible

At the beginning of a school year filled with opportunities it is important that a person be fully conscious of his obligations. Nothing is given that does not in turn have requirements which must be met.

Specifically we feel that it is very important that every student begin this year with a sober understanding of what he owes himself and the college in return for the opportunities offered to him.

The primary requisite of a college student is hard work. A man who is not willing to work has no place in Presbyterian College or any college. It is the work of parents, faculty and others which has made it possible for us to continue our higher education. A man who does not work is falling down on his job.

It is surprising how many doors can be opened by work. One of these doors is the door of success.

Freshmen particularly should realize that the habit of study must be cultivated from the very beginning of their college careers if the greatest benefit is to be reaped.

The aim of Presbyterian College is to produce competent and enlightened Christian ministers and laymen. The obligation of the PC student is to strive to fulfill this aim through study and Christian fellowship.

Presbyterian will do all in its power to make you successful. It offers you its entire resources. But if you take advantage of these resources, remember that PC expects you to be a Christian and a gentleman. These two requirements, if fulfilled adequately, will cover all other rules and regulations. If each man will do his best to live up to the aim of this school, he will look back upon these years here as some of the happiest of his life.

The President's Message

By DR. MARSHALL W. BROWN

Dr. MARSHALL W. BROWN

To the students who are beginning their college careers, the administration expresses the hope that you are beginning the most interesting and significant years which have yet been experienced in your lives. Of returning students, we ask the same cooperation you have given previously in making Presbyterian College a second home where friendly personal associations supplement the formal training of the classroom.

A businessman from Georgia, a lady from New England, and an Army intelligence investigator from Washington, D. C., have, in recent months, commented on the attitude of cordial hospitality shown by our students to strangers visiting the campus. We ask all of you to help in maintaining this tradition. Some years ago, a PC student, born of missionary parents in China, wrote a slogan to express what he found in this school so many thousands of miles from his parents' home: "Where Friendship and Knowledge go hand in hand—a friendly faculty and friendly student body."

The final values to be derived from four years of college life will depend largely upon your willingnes to give your best efforts to the mastery of assigned duties and the development of your capability to work cooperatively with your associates in mutual helpfulness. You can at all times be assured, however, that at PC you will have the good will of students and teachers who are eager to do everything possible to help you in accomplishing your routine duties and in developing an understanding of those eternal values which transcend formal learning.

Iron Curtain Drawn

Europe Offers Variety In Adams' Summer Tour

By RICHARD OLIVER

Richard O. Adams, assistant professor of Spanish, has recently returned from a trip to Europe, which included an extentive tour of Spain. Mr. Adams attended the summer session of the University of Barcleona July 1-22 where he studied Spanish, history, art, and literature.

The summer sesion of the University of Barcelona is held on the island of Mallorca, the home of Chopin and George Sand. Adams said that one may vacation cheaply at this "Pearl of the Mediterraneans," with first class accommodations costing only $3.25 per week.

From July 22 until August 13, Mr. Adams traveled on the mainland of Spain, stopping first at Valencia, a large city on the east coast of Spain. Here he saw an exciting bull fight, which had as an added attraction the killing of a bull by a matador on horseback.

Mr. Adams noted that the people here were easy going and started their events much later than those in the western world. He attended a Wagnerian opera from 9:30 in the evening until 2 o'clock in the morning.

As Mr. Adams traveled on new modern trains, he was jostled about on the inadequate tracks of the railroad. The typically unconcerned attitude of the Spaniard is displayed in the situation.

Mr. Adams stated that from his view the standard of living in Spain is possibly the lowest in Europe. He talked with a soldier who makes about one and a fourth cents per day. The soldier knew a boy eleven years old who works 11 hours each day, six days a week for the equivalent of one American dollar.

While traveling from Turku, Finland, to Helsinki, the train passed through Russian-held territory. A Russian engine was connected with the train as steel blinds were put over the windows. The doors were then locked on as Russian guards boarded. The Finns call this the longest tunnel in the world, since everything is blacked out.

In Helsinki, Mr. Adams spent the longest day of the year. Actually, the sun never went down. One could still read a book with fine print at 11:00 p. m. The sun rose again at 2:00 a. m.

Dilbert's Dirt

By DILBERT LAMPOON

All good things must come to an end—the beach parties, summer jobs and summer school, and other activities of a young college man's life. Now we must put our noses to the wheel and get daddy's money's worth out of these profs

First of all I want to welcome the frosh . We are really glad to have you. Our shoes are dirty and we have many errands to be run, so beware for the wrath of the upperclassmen will be upon you. (Especially beware of a sophomore named "Root").

It seems as though the weather wasn't the only hot thing this summer. The one PC lover was at it again. Congratulations to these PCians for taking the next to the last fatal step in becoming pinned: Tomsey Stallworth to Mary Hopkins, Bobby Jackson to Jean Ayers, Dick Loveland to Mary Sue Darr, and Ralph McCaskill to Martha Ann Mc-Comb.

The football team really had a ball at the Bar-B-Q Monday night. I believe the coach discovered that two of his freshmen were full of shape. Jim Hooks has bruised lips and Bill Royal had to see the dentist about an infected jaw. These local women will really tell the tale. Just a little more practice, boys.

"True Blue! You little garnet ghost!"

"Well, buy me a Nash and call me Marshall, if it isn't Apple Jack. How's the boy?"

"Okay. When did you hit the campus?"

"I came in last Sunday. Had to prepare to meet the frosh."

"How's that?"

"Well, I had to dig into my trunk and find my brass knucks and cash box."

"What's the cash box for?"

"For my money. You know, I'm selling rifle racks and radiators to all the new boys this year."

"Expecting to make some money?"

"Yeah. Enough to wager a little on the Clemson game tonight."

"How are you bettin?"

"How am I betting? There's not but one way to bet—Blue Hose all the way!"

"Think we can take 'em?"

"Think? I'm sure we can! We've got 'em this time, and I want to urge every last student who can, to be there flying the Blue Hose colors. This includes freshmen and upperclassmen. There's no better beginning at ole P College than to get into the True Blue spirit. And those who start off neglecting the spirit aren't gonna last long. Yes, sir, those Tigers are gonna growl to a different tune after they've tangled with our Stockings."

"Good for you, T. Well, what kind of a year do you think this will be?"

"Ought to be a pretty good year, Jack. Looks like a good faculty, and Chef Powell is back, so that means more good chow. Ought to be a banner year in sports with all the veterans we've got back. Mrs. Taylor and her assistant, Cash Crawford, are still behind the book down at the administration building, so don't guess the school will go bankrupt. 'Hustling' Hammet is still behind his typewriter upstairs so I imagine folks will read plenty about P College this year. All in all, I figure it'll be a good year. However, it'll be a year of surprises, because since Laurens dormitory is now livable, anything might happen. If the administration decides on a game of 'Can You Top This?', they might even start PAYING Blue Stocking columnists."

"True, since you predict a good year, can you give the freshmen any 'hints' on how to start off their college career?"

"Just don't try to start off in a blaze of glory, 'cause that's reserved for seniors to end in. Seriously, Jack, I believe that the main thing for the frosh to remember is to be themselves. If when they came up here, they were the studious type, they ought to continue as such and not try to step into the social pattern of the campus 'gay blades'."

"That's mighty good advice True, but some folks just can't mix business and pleasure like that. You know, 'East is East and West is West and never the twain shall meet'."

"You're forgetting something though, Jack. If they didn't, the world wouldn't be round, and these frosh better remember to mix the two well, 'cause if they don't, they might not graduate when they plan to. Well, I've got to go now, Jack. I'll be over to your room later and we can discuss the situation at Ft. Bragg this summer."

"Okay, True, so long; and remember, no hazing."

Good Year Ahead . . . .

Blue Sock Sponsors New Yell-Song Quest

In an effort to give the fighting PC spirit a shot in the arm, the Blue Stocking is sponsoring a contest for new original yells and fight songs.

The yells we now use are outdated and lack the fire and enthusiasm that is necessary to get students in the spirit to yell.

Yells and fight songs should be submitted in writing to the Blue Stocking office. The deadline for the first judging is Wednesday, September 22, at 6:00 P. M.

The only rule governing the contest of the entries is that they be short, snappy, and expressive of the Presbyterian College spirit.

The cheerleaders will serve as judges and prizes will be awarded for the best entries.

PC Establishes Guidance Center For South Carolina Young People

A guidance and counseling center to help South Carolina youth choose the occupations for which they are best qualified has been established at Presbyterian College.

College students whose vocational goals are indefinite, or who may be considering a change in their vocational objective can find valuable assistance in the center. High school juniors and seniors who need help in deciding upon the course they should pursue in college or help in planning their life work will find the Guidance Bureau ready to offer its assistance. Adults who are considering a change in jobs, but are undecided as to the kind of work they are best suited for can take advantage of this service.

The program provides an individual, scientific service to aid young people in their search for God's will in their lives. Based on the premise that every job can be a Christian calling, the center will help young people determine which types of occupations they are best qualified to enter.

The Guidance Bureau, located on the second floor of the Library Building, will be open from 8:30 until 4:00, Monday through Saturday. PC students are welcome to come in at any time. Other young people in the state may make appointments through any Presbyterian minister or by writing directly to the Guidance and Counseling Center.

The first step in the guidance procedure is a preliminary interview which is arranged by appointment. After the individual's problem is discussed, the counselor selects a series of appropriate tests. These tests are designed to help determine one's abilities and potentialities, interests, personal characteristics, and vocational aptitudes.

The amount of time required to take the tests varies with each individual; however, eight to ten hours of testing is the usual amount and may be taken over a period of two or more days.

After the tests have been taken, a counseling interview is held with the counselor. At this time the counselor discusses the meaning and significance of test results and offers suggestions regarding the occupational and educational areas that seem to be best suited to the individual's abilities, interests, and aptitudes.

Within a week or ten days following the counseling interview a written report is sent to each person tested, summarizing the highlights of the interview.

This program at PC is sponsored jointly by the institution and the Student Work and Religious Education Committees of the Synod of South Carolina. It will work closely with the Department of Christian Vocation of the Board of Christian Education of the Southern Presbyterian Church.

The Director of the Center is the Reverend Clarence R. Thayer, Ph.D. On September 1, Dr. Thayer reported to assume his duties as professor of psychology and director of the Guidance Bureau at the College. He comes to PC from his position as professor of psychology and Bible at Arkansas College. He has served, in addition, as psychological examiner for the board of foreign missions of both the Southern Presbyterian Church and the United Presbyterian Church. He is an ordained minister with over 25 years of experience in the active ministry.

A native of Pittsburg, Dr. Thayer has held pastorates of a number of churches, including one at New Castle, Pa., with a membership of 1300. Earlier in his career, he taught Latin in a Pittsburg high school and served as principal of a West Virginia school.

Dr. Thayer is a member of the American Psychological Association and has contributed numerous articles to publications within this field. He also is the author of several plays. He has published privately two extensive studies on the psychological testing of missionaries—the only such studies known.

The new guidance director received his B.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pittsburg; his Bachelor of Divinity from Western Theological Seminary; and his Master of Systematic Theology from Xenia Theological Seminary. He is married and has three sons.

Friendliness of Boys Impresses New Men

The inquiring reporter has asked a number of new students on the campus for their first impression of PC. The majority of these men were impressed by a quality of the school and the students for which PC has long been known—friendliness.

Dick Hamby, Simpsonville: "I think it's a great school with nice students and a wonderful faculty."

Gordon Livingston, Spartanburg: "I was impressed by the beauty of the campus. I was also impressed by the fact that Brockenborough has taken me to be his 'pet rat'."

Ramon Veal, Atlanta, Georgia: "The SCA impressed me with friendliness in receiving the freshmen."

Wilson Livingston, Monck's Corner: "I am impressed by the good food served in the dining hall."

Laddie Jones, Simpsonville: "I think PC is very nice. I was especially impressed by everyone's friendliness.

John Stevenson Earns Vanderbilt Doctorate

Professor John W. Stevenson received his Ph.D. degree in June from Vanderbilt College on the completion of his residence and approval of his thesis. "Carlyle and the Idea of Progress" is the title of Stevenson's thesis which took six years of study to complete.

Last year, Presbyterian College granted Dr. Stevenson a leave of absence in order that he might return to Vanderbilt to complete his residence. While aided by a grant from the Board of Education of the Presbyterian Church, U. S., Dr. Stevenson both taught and enrolled in classes during his residence period.

After receiving his degree at Vanderbilt, Stevenson returned to Clinton and taught in the summer session. Since his return Stevenson has been elevated to the position of associate professor of English.

Laurens Dormitory Gets Long-Needed Renovation

Work begun in the middle of July on the renovation of Laurens Dormitory has now been completed.

President Marshall W. Brown estimated that the cost of this project is between $20,000 and $25,000. The dormitory is almost completely new and has a capacity of 32 students.

The work has been financed by some of the funds collected in the Laurens Dormitory Campaign currently being conducted in the Synods of Georgia and South Carolina.

Upon the advice of a group of government architects, the plan to expand the dormitory was changed. It is hoped that the construction of an entirely new dormitory may be started in the near future.

The decision to move forward with the renovation of Laurens was prompted by the need of more boarding space for the large number of students enrolled this year.

An automatic gas heating system with individual thermostatically-controlled heaters has been installed in the dormitory.

A saving was made by continuing to use the old floor plan and the partitions already in place. The dormitory has completely new bathrooms, electric wiring, oak floors, walls, ceilings, doors, and facings. Also the roof has been resurfaced.

Laurens Dormitory is the oldest building on the PC campus which has not received major remodeling in the past.

Class of 1954 Presents Chapel Pulpit Bible

The Bible is the revised standard King James version, bound in red leather with "Class of 1954" engraved in gold letters, and will be used in the pulpit of the Chapel.

Blue Hose Clash With Tigers Tonight

Presbyterian Goes to Clemson To Open 1954 Gridiron Season

The Presbyterian college football squad, 50 strong, opens the 1954 grid season with Clemson college tonight. The annual battle will take place in Memorial stadium at Clemson, with the kickoff slated for 8:00 P. M.

It will be the vastly improved split-T of Coach Frank Howard versus the brand-new split-T attack of the battling Blue Hose directed by new head coach Bill Crutchfield.

With those two formations and two polished split-T quarterbacks like Don King of Clemson and PC's Harry Hamilton running lone on the turf, it should be a wide-open, smashing tussle right down to the wire.

Clemson's big forward wall led by tackle Clyde White and Scott Jackson at the end will be big, fast, and have plenty of depth, lacking experience at the center and guard slots. PC's rugged line manned by five hardened veterans, Frank Boulware, Lee Frierson, Bob Harrington, Luther Shealy, and Walter Yates, backed by sophomores Tommy Warren and Alvis Poe with promising freshmen, should be quite a battle for the Tiger line.

The Tigers hold an edge with numerous big, fast backs led by King, O'Dell, and George with four second stringers just as good. PC's running will be left entirely up to little George Blue at right half and impressive sophomore Gene Butler at left half, backed by veteran Gene Altman. PC's dark horse, Dick Goudy, will hold down the fullback slot and should provide long-needed power here. With Hamilton's pinpoint passes to ends Joe Counts, Twitty and Jackson keeping the Tigers loose, it should be a real razzle-dazzle gridiron affair, with Clemson having a slight edge in score counteracted by PC's fighting spirit.

At center we have Captain Frank Boulware, 205-pound senior, playing his second year of outstanding ball with the Blue Hose. Frank was chosen second team All-State.

Luther Shealy will be holding down the right guard post. Shealy is a 195-pound senior who was PC's outstanding lineman last year, receiving second All-State honors, and mentioned in Little All-American. He is also top candidate for post-season honors.

At right tackle there is Robert Harrington, 205-pound senior in the squad and a hard tackler.

Charles Twitty will return at right end for his last year of football with the Blue Hose. Charles weighs 160 pounds and is one of the fastest men on the squad.

The quarterback post will be manned with the 180-pound senior Harry Hamilton returning. Harry ranked nationally last year completing 72 passes in 176 attempts for 863 yards and six touchdowns in seven games.

Gene Butler, 155-pound sophomore, is a fast letterman who should have an even better year at left halfback. Gene overcomes his size with aggressiveness.

The 1954 Presbyterian College football squad, hardened by more than two weeks of full practice, goes after its first victory when the Blue Hosemen match strength and wit with the Clemson Tigers tonight.

Boulware Chosen '54 Football Captain

Boulware, a smashing 205-pounder from Rock Hill, was nominated to the second team on the All-South Carolina squad last season and received honorable mention on the Little All-America team. Head Coach Bill Crutchfield says he has looked even better in pre-season practice this fall.

Blue served as a team co-captain in 1953 when he led the Blue

BLUE

Hose in rushing. The 155-pounder from Union is also an adept pass-receiver and defender. He serves as president of the PC Student Body.

Both players are seniors.

Lonnie McMillian Retires From Football Coaching

• Introduced Split-T to Southeast

One of Presbyterian's all-time great sportsmen retired from the football scene this summer with the resignation of Coach Lonnie S. McMillian. His action, taken because of the strenuous demands of modern football, ended a 13-year career as head football coach at PC. The appointment of Bill Crutchfield to replace him marked only the third head football coaching change since 1915.

Although Coach Lonnie Mac, as he is known around the PC campus, has given up his football duties, he has not retired from the athletic scene entirely. He will still remain at PC as track coach and will continue teaching classes in physical education.

Coach Lonnie Mac has been connected with football at PC continuously as a player, assistant coach, and head coach since 1915 with the exception of three years' service in the Navy and as coach at Clinton High School. As a player Coach Lonnie Mac was selected on the All-South Carolina football team for three consecutive years and was a member of the winning State Denominational Title team in 1917. As assistant coach from 1923-1940 he served under Walter A. Johnson and became head coach when Johnson entered the armed forces in 1941. Upon his return in 1946, Johnson stepped up to athletic director and McMillian remained in charge of football.

While Coach Lonnie Mac was assistant football coach, he also served as head basketball coach, head track coach (which position he will still hold) and also coached some baseball. His track teams are famous throughout the state.

When Coach Lonnie began his duties of head coach, he introduced the T-formation for the first time in the Southeast. From the straight T-formation he started splitting one side of the line. This formation was most closely related to the now famous Split-T than any other formation.

As head coach he developed five Little All-American players: End Jack Adams in 1943; Guard Andy Kavounis in 1945; Quarterback Hank Caver in 1946; Tackle Bozo Weir in 1950; and End Joe Kirven in 1952.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

CLEMSON VS PC

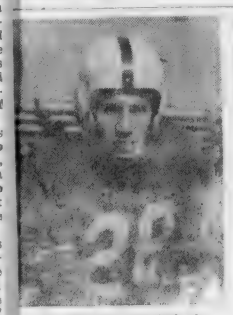
There are many who will agree that in the autumn a young man's fancy turns to thoughts of football. This should certainly be true around the campus today as the Hosemen move up to Tigertown for the traditional Tiger-Hose football battle.

Everyone should be making plans to attend this opener and nothing could better our team's morale more than beginning the season with the PC spirit of which she has long been proud.

Assignments are light thus far and who could think of a better way to begin the fall semester than with an upset victory over the Clemson Tigers.

Many will think me optimistic about a game which has for so long been considered a track meet or a run-away. Perhaps I am building my hopes up a little high; but we have defeated Clemson before. Who knows but what this year could be one of the "great years" for the Blue Hose.

Since our thirty-five encounters with Clemson beginning in 1913, we have won 4, lost 28, and tied 3. The Tigers have a total of 988 points to our 132. Although we have been out-pointed and out-manned, we have never been out-fought.



Of course the team actually plays the game, but it is always up to us, the student body, to enable them to play their best game. The best job is always done when someone is pulling for you. Let's don't let the team down. They are depending on our support as we depend on each of them giving his best.

CONGRATULATIONS, FRESHMEN

Hats off to the twenty-three freshmen football players who have chosen PC. From all indications and report of the practices, these boys have added much depth and power to the Blue Hose attack. Many of them will be counted on for much duty tonight as in the next few weeks.

HAMILTON VS KING

PC's Harry "The Sniper" Hamilton will be counted on heavily tonight as he matches wits with Don King, the brilliant field general who directs the Tiger attack. Both of these men ranked high in state competition last year in passes completed and yards gained through the air. The night should be filled with aerials as in the past encounters. Each team has capable receivers with PC boasting Charles Twitty, Joe Counts, and Bobby Jackson, all lettermen from last year's team.

Great PC Sportsmen

Chick Galloway Acclaimed As Top American Shortstop

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

C. E. (Chick) Galloway—former great PC athlete, major league baseball player, and baseball coach at PC—is our first nominee for the honor of former "PC Greats" in sports.

As we review Chick's career, we find that he played and starred on the football team in 1914, 1915, and 1917. The 1917 Blue Hose won the State Denomination Title, now known as the Little Four. On the hardwood he was also a star as he played the 1915, 1916, and 1917 seasons for PC. In 1916 Chick was selected captain by his teammates.

Although he played the other two sports, his greatest love was baseball. In this capacity he starred on the diamond during the seasons of 1914-17. As before he captained the Blue Hose in 1916 and 1917.

At the outbreak of World War I, Chick, being a patriotic young American, enlisted in the Armed forces. After being discharged from the Navy in the fall of 1918, he reported to the Atlanta Crackers in the spring of 1919. That year the Kid Team of Atlanta, composed of stars of the different colleges of the South, won the pennant with Galloway at short.

After the pennant had been won, Connie Mack called for his star shortstop. From that fall through 1947, when Conie Mack traded his star to the Detroit Tigers, Chick Galloway played and starred at short in Shibe park. It was during this tenue with the Philadelphia Athletics that Chick was picked by the sports writers on the same All-Star team with other baseball greats—Cobb, Speaker, Heilman, Dugan, Collins, Sisler, Bush and Schalk.

While at Detroit, Chick showed all the grace and poise that earned him honors at Philadelphia. Late in the 1929 season a sudden stroke of fate disabled Chick to continue his playing days.

After recovering from his injury suffered in Detroit, Chick coached winning teams on the diamond at Presbyterian from 1932-1942 and coached the freshmen in basketball and football from 1937-1942.

Since retiring from college athletics, Chick has scouted for

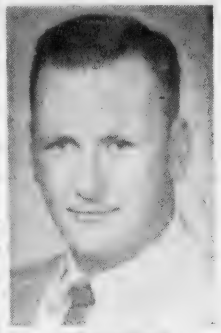
Crutchfield Elevated To Head PC's Football Coaching Staff

• Schembechler Joins Athletic Staff

Upon the request of retiring head football coach Lonnie S. McMillian, Bill Crutchfield, last year's number one assistant coach, has been named to head the 1954 Blue Hose football staff. His appointment marks only the third head football coaching change at PC since 1915.

CRUTCHFIELD



Last year Crutchfield served as chief scout and defense technician. He has been given credit for engineering the great defense against Wofford and Newberry.

Crutchfield, a native of Orangeburg, received his B.A. and M.A. derees from the University of North Carolina, where he starred on the gridiron.

In addition to Crutchfield's appointment, Edward Schembechler, former Miami of Ohio star tackle, has been added to the Blue Stocking coaching staff.

Schembechler is considered to be one of the outstanding young coaches of the nation. In addition of his youth, his being an avid student of the game and having a wealth of knowledge on the most modern trends in line play are very valuable assets to the Blue Hose.

Schembechler comes to PC directly from the Army. He received a master's degree from Ohio State University where he served as a graduate assistant on the coaching staff.

Former PC Registrar Directs College Dames

Mrs. Campbell is a graduate of Winthrop College. She and her husband came to Clinton in 1947 where Mrs. Campbell held the position of registrar at Presbyterian College. In that year Mr. Campbell was graduated from PC and replaced his wife as registrar.

The Campbells have a son, Gary Edward, who is four years old and a freshman this year at the First Presbyterian Church Kindergarten.

At the present time, Mrs. Campbell is assisting Academic Dean Bellingrath with the absence reports. She is also president of the Yellow Jasmine Garden Club.

The College Dames, of which Mrs. Campbell is president, was formed shortly after PC was founded. This organization has performed many funcions for college students during its existence. Currently the main function of the Dames is to assist the SCA in welcoming the freshmen each fall and assisting at commencement exercises each spring.

The College Dames organization is composed of all women associated with the college and the wives of those men who are associated with the school.

The College Dames have a social meeting once a month at the home of one of the members. Last year the club sponsored an outing which was held in order that the members might become more closely acquainted with new faculty members and their families. They hope to hold a similar outing each October.

The primary aim of the organization is to enable members of the faculty and the administration, and their families to become more closely associated, thus assuring a more harmonious and efficient college staff.

Gas Heating System Installed On Campus

A new central steam plant fired by gas is now ready for use this fall. This plant will provide heat for Spencer Hall, Jacobs Science Hall, Neville Hall and Judd Dining Hall.

Gas heating has also been installed in Smyth and Laurens dormitories.

New hot water heaters have been placed in the dormitories, thus abolishing the need of water heating by the central plant.

In an emergency when gas is not available, this new heating system may be converted in a short time to oil heating.

the Philadelphia Athletics, the Washington Senators, and the Cincinnati Reds, for whom he is now scouting. Looking back through the roster of talent that Chick has discovered, the most prominent are Kirby Higbee, Mickey Livingston, Joe Haynes, and Lou Brissie.

When asked what his greatest thrill was, Chick had this to say: "When I received word that I was going to Philadelphia from Atlanta to play major league ball with only one season of minor league ball under my belt, that was my greatest thrill."

At present Chick is employed by the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States.

Presbyterian Entertains Five Summer Assemblies

Presbyterian College was host to five large Presbyterian assemblies during the past summer.

The high points of the conference season were the annual sessions of the Synods of Georgia and of South Carolina.

The Georgia Synod assembled at PC on July 13-14 for the first time since 1930. A total of 200 ministers and lay leaders met here for the Synod's 110th stated session.

More than 200 ministers and laymen of the Synod of South Carolina met on the campus on Aug. 31-September 2 for the annual stated meeting. Moderator R. M. Cooper, a ruling elder from Wysacky, presided at this, the 109th anniversary of the formal organization of the South Carolina Synod.

The Synodical Training School of the South Carolina Synod met for the first time on the PC campus. Approximately 110 Presbyterian women leaders met on June 20-25 under the direction of Mrs. W. H. Josey of Manning. They decided to make PC the regular site for their annual training school.

The two young people's conferences held during the summer are annual visitors to the campus and this year, as usua brought together more than 20 of the Church's youth, divide about evenly between the tw These two were under the Senio High Fellowship of the Peo De Presbytery and the Senior Hig Leadership School of the Sout Carolina Synod.

ROTC Battalion Primes for Year

Led by the fourth year cadets fresh from summer camp at Fort Bragg, N. C., the Presbyterian College ROTC unit began organization Monday morning, Sept. 20, under the able helm of Cadet Major Thomas A. Stallworth, Battalion Commander.

Stallworth announced that the first week was concerned with organization and orientation and the familiarization of freshmen to the customs of ROTC. In the near future, the separate companies will begin training in close order drill. The result of an intensive training program, such as PC has, was seen at Fort Bragg this summer when the PC cadets captured all honors in close order drill competition.

Band Commander, Cadet First Lt. Eddie Kay, announced that the band was beginning to take shape after a weak start. Though it is sixteen members less in strength than last year, Kay expressed optimism for a good band as soon as the freshmen members have a little more training. He said that at present the band was hard at work preparing a show for the football game with Furman next Friday.

Appointments to the Battalion Color Guard were also announced this week. They are: Cadet Sargeants Ray Lord and Bill Oliver, and Cadet Corporals Donald Pickett and Noble Collins. Under Lord's Command, the Color Guard will begin training as soon as the drill schedule for the battalion is organized.

Beginning his second year as PMS&T at PC, Lt. Colonel Francis V. Smith expressed expectation for the battalion's molding into a well-trained unit in record time. Because of the high caliber of the cadets in the advanced program and the enthusiasm shown by the cadets in the basic course, Colonel Smith said that he was once again expecting a high rating from the inspection team at the annual Federal Inspection next spring.

Hammets Announce Birth of Third Son

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hay Hammet announce the birth of a 7-pound, 1-ounce son, Errol Scott, September 19, at the Bialock clinic. Mrs. Hammet is the former Miss Jane Jenkins of Montgomery, Ala.

Mr. Hammet is the Director of Public Relations and Alumni affairs at Presbyterian College. He also serves as Blue Stocking adviser.

Errol Scott is the third son of the family. Mother and baby are now at home in College View.

Large Group Journeys To Limestone Affair

Approximately 90 PC students accepted the invitation of the Gaffney Chamber of Commerce to attend a dinner and dance at the Gaffney Country Club yesterday.

This event was sponsored by the Gaffney civic group for the new students at Limestone College.

SCA president Tommy Stallworth coordinated the trip through the fraternity presidents. The PC men left the campus at 4:30 p. m. in order to arrive in Gaffney in time for dinner.

Stallworth remarked that he was happy that the students were given an opportunity to meet the Limestone girls. He said that he felt that all who attended the affair were well pleased with this gesture of friendliness of one of our "sister" colleges.

Seven Earn Degrees At Summer Session

Seven students completed requirements for their degrees at Presbyterian College's 1954 summer school which closed August 9.

They will be formally graduated and receive their degrees at the regular commencement exercises on June 6, 1955.

Homecoming Dance to Feature Claude Thornhill's Band Styling

• Ginger Lamare to Sing With Orchestra

GINGER LAMARE

Composer-arranger and pianist par-excellence — that's Claude Thornhill, the great band leader who brings a fine musical group to Presbyterian College on October 8 for the annual Homecoming Dance to demonstrate why all music critics pick him as one of the all-time favorites.

Miss Ginger Lamare is the featured vocalist with the Thornhill Orchestra.

Claude is a triple-threat man and the lovely theme song of the Thornhill orchestra introduces all three of the maestro's talents simultaneously. Claude is the composer and the arranger of the beautiful "Snowfall" which also features himself at the piano.

The other richly - colored band arrangements are all written by the maestro. Thornhill has a big advantage over most of the current bandleaders in being able to combine a classical background with the current trend of popular misic. The result is music that bears a distinct Claude Thornhill stamp.

The Claude Thornhill band has been around for quite a few years, yet Thornhill's piano styling and unique orchestrations are still the most original musical offerings among modern dance bands.

Thornhill has a setup that includes five reeds, six brass and three rhythm, paced by the leader's eloquent piano. Most unusual of all is the fact that in the six brass, there is a French horn. The horn which is identified with symphonic orchestras, is being used to blend with the colorfully-harmonious arrangements of the leader.

CLAUDE THORNHILL

He plays the piano with casual ease, his fingers gliding over the ivories with an effortless grace that belies the difficulties of the arrangements. His piano is heard to telling effect in the theme of the Thornhill band, "Snowfall", which he composed.

With an orchestra comprised of musicians who have been carefully selected according to their merits as individual artists and ability to blend easily into their instrumental section, Mr. Thornhill has come forth with something new on the musical horizon. The rich quality of his orchestra is due to an uncommon arrangement of the reed and brass section. Thornhill has three trumpets, two trombones, five men doubling on sax and clarinet and one French Horn which is an innovation to the dance world.

Tickets for non-fraternity men can be purchased in the college canteen or from any member of the IFC at the price of $3.00. At the door the cost will be $4.00. The annual homecoming dance will be from 10:00 p. m. until 2:00 a. m. The dress will be informal.

'Nouncement

Cheerleader Vote Scheduled Monday

Student body elections will be held Monday, September 27, for three new cheerleaders.

The ballot box will be placed in the rotunda of Neville Hall, and the polls will be open from 8:55 a. m. until 2:00 p. m.

The five candidates for cheerleaders are Lawrence Medlin, Richard Marshall, Jack Byers, Bub McConnell, and Sylvia Sykes.

In the near future, representatives from each class will be elected to work with the group, and committees will be formed to begin work. Dick Marshall was elected to serve as custodian of funds for the Military Ball.

Tiller also stated that recognition bars had been ordered for the members.

The next meeting will be held next Wednesday at which time five seniors will be selected for membership and will be tapped in the near future.

A Ghost of the Past or Loyalty vs. Apathy

What is the PC spirit? It is that unique sense of oneness, that loyalty and devotion to great principles and beliefs, that will to fight with all you have no matter how great the odds may be.

The PC spirit is the one thing that makes Presbyterian different from any other college. There are numerous small Christian colleges with facilities similar to those here at Presbyterian; but no other school has quite that bond of unity, that inner feeling of Christian brotherhood, that power to do and to be that is exemplified here.

Presbyterian College has long been known as the "College that dares to be different."

It is different in that it takes boys and produces men; it takes weakness and produces strength; it takes diversity and produces unity.

The PC spirit had always been the thing that identified Presbyterian College. Quite to the contrary, however, it seems that the lack of spirit is PC's only characteristic thus far this year.

The Clemson-PC game was the scene of one of the most embarrassing exhibitions of PC spirit ever manifested.

It is natural for a group to cheer for its team when they are winning but it takes spirit and plenty of it to cheer when the chips are down. There was a good response as the Blue Hose gridmen came on to the field, but once Clemson scored its first touchdown, laryngitis and paralysis suddenly seized the PC crowd.

During the entire game not more than two or three organized yells were led by the cheerleaders—none during the second half. We ask you, "Is this the type spirit that pushes a team to victory?" Granted that there was little response in the stands, we contend that it is the duty of cheerleaders to cheer even if they have to cheer alone. They are awarded Block P letters and leading the cheering is the expected means of their earning these letters. What would happen if the football team walked off the field because they could not hear the cheers in the stands?

We also feel that if the team can practice daily, the cheerleaders should at least practice weekly and learn yells and songs to teach the student body. "Hit 'em high—Hit 'em low—Go" has about as much zip as "Mary had a Little Lamb." Cheerleaders who have the right kind of spirit will want to do their best for the team and the school.

We firmly believe that with good leadership, we will have better yelling and, in the end, better spirit.

Let us hasten to say, however, that the fault is not entirely that of the cheerleaders. Every PC student is guilty. A man naturally pulls for something he believes in. Unless a student believes in Presbyterian College, its aims and principles, he should not have the right to be associated with the school.

Let's not let the Furman stadium be the scene of shame and disrespect for the greatest little college in America. Let's prove that we really believe in the PC spirit. Let's dare to be different—be True Blue!

Butter Down!

"Pass that eraser, True."

"Here go, Jack."

"Thanks."

"Jack, you about finished with the column for this week?"

"Few more lines and I will be. Get your typewriter ready so we can meet Boss Lord's deadline. There's just one thing that bothers me, though. I'm afraid that most folks won't know what I'm talking about, mentioning all those humorous situations up at Bragg this summer.

"Don't worry, Jack. At least those MS IV Fort Bragg Fugitives should enjoy it.

"I remember that even on that first fateful Saturday some funny things happened."

"Yeah. Remember the first time we saw 'Ghost Man'. He greeted us with a hearty, 'Where's that GI can', and proceeded to show us through the lovely dormitory that was to be our home for the next six weeks."

"He showed us to our bunks. You were sacking next to 'Audie' Fesperman, fresh from the deep Okefenokee."

"That's right! 'Audie' came in with a zoo pocket novel. He went to bed reading it and got up the next morning reading it. He even read it in the truck the day we went out to rifle range. I couldn't figure it out until the six weeks were over and I was finally back in Georgia land, then I understood. The title of his book was "To Hell and Back", and I figured that is where I had just been."

"Jack, you remember that little shack down at the end of the company area? Craziest thing I ever heard of. They called it the 'Day Room', but only opened it at night; then we were too busy to go there. The only time we saw it was when we were on detail to clean it up."

"That's right, True. Say, we had some cool characters with us down there, didn't we? Can you imagine how Levon Tanner remained so calm and collected those six weeks with Junior expected any day?

"But we had some phonies, T."

"And you know the biggest phonies of all? It was those guys from RIP or wherever it was. They were good guys, but they didn't speak our language. It was 'butter down', 'sugar up', 'Sir, kaydet this', 'Sir, kaydet that', 'pardon this', 'pardon that'. All such goings on got to my laughing place."

"Speaking of laughing places, we can't leave out the 'Canton Clown', Jim Bickley, and 'Hopalong' Allen, whose laughing places you could always find."

"And skinhead Buck Davis, cockey as they come."

"Don't forget Jim Bell and those sad movies on the post."

"And those stalwart gentlemen who were the biggest joke in Camp, the AW club members, led by AW Sam Cornwell."

"That's not half of all the funny things that happened up there but let's wind this column up so I can go simulate a little studying. What about the game last week, True?"

"Jack, the whole darn student body needs to SIMULATE a little school spirit and live it up at those games. Things looked lousy in the cheering section at Clemson last Saturday. Well, start typing."

"Okay, True."

Present PC Alma Mater Penned by Jacobs in 1940

By RICHARD OLIVER

The Rev. William Plumer Jacobs founded Presbyterian College for higher education of young Christian men and women. These young people through the years have developed a never-forgotten PC spirit. This spirit, on paper, is difficult to define. This column is dedicated, therefore, to one of the emotional elements of the definition, the PC Alma Mater.

This is the first Presbyterian College Alma Mater, which was written by John Townsend, director of music at Presbyterian College, 1924-25:

'Mong the hills of old S. C.
There stands a college called PC.
She's dear to me, this old PC
Where every day is happy.

PC, PC, how dear thou art to me.
PC, PC, we'll e'er be true to thee.
PC, PC, we'll ever sing thy praise.
We'll sing thy praise through all our days,
All hail to thee.

In the late 1930's, some 58 years after the founding of PC, a need was felt by the students for a new Alma Mater.

Suggestions were called for, and in the fall of 1940, William Plumer Jacobs, III, class of 1940, and the great-grandson of the founder of Presbyterian College wrote the words and melody of our present Alma Mater.

Alma Mater, hail to thee,
Everyone sings praise to thee,
Thou art built on faith,
We have faith in thee.
Here we stand now side by side,
Singing praise to thee,
Great Presbyterian,
Hail to Thee.

The Alma Mater was then placed in the hands of Dr. John Frey, an accomplished musician and professor of German at that time. Dr. Frey arranged music for the band, orchestra, and glee club of PC. His arrangement was sung before the student body by the glee club. The student body then voted on and accepted Mr. Jacob's composition.

The orchestra of PC played the orchestral arrangement at the Homecoming Dance in the fall of 1940.

The present piano arrangement was written by Mrs. Hugh Ervin, professor of music at the Troy Teachers' College, Troy, Alabama. Mrs. Ervin is a sister of Mrs. Marshall Brown.

Group Contemplates Revival of Collegian

A number of students, having expressed a great interest in the revival of the Presbyterian College quarterly literary magazine, met in the office of Dr. John W. Stevenson, associate professor of English, this week to discuss the possibility of publishing the magazine this year.

The Collegian is composed entirely of creative articles and writings by members of the student body. There are photographs, cartoons, and illustrations scattered through its pages.

The group which met with Dr. Stevenson expressed optimism over the possibility of renewing the Collegian on the PC campus. This magazine will give an opportunity to all persons interested in this phase of journalism.

Copies of the last issue of the Collegian can be borrowed from the Blue Stocking office by anyone interested in this movement. This issue gives an idea of what the student can expect in a literary magazine here.

Dilbert's Dirt

By DILBERT LAMPOON

With the beginning of each school year comes a "Dear John" to some poor freshman. The winner this year is John Knox. John, you just write to too many at one time. Also receiving a heart breaker is Jack Pope. We are so sorry, Jack, but you were just a little slow. (How unusual!)

Another coal cat lost his head last week and gave his fraternity pin away. Congratulations to Jack Edmunds and Barbara Warren of Winthrop College.

Bill Dantzler is getting up his nerve this week end and going to Erskine to play "Open the Door, Elizabeth". I hope you have better luck than before, Bill.

If it's anything I like to see it's our students dating the local girls; and above all to have her take him to church. Bill Tsacrios, beter known as "Sack", was fortunate enough to escort "Little Red" to church. Congratulations, "Sack", and we will see you at the Homecoming Dance.

The Boquet of Onions goes this week to Allen Morris and Yates Smith. They both became engaged this summer and plan to get married this December. Congratulations to you both.

THE CLEMSON GAME

Although the Blue Hose fell 33-0 before a highly favored Tiger eleven, everyone witnessing the contest will agree that it was a hard and well-fought battle. Our boys never gave up and fought just as hard when behind 19-0 at halftime as when the opening whistle sounded.

Fumbles were quite costly with Clemson converting our first of the night into a quick first quarter TD. Again in the third quarter a Blue Hose fumble on our own 30-yard line set up another Tiger touchdown.

PC threatened in the second quarter, but with the seconds ticking away on the clock, was left stranded 15 yards from the land of milk and honey. Another Hose drive carried to the Clemson twelve in the last half before an interception in the end zone ended the threat and gave the Tigers the ball on their own twenty.

The Hosemen should be well prepared for a strong Furman eleven on October 1 with an open date on this week end. By profiting from our mistakes at Clemson and by working on weak points for two weeks, Furman's head coach Bill Young and his boys should have a rough night of it in Greenville's Sirrine stadium on next Friday night.

PC SPIRIT LAW

The famous "PC Spirit" seemed to reach a slow ebb after the Tiger's quick first quarter TD on last Saturday night. Perhaps the fact that the cheerleaders have yet to be organized, and many have had no chance to become familiar with the yells was the chief reason.

Of course many students have the tendency, to become so interested in the game, that they actually forget to yell or watch the cheerleaders. This is quite easy to do, but we must remember that we are the ones who must have the spirit and keep the old PC chatter up until the final whistle has sounded.

HITTING THE HARDWOOD

Coach Norman Sloan, expecting one of PC's finest basketball teams in recent years, has already started his boys hitting the bucket. With most of last year's starters returning for duty, the "Blue Hose Five" should be tough in Little Four play as well as in regular competition.

Last year's stand-outs Dave Thompson and Ron Ragan should be set for a great year, facing their junior and sophomore years respectively. Last year greats also include Bob Burgess, Chuck Sloan, Bill Toole, Bruce Thompson, and Arnold Stone.

Hose Lose Grid Opener, 0-33, To Massive Clemson Powerhouse

Tiger Units Prove Fatal to PC Eleven

Presbyterian's battling Blue Hose were defeated by a superior Clemson Tiger team by the score of 33-0 Saurday night, September 18, at Clemson. The Tigers employed two units although this is one platoon football. The first team, directed by All-American candidate Don King, crossed the double stripes three times and kicked one extra point to score 19 points. The second team, directed by Don Ross, scored 14 points. Both of these touchdowns were made by right half Jim Coleman.

To begin the first quarter, PC received the opening kickoff and advanced the pigskin up to the 38 yard marker. On the second play of the game the Tigers recovered a PC fumble on the 38. On the first play from scrimmage for the Tigers, Don King passed the pigskin to end Scott Jackson for the first TD of the ball game. The first time the Tigers missed the point after touchdown.

After that quick stab in the back, the gallant Blue Stocking appeared to be back in the ball game. Then PC kicked to the Tigers on their 27. From here George and Pagliei galloped off two first downs to midfield. Hamilton, coming to the rescue, intercepted a King pass to stop the sustained march of the the Tigers were on the march again, with Pagliei bringing the ball back to midfield.

From the 50 yard stripe Pagliei advanced to the 30. Then George carried to the 12. From here Pagliei, taking a pitchout from King, galloped over the double stripes standing up. Parades added the extra point to make the score 13-0. After the kickoff George Blue, picking up PC's initial first down, sprinted to the Tiger 49 yard line. This was the first time that PC had been on the offensive in Tiger territory. Hamilton then punted to Wells, who returned to the 23. After a 15-yard penalty, the Tigers started a 92-yard TD drive. With Wells, Coleman, and Hankinson taking turns tearing up the turf, the Orange jerseys drove for four first downs to the PC 29 yard line. After two plays Coleman drove over into the end zone from 20 yards out. Parades missed the conversion, leaving the score 19-0.

With seconds left in the game, PC was advancing toward the promised land with only 15 yards left to go. Here Father Time halted PC's drive as the gun sounded to end the half.

During the third quarter Joe Pagliei thrilled the fans by returning a Hamilton punt 75 yards to score. Paredes added the extra point to make it 26-0.

Playing most of the fourth quarter, the second team recovering a PC fumble on the PC 31. After two plays from scrimmage, Coleman rammed his way over from the three to score the final TD of the evening. Again Parades kicked the etxra point to make the final score 33-0.

I-M Rifle Firing Begins on Friday

The intramural season will get underway October 1 with a rifle match. All six of the fraternities have entered into the competition along with the Ministerial Club and a non-frat team. The non-frat team of last year was the rifle champion.

Each team will consist of a coach and six men. A team may fire with four men, but less than four results in a forfeit. Sgt. W. O. Wood is in charge of the program and he is expecting to have the teams on the range as much as posible to prepare for their matches. All matches are to start at two o'clock.

Pi Kappa Phi is scheduled to meet the non-frat team on Oct. 1, and matches will run through Nov. 3 when the winners will be determined.

Open Date Means Work for Blue Team

Open date ahead is merely an invitation for a harder practice grind as Presbyterian College intensifies its football sessions in preparation for Furman next week.

Blue Hose coaches expressed unanimous disapproval of the team play against Clemson last Saturday, although the 0-33 score was one of the closest of the past decade in this series.

Coach Bill Crutchfield, after a close study of game movies, said his squad will have to work long and hard on all phases of fundamental play to get ready for the Furman encounter on Oct. 1. He swung right into a long scrimmage session Monday afternoon and plans to keep up the rough work until late next week.

Assistant Coach Ed Schembechler, who assumes responsibility for the PC forward wall, expressed sharp dissatisfaction with the blocking and tackling of the past week end. He said:

"The Presbyterian line looked terible against Clemson. The only thing on the field worse than the line was the PC backfield."

Schembechler cited only two players for what he considered really good play against the Tigers. These men were the two tackles, Lee Frierson of Arcadia, Fla., and Bob Harrington of Mont Clare. They played well both offensively and defensively, he said.

All of which means the Blue Hose may be in for a major reshuffling of lineup during the next ten days. Presbyterian coaches are determined to field a spirited, smooth-functioning outfit, and the call will go to those men who turn in the best performance in the coming practice sessions.

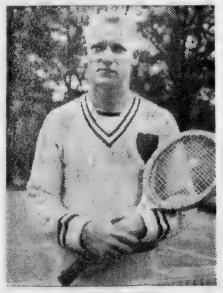
Tennis Ace Allen Morris Named to Davis Cup Team

• Others Have Creditable Summer Records

The dream of all big time tennis players has finally come true for PC's brilliant tennis star Allen Morris. Allen was picked for the 1954 U. S. Davis Cup team at the first of this past summer. The honor was officially bestowed on Morris at the annual Southern Championship held in Alanta, Ga.

This year's Davis cup team consists of ten players picked from all the players in the U. S. to represent the Americans in any match that they may undertake to win back the cup from Australia.

The ten players are: Vic Sexias, Tony Trabert, Ham Richardson, Morris, Sam Giammaluda, Ed Moylan, Tut Bartzen, Hal Burrows, and Straight Clark. Clark, Burrows, and Richardson represented the U. S. team recently aaginst Cuba. The U. S. won 5-0. Trabert, Seixas, Moylan and Bartzen will represent the U. S. in the next match against Mexico. If the U. S. wins that one, Belgium, and Australia are next.



Morris and other PC players toured the tennis circuit this summer and, as expected, made an exceptionally fine showing throughout the country.

Morris started with the Blue & Gray tourney in Montgomery Ala., where he was in the final round against Jose Aguero of Tulane University. Next Morris went to Atlanta where he was the only player from the South to reach the semi-finals. There he lost to Tom Brown, No. 3 ranking player in the U .S., in a very close match.

From there Morris toured to Little Rock, Ark., where he struck a little bad luck. In his semi-final match against Davis Cup team mate, Giammalua, Morris pulled a muscle in his side but went on to win a very close match. In the finals he could not actually bear down for fear of a permanent injury to his side and lost to Bartzen very easily.

Although playing with the handicaps of an injury, Morris went on to Cincinnati, Ohio where he almost upset the No. 5 ranked player, Clark, in one of the closest matches of the tri-state match.

Morris' big game took hold when he hit the grass courts at Orange, N. J., where he upset two foreign Davis cup players, Astushi Miyiagi of Japan and Ray Emerson of Australia. At Newport, N. J., Morris again took charge of a foreign Davis cup star by up-setting Neal Fraser of Australia.

ALLEN MORRIS

At the National Championship at Forrest Hill, N. J. Morris fought his way into the third round where he was beaten by Rex Shatning of Australia, who was finally loser to Seixas for the National Championship. Under the watchful eye of Coach Leighton, Morris had two very impressive runs in the 1st and 2nd rounds.

Dick Macatee, PC's no. 2 netter put his powerful game into action on the Canadian circuit where he had many impressive upsets. Jerry Hunt, Warren Berry, and Harvey Jackson carried the PC tennis hammer on the Southern Circuit. Hunt had a very big upset when he beat Herb Brown, No. 1 man for U. N. C. and No. 8 ranking in the South. Warren Berry upset Tulane's Jerry Dalrymple in a fine display of steady tennis.

Great PC Sportsmen

Boxer 'Nubby' Truesdell Never Floored in Fight

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

The Reverend Neil E. (Nubby) Truesdell, former PC boxing star and 1931 S. A. A. U. featherweight champion, is the second nominee in the parade of former Presbyterian College athletic greats.

During his entire college career he established a enviable record, never losing a fight and never being knocked from his feet by his opponent. Suffering from sinus trouble he was forced to remain out of two of the regular matches his senior year, a fact which seriously handicapped the varsity squad throughout that season.

Partially well, he journeyed, in February, 1931, to Atlanta where he ended his brilliant career by winning the featherweight championship of the S. A. A. U. Fighting out of his own weight he turned in three clean-cut victories to win the title; one by unanimous decision, and the other two by first round knockouts. By virtue of this triumph he was invited to participate in the National Matches held in Chicago during the next month.

While enrolled at Presbyterian, Nubby was a member of the freshman and varsity track teams in 1928 and 1929 respectively. In the ring he matched rights and lefts with the best in 1929-1931, being elected captain in 1930. In the extra-curriculum of endeavor he was a member of the PC band in 1928 and 1929. In his senior year he was elected secretary and treasurer of the Senior Class and treasurer of the Block "P" Club.

SCA Hostess Directed First PC Musical Groups

Mrs. E. H. Hall, Sr., the College Hostess, is the College Dame introduced this week.

Mrs. Hall is an alumna of Converse College where she attended until her marriage. When she came to Presbyterian College she organized the first glee club and orchestra. She also taught music in an unofficial capacity. This was during the administration of Dr. Douglas who lived in the present SCA building, which is Mrs. Hall's headquarters.

Mrs. Hall left Clinton for several years, returning in 1942. In that year she was asked by Dr. William P. Jacobs, II, her brother-in-law, to serve as the college hostess. Since that time, she has been known to every student at PC for her gracious charm and congeniality.

At the present time, Mrs. Hall is president of the Actaean Book Club of Clinton which recently celebrated its 50th year of active organization.

She is a member of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. She is also a past member of the Garden Club and the Century Book Club.

In 1948, the PaC-SaC was dedicated to Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Bob Hellams jointly.

She was the sponsor of the Alpha Psi Delta sorority, local women's society which was disbanded several years ago.

Mrs. Hall is the mother of three sons and has five grandchildren. Her main hobbies are in the fields of horticulture and music. She is an active member of the First Presbyterian Church Choir.

Pie Party Entertains Campus Baptist Union

The Baptist Student Union had a pie party in honor of the Baptist freshmen last Monday night at the Baptist Church. Approximately seventy-five students attended.

On next Friday, this campus will be the scene for the presentation by Dr. Marshall W. Brown of several awards won by the Presbyterian College Reserve Officer Training Corps Cadets during summer Camp at Fort Bragg, N. C., this past summer.

The twenty-seven men who make up the crack senior platoon will be lined up in drill formation Friday morning. Cadet Major Thomas A. Stallworth will accept, on behalf of the platoon, a trophy denoting first place in the close order drill competition held in the ROTC regiment at Summer Camp.

At the same time, Cadet First Lt. Benny Barclift will be lined up with his crack squad of nine men which also won a first place among squads drilling in close order competition this summer. He also will accept a trophy for the outstanding performance of the squad.

A Third Army Public Information Official and a photographer will be on the scene to take pictures and garner publicity data from the occasion.

Recognized as a very outstanding achievement, these two honors comprise only a small part of the splendid record set at Fort Bragg by the PC Cadets. Several individuals won honors in drill competition, leadership tests, assembly and disassembly of weapons, general efficiency, and other divisions of military actions.

The Presbyterian College Cadets made up the bulk of Item Company, Second Battalion of the ROTC regiment. The Regiment was composed of cadet trainees from approximately forty colleges and universities.

Homecoming Day 1954

When the hundreds of PC alumni fill the campus next week end, the highlight of the school year will come into focus. Particularly to the alumni, Friday, October 8, will be THE day of the year.

To the alumnus this will be his day at Presbyterian. Many find it impossible to return to the campus except on Homecoming Day. To them the day is one of renewing old acquaintances, meeting new PC'uns, and revisiting PC's "halls of ivy."

Perhaps the most important thing that we can do as students is to impress the alumni with our friendliness. Take a few minutes out and talk with an old grad. Show him around the campus and point out the improvements since his last visit.

Just a small gesture of extra cordiality can mean a lot to a person returning here for this week end of festivities. In only a short number of years each of us will be in the same place as these alumni. A friendly handshake, a friendly conversation, an offer to be of service can really hit the right spot with the alumni.

Lets all really show the alumni we are glad to have them back. Let's really roll the welcome mat out all the way and make the 1954 Homecoming the greatest.

Stop That Wind

When the Blue Hose meet the Purple Hurricane tonight in Greenville, we will have every opportunity to show Furman that we are behind our team in every way possible.

The band is now at full strength with a well-planned halftime performance in Sirrine Stadium. With two full weeks of concentrated practice behind them, they should be able to present a commendable performance.

With a full cheerleading squad and several new yells, the PC spirit can be at an all-time high, provided every student goes to the game with a strong determination to put everything he has into the game.

Just in Case You're Interested

By DONALD CHARLES

Come with me to the magic campus of Presbyterian College, pearl of the Palmetto State.

As we drive toward the campus beautiful, resplendent with its many trees and shrubs planted so as to provide for unexcelled beauty the year round, we find that our tires have all been punctured by the vari-colored particles of glass which fall from the street lights which the students have shot out with their little B-B guns. But never mind, we will continue our safari on foot.

Now we reach the plaza. But never mind, we will swim across.

Here we are. The happy child-like natives are hastening to greet us. They are going to do a primitive dance for us. The dance consists of placing a freshman in a large pot, lighting a fire under it and dancing gaily in a bobbing circle. Notice the bright, multi-colored students that swarm around the pot.

Let us pentrate farther into the interior of the campus. Dense smoke and strange animal noises greet us. We are approaching the women's lounge in the Y building. "Double, double, double, double," comes the native chatter.

We pass now by the old library building where we observe the eerie native custom of study. Ah, here is knowledge; here the intellectual studes! Now we approach closer and notice that both of the students have fallen asleep across their books.

Now we come to the Neville Building, seat of culture, seat of campus affairs, seat of learning, seat. Here are located the classrooms, antiques of a near-forgotten ancestry. A group of students is in one of the classrooms. They are amusing themselves by throwing long, pointed, spears at a bearded professor.

Let us make our way through the plowed fields to the dining hall. We tingle with delicious fear as we traverse this farmer's paradise, but soon we are back on the modern, water-covered cement walks again. Let us bandage our snakebites and continue.

Aha, here is the dining hall. It is the meal hour. Let us watch the cannibalistic students as they gather about the door, push and shove, engage in a survival of the fittest. Why is it they want so badly to get into the dining hall? Ahhhh, Presbyterian, campus of mystery.

And so, as the setting sun (Eastern War Time) turns the sky into an unforgettable canvas, we take reluctant leave if the beautiful campus of Presbyterian College, pearl of the Palmetto state. The natives stand on the edge of the campus throwing the only spitballs approved by Good Housekeeping after us as we wave fond farewell.

Aloha, Presbyterian, aloha.

Wave Continues

By JACK EDMUNDS

This is True Blue reporting to you from the Campus Capital on the action of your law enforcement division in regard to the "water wave" which is presently victimizing the campus.

You have probably seen a soaking wet student walking away from Smyth A. Doubtlessly, he was a victim of "Terrible Tom" Warren and his vicious gang of cut-throat "clothes wetters" from the third floor. It is on warm sunny days when football practice is at night that "Terrible Tom" leads his gang to prey on innocent passers-by. The ranks of this subversive gang include such campus nemises as "Buckets" Brice, "Hardrock" Hamilton, "Gentleman John" Newsome (of Prohibition Era fame), "Mobster" Martin, the cast-arm kid, and two apprentices at the trade, the two freshmen terrors, "Bad Buddy" and "Big Head Steve".

This terrible water wave, stimulated by this criminal group, has occasioned a Student Council sub-committee investigation. George K. Blue, the senior Senator from Union, who appointed the sub-committee, has named as co-chairman: the outstanding criminal lawyer from Newberry, Representative W. Gordon Neville, the "square deal" politician who "stumps" the state in the back of a bottled gas truck; and the Honorable Warren Berry who recently led the fight against the local City Council for a referendum permitting watering of the PC tennis courts.

Also named on the committee was Senator Margaret Chase Fleming who also figured in the recent investigation of the shortage of milk at Judd Cafeteria.

In a direct wire from the Blue Stocking News Bureau in the Capitol Building, it was learned that sources near the sub-committee suspect "Subtle Sam" Workman, prominent campus composer and scientist, as the "brains" behind this terrorizing mob.

When last seen, Mr. Workman had locked himself in his room to compose "Nocturne to A Nude Nymph." Investigation of the CBI (Campus Bureau of Investigation) agents is centered at present on the problem of how Boss Sam might "slip the info" to the mob. On the hunch that it might be delivered through the mails, a stalwart cadet from the ROTC "broom bridgade", Watson by name, diligently guards the sacred mail box day and night, challenging all those he suspects of delivering sealed orders.

A spokesman for the CBI said yesterday that the only other outlet might be in the American Novel course, taught by the new campus style setter, "Ivy-League" Davis. It is thought that Hamilton might write code notes in his novel then pass it on to gang members for delivery to "Terrible Tom."

'Gentleman John" was caught for comment earlier today at a local pub with his "foot on the rail". He denied all accusation that he might be active in the mob. He refreshed this reporter's memory that since being indicted by the Student Council for throwing snowballs his freshman year, he has gone straight, staying in semi-seclusion in his third floor penthouse, ever guarded by his strong arm man, "Sack" Tsacrios, who just last week beat a deportation rap.

Newsome, however, did not deny his being investigated lately for the possession of bogus eco scrolls. At that time it was suspected that he beat the rap by turning state's evidence at the recent trial of freshman Ken Webb, who was caught clipping sports articles with his name in them from The Atlanta Journal in the library.

As time for the trial draws near, it is the hope of the students that justice will prevail and the sub-committee will be able to bring charges against the gang. At the present time, the main stumbling block is the "ready bank roll" if gangland bondsman, "Cash" Price, president of the campus' largest newspaper delivery syndicate.

I must quit now as the copy boy just brought a case of "coca ones" into the city room. For further developments, keep your eyes peeled to the Blue Stocking for periodic reports from your campus commentator, TB.

SC Leads States Again In Enrollment Survey

Twelve states are represented on the PC campus this year according to the records of Public Relations Director Ben Hay Hammet.

Seven students come from Virginia, six from Alabama, four from Pennsylvania and Ohio, and three from West Virginia. New Jersey and Oklahoma have one representative each.

In a breakdown of cities boasting the largest PC representation, Clinton takes first with 44. Charlotte, N. C., takes a close second with 35. Atlanta, Ga., runs third with 19 men.

According to the tabulation of this survey, 333 students have enrolled this term for a month registered from the supporting synods of South Carolina and Georgia.

Pi Kappa Alpha

Last Tuesday night Mu Chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha pledged George Baker. Plans were discussed for the Homecoming week end. Also discussed was the open social which will be held on October 13. Pledge officers elected for this semester were Ken Daughtry, president; Geo Baker, vice-president; Ray Howe, secretary and Dave Miller, treasurer.

Kappa Alpha

The brothers and pledges of Beta Pi held a joint meeting Monday night for the purpose of initiating three new men into our order. These men are Kenny Makant, Doug Robbins, and Myron Stockman. The order is proud of its new pledges and feel sure they will become excellent brothers.

Plans were made for Homecoming week end and also for a house party which will be held on Saturday, following Homecoming festivities.

Pi Kappa Phi

At the regular meeting of the Brothers of Beta Chapter the final plans were laid for Homecoming decoration. Among reports was a report from the 50th Anniversary Committee by Beta's delegate, Mack Ballard. Before the meeting was adjuorned, the possibility of a stag affair was discussed.

Dilbert's Dirt

By DILBERT LAMPOON

All right, freshmen, your chance is coming. On October 5 you can show those barking upperclassmen your women. Let's all get dates and see who can have the most late appointments.

John Fesperman really has it bad at Queens. She must really be a doll! What will Wheezie think, John?

Bill Blair lost his head and also his pin. Congratulations Bill and Scottie.

Warren Berry's "only" has been workin in an Atlanta USO. I think Warren is really worried over her new position.

Frank Harrington received the blow of blows recently. Shaken up by the return of his pin, he also received the news that his "ex" is now engaged to a professor at Carolina. Tough luck, Frank.

Connie Evans was recently knocked from the saddle by that old line, "I'm just not sure that I still love you."

Thus ends another cut-throat column. Now let's all go to bed and forget that we have such lovers in our midst.

Garnet Gags

Football games are only place in the world where a man has his girl on his arm, a blanket on the other, and nothing is thought of it.

A friend was week-ending with an Englishman and his wife. Entirely by accident, he happened upon the Englishman's wife in her bath. Making a hurried retreat he sought out the host and proffered an apology. The Englishman, who was reading at the moment brought his head up out of his book and said.

"Skinny old thing, isn't she," he said.

Blue Hose Face Furman Tonight In Battle at Greenville Stadium

• Popson Considered Biggest PC Threat

The air should be filled with cheers and with passes tonight as the Blue Hose once again meet a strong Furman eleven. The setting for tonight's battle is in Greenville's Sirrine Stadium and toe will meet leather at 8:00 p. m.

Furman thus far has compiled a 19-6 win over Newberry while dropping a 53-13 loss to Miami University. PC's only contest has been its usual opening battle with the Tigers of Clemson which the Hosemen lost 0-33.

As usual, PC will rely heavily upon their air attack with Harry "The Sniper" Hamilton doing most of the tossing. This main target seems to be ends Joe Counts, Bobby Jackson, Charles Twitty and halfback George Blue.

PC, however, is not to be overloaded on the ground. George Blue, Gene Butler, and Eddie Brockenbrough, the Hose starting backfield, along with Hamilton, showed by some nice runs against Clemson that either could break away just any time.

Although Furman takes to the air on many occasions, their chief weapon lies in the person of big Jake Popson, a hard-driving Hurricane back. Popson has shown in practice and in the opening game with Miami that he is a very dangerous runner, and Furman opponents are not to accept him lightly.

PC has met Furman on 19 different occasions in past years. Up to date, the Blue Hose have won five while dropping 14. The Socks have a total of 132 points while Furman has totaled 410. Each of these 19 battles has proved exciting and the Hosemen are out to make it win number six in the two schools' encounters.

The Blue Hose have had two weeks' rest since the Clemson game and plenty of time to work on mistakes and weak spots. They have worked long and hard and the result should be seen by all who witness this razzle-dazzle gridiron affair.

In the final estimate, in spite of an injury-ridden squad composed of more than one-third freshmen, PC fans believe this to be "the time" for the Blue Hose to boost themselves to the 500 mark in seeking revenge for last year's 19-0 posting.

22 Men Received Into Block P Club

Twenty-two members were initiated into the ranks of the Block P Club during the first part of this week. New members are added to the club upon the earning of a letter in a varsity sport.

The initiation consists of three days of "baseball" games, wearing of the clothes in reverse, and carrying ample supplies of candy, cigarettes, and shoe polish. President Morris announced that he was pleased with the large crowds which attended the baseball games.

Those new members added to the club were:

Baseball: William Johnson, Leland Brown, Tommy Reeves, and Dee Parker.

Rifle Team: Charles Kinsey, Bill Creech, Chris Patte, Phil Cannella and Frank Sapp.

Golf: Gene Mabe, Warren Mays, and Robert Odum.

Tennis: John Brownlow.

Trainer: Spencer Johnson.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

PC vs FURMAN

Tonight the Battlin' Blue Hose will journey over to Furman University for an annual football classic. This gridiron affair has long been one of interest to South Carolina fans in this area. Tonight is no exception to the rule, and both clubs should unveil some interesting tactics along the lines of football when the Presbyterians meet the Baptists.

Furman Coach Bill Young made the statement that he plans to try the "two team" attack in Sirrine Stadium tonight. After his loss to Miami in their opening game of the season, he was surprised at the power of his reserves and second team backfield. This was the strategy used by the mentor of Clemson College, Coach Frank Howard. Although successful in their 33-13 victory, the outcome of the Furman game is expected to be different. Two teams will be necessary all right, but in a different sense of the word. The second team will be used to help, not rest the first team. Perhaps, I am again showing over-optimism, but we all know that the Hosemen have the ability and the spirit to take the puff out of the Hurricanes.

GIVE YOUR SUPPORT

Have any of you ever seen a team, whether high school, college or university, which could have a good year in athletics without support from its fans? We all know the answer to this question because we have all seen examples of supported and non-supported ball clubs.

We had a good group from PC at the Clemson game and I thought that the spirit was pretty good, but there is always room for improvement. Every one of us should make plans to attend the Furman game tonight. Greenville is only 43 miles and even the "old cars" should be able to make this trip. Everyone who has a car make plans to drive up and let's all give a demonstration of what the "real PC Spirit" is like.

BLOCK "P" INITIATION

Just in case any of you thought that PC had some twenty-odd new freshmen this week, you were wrong. These boys with the big signs and the little hand bags were going through their initiation for the Block "P" Club.

From the "baseball" game on the plaza Tuesday morning, you would perhaps think that all of the boys carried their letters in this sport. Again you are wrong. It seems that this was the only game that all of the members of the Club could put their whole heart (and arm) into.

Clinton Mayor Starred On First Hose Grid Team

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

Hugh L. Eichelberger, former great PC football star and later assistant coach, is the third nominee in the parade of former PC athletic greats.

In 1915 Hugh was a member of Coach Walter Johnson's first PC grid squad. During his brilliant college career, he tore up the turf to two All-South Carolina tackle selections.

HUGH EICHELBERGER

After graduating in 1921, he served as line coach under Johnson. In this capacity he taught other lineman his vast amount of knowledge. He later served for a number of years as a member of the PC board of trustees.

This past June, he defeated incumbent Joe P. Terry in a hotly contested primary to be nominated as mayor of Clinton and later elected officially in the routine primary. The term of office is for two years.

In addition to his duties of mayor, Eichelberger has been connected with New York Life Insurance Company for many years. For the last few years he has won the honors of being the top-selling underwriter of the company.

Robed Choir Makes Plans For Year's Singing Tours

• Ten New Voices Added to Roster

The Presbyterian College Choir, under the direction of Dr. Edouard Patte, is rounding into form for its 1954-55 season. Bill McCutchen, president, told reporters that the boys would be in fine voice for their opening concert which is still over a month away.

The choir again will spread the Good News in music to thousands throughout the South. Plans have been laid for the two tours which will carry the group through Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, and perhaps Tennessee. The usual week-end tours in South Carolina will be held again this year every other week end from November 21 through May 1.

Dr. Patte's group of singers has consistently brought high praise from those who have heard it. It also has the distinction of having the highest scholastic average of any group on the campus.

Other officers besides McCutchen include Drayton Cooper vice-president; Richard Oliver, treasurer; and Frank Harrington, custodian.

The new men recently added to the choir roster include: Chandler McCaskill, Blair Baldwin, and Richard Boland, first tenors; and Frank Simmons, second tenor.

Halftime Ceremony Features Coronation

The campus is swirling today with alumni from many sections of the nation meeting again with the school chums of their years here at PC, for the 1954 Homecoming festivities.

A large group of alumni are back on the campus for this reasonal celebration which for this afternoon included: class reunions, an alumni luncheon, a general meeting of the PC Alumni Association, a President's Reception, and other activities in addition to the Presbyterian-Davidson football game tonight.

The City of Clinton, through the leadership of the Merchants Association and the Chamber of Commerce, have added their work and spirit to add a festive air for the occasion.

The six national fraternities on the campus have added to the spirit for the exciting day with colorful decorations.

New officers of the Alumni Association were chosen at the 5:15 p. m. meeting of this group, and the pre-game evening meal in the form of a smorgasbord will follow this meeting at 6:15 p. m.

The "Battle of the Presbyterians" begins tonight at 8:00 and crowds of alumni, students, faculties, and friends will cheer their respective teams toward a victory.

The crowning of the Homecoming Queen, Miss June Hearn of College Park, Georgia, will highlight the gala half-time activities.

An informal dance, held at the Clinton Armory from 10:00 P. M. until 2:00 A. M., will feature Claude Thornhill and his nationally famous orchestra. This dance is sponsored by the Inter-fraternity Council of PC.

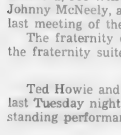
Twenty-three Sons of Alumni Swell College Student Rolls

By DRAYTON COOPER

In order to see a prime example of loyalty to Presbyterian College, it is only necessary to take a look at the roster of the student body. There will be found over twenty boys who have followed their fathers in enrolling here at PC.



Statistics show that of 475 students matriculated at the beginning of the term, 23 were sons of alumni. In addition 38 had "big brothers" who attended PC.

Earl C. Alford, son of Dr. D. C. Alford '21 of Spartanburg; Stephen D. Beckman, son of Dill D. Beckman '30 of Columbia; James C. Bell, Jr., son of J. C. Bell '28 of McConnells, S. C.; Frank H. TB Greets Alumni

By JACK EDMUNDS

True Blue and I were lounging out on the front lawn of the Thomas A. Smyth Hall this morning watching alumni aimlessly stroll by. As I rocked back and forth to the strains of the Alma Mater sung by a crew of freshi which TB had lined up in front of him, I began thinking about these alumni that come around once a year.

After the frosh had finished the song and True had sent them on a little errand to Charley's, he and I began talking about this Homecoming situation.

"Jack, have you ever noticed all the different types of alumni that come around every year?"

"Like for instance?"

"Well, there is the 'Gung-Ho group' that comes back in raccoon coats, banner, and cowbell. They take in all meetings, the game, and even go to the dance to snow us 'undergrads' ' wim. Of course, the weather is 100 degrees and the raccoon coats don't last long, but they serve the purpose."

"Yeah, True, then there is the 'glory getter' who comes strictly for class reunions and with the intent of being elected prexy of one of the alumni associations. He doesn't even stay for the game."

"That's right, Jack, and the graduate of some class of the twenties, back for the first time, who can't understand why Woof-Woof isn't still coaching. But the phoniest bunch is last year's graduates. All they can say is, 'Fellows you don't know how good you've got it.'

"Yeah, T, there are all kinds of P College graduates and lots of 'em are gonna be disappointed if we lost to Davidson tonight. How about it?"

"We should be able to take those Wildcats, Jack. The campus is in good spirits for the game. With all the dolls on the campus it ought to be a good week end."

"Speaking of girls, True, did you make the annual 'beauty show' at the Laurens County Fair this week?"

"I'll say. I haven't missed in years. It's strictly for a morale booster, though."

"Yeah, I've got your booster. Well, let's go grab a little chow."

"Okay. You know, Jack, I hope none of these 'alums' get to wandering around the chow hall too much. From the way things are going over there, L. V. is liable to have them under lock and key along with the bread and water."

Well, that's how our conversation went this morning. In all seriousness, True Blue and I welcome all alumni to the campus. We're glad to see you, God bless you. And Ben Hamet will be glad to see your money (God bless it, too; and please make checks payable to Presbyterian College Alumni Association.) Have a good week end and if you forgot your checkbook, cash will be fine.

The Blue Stocking Presents

Editorials - Features - Humor

Welcome . . .

I take great pleasure, on behalf of the student body, in welcoming the alumni back on the campus of Presbyterian College.

Homecoming is always a highlight of the school year, giving graduates a chance to come back and relive times gone by and also giving undergrduates a chance to see friends graduated in recent years.

Certainly it is a time of festivities, with a ball game, dance, banquet, and other activities, but there is also time for serious thought. Realizing just how important the alumni are to the college, ideas are exchanged, suggestions made, and plans laid to make an active alumni group even more active. At no other time do the undergraduates realize what an important role they can play in the life of their school even after leaving it.

Again, welcome back, and it is our sincere wish that this Homecoming will be among your best ones. — George K. Blue, President of the Student Body.

Melvin's Mumble

By JOE

Howdy folks! It sho' is good to to be back on the old PC campus with the boys. I let a lil' pleasure I had get in the way of a lil' business the administration had, and I was unexpectedly granted a lil' vacation. I understand that the same thing happen to my cousin Dilbert. Maybe the vacation will do him good. I hate to tell you boys, but I'm just as nosy as I ever was. Why the first thing I heard was that that tennis player, what's his name, oh yes, Allen Morris, he done gone and got some girl in Charlotte to say "yes." I guess some folks are just lucky that way.

Somebody told me as I was walking over to Smyth that Bill "Passion Flower" Dantzler done got that girl, from Erskine to come over here to Homecoming this week end. I just want to wish him better luck than he had last season.

What's this new boy "Big Jim" Newsome got that the other boys haven't? I done heard that he has one of those Limestone "Cup-Cakes" coming over here this week end in her own convertible. Beats walking, I guess. I just hope this news doesn't get down to Georgia where that boy's from.

I went up to that social that those "Jolly old Alpha Sigs" were having and they did have a ball. Their food was as nice as their gals. I sho' am glad we got some more of those things coming up.

You folks come back around again next week because I know there will be some real exciting e-vents happening this week end.

Almost forgot, I want Dick Marshall to have a real good time in that house party he is going on.

The Unity of Brotherhood

At this time as perhaps no other, the meaning of Christian brotherhood is brought sharply to the forefront of our minds. When the men with whom you have lived, worked, played, and spent some of your happiest days come back and greet you, it gives you a feeling which you are unable to express.

Here in a unique way all students can feel the unity of brotherhood. Here is an opportunity to develop friendships which are permanent. The grief of an individual can be felt by the entire student body, and the whole school rejoices with one of its individual members.

More than anything else the strong Christian heritage has been the cornerstone in this deep friendship. The PC spirit of friendship is nothing more than following Christ's exhortation of brotherly love.

As we welcome the alumni back to the campus, in a very real sense, we welcome our brothers. We are a part of them for they, like us, are a part of Presbyterian College.

Today is the big day for PC because now the family of Presbyterian is united for fellowship. It is the opportunity to renew friendships and generally enjoy being with your friends who have passed from these halls.

The Blue Stocking extends a heart-felt welcome to the alumni who return today to the Alma Mater. We salute you for all that you have done for the college. We hope that together we may continue to propogate the spirit of Christian brotherhood among men everywhere.

Swedes Are More Reserved Toward New Acquaintances

By SAM WORKMAN

In the first of these series of articles about the impressions I gathered and the observations I made during the time I was in Harnosand, Sweden, this summer, I mention some of the characteristics of the people in general. I apologize for generalizing in some instances because in most cases this is never good. However, our group of ten American students decided that this would have to be done in order for us to convey the few typically Swedish attributes or characteristics that we picked up from being thrown into the society of an average-sized community for the short period of time we were in the country.

Swedish people always give a decent open-arm reception; however, you are conscious of that certain polite yet sometimes irritating and somewhat frustrating reserve that is given to a stranger.

These people do not have the reputation of being as quick to be friendly with a starnger as is often thought of Americans. They must have time "to feel you", so to speak, before they really accept you at heart. We were told by several experienced persons on our way over that we might be able to break the ice with the Swedes after a month or so if we were willing to work diligently on the project.

Speaking of all the Swedes I met and had the pleasure of forming friendships with, I feel that they were certainly polite in every way and very kind, but there was that certain indescribable coldness at first. Then when they loosened up and were willing to extend a warm friendship they seemed to be almost overly friendly — to the extent that would be obnoxious to some people.

Another point is that a Swede will not immediately take in a person or show unusual friendliness just because the preson is popular and respected by others.

The Swedish language is a musical rather monotonous language in which the words "tack tack" seem to be constantly repeated. In Sweden the people are prodigal with expressions of thanks. This phrase, "tack tack," meaning "thank you," is one you find necessary to use if you expect to be accepted in the country.

The Swedes are extremely mannerly and polite. I was especially impressed with the strictness with which age and seniority is regarded. When a young girl is introduced to another person even though this person is only two or three years older, she always curtsies. In the same case with a young man he makes a gesture that is almost a bow.

After you get over the extreme shyness of the Swede, you next notice or sense that large amount of pride that he has for his country and fellowmen. The Swedes as a whole are not at all impressed with personal flattery. If you really want to make the Swede feel good—comment on some good aspect of the whole country.

Hose Seek Homecoming Win From Davidson Wildcats Tonight

• Opponents Bring Undefeated Team

The battling Blue Hose of Presbyterian College lock horns with a greatly improved and undefeated team from Davidson tonight at 8:00 P. M. on Johnson Field.

An all-out offensive football battle will highlight the Homecoming festivities with a capacity crowd of alumni and other sports fans expected to attend.

The Hosemen will be out for their first win of the season after dropping games to Clemson and Furman. Even though entering this contest as the underdog, the Blue Hose will be out to repeat last year's performance of their 19-18 win over Davidson.

These lads from North Carolina are not to be overlooked, however, and are possibly off to their best season in years. Up to date Davidson has chalked up wins over VMI, Stetson, and The Citadel. Each of these wins certainly speaks well of Davidson that tonight's fans will witness son, and is even more assuring a razzle-dazzle gridiron classic.

Davidson is expected to depend upon its running attack for heavy work, although capable of taking to the air quite effectively on needed occasions. They boast depth at all backfield positions, and from the looks of opponents' rushing averages, are equally as strong on defense.

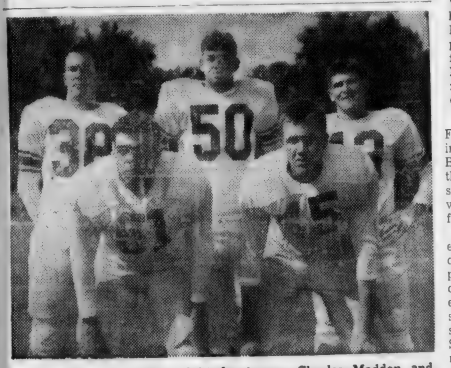
The Hosemen, however, again rely on the left arm of Harry Hamilton for their chief ground-gaining weapon. Halfbacks Gene Butler and George Blue provide added running power on the ground.

On the receiving end for Hamilton's tosses are the capable flankmen, Joe Counts, Charles Twitty, and Bobby Jackson.

Along the line of statistics in previous year, the Wildcats from North Carolina have the slight edge. The two college have met on 13 occasions with PC winning five, losing seven, and tying one. Davidson has scored a total of 122 points to 90 for the Blue Hose.

PiKPhi, Theta Chi Take First Rifle Wins

The first rifle match of the intramural program found Pi Kappa Phi edging out the nonfrat team by a 1428-1419 score. This was the first time the nonfrat team has fired in competition since the team is composed entirely of freshmen. The nonfrat teams have won for the last two years, and these boys will be battling to get into the playoff this year.



Guy Boyd led the freshman team with 304 out of a possible 400 shots. The high man for the winners was Bill Harris with a 308 score.

On Tuesday, October 5, the second match was fired. Led by Marion Lipscomb, Theta Chi 502. For this match and the redowned Alpha Sigma Phi, 711 to maining ones, there were only 1000 shots fired by each team in an effort to speed up the matches.

Lipscomb hit on 150 out of 200 to take high honors. Billy Cain was high for the losers with 144.

Due to Homecoming festivities, the match between Kappa Alpha and the Ministerial Club which was scheduled for today will be postponed until Tuesday.

Sgt. Wayne Wood, who is in charge of the rifle matches, said that he was pleased with the way the boys are turning out to fire. He stated that the interest this year has exceeded all others since he has been here at Presbyterian College.

Five Sons of Alumni Fill Blue Hose Gridiron Posts

During Homecoming Week thoughts turn to sons of alumni currently on the battling Blue Hose football squad. Leading the Blue Hose this year is center and captain Frank S. Boulware, son of Richard H. Boulware '19 of Rock Hill. After making second team All-State center last year, Frank, a 205-pound, 6-2 Senior, is ready to make his best as he leads the Blue Hose in action tonight against the Wildcats.

Next in line comes Tommy Warren, son of T. B. Warren '26 of Allendale. After seeing considerable action as a freshman last year, Tommy, a 180-pound, 5-10 sophomore, should see plenty of starting assignments ahead of him at his guard position.

Another sophomore guard follows Warren in the parade of sons of alumni. He is Alvis Poe, son of A. Bynum Poe '27 of Rock Hill. Alvis, a 180-pound, 5-7 guard, is a smart ball player who can play on both sides of the line.

Completing the list of five are two freshmen. They are Charles C. Madden, son of C. C. Madden, Sr. '26 of Greenville and William H. Roberts, son of Dr. J. K. Roberts '28 of Danville, Va. Madden plays guard and Roberts is running in the fullback spot.

Furman Hands Out PC's Second Defeat

Last Friday night in the battle of the denominations Furman's Purple Hurricane downed Presbyterian's Blue Hose by the score of 27-0, before an estimated crowd of 6,000 in Sirrine Stadium.

Lady Luck seemed to be sitting on the Furman sidelines as the opening quarter ended. With only two minutes remaining in the first quarter, Gene Carter spectacularly intercepted a Hurricane pass and returned the pigskin to Furman's 45. A penalty was called on the Blue Hose, thus nullifying the play and giving the Hurricanes the ball on the 35. After another 15-yard penalty, Yakimowicz and Dellinger ground to the five, where Popson found an opening in the right side of the line for a TD. Pringles kicked the extra point to make the score 7-0 in favor of Furman.

During the second quarter Furman again ground into PC's backdoor when Charles Carter directed a drive that was climaxed by Penland scoring from the three.

Harry (Throwing) Hamilton directed the Blue Hose in its deepest drive into Hurricane early in the second quarter. With Blue and Brockenbrough bulling their way through the line to the 13, the Blue Hose posed a serious threat to go to six-point land. Here the Hurricanes stiffened and held the Blue and Garnet team for downs.

After holding PC for downs, Furman fought back by throwing two passes to Hightower and Barefoot to set the pigskin on the 18-yard line of PC. After a series of plays Popson bulled his way over the double-stripes from the one-foot line to score.

In the fourth and final quarter Maddox, an end who was not on either one of Furman two platoons, gave the crowd the only scoring excitment. He picked off a Hamilton pass and scooted untouched 29 yards to score the final TD of the night. Stokes kicked the extra point to make the final count 27-0 in favor of the Purple Hurricanes of Furman.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

WELCOME ALUMNI

Once again we are about to witness a gala Homecoming affair which is to be highlighted by the annual Blue Hose-Wildcat classic tonight. Clinton is thriving like Grand Central Station as old friends once again meet on the PC campus. I'm sure I can speak for the entire student body in extending a hearty welcome to the old PC'uns who have once again returned to their Alma Mater. Let's all prove to them by our actions as well as our words that PC still is proud of the never-dying spirit of which they have so long been proud.

FOOTBALL AT PC

Many people would be interested in knowing the football history woven around the Battlin' Blue Hose of Presbyterian College. Since many alumni present this week end would be especially interested, I will give you a short run-down since football kicked off at Presbyterian College back in 1913.

The first PC grid squad was coached by Everett Bal and boasted four wins against three defeats. Playing on that team and serving as assistant coach was William P. Jacobs, grandson of the college's founder and later president of this institution. It was through his love of the game that years later the famous Jacobs Blocking Trophy was established.

Walter A. Johnson came to PC in 1915 and acted as a one-man coaching staff. He is now holding the position of athletic director and remains a loyal Blue Stocking backer. Johnson's first team won five games and lost two. He continued coaching for 25 years and shared an impressive record against tough opposition.

One of Johnson's stars on the first PC team was end Lonnie S. McMillian. McMillian made all-state honors. This was his last three years while starring in active sports. He later joined the PC athletic department and for many years coached freshman football and varsity track and basketball.

McMillian stepped up as head football coach in 1941 and installed the wider open T formation. The Hosemen were thus the first grid outfit in the Southeast to expand the system which is today in widespread use throughout the country. Coach Lonnie Mac retired form active football this past spring, but will continue as track coach. He was succeeded by Bill Crutchfield, assistant coach during the '53 season.

PC's OVERALL RECORD

All games played, 342; won, 171; lost, 158; tied, 23; points, 4,196; opponents' points, 4,818.

LITTLE FOUR COMPETITION

All games played, 107; won, 75; lost, 25; tied, 7; points, 1,771; opponents' points, 760.

Great PC Sportsmen . . .

Lou Brissie Named As Legion Baseball Director

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

Leland Victor (Lou) Brissie, former PC baseball pitcher and Philadelphia Athletics and Cleveland Indian pitcher, is the fourth nominee in the parade of former PC athletic greats.

In 1940 Lou, fresh off the campus of PC, asked the famous major league manager, Connie Mack, for a job on the Philadelphia Athletics; but Mack advised him to return to school.

During the Second World War, Lou was a United States paratrooper corporal stationed in the Appennine mountains in Italy. When the order came to wipe out a German nest, Lou led his men on that mission. An exploding shell killed eleven men around and seriously wounded Lou in the legs. Lying in a muddy creek-bed, Lou was passed up as dead by the medical corpsmen. As one of the stretcher-bearers passed, he noticed that Lou was still breathing. Snatched from the grave, Lou Brissie was carried to the hospital where he underwent twenty-three operations before he could walk.

In 1947 Lou again reported to Connie Mack for a job. Lou, wiht a useless leg in a brace and a pocket full of decorations, was permitted to pitch batting practice for the Athletics. Every time he threw the horsehide plateward his wounds tortured him like balls of fire. At the end of the 1947 spring training season Mack sent Lou, with his leg in a brace, to Savannah for seasoning.

After starting two games and losing them, it looked as if he was all washed up before he started. With grim determination he started and won his next game. Although he had started a couple of months late, Lou Brissie in his first and only year of professional ball won a total of twenty-five games for the Savannah Sally League team.

In 1948, Lou Brissie, the man who should never have been a major league pitcher, surprised the baseball world by becoming one of the best pitchers in the American League.

In his first year in the big time he compiled a won-lost record of 14-10 and an earned run average of 4.13. By the end of the 1950 season Fate began to frown upon the courageous yonng athlete.

His life-time won-lost record at that point was 37-41.

During the winter league trading season of 1950 Lou was transferred to the Cleveland Indians in a three-way package deal.

After three years of service with the Cleveland Indians as a relief pitcher, Lou was sent down to the minor leagues. Instead of taking this step downward, Lou chose to get out of baseball entirely. With this thought in mind he came back to his home in South Carolina at the end of the 1953 season.

Before the winter was up he had been appointed Commissioner of American Legion Junior Baseball, sometimes referred to as the cradle of the majors. Indeed this puts a surprising finish to an incredible baseball story.

Pick o' the Blue

Honorary PC Alumna Was '45 Gold P Winner

The Blue Stocking takes pleasure in presenting the First Lady of Presbyterian College, Mrs. Marshall W. Brown, as its Homecoming 'Pick 'o the Blue'.

Mrs. Brown in glancing back, finds a long string of memories stretching back to that day when she came to PC as the bride of young history professor Marshall W. Brown.

Seventeen of those years were served as registrar. Since 1945 her position has been that of Presbyterian's First Lady as wife of President Brown.

The most important thing about these years was, as Mrs. Brown puts it, "all of the boys going off to war." When World War II struck, she had been at the registrar's desk for many semesters, a post which drew ner close to all students as friend and counselor. It was here she received the affectionate nickname "Mrs. Bee."

In preparing transcripts and helping with other final details for leaving school, Mrs. Brown was drawn impressively close to the call of war. As early as May, 1942, she started writing to PC boys serving overseas. At first each was a personal letter, but when the total mushroomed to more than 34, Mrs. Bee began sending mimeographed sheets. these "Bee-Mail" letters, carrying news of students in all branches of service, went into every theater of operation—into foxholes, the hospitals, the air bases and to ships at sea.

By the close of the war, Mrs. Brown's "Bee-Mail" mailing list carried names of more than 1,000 grateful alumni-at-arms.

In recognition of this morale-building service, the Clinton Lions club named Mrs. Bee "Citizen of the Year" in 1945.

In 1945 Mrs. Brown was made an honorary alumna of Presbyterian College so that she would be eligible for recognition for her World War II service as autnor of the "Bee-Mail." In this year she was awarded the Gold P. Presbyterian College's highest stamp of approval for alumni.

Mrs. Brown was born Lillian Dee Gross near Chattanooga, Tenn. She met her future husband while both were connected with the McCallie School in Chattanooga — she as secretary and Dr. Brown as head of the history department. They were married in June, 1926, following his first year at PC.

Mrs. Brown first went behind the Presbyterian registrar's desk in 1928, "to fill in for a few days." Two successive presidents urged her to stay on, and she remained there for 17 years. Mrs. Brown ecalls that when Dr. Brown became president in 1945, "his first official act was to tell me to go home." There a full-time job as college hostess and First Lady awaited her.

College Administration Again Undertakes Extensive Program for Student Prospects

An extensive college day program has begun again this year for Presbyterian College. Travels into various sections of the southeast will be made by G. Edward Campbell, registrar, and other members of the faculty and the administration.

Among the large cities which will be visited are: Atlanta, Charlotte Greenville, Charleston, Spartanburg, and Columbia. Many other cities of South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia will be visited.

Promising students of the junior and senior classes of high schools are given information concerning entrance requirements, fees, and courses of study. Catalogues are given to the interested persons who contact Mr. Campbell.

College Day programs are usually presented in high school auditoriums by many colleges and universities of the nation. As many as fifty-five universities and colleges throughout the United States present interesting programs to the students. In Greenville thirty schools will be represented.

Many days of concentrated effort has supplemented these programs. Mr. Campbell's office corresponds regularly with ministers of Presbyterian Churches throughout the southeast. Also included in this program of correspondence are the principals of high schools and the women of the church. Many of the present students of PC were influenced by the programs presented at their high schools.

Mr. Campbell stressed the importance of student participation in this program. He stated "Our students form a liason between the prospective students and Presbyterian College. I urge all students to turn in names of high school students who have shown interest in Presbyterian College to my office."

Mr. Campbell urges the PC student to invite friends who have shown interest in PC to the campus. All necessities will be afforded by the college.

Mr. Campbell also stressed that correspondence from the PC student to his friends in high school at home, is very important. This may stimulate interest in college events which will lead him to seek more knowledge of the curriculum, offered here.

Between You and Destruction

UNITED NATIONS WEEK OCTOBER 17-24
UN DAY OCTOBER 24

TB Tours Hill

By JACK EDMUNDS

Having run out of material for my weekly column, I decided last week to send my assistant, True Blue, on a "mission of madness." When the idea came to me, it was on last Friday I believe. I immediately related it to TB and he readily agreed that for him it would be a unique assignment. I agreed that for anyone it would be a unique assignment.

I thought that it was about time for True to conduct a campus interview. Since last week end was a dance week end, I thought it would be most appropriate for the interview to occur last Friday. And where else could True find enough people congregated in one spot long enough for an interview but out on that well-lighted parkway directly to the rear of Smyth Dorm, the Jacobs Hill Drive-In.

True Blue was game so I gave him pencil, paper, a Powell's special sack lunch, a flashlight and sent him into that "field of ecstasy", yet unexplored by a "stag," to find out just what goes on out there on a dance week end. He left instructions that if he wasn't back by Monday at 6:00, I was to send a St. Bernard and some brandy out after him.

Well, he was nowhere to be seen last Monday. I was all set to call out the "Campus Commandos" when through my binoculars I saw his hot-rod speeding from the deep woods. He got to the street, gunned the motor twice, dropped into low, and with a cry of "BEAT WOFFORD," scratched across the cement into the parking lot. I quickly opened my bottom desk drawer, dug into it and had a glass of apple cider from my private stock waiting for him when he came in the room. I beckoned him into a chair and jerked out my typewriter.

"Tell it," I told him.

"Jack, these P College lads are some more lovers. I began my 'tour of the hill' right after the game Friday night and when I left a few minutes ago there were still some persistent PC'uns out there giving it the old Blue Hose try. They were probably some of the Dean's List students who have unlimited cuts."

"Did you make anyone mad, T?"

'Shucks, I don't believe anybody paid enough attention to me to get mad. I looked in one car and some cat still had on his football uniform. He didn't want to waste any time.

"Tell me more!"

"Well, I tooled up onto the 'plain of passion' in my jalopy last Friday. As I cruised along supping a 'cool one' from my built-in bar ever now and then, I saw that the cars were lined up on the side of the road all the way from the main road to the big pine tree. There was everything there from a 'fine twenty--nine' to a 'poor fifty-four.' I threw my rod in the shade next to a 'late forty-eight,' leaped out and peered into the auto beside me. Seeing it was a faculty member, I cranked up and cut out of there.

Things weren't really in swing until around 2:00 A. M. The cars from the dance started piling in. When they got three deep along the road, I finally had to get out and direct traffic."

"Must have been on out there, True."

"I think most everything was on, Jack. You know, if the college would put parking meters out there on dance week ends, they could build three new dorms within a year. Yep, the place was pretty well populated and I think I made a pretty thorough estimate of the situation."

And It Came to Pass

Last Friday when the fighting Blue Hose downed the Davidson Wildcats the PC spirit was at the highest point it has been this year. The team, the student body, and the visitors had and expressed a single purpose—Beat Davidson!

Enough cannot be said for the fight and victory won by the Presbyterian gridiron team. Supposedly the underdog, PC came out fighting and bettered last year's margin over the North Carolina opponents. It was a determination and perseverance that told the final score.

It is generally agreed, however, that one of the factors which pushed the Blue Hose to victory was the whole-hearted support in the stands. The students, alumni, and friends of the college had captured the true PC spirit and pulled for the team with all that they had.

Tomorrow night the Blue Hose will have a tough game ahead of them. Again the support of the student body can have a great deal to do with winning or losing. If we do our part, we can rely on the team to bring home the second win of the season.

United Nations Week

October 17-24 has been set aside as the ninth consecutive United Nations Week with the climax UN Day on October 24. This is a time when in the turmoil of world events religious and peace-loving people throughout the world are asked to pray for the United Nations

Although the UN is sometimes called a "mere debating society" where delegates talk and talk and accomplish nothing, "talk" in the UN got Russian troops out of Northern Iran; helped Indonesia bring her struggle for independence to a peaceful conclusion; ended a shooting war in Palestine; and is keeping peace between India and Pakistan. The UN is a place to help people talk out their problems, not shoot them out.

This year the International Relations Club is sponsoring UN Week on the Presbyterian campus. The UN program deserves our attention and support. Theirs is a noble purpose, the seeking of a better world.

In sober thought we might well make the Unison Prayer for the United Nations our prayer.

"God of the measureless universe . . . Creator of men's conscience . . . to Thee in this our fervent prayer for peace, we lift up our voices in unison.

"We . . . people of every faith . . . of every creed . . . join together . . . pleading for truth, justice and charity among men. We pray for Thy omnipotent aid in this hour of imperiled civilization.

"That Thou shalt cast out forever from human thought that flaming in tolerance which makes for war and breeds bloody aggression.

"That the advocates of war shall beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks.

"We pray to Thee for the restoration of concord and amity among all the peoples of the earth.

"That all persons recognize the liberty due religion, and for the renewal of the way of life is fruitful of great and good works.

"This, O Lord, is our fervent prayer, and this is our mingled tribute to Thy everalsting mercy. Amen"

Melvin's Mumbles

By JOE

Well, it happened again. That boy, John "Hambone" Fesperman, done gone and hung that pin on one of the "Queens" from Queens. We ain't been able to get him out of the clouds since. Nice going, old John.

You fellows know that distinguished Senator what gives out milk in old "Judd," don't you? Well, I done heard where he went "hog wild" down at that there Camp Long. He ain't no dignified Senator no more.

Well, I know now that that new boy, "Big Jim" Newsome, is just like the other PC boys. Not only did his Limestone "Cup-Cake" not bring her car down for he dance, she ain't even come herself.

Old Warren Berry sure did bring a nice one up here to be our "Blue Hose" Homecoming Queen. It must have been his sister. I know he couldn't a' got a date that good-looking.

Coffee and Crawfish

A Genuine Hospitality Typifies Swedish People

By SAM WORKMAN

From he moment I stepped off the train in Harnosand until I was again boarding the ship to come back to the states, it seemed in a way like on big round of handshakes. Handshaking is not a gesture you use only when meeting new people as it is in our country. In Sweden any time you meet anyone you know, no matter where it is or what the occasion, you must shake hands. I found the handshaking a very nice and delightful custom. The first week I had a little trouble remembering to throw out my hand immediately upon meeting someone, but I soon realized that this would have to be altered because if you hesitate for one second, you have hurt someone's feelings. The nice part or friendly air about the custom is that the whole thing is so spontaneous and that the Swedes are so energetic with the handshake.

The hospitality of the Swedes is different, I think, from that in the United States. However cold and heavy the Swedes may appear to be outwardly on the first meetings, their hospitality could not by any means be termed cold or heavy. For example, if a family has a crowd of children and no extra beds, they would not think of refusing guest. Some of the family would simply sleep on the floor and think nothing of doing so.

When food is offered, you must accept it—not only accept it but eat every bite of it. If you do not eat all that is given you, it is very likely that the entire household will be insulted. Not at any time do I remember seeing a Swede leave any particle of food on his plate.

Another of the customs that we noticed was that it is the thing in Sweden to mourn your deceased relatives by wearing special mourning costumes. The extent to which a person carries this thing is dependent upon how close a relative the deceased was. There is a specified length of time and amount of black clothing that is worn for the different members of the family.

In any town or village no matter how small or large, you will always find numerous little shops under the name, Konditori, where you can get a very good cup of coffee and a fair cup of tea practically any time of the day or night. A Konditori is really a bakery where wonderful Danish and Swedish pastries can be bought. However, the Konditori makes its money from the many customers who come in almost hourly for their cup of coffee. Really, I think this is just a good excuse on the part of the Swede to enable him to take part in one of the country's favorite forms of entertainment—just talking.

It is said that the Swedes make the worst tea in the world and perhaps, this is due to the fact that they are so fond of coffee. The figures show that the average Swede drinks about six or seven cups of coffee each day. This is not because coffee is more economical than other beverages. On the contrary, coffee has come to be quite a luxury in the last few months, but one that every Swede has to have. Coffee is much more expensive than many of the alcoholic beverages.

Everybody in Sweden looks forward to the crayfish festival

PC Upsets Davidson In Homecoming Thriller

• Jackson Stars with Two Safeties

Presbyterian's fighting Blue Hose chilled Davidson's previously unbeaten Wildcats last Friday night before a homecoming crowd of 5,000 by scoring two safeties in the first quarter and a TD in the second quarter and holding on in a tight defensive battle after Davidson scored to win 10-7.

After two minutes of the ball game had been played, PC led 2-0 by virtue of two safeties scored by Bobby Jackson. After Harry Hamilton's 52-yard punt, Jackson streaked down field and spilled in the end zone Little, who had taken the punt on the three-yard line. Moments later, after another Hamilton punt had gone out of bounds on the Davidson three, Jackson crashed through the line and blocked Smith's punt. The pigskin bounced over the end zone, giving PC another safety and the lead by a 4-0 score.

In the second quarter PC drove 55 yards in four plays for a TD with Hamilton going over from the three for the score. In this series of plays PC was aided in setting up the TD by two penalties of 15 yards for roughness and 28 yards for pass interference.

Neither team could generate a drive in the third period. Gramley, guard of Davidson, broke through PC's line to block Hamilton's punt. With a grand opportunity for Davidson to score, PC's thin blue line held like a stone wall. The threat was ended by Hamilton's interception in the end zone of a fourth down Belton pass.

Finally Davidson began to move after the start of the fourth quarter and drove 90 yards in eleven plays to score. Halfback Jimmy Thacker set up the TD with two runs covering 48 yards and a pas interception. Little sneaked five yards on fourth down to cross the double stripes for six points. Talbert converted to make the score 10-7, which was the final score.

Great PC Sportsmen . . .

Moore Was Second PC'un To Get Blocking Trophy

Paul "June" Moore, former great PC athlete on the gridiron and diamond and former Detroit Lion pro fullback, is the fifth nominee in the parade of former great PC athletes.

Because June was a great athlete and competitor, he and his brother, Be, led the Blue Hose as co-captains to the 1939 Little Four and South Atlantic Championships.

June, completing his three years of varsity football in a blaze of glory in 1939, was selected in his senior year as All-State fullback and was given the Jacobs Blocking Trophy for his outstanding performance in providing a clean path for the ball carrier. Moore was only the second PC athlete to receive the Blocking Trophy.

In baseball the story was the same. He starred behind the plate for the Blue Stockings Against big time opponents Moore was superb. In 1939 he had a great hand in defeating The Citadel by the score of 20-4 and in downing Carolina 10-8 and 2-1.

After graduating from PC, Moore went to the Detroit Lions to play professional football.

In the fall of 1941, Moore came back to his alma mater for a short time and helped Coach Lonnie Mac set up the T-formation here. The session marked the first year that T-formation football had been played in the Southeast.

Hose Go to Wofford Tomorrow To Try for Season's Second Win

• Terriers Have Outstanding Backfield Combination

The Battling Blues have now turned their attention from last week's big upset victory over Davidson's Wildcats, to the "big one" up Spartanburg way. This will be the scene of the annual Blue Hose-Wofford clash which will begin at 8:00 P. M. tomorrow night on Snyder Field.

As usual, Wofford fields a strong grid squad which up to date has registered four wins against no defeats. Boasting depth in all positions, the Terriers have perhaps two of the best halfback combinations in the state in Joe Hazel and B. B. Stevens. Both of these gridmen have compiled neat rushing averages against all opponents and are quite capable of going the distance at any time. PC's chief worry will lie in setting up a defense to stop thtse two speedsters.

The Hosemen will be out to pull upset number two in pulling another of the state's powerhouses from the undefeated ranks. After acquiring a rousing 10.7 victory over Davidson, the Stockings could be hard to handle against the team which has been such an arch rival for so many years.

Coach Bill Crutchfield has a few stars of his own who proved by their great performance last week that the Blue Hose are capable of playing excellent football. The razzle-dazzle passing of Harry "the Sniper" Hamilton and the two outstanding safeties pulled by Bobby Jackson highlighted the contest. Great all-around play was also displayed by freshman halfbacks Mitchell Mavromat and Ken Webb, end Joe Counts, guards Luther Shealy and Tommy Warren and tackles Lee Frierson and Robert Harrington. This victory was one for the whole team because each man gave his best.

Perhaps Wofford's most impressive win up to date was last Saturday night's 28-7 victory over Newberry. Newberry was previously undefeated and was said to have the best material in years. In running up a score like that against the Indians, Wofford has proved their tremendous ground power.

All fans can expect a night of football thrills and excitement when the Hosemen and Terriers throw the book away and lock horns for a Little Three football classic. This clash could easily decide the outcome of the Little Three supremacy for the two colleges.

In Intramurals . . .

PiKA Trims Sigma Nu In Close Rifle Match

Intramural small-bore rifle competition went into the second week, completing the first scheduled round of firing for each team.

The postponed game of last Friday between Kappa Alpha and the Ministerial Club was fired Tuesday under protest, so a rematch is scheduled for next Tuesday, Oct. 19.

Wednesday's match brought forth the dead-eyes of PiKA and Sigma Nu. This was a very closely fought match with PiKA squeezing out Sigma Nu with a total point average of 753 to Sigma Nu's 739.

Ralph McCaskill's skill led the PiKA's squad with a series of 162. Tommy Stallworth's keen eye and iron nerves ran a close second with a 161 series.

This Friday's match will determine one team for the final playoff for the intramural trophy, which will be determined October 29.

During the first phase of intramural firing a number of men have shown great prospect for the Rifle Team of Presbyterian College competing against the seven returning lettermen for high honors.

The regular rifle team's first challenge for the 1954-55 season is a mail match against Westminster College of Fulton, Mo.

Netters Preparing For Spring Season

The pre-season activity of the champion PC net team has gotten underway under the direction of Coach Jim Leighton. Along with last year's returning players, four new men from throughout the Southeast have reported for practice.

These new racketmen are Gene Gee of Richmond, Va., Scott Watson and Guice Potter of Anniston, Ala., and Sonny Sumner of Greenville. Coach Leighton stated that Potter will definitely be one of the first six on the team this year.

Pre-season meets already scheduled for the team include a match with Duke University at Durham, N. C., on October 29-30. This match will be part of the first Dixie Classic begun by Duke tennis coach George Lott. Also scheduled are matches with the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill.

In order to stimulate interest between squad members Coach Leighton has initiated a set of ladder matches. The present ladder standing among the team netters is in the following order:

Morris, Brownlow, Hunt, Macatee, Jackson, Potter, Sumner, Berry, Gee, and Watson.

Coach Leighton also expressed his desire to have more avid interest shown in tennis classes for students which will begin next Monday and Tuesday, October 18-19. He pointed out that all who are interested in receiving this tennis instruction should be on the courts on the day of the first classes so that he can determine the amount of interest shown by the student body.

DAVIDSON UNDEFEATED?

The answer to this question is, of course, no—thanks to the gallant performance of the Battling Blue Hose in last Friday night's triumph over the Wildcats of Davidson College. The Hosemen displayed iron man strength and a "never say die" spirit in tumbling Davidson from the undefeated ranks.

HOW ABOUT WOFFORD?

In looking to tomorrow night's clash with the Wofford Terriers, the Stockings again face a strong eleven which is previously undefeated in four states. The big question coming up before our eyes is, can the Blue Hose do it again? With the spirit and determination displayed by both the team and the student body on last Friday nigh, the answer is yes. Wofford has a great team, but so did Davidson. With the support of the entire student body and a demonstration of "fighting PC spirit," the Terriers could find themselves in rough shape about 10:30 P. M. tomorrow night, and the Hosemen could be up to the 500 mark in football competition.

PRAISE DUE

Georgia Native Assists In Office of the Registrar

Mrs. R. E. Martin, the assistant registrar of the college, is this week's College Dame.

Mrs. Martin, the former Roslyn Cason, was born in Tignall, Ga. Her family moved to Clinton when she was in the sixth grade, and it was here that she completed elementary and high school education.

MRS. MARTIN

While a high-school student, Mrs. Martin was a member of the Beta Club, the honorary high-school achievement organization.

Enrolling at Winthrop College in 1943 in the accelerated program, she was an active member of the Baptist Student Union. She graduated with a B.A. degree from Winthrop in 1946.

Mrs. Martin was accepted at the Women's College of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary where she wished to study music. However, the hand of fate brought her to PC in the fall of 1946.

Her first position at the college was that of alumni secretary. She held this position until 1949 when she became private secretary of PC president Brown. She continued in this capacity until the latter part of 1950 when she accepted her present position of assistant registrar.

In June of 1952 she married R. E. Martin, a PC alumnus who served three years in the European theater during World War II.

Mrs. Martin is an active church worker at the First Baptist Church. On the campus she is adviser to the Baptist Student Union. To show their affection for her, the BSU recently presented her with a president's key with the engraving "Big Sister" on the back.

Patte Library Contains Rare Interesting Volumes

By RICHARD OLIVER

A number of priceless volumes dating back as far as 1551 are among a collection of rare books belonging to Dr. Edouard Patte, professor of French and sociology at PC.

Included in this collection are the first edition of John Calvin's sermons on "Harmony of the Gospel" edited in 1652. A beautiful second edition of the Martin Luther Bible with brass corners and clasps, beautiful illustrations and a map of Egypt and Palestine dating back to 1551 is also owned by Dr. Patte.

Also in the collection are: the "Psalms of David" with music and French verse in a rare miniature edition of two by three inches; the first edition of the Osterwald Bible and the 1693 "Edition de Geneve," with its original bindings and front pages in red and black ink.

A large group of 18th Century volumes are included, with some weighing over thirty pounds. These books, a part of a collection started years ago by Dr. Patte's ancestors, who were Huguenots, along with a collection of eighteenth century laces belonging to his wife, were lost during the Second World War. They had been shipped from Geneva in 1944 and were seized by German authorities during the occuptaion of France.

These volumes remained lost during the German-Allied seige and were finally discovered by the World's Committee of the YMCA, of which Dr. Pate was a member at that time. From North Africa, where they were discovered, they were sent to New York and, after being lost for 30 months, arrived undamaged.

These volumes that were in the heart of the Religious Wars, the Thirty Years War, the persecutions of Louis XIV, the French Revolution, Napoleon's campaign and then the First World War, escaped destruction again.

Interesting is the fact that one of the very same Bibles was being used by Dr. Patte as a pulpit Bible where he was preaching in South Carolina and it became the prey of a rat. However, the 16th Century leather failed to agree with the rodent and it was found dead in the corner of the church a few days later.

Brown Attends Meet Of Presbyterian Men

Dr. Marshall W. Brown, PC president, recently attended the Men's Convention of the Presbyterian Church, US, in New Orleans, La.

On October 18-19 Dr. and Mrs. Brown attended a meeting of the Board of Christian Education, a division of the Presbyterian Church.

They were guests of Governor and Mrs. Kennon of Louisiana at a buffet dinner party during the week at New Orleans.

Campus Campaign Begins Monday For Community Chest Donations

• Registrar Campbell Is Campus Manager

The Community Chest drive for 1954 will have its start on the Presbyterian College campus on Monday, October 25. The campus campaign will be added to the Clinton Community Chest as a token from the forces of Presbyterian College.

The Community Chest Kick-Off Breakfast will be held at the Hotel Mary Musgrove at 8:45 A. M. Monday morning. Those in attendance from PC will be Ed Rayfield, Bill Dantzler, and William Neville.

The Community Campaign has been held in Clinton for the last four years and a token gift from Presbyterian College has always been a part of this campaign.

Mr. G. Edward Campbell, registrar, is campaign manager for the campus. Mr. Campbell emphasized that as the students are a vital part of the community, a gift should be secured in order to maintain the aid being given to the needy of the community as well as to other parts of the country. Mr. Campbell said further that many of our boys have taken part in the work of the community in helping with the little league teams, churches, and businesses of the town.

"This action by the students of PC is not particularly the financial aid given, but it indicates the true spirit of PC," Mr. Campbell stated.

The faculty and staff will also be called on for their aid in the nation-wide campaign.

William Neville is the campus chairman, and he is assisted by the following: Richard Loveland, Theta Chi and Smyth C; Frank Young, Pi Kappa Phi and SCA; Carter Martin, KA and Smyth B, first floor; Ralph McCaskill, Pi-KA and Gym; Pete Sloan, Sigma Nu, Vetville and Gym; Bill Dantzler, ASPhi and Smyth A; Tommy Stallworth, Smyth A; and Robert C. Helm, Caldair.

And Lynwood Gaskin, Spencer third floor; Monty Cook, Smyth C.

It should be noted that this will be the only organized money raising charity campaign on the campus this year. Mr. Campbell asked that each of the above named persons report to William Neville on Wednesday afternoon and give a report on the progress. A final report should be given on Saturday, October 30.

The six national fraternities on the campus have been notified and plan to organize the campaign in their respective groups.

Each student has been requested to support this drive even if it has to be a token gift. Each student has been urged to give at least one dollar toward this effort.

Hurricane Strikes PC Students' Houses

Hurricane Hazel damaged the homes of three PC students this past week end.

The home of Charles Joyner in Myrtle Beach suffered minor damage to the roof. Other property owned by the Joyners was hit by the storm.

Also damaged was the home of James Lee also of Myrtle Beach. Property of several members of the Lee family suffered from the hurricane.

According to a spokesman, the home of Gene Altman of Mullins suffered severe damage. The seasonal home of the Altmans in Cherry Grove was also a victim of the disastrous storm.

The Wrightsville Beach house of Bobby Jackson's family, it was reported, was completely demolished by Hurricane Hazel.

Office of Registrar Mails D and E Grades

Registrar G. Edward Campbell announced that the D and E quarterly reports have been mailed home this week. Students were urged by Campbell to work for improvements in all of their courses. He pointed out that those who are making D's or E's at the end of the first quarter should study their schedules very carefully and try to devote more time to their academic opportunities.

Twenty-nine per cent of PC's students did not receive any D's or E's for the first quarter which ended October 15. The remaining 71 per cent of the student body received one or more grades.

A breakdown of the grades as reported to parents by the registrar's office is as follows:

125 students or 26 per cent with one D or E grade.

116 students or 24 per cent with two D or E grades.

64 students or 14 per cent with three D or E grades.

28 students or 6 per cent with four or more D or E grades.

Of the 333 students receiving one or more grades at the fist report period, 144 students or 44 per cent of the group had a pass-in grade in each subject.

Campbell concluded, "Grades indicate relative standing in academic work, and they change from day to day at this time during the semester. However, one should remember that he is working toward a final grade that will remain on the record permanently to indicate achievement in classroom activity.

Laurens Dorm Begins Nightly Devotionals

The students living in Laurens Hall began holding a nightly devotional service in the dormitory Monday night, October 10.

These devotional services, which begin at 10:30 P. M. each night, last about 10 minutes, and are held for the purpose of setting aside a few minutes from studies for God.

They consist of a scripture reading, a short discussion, and a prayer by different individuals, and are held in different rooms each night.

Participation in these services is strictly voluntary and anyone on the campus who would like to attend is cordially invited to these informal devotionals.

Two Men Designated DMS by Commander

Orders were released from the office of the PMS&T this week designating two cadets as Distinguished Military Students for the school year 1954-1955. These men are Cadet Second Lt. John W. Davis and Cadet Second Lt. James B. Bickley.

Davis is platoon leader of second platoon, B Company, while Bickley commands the second platoon of D Company. Both of these men will accept Regular Army Commissions at graduation next spring.

Seven other cadets were named as DMS last spring, and their designation has been confirmed again for the school year. These men are: Cadet First Lt. Marcus W. Adams, Cadet First Lt. George K. Blue, and Cadet Second Lt. Samuel T. Cornwell.

Also Cadet Capt. William G. Neville, Cadet First Lt. Richard F. Ropp, Cadet Major Thomas A. Stallworth and Cadet First Lt. William F. Tiller.

College Robed Choir Gives Varied Program

The Presbyterian College Choir, under the direction of Dr. Edouard Patte, will again bring to their audiences this year a wide and varied program of music.

The selections chosen for this year all tie in with the general theme of the program, The Beatitudes. The narration for the choir programs will be based on this familiar portion of the Scriptures, and, as usual, will be a very important part of the concert.

Choral numbers that feature soloists, organ and choir will be heard this year. The program includes music of the early English school, dating back some 800 years. The selection of this early Gothic music will be the motet "Allelulia Psallat".

Those who enjoy the music of the Baroque period will find two chorales by Johann Sebastian Bach, the master of the polyphonic composition. The Choir is doing an Alleluljah and a chorale by Bach.

A number said to be one of the most difficult to sing in the entire repertoire will be repeated this year by the double quartet. It is the very beautiful "If Ye Love Me" by Thomas Tallis.

As usual, one of the highlights of the choir concert will be their outstanding presentation of Negro spirituals. The spirituals are very different from the polyphonic music of the masters in that they are not mathematical and precise in their forms. This perhaps explains their almost universal appeal; it is a simple, heart-felt message set to melodious music. The choir will do three spirituals this year, "His Name So Sweet", "Let Us Break Bread Together", and the gay, "Good News, Chariot's Coming."

To round out the choir's full program, two selections from the Rusian school will be sung this year. To fully appreciate music

Charlotte-PC Club Has First Social Thursday

The Charlotte PC Club held its first social at 7:00 P. M. on Thursday, October 21. The club had a weiner roast at Peck Cornwall's ranch. The party was held in honor of all new Charlotte students.

President Pete Sloan stated that girls from several South Carolina colleges were present for the social gatheing.

Community Chest Drive

Throughout next week when representatives of the Community Chest campaign call upon the students of Presbyterian College, there will be a double opportunity for service.

The first and primary opportunity will be that of the Community Chest objective itself—that of aid to charitable organizations through an organized effort. This will be the only collection on the campus for charities during the year and will be an excellent time for contributions to a worthwhile cause.

The second and equally important opportunity in supporting the Community Chest program is letting the people of Clinton know that we students appreciate what they do for us.

Perhaps nowhere else can be found a finer, more congenial group of townspeople than in Clinton. Particularly on dance week ends the friendly hand of the Clintonite is extended to the PC student. The homes of the people of the town are opened willingly and kindly to keep the students' dates.

In a small town the citizens feel close to the college students, and Clinton is no exception. A friendly smile is the signature of the Clinton citizen.

Here in the Community Chest drive is a means of repaying in a small way part of the generosity of the townspeople. It would certainly be a good gesture on the part of the students if each one would take part in the town's drive. The important factor is not the amount, but the fact that PC has a part in supporting Clinton by contributing to the Community Chest.

Football Holiday

Again this year the college administration has responded to the student plea for a football holiday. It is another example of the desire of the administration to fulfill the wishes of the student body whenever possible.

The holiday is given, however, in the faith that a number of students will make the trip to Charleston to support the team. It is important that every person who possibly can attend this game to show that the holiday is warranted.

The team will do its best; the administration has cleared the way; the remainder is up to the student body. Let's go all the way and bring home the second win for the Blue Hose.

TB's Mail

By JACK EDMUNDS

At long last, True Blue has managed to figure out the combination on his mail box. The higher mathematics involved were too much for him, so by bribing Perry Hogue with a ride to York he obtained coaching lessons on the art of opening said box.

When he finally got it opened the letters were packed in there so tight that they had to be pried out. He got an old pair of "Moon" Misenheimer's breeches, sewed up the legs, and stuffed the mail in.

He brought it over to the room and dumped it on the floor. Shall we delve into the pile now and see what we come up with?

Dear Brother True,

Sorry I haven't written sooner, but as a frosh up here this year I've been kept pretty busy. My roommate is pinned to a PC boy and every night she makes me sit in the window and fire my 12-gauge at any Clemson boys riding by in cars. True, I'm getting real good. Why I can hit the IPTAY at 75 feet now. I've got to go as my buzzer just rang and I have to put on my figure and meet my date.

Dear True,

I need advice badly. I'm a poor frustrated mountaineer from the hills of West Virginia. I came here to the big city to teach a little English and got mixed up in this game of tennis. That fierce competitor, "Jarring John" Stevenson, the Vanderbilt Villian, just "aces" me every time and uh, I uh, there's, uh, just nothing I can seem to do about it. Uh, okay, well, uh, you can see my problem.

Close Ties Characterize Life of Swedish Families

By SAM WORKMAN

We were very impressed as a group by the close family ties which we found in all the families that we came in contact with this summer. The Swedes do not seem to go outside the home and family circle as much for entertainment and social activities as we here in the United States.

The family did things as a unit more so than we were accustomed to. For example, in this northern community, Harnosand it was the thing for the whole families to call on another while family quite often. In the particular home where I lived, almost every evening we would have guest in to a party at the Andersson home or the entire family down to the smallest child would go over to some neighboring family for entertainment and refreshments.

Again, with the folk dances we found that the entire family came to these dances which were held on Saturday nights and everyone took part.

One time you would be dancing with a very young girl and perhaps when the time came to change partners, you would be dancing with grandma. In fact, there were very few social events for one particular age group.

From the period of study and observation, our group decided that the family and home seemed to be the very center of all social activity.

The Swedish communities have very few civic organizations and practically no church organization and clubs connected with the church. The fact that they have kept participation in the family circle so active is one good reason for their being able to keep alive so many of their quaint national customs.

Several of our group suggested that the Swedes have centered their interest on the home and family and in a sense substituted them for religion. Sweden has a state church. Lutheranism is the state religion—almost all people belong to the state church. A small fraction belong to other denominations—Baptist, Methodist, The Covenant, and the Pentecostal which has the largest church in Stockholm.

Every Swede becomes a member of the Lutheran church at birth and remains thus unless he openly renounces his faith and joins one of the free movements. When a Swedish child reaches the age of 12 to 15, he is confirmed.

The churches are supported by the state government and the ministers, I was told, receive a very respectable salary from the state.

The religious life sounds very good from what I have said so far. All the churches, even in the remotest rural sections, are beautiful and well kept. The ministers are well-trained and well-paid and of the ones I talked with, all seemed to be very conscientous people.

However, it is just as someone had said, "All the churches in Sweden are very old, very big, very beautiful and very, very empty! Very few people attend church in Sweden. Not only do they not go to church services, but they apparently have no interest whatsoever in the work of the church. Most of the Swedes could not understand why all of us Americans were so interested in going to church.

'Suddenly' Thriller Boasts Effective Acting Roles

By BILL HAMILTON

Living up to its reputation of producing fine dramatic suspense, United Artists has released a new motion picture thriller, "Suddenly."

In this picture the usual hired butler is given an unusual task that of killing the President of the United States. But this is no theatre job as executed by John W. Booth. The assassin in this plot is to kill the President as he passes through a sleepy California town town.

The ideal setup for his gruesome task is found by the murderer in a house overlooking the railroad station. With the help of a few cronies the house is taken and the occupants held as prisoners. The occupants consist, by pure coincidence, of an ex-secret service man, his widowed daughter-in-law and her son.

Meanwhile, the town's sheriff and a group of secret service men are making extensive plans for the protection of the president.

When the sheriff and a government man come to the captured house to inspect it, the government agent is wounded, taken prisoner and later killed. The remainder of the film is allotted to the trials and tribulations of those who are within the house.

Although the plot of "Suddenly" is somewhat contrived, Frank Sinatra, as the killer, fulfills this character role with an effective bit of acting.

Sinatra, it will be remembered, earned an Oscar for himself in his initial dramatic role in "From Here To Eternity." His role in "Suddenly", although not of Oscar caliber, certainly shows the dramatic abilities of the ex-crooner. It is a rather difficult role, being that of a cold-blooded, almost maniacal killer who has absolutely no regard for man, woman or child.

Although the story is somewhat unbelievable, the cleverly contrived screenplay has made it more convincing.

Sterling Hayden plays the role of the sheriff, while James Gleason is the ex-secret service man.

"Suddenly" will come to the Broadway Theater on November 15-16.

Blue Hose Downed, 19-13, By Wofford Terrier Bite

• Brockenbrough Makes Outstanding TD

Two pass interceptions and a fourth period stone wall defense by Wofford spelled the difference as the Wofford Terriers downed the Battling Blue Hose from PC by a score of 19-13 at Spartanburg last Saturday night.

With the Terriers getting the breaks on PC's mistakes, Wofford remained unbeaten in five games. On the opening kickoff Gene Altman fumbled the pigskin with Wofford recovering on the PC 28 yard line.

After a series of plays in which the Terriers could not move the ball, PC took over on downs, but on the first play Hamilton's pass was intercepted by Hazle, who returned to the PC 25 yard line. After several plays with the pigskin resting on the one-half foot line Jones skimmed to his right into six-point land for the TD. McCully converted to make the score 7-0 in favor of Wofford.

After receiving the kickoff, the Blue Hose started a 75-yard scoring march. With Gene Carter and Altman carrying the pigskin on the ground and Hamilton throwing in the air when need be, the Blue Hose chalked up yardage from their 25-yard line to the 15-yard marker. Webb carried to the two.

After two tries at the center of the line, Hamilton sneaked over the double stripes into the land of milk and honey for six points. Carter's try for the extra point was wide, leaving Wofford with an 7-6 advantage.

In the opening minutes of the third quarter Hamilton's aerial backfired as Wofford's Ford plucked the ball out of mid-air and rambled down the side lines to score standing. McCully's try for the extra point was wide, leaving Wofford with an advantage of 13-6.

Later in third period Hussey returned a punt to the PC 44-yard line to start Wofford goalward. With Jones and Stevens taking two long jaunts, the Terriers had a first down on PC's 17. Stevens went to the four, and after three plays bucked across to score. McCully's try was wide but Wofford led by a score of 19-6.

After Burnett had intercepted Cook's pass and had returned it 37 yards to the five, the battling Blue Hose stood like a stone wall in defending the goal line to take over on downs. After an off-sides penalty Cook sneaked back to the three.

On the next play Cook handed off to Eddie Brockenbrough, who thrilled the crowd by barrelling up the middle of the Wofford line and outdistancing the whole Terrier team to score six points in TD land standing up. Cook then passed to Twitty for the extra point, making the score 19-13.

After the kickoff Harrington recovered Hussey's fumble on the Wofford 33 to give PC its first break in the ball game. Blue, Brockenbrough, and Webb quickly rammed the pigskin to the Wofford Terrier two. With time running out and the Terriers trying desperately to save the game, Hamilton rammed center to try for the first down of only inches. He did not make the first down and Wofford took over on their two.

Jones punted to the PC 37-yard stripe. Again the Blue Hose, with the fighting PC spirit, came roaring back down the gridiron. They had gotten to the Wofford 26 when the gun sounded, ending the game with Wofford the victor by a 19-13 score.

PC and Citadel Clash In Charleston Saturday

• Running, Passing Combo Holds Hose Hopes

After loosing a close decision to the Wofford Terriers on last Saturday night, the Blue Hose key up for a bitter clash with the Citadel Bulldogs on tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The contest is slated to take place in Johnson Haygood Stadium in Charleston.

The Hosemen have met the Cadets on thirty-four occasions and have won eight, lost 25, and tied one. The Bulldogs have compiled a total of 453 points to 286 for the Blue Socks.

Thus far the Citadel cadets have won over Elon while dropping games to Davidson, Furman, and Richmond. Although they have won little on the ground and in the air, they have given trouble to every opposing team and Furman fought hard in defeating them 31-20.

The Hosemen went down before the Bulldogs, 20-14, last year but hope to make it win number two tomorrow with a team which has shown much improvement in the last two years.

PC showed much running power against Wofford last Saturday night, and the attack against The Citadel should be well-mixed with the passing of Harry Hamilton.

The Stockings will rely on the running of Ken Webb, George Blue, Eddie Brockenbrough, Mitchell Mavromat, Gene Carter and the services of flankmen Joe Counts and Bobby Jackson. In the line for the Blue Hose, center Frank Boulware, guards Shealy, Yates, Warren, and tackles Frierson and Harrington should prove rugged and hard to move.

Macatee, Berry Pull Only Ladder Upsets

This week's tennis ladder matches among the members of the PC squad saw two upsets from last week's standings.

Macatee defeated Brownlow 1-6, 6-2, 9-7 to take second rung on the ladder.

Berry downed Sumner 5-7, 6-1, 6-2 for seventh place in the squad standings.

The entire ladder order for this week is as follows:

Morris, Mactee, Brownlow, Hunt, Potter, Jackson, Berry, Sumner, Watson, and Gee.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

The Hose outplayed Wofford in fight and in statistics, but lost 19-13. The table seemed to have turned in statistics since last year when Wofford was out in front in every field and was trimmed by the Socks by a 7-6 count.

Both of the teams had previously gained most of their yardage around ends and on passes while last Saturday each looked exceptionally good on ground plays up the center. It was good to see the Hosemen displaying such a fine running attack having relied mostly on passing in the first few games.

Brocks Breaks

The highlight of the night came when Eddie Brockenbrough exploded through the middle of the Terrier line and rambled 96 yards for a TD. Brock's run put the Hosemen back into the ball game and had it not been for the disputed decision on the two foot line, could have easily given the Blue Hose a 20-19 win.

Hose Battle Cadets

The Blue Hose journey down to Charleston tomorrow afternoon where they will lock horns with the Citadel Bulldogs in what should prove to be a football thriller. The Socks will be out for win number two against three defeats while the Cadets from Charleston boast an identical record.

Although this is a rather long trip, the Hosemen will need our support. We should all try to make plans to attend, and I feel sure that no one will be disappointed in the outcome of the game.

Great PC Sportsmen . . .

Grid State High Scorer Was 4-Sport Sock Athlete

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

Harry E. Bolick, former fullback and four-sport athlete at PC, is the sixth nominee in the parade of former great PC athletes.

For his outstanding performance in clearing the path for other ball carriers in 1934, Bolick was awarded the Jacobs Blocking Trophy. This award was the first time that it was presented to a PC athlete. Considered the best line plunger in the state, Bolick sprinted 65 yards to score one of his four TD's in PC's 27-0 romp of The Citadel. This led to Bolick's being being the state's highest scorer in 1933.

In the season of 1934, Harry was selected captain and led his team against big-time opposition to a won-lost-tied record of 3-4-2.

When winter came, Bolick shifted his energy to the basketball court and the boxing ring, where he shone as brightly as in football. His flexibility appeared more in boxing than in any other sport.

If Coach Johnson needed a welter - weight or a middleweight fighter, all Bolick did was to train down to that weight. By not losing a fight, Harry led the boxing team to victories over South Carolina and Georgia and tied Clemson. He climaxed his fighting career by winning the state heavy-weight championship in 1934-35.

On the baseball diamond Harry was outstanding. Perched behind the plate, he directed the Blue Stocking to winning seasons.

Upon finishing his education in 1935, Harry began coaching high school football. Recently he was discharged from the army in Germany, but he remained overseas being connected with the dependent schools in the European Command.

Taylor and Crawford Team Manages Business Office

MRS. TAYLOR

MISS CRAWFORD

Mrs. George Taylor, bursar, and Miss Dorothy Crawford, assistant to the bursar, are the two diligent and lovely ladies featured in the Blue Stocking this week.

Their work in the bursar's office is the handling of all financial matters concerning Presbyterian College. These ladies, who are particularly popular at the end of each week and month, handle all funds which come in and out of all the departments of the college. Literally hundreds of invoices are handled from each department each month.

Mrs. Taylor attended Converse College in Spartanburg where she was active in athletics. She spent 16 1-2 years in Garanhuns, Pernambuco, Brazil, with her missionary husband, the late Dr. George Taylor. They were in charge of a school there which now has a student body of the size of PC.

After the death of her husband she attended PC as a student, and studied under Mr. Kenneth Baker, now professor of commerce.

Mrs. Taylor entered the business office of Presbyterian College in 1937 as assistant and became bursar in 1943.

Mrs. Taylor's hobby is the raising of her grandchildren which now total eleven. She has one son and two daughters.

Miss Crawford was graduated from Winthrop College in Rock Hill in 1941 with a BA. degree. She is a Clintonite and is very active in town affairs. She came to PC in 1954 as the assistant to the bursar. Her favorite hobby is reading.

These ladies are quite interested in student body affairs. For this reason, they plead to the student body, especially the new students, to give their names to them as they arrive at the bursar's office so that they may greet them more comfortably.

As a policy of interest toward the student body these ladies have inaugurated a system by which the students may have an envelope kept in the college safe for the keeping of extra money.

KA, Ministerial Club, Spencer, Sigma Nu Capture Grid Openers

Wednesday, October 20, saw the KA's get the intramural season underway with a thrilling win over a very strong Non-frat team.

The winning touchdown came on a long pass from Warren Mays to end Bill Hart. Hart made a sensational driving catch in the end zone. The Non-frat team was led by Robert Garren and John Knox.

The second game of the day ended in a 0-0 deadlock. But in the Montana play-off, the Ministerial Club gained a 1-0 victory. The ministers were led by the great offensive and defensive play of freshman Wyatt Aiken. For losing Theta Chi Dick Loveland was outstanding.

In Thursday's frame the Spencer Cats, led by Jim Bryant and Aubrey Copeland, downed the strong PiKA team by a score of 21-0. Bryant scored twice and Copeland once. They picked up a safety when Frank Simmons of the Cats broke through to tag Tommy Stallworth in the end zone.

The second game was a victory for Sigma Nu with Bobby Vass and William Oliver leading the way with two touchdowns each. The Sigma Nu's trounced Pi Kappa Phi 26-0.

The longest run was turned in by Oliver who returned a punt for 50 yards and a touchdown. John Compton turned in a fine defensive game for the losers.

The Blue Stocking Rated All-American Newspaper by ACP

The Associated Collegiate Press this week notified the Blue Stocking of Presbyterian College that it received an All-American Honor Rating in the 1953-54 second semester critical service. This is the ACP's highest stamp of approval for a college newspaper.

In making this All-American rating the Blue Stocking is one of two weekly newspapers from colleges with an enrollment of 500 or less in the entire nation to achieve this honor.

Arthur M. Sanderson, assistant director and supervising judge for this fiftieth ACP critical service, noted that All-American papers are decidedly superior and should be regarded as among the finest school publications in the nation. "Papers which are awarded All-American ratings should be justly proud of their fine achievement," Mr. Sanderson said.

ACP analyzes each paper and rates it in its own classification according to enrollment and frequency of issue per semester. The Blue Stocking sent in copies of each issue published during the second semester of 1953-54 under the present editorship.

All phases of the newspaper are placed under the scrutinizing eyes of the judges for a period of several months. The papers are rated on coverage, content, and physical properties. The Blue Stocking received particularly outstanding ratings on treatment of copy, news sources, and physical properties of the front page. In all of these categories the Blue Stocking received "superior" scores.

Wallace Fulton, ACP judge for the Blue Stocking, stated, "The professional quality of your paper warrants special praise!"

Since the Blue Stocking first rolled off the presses at PC in January, 1920, it has received eight All-American citations, including this present one. The list of names of past editors.. and.. their.. present ..professions forms a list of distinction.

The All-American Blue Stocking staff of last semester includes: Ray Lord, editor-in-chief; Ed Stultz, managing editor; and Bill Dantzler, business manager.

Also Greg Elam, news editor; Bill Hamilton, feature editor; Bill Littlejohn, sports editor; Ralph McCaskill, fraternity editor; Walter Mayfield, circulation manager; and Richard Oliver, art editor.

And Jack Edmunds, Dilbert Lampoon, Johnny Newsome, columnists; Bill McCutchen, Fred McDaniel, Sam Workman, Jim Fleming, reporters; Cecil Geddings, Delane Johnson, sports reporters; Glen Crofton, Charles Sweat, typists; and Bill Forbes, associate circulation manager.

Ben Hay Hammet, director of public relations and alumni affairs, was faculty adviser for the award-winning editions of the weekly PC newspaper.

The Blue Stocking is printed by the Chronicle Publishing Company and all photographic engravings are made by Jacobs Brothers, Inc.

Fees Give Revealing Graph Of Presbyterian Student Life

By RICHARD OLIVER

How time does fly! And the good American dollar flies with it.

The students of Presbyterian College this year will pay the total fee of $868. In comparison with past years, this fee is outstanding.

In 1899, the cost if an entire year at PC was only $205. This cost included forty dollars board for nine months and books and laundry at about $15. The fees quoted here apply only to the students who could afford the more luxurious rooms on the campus. The charge was $20 less for the lads who boarded with the professors.

The scene changes to the year 1916, where the fee has jumped to the preposterous sum of $223. Included in this total was a medical fee of $5, a library fee of $2, and a gym fee of $2.50. An athletic fee of $5 was charged to provide a ticket to the student to all athletic events on the campus.

The students of the 1916 era were blessed with the comparative privilege of boarding in the six-year-old Spencer dormitory for a fee of $48 a year for two rooms, and $40 a year for "one double sized room." As the catalogue for that year states, the price actually included "steam heat, lights, water and janitor service."

It is interesting to note that the damage or breakage fee for that year, 1916, was fifty cents. Students must have become quite rowdy during the Prohibition era, for the total fee for the year, 1928, was between $450 and $475. Included in this fee was a $50 maintenance fee. The boys must have really gone wild, eh? Individual meters were installed for each student, and the student was made to pay the light and water bill weekly to the city of Clinton.

The "golden era of the twenties" must have boosted sports, for the athletic charge for this year was $10. Of course, the gym fee was excluded in this prelude year to the "great collapse."

In 1954, prosperity reigns and the fees have more than doubled those of 1928. The one that remains completely unchanged is the catalog's statement that PC is located in Clinton, S. C., " a small progressive town situated in the beautiful Piedmont section of South Carolina."

S. C. Students Favor Thurmond

The all-important question in South Carolina politics today is the senatorial election to be held November 2.

The inquiring reporter polled a representative group of native South Carolina PC students and found an overwhelming majority favoring J. Strom Thurmond over Edgar Brown in the comnig election.

Typical comments to the question, "Who do you believe will replace the late Senator Maybank in the November Election?", are:

Jim Bell—Thurmond—I don't believe Thurmond will have any trouble winning.

Wilbur Joye—Brown — If Brown wins he is worth $5 to me and that's about all .

Jim Reamer—I hope Thurmond takes it for the sake of the state of S. C. I agree with Gov. James Byrnes.

Clyde Mitchum—I think Thurmond will win. I believe Brown is trying to pull a fast one.

Bob Cothran—Since I am from the same town as Thurmond, I would like to see him win and hope he will.

Dick Marshall—I wil vote for Thurmond if he can still stand on his head and drink buttermilk and find a young wife. Seriously, I think Thurmond is the man for the job.

Guy Boyd—I will follow the crowd and vote for Thurmond.

Charles Mayers—I am for Thurmond, but I'm still a Democrat. I believe Thurmond is the man for the job.

Larry Brice—Thurmond is my man. I am sure he will make a good senator.

Steve Beckman—If you can spell Thurmond, you know where to put the name.

Toppy Mayes — Hurrah for Brown, I'll stick with the Demrocrat.

Warren Kenrick—I believe Thurmond will win by a slight margin. Also Thurmond is from Horse Creek Valley (Aiken County).

Willie Neville—Thurmond, no problem there.

Bob Martin — Thurmond—I think Brown's methods have harmed South Carolina. Let's don't let them harm the U. S.

(These comments do not necessarily reflect the views of this paper. They are the opinions of the individual students.)

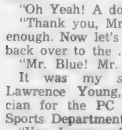
Reformation - A Heritage

As Protestant Christians all over the world observe t anniversary of the Protestant Reformation this week, it fitting that we at Presbyterian College—an instituti rooted in Christian beliefs—examine our faith in the lig of our religious heritage.

A heritage, no matter how strong, can be forfeit through the negligence of the inheritors. Upon the peop of this generation rests the heritage of a Church which the course of time has grown from a simple, unorganiz New Testament Church into a world fellowship of mo than six hundred million believers.

When the father of the Reformation, Martin Luthe appeared before the Diet at Worms, he said in ringi words, "My conscience is bound to the Word of God."

In this lies the responsibility of man today. When person stands solidly on this ground, pushing away the ev of ignorance and intolerance, he begins to see the meanin of his religious heritage.



To fulfill its intention, the Protestant faith must l a dynamic faith. John Ruskin wrote: "Every year m moved the truths of the gospel into the distance and adde to them, also, some false or foolish traditions. Then can the Reformation, the re-animated faith and in its righ hand the Book open."

Man's religious heritage puts forth a personal respo sibility. It is easy for a college student to lay aside the r ligious training of his childhood when he gets away fro home. With no one to make him constantly conscious this responsibility, a person simply forgets it or is indiffe ent to it.

Particularly in a Church College opportunities f Christian service are numerous. The thinking studen ever conscious of his influence, will try to show forth Christian life to his fellows.

Based upon the Reformation doctrine of the priesthoo of all believers, man today has dignity and equality befor other men. This is one of the primary contributions of th Protestant Reformation. However, with this great trut lies the equal task of standing fast in the beliefs of th Christian Church, making personal lives Christian expe riences, and selfless giving to Christian service.

Soberly, yet without being pedantic, we must guard ou religious faith and present it in its pure form to the en that all may come to know Him, "whom to know is lif eternal."

TB on Air

By JACK EDMUNDS

Good evening ladies and gentlemen. This is True Blue, roving reporter of the Blue Sock, speaking to you tonight in the portable mike of WVPC, the voice of Presbyterian College.

I'm located now under the marquee of the mighty Neville Memorial Auditorium, located in the northeast corner of this campus, prepared to bring to you the voices of some of the campus notables as they attend the stupendous talent show being held here tonight.

In the starring role this evening will be those great world-reknowned duo-violinists, M. Walton Brown of Vienna and J. S. Gray of Clinton.

The whole area, from the auditorium to South Broad Street, has been roped off. The ENTIRE Clinton Police Force is out en masse tonight. Flood lights are scanning the sky in tribute to this momentous occasion. Never before have so many dignitaries been gathered together.

Hark! All eyes are turned down the plaza. The 90,000 candle-light spot atop Hellam's Hospital catches with its beam those two continental cyclists, Ken Carter and Jeff Herbert, in a mad race to the auditorium. The crowd is thick around me. I can hardly see but I think, yes, they're neck and neck. Let me push through this crowd. There. At the finish line it's Herbert, on his Schwinn-built, in the winner's circle. Carter, however, was at a great disadvantage with his wife on the handle bars.

I see my colleague, Edward R. Lord, is pushing his way toward "Herb" for an interview, so lets move through the crowd now up to the concession stand. Behind the counter is "Burroughs" Baker the human adding machine.

"Business good tonight, Mr. Baker?"

"Oh Yeah! A dollar's a . . ."

"Thank you, Mr. Baker; that's enough. Now let's take our mike back over to the . . ."

"Mr. Blue! Mr. Blue!"

It was my spotter, young Lawrence Young, chief statistician for the PC News Bureau, Sports Department.

"Yes, Lawrence?"

"It's him; the colonel is about to arrive."

At that moment a siren sounded and into the circular drive pulled a "deuce and a half" containing a half dozen DM's. Out of the front leaped Fran Smith, Light Colonel, US Infantry. He began forming his "kaydets" for an honor guard for the distinguished guests. The Colonel, clad in tropical worsteds and a trench coat, proudly displays his pearl-handled Scripto tonight, a gift of his old boss, Doug MacArthur. Engraved on the pencil is proudly found, "I Shall Return".

A black limousine screeches to a halt in front of the uniformed soldiers and out strides that Alpine mountain climber, with toboggan in one hand and a swiss cheese sandwich in the other.

Ah! I believe coming up on my right with a fifty-inch pace is J. Sobey Glover, associate professor of romance at this institute. With European finesse and a hearty "God Save The Queen", the oxford-grey clad, suave gentleman gently hops from one lady to the other, bussing their dainty palms. Such is the life of a gay adventurer.

The crowd is pushing into the auditorium now as curtain time draws nigh. Look Out! Dashing madly up from the Hall of Science, throwing dignity to the wind, is Dr. Stump.

"Good evening, Doctor."

"I'm late, late. I would have been on time but I've been out chasing bugs, bugs, yes bugs; been chasing 'em, bugs, bugs, yes bugs."

Well, with the world of science in such a turmoil, I think I'll sign off for now. The show inside seems to be in full swing, so this is True Blue, closing the show tonight with the Alma Mater.

Melvin's Mumbles

By JOE

It seems to me that after the Big Blue tamed the Citadel Bulldogs that we ought to go up to Catawba and take the hides off those Indians. I hope the Hose can come through again this week.

I think all the boys from old PC enjoyed the football holiday except our buddy Ken Daughtry. I heard when he went down to Macon, Ga., to see that "sweet young thing" of his, he found a "no visitors" sign on her door. I say, Ken boy, have you tried these South Carolina women?

Say, we heard that Ed Walpole had a very cute sister, but he says she is too young to be dating. Tell us, Ed, how long have you been dating that YOUNG lady from Charleston you go with now? There might be some question there.

Ted Parker says he can get his homework done a lot better if he goes to the Winthrop College Library to do it. I know a lot of fellows who would like to try it.

The question is going around the campus, "Does Mr. Davis wear pin-striped pajamas to go with the rest of his Ivy League clothes?"

The boys on the military staff are going around singing, "When it's pecan picking time on the drill field." Anything to make ninety cents.

Scene: Winthrop College library.

Characters: Two students.

First Student: (Saintly looking cutie reading birth and death statistics) "Do you know that every time I breathe a man dies?"

Second Student: (Slightly bored from interruptions) "Very interesting. Why don't you try chlorophyl chewing gum?"

Swede Government Boast Tame Politics and Prison

By SAM WORKMAN

How is Sweden governed? Sweden is divided into twenty-four provinces and the city of Stockholm. Each of these judicial districts is in the charge of a governor appointed by the government. The province, in turn, is divided into small towns, boroughs, and villages each with its own locally elected council.

The Swedes have tame politics both locally and nationally. Citizens in each province elect by direct vote a Board of Electors which in turn elects the provincial councils. Generally speaking, local politics especially are quite tame and do not evoke great popular attention and enthusiasm.

Swedish laws differ from the American and English. Swedish courts do not have jurymen and the laws of the country have been so simplified that they are contained in a single volume. These laws are written in such a straight forward language that even a laymen can understand them.

Free legal advice is given to any citizen for the asking. As in most countries, persons on trial may obtain free legal aid. However, this is carried further in Sweden.

The Swedes have prisons—but no bars. There is no death sen ence in Sweden. Criminals a murders are punished by ja and fine. One of the latest ju building has no bars. The i mates led a simple monaster like existence enjoying most the comforts of modern livin The Swedish idea is to reform the law-breaker instead of pu nishing him.

Divorce is possible in one ye and it takes three weeks to ol tain a marriage license. On Swede told me before I got t Sweden that the Swedes tak marriage much more serious and that they frown upon d voice. On the contrary, afte having talked with many mor Swedes while in the country, gathered that marriage and th problem of divorce is much th some in Sweden as it is in a other countries at the presen time.

However, it is quite true tha the Swedish young people d wait longer th get married than do the young people in othe countries. In our talks with th various young people individual ly and in groups we gathere that the young men are muc more interested in getting int some business or profession tha in getting married.

PC 20; CITADEL 19

Congratulations to the entire football squad for their excellent play on downing the Citadel last Saturday afternoon. Statistics showed that the Cadets were outclassed in every field, and had it not been for two bad breaks, the Hosemen would have won by an even greater margin.

This victory was even more valued because it has been five years since PC was winner over the Bulldogs. The jinx has been broken and the Blue Hose are rarin' to go.

NEXT TARGET: CATAWBA

I don't know how the Hosemen feel entering on contest as the favorite; but, that is the way things stand up when the Socks meet the Catawba Indians tomorrow night.

The fighting Hose have gone against Clemson, Furman, Davidson, Wofford, and The Citadel as the underdog. They have downed two of these teams by beating Davidson and The Citadel, and except for one decision, could have taken Wofford. As seen by these victories, the underdog can "come through" when the chips are down. I'm sure the Hosemen will remember this against Catawba and never let up in spite of being favored.

The student body is behind the team, so let's make that trip to Catawba and bring back a scalp for everybody.

WEBB'S WADDLES

Ken Webb, freshman halfback, stunned the crowd at The Citadel game when he took a pitchout from quarterback Harry Hamilton and danced down the sidelines for 79 yards and a Blue Hose touchdown. This run, plus a perfect placement by Blue, gave the Hosemen a 20-19 victory. Webb ran all afternoon and should be heard from plenty in the remaining games of this season.

PC Edges Citadel, 20-19, In Season's Second Win

• Freshman Webb Makes Decisive TD

With Ken Webb ripping 79 yards down the sidelines late in the last quarter to score, the battling Blue Hose of PC squeezed by the Citadel by a score of 20-19, last Saturday at Charleston. With the Citadel leading 19-13 and only four minutes left to go in the ball game Webb skirted his left end and raced 79 yards to score the tying TD. George Blue added the margin of victory by booting the pigskin through the uprights to insure PC of a 20-19 victory.

In the first half PC was like seven balls of fire. In the opening minutes of the game the Blue Hose, with Webb, Carter, and Blue carrying the mail, were knocking on the TD door. On the 20-yard line the attack finally bogged; here the Bulldogs took over. After not gaining anything, the Citadel punted to PC. The Blue Hose continued to ramble as they drove down the field, with Webb, Hamilton, and Blue carrying to the one-yard line. Gene Carter dived over into the land of the milk and honey to score the first six points of the game. Hamilton's conversion was perfect to make the score 7-0 in favor of PC.

After a PC fumble the Bulldogs started toward paydirt in the second stanza. Miles, Bulldog quarterback, then swept his right end to score the six points to tie the score at 6-6. This end swept covered the last six yards in the Bulldogs' drive to paydirt. Tuza's conversion was correct to give the Bulldogs the lead 7-6.

With the Blue Hose taking up where they left off, the flying heels of the PC backs and the accurate arm of "The Arm" Hamilton quickly ground out first downs to the two-yard line. After a couple of plays, Hamilton drove over into the land of the milk and honey from six inches out to score the second PC TD of the afternoon and put the battling Blue Hose out in front of the Bulldogs by a score of 13-7. This time the Blue Hose conversion attempt was no good because of a bad pass from center. At the close of the first half PC had out gained the Bulldogs in the first down department by a count of 13-1.

In the opening minutes of the second half it was a different story as far as the Bulldogs were concerned. The pigskin changed hands on two consecutive plays as Gene Carter intercepted a Miles pass and returned it to the Citadel 17-yard line. On the next play Walker intercepted a Hamilton toss and rambled down the field 68 yards to set up the second Bulldog TD. A pass from Miles to Forgach accounted for the second Citadel score. The stout forward wall of the Blue Hose blocked Tuza's attempt for the extra point to keep everything tied up at 13-13.

Early in the fourth quarter, The Citadel went out in front when Miles went over right guard from the one-yard line to score. Again Tuza's conversion attempt was blocked by the Blue Hose line.

At this stage of the game the Citadel looked as if they had wrapped up the game. The fighting Blue Hose were not to be denied as they played two foes—the Bulldogs and the clock. Two plays after the Kickoff Ken Webb broke away on his 79-yard scoring jaunt to tie the score at 19-19. George Blue, then using his talented toe, kicked the Blue Hose to victory as he split the uprights to make the score 20-19.

With time running out the Citadel tried a field goal from their 17-yard line. Dzanis' boot went wide of the goal posts with PC taking over on the 20-yard line. As the game ended, the score stood at 20-19 in favor of PC.

Hosemen Attack Indians In Tomorrow's Encounter

• PC Enters Contest As Favorite

After bouncing back into the win column with a rousing 20-19 victory over the Citadel Bulldogs, the Battlin' Blues of Persbyterian College journey up inti North Carolina for a football battle with the Catawaba Indians. Although entering the contest as the favorite, the Blue Socks will find a rugged line and a hard-running backfield awaiting them.

One handicap which the Hosemen face is the number of injuries suffered in the Citadel game. There have been quite a number of limps around the field this week. Tackle Bob Westenbarger and fullback Gene Carter will definitely be out for the Catawba game. Luther Shealy suffered a head injury and there were numerous other minor injuries among other members of the team.

The Hosemen showed by their fine style against the Citadel Bulldogs that the running attack has been greatly strengthened. Time after time the blue and white jerseys broke through the Citadel line. The statistics proved also that the line play was exceptionally good. The iron men continually broke through to spill Citadel backs behind the line of scrimmage.

Since the Blue Hose can now throw an array of passing and running plays at opponents, the Catawba Indians will be kept guessing when the Socks take over tomorrow night in a football thriller.

The Blue Hose have met with the Indians on 12 occasions and won six, lost five and tied one.

Sigma Nu, PiKA Fire Winning Rifle Scores

Intramural rifle matches draw fast to a close with only four teams left in the competition. Monday's matches beween PiKA and KA proved too much for the KA's who fell by the wayside. PiKA's team, led by Jimmy Wood, Ralph McCaskill and Tommy Stallworth firing 156, 155, and 153 respectively, totaled 730. KA's top scorer was Jack Pope with a series of 144.

The winning of this match qualifies PiKA for the final trophy playoff match against Theta Chi next Wednesday, November 3.

Wednesday's match showed two consolation teams battling it out with Sigma Nu coming out victorious. Pete Sloan put all his weight into the sling to fire a 159 series for high man of the match. Doug Blanton led the Ministerial Club with a 152 series. The total team series for Sigma Nu was 726.

Sigma Nu will be battling it out with the dead-eye Non-frat team for winner of the consolation. The winner of the consolation will fire the loser of the Theta Chi-PiKA match to determine second and third places in this intramural sport.

GREAT PC SPORTSMEN

Scott Remembered As Bantamweight Boxer

William Scott, former boxing great and basketball player at PC, is the seventh nominee in the parade of former great PC athletes.

As all great athletes of the past, Scott played other sports than the one in which he starred. During his college career, he played on the hardwood floor of the gym, but his excellent peformance appeared in the boxing ring.

Early in his college days, the first collegiate boxing tourney in South Carolina was held on the Presbytreian campus. Scott fought in the Bantam Weight division against teams from South Carolina and the Citadel in this first tourney.

In 1932, Scott climaxed his college athletic career by winning the Bantam Weight Championship of South Carolina.

Non-frats, Spencer Cats Bag Week's Football Wins

• Three Games Forfeited

Kappa Alpha took the first football game of the week by a forfeit over the Fee-Rocious Nine on Tuesday.

The Non-frats won the second game, 19-12, over Pi Kappa Phi. With Pat Wilson directing the plays, the Non-frats broke a 12-12 deadlock with less than four minutes left in the game. Wilson passed to Robert Garren and then ran the extra point over for a thilling victory.

The first touchdown came on a quarterback sneak by Wilson. He pased to Jim Newsome for the other TD.

Pi Kappa Phi led by Earl Alford played exceptional ball, using only seven men on the team. Alford ..swept ..wide around right end for 30 yards to score first. Later he passed to Willie McDonald for the second score.

The first game played Wednesday found the undefeated, unscored-up Spencer Cats victorious over the Ministerial Club. In the opening mnutes of the game Jim Bryant passed to Bob Hill for the first TD.

In the second quarter Frank Simmons scored a safety by catching Phil Cannella in the end zone. Later Joe Dabbs completed a long pass to Bob Hill for the last TD. Aubrey Copeland then passed to Dabbs for the extra point. Outstanding in defense for the ministers was Charles Kinsey.

Both games scheduled for yesterday were won by forfeit. Sigma Nu and Kappa Alpha were ceded victories by the Fee-Rocious Nine and Pi Kappa Phi, respectively.

Community Chest Drive Nets Encouraging Results

• Over $200 Collected to Date

The registrar's office released very encouraging news this week on the Community Chest drive on the campus showing marked generosity from students, administration, faculty and cafeteria and maintenance workers.

Reports turned in by campus coordinator of the drive, William Neville, showed that the goal of $200 was nearly complete, with numerous contributions yet to come in. With a very high percentage of the school donating, it is believed that the total may far exceed the goal set by the Community Chest of Greater Clinton.

The drive continues until November 11, and those unable to contribute during the collections by various student representatives earlier may bring their money by the registrar's office during the day from 9 A. M. until 5 P. M.

The Community Chest of Greater Clinton to which PC's contribution will go, is organized for the benefit of the participating agencies. From the Chest, all worthy charities and causes of the Clinton area will be distributed to the participating agencies.

Included in the goal of $15,315 for Greater Clinton is the sum of $3,469 which will be used in local youth work. This fund will be used to defray expense of local Boy Scout Troops, Cub Scouts, Campfire Girls, and Bluebirds in Greater Clinton.

Balladeer Sings Old Traditionals

English Instructor Comes Armed With Guitar

By DRAYTON COOPER

To the uninitiated, a ballad is usually thought of as a tune whined by Webb Pierce, Ernest Tubb, or perhaps Wayne Rainey, accompanied by a guitar, a fiddle and a mandolin. But to those who look beyond the surface, the ballad is a song that has its origin, not on the desk of some prolific composer in Nashville, but in the mind and heart of a minstrel in long-ago England, or a Scotch-Irish mountaineer settled back in the Alleghenies.

The students of the true ballad are still few, although their number has grown considerably in recent years. Here at PC, though, is a balladeer of tradition in Lloyd Davis, English instructor. From West Virginia, a region rich with folk influence, he has come to the college with his guitar and his unwritten stories-in-song.

Davis, in telling of his singing, said that among the sixty odd ballads he knows, he lists the English song, "Come, O My Love," and the "Bonnie George Campbell", a Scottish lay, as his favorites.

He went on to explain that the ballad is folk literature in the original sense, but because of the radio, such singers as Burl Ives and Richard Dya-Bennett and other outside influences, folk culture has escaped the ballad. The speaker said that ballad singing has become more of an intellectual thing now. He remarked, in passing, that he does not consider himself a new prophet of the ballad, which he, too, sings for amusement and the intellectual enjoyment he derives from his songs.

MR. DAVIS

As to the tradition in the ballad, Davis explained that his grandfather, now well along in age, is a fiddler and has taught him many of the mountain ballads he knows. A pair of these family songs that he enjoys singing are "Go Tell Aunt Rhody," and "Little Mohee." These were taught him by his grandfather.

"The structure of the ballad is simple," he pointed out, "much simpler than today's popular songs." Many of the new pop tunes have only a simple scale even the older ones are built on progression as their basis, and the five-note scale. Davis went on, "The lyrics are fresh, telling a story, not so sentimental as our contemporary music is today." This, he says, is one of the reasons for the appeal that the ballad has to the modern music lover.

Civil Service Offers Examinations for Jobs

The Blue Stocking periodically receives from the United States Civil Service Commission in Washington, D. C., announcements of examinations for positions in the various fields of the civil service work.

These announcements, along with a list of examination centers, are regularly posted on the bulletin board in the Blue Stocking office on the first floor of the SCA building and are available to the student body.

Freshmen Receive Heyday As Bo-Rat Week Comes Up

The annual Presbyterian College Bo-Rat Week will get underway next Monday morning, Pete Sloan, chairman of the Freshman Control Board, announced today.

Transfer students, after many weeks of bliss, will be met with arrogant eyes as they obey the whims, wishes and commands from the freshmen as well as the upperclassmen for the next week.

A Bo-Rat is defined by the student council as any member of the student body who is a student transferring from another college or university or a veteran. Students who fall under the bo-rat category and entered school second semester last year are expected to take a full part.

For the week to come these men will don signs giving their names, hometowns, place transferred from, and "BEAT APPALACHIAN, Sir!"

The event will last a week, coming to an official end upon the completion of the PC-Appalachian game next Saturday night.

The Bo-Rats are expected to gin, run freshman errands and take part in the pep-meet prior to the Appalachian game next week.

Beware . . .

The schedule for mid-semester exams slated to begin Monday is as follows, according to an announcement from the office of the academic dean:

	MWF	TTS
Nov. 8—Periods	1, 3, 5
Nov. 9	Periods 1, 3, 5
Nov. 10—Periods	2, 4
Nov. 11	Periods 2, 4

According to Dean Bellingrath all classes which do not have an examination for that particular period will meet as usual.

BSU Deputation Goes To Rally in Spartanburg

The Baptist Student Union of Presbyterian College sent a deputation to Spartanburg last Friday night for a city-wide BSU rally. The PC boys presented the program for the evening. Those taking part were: John Compton, Bill Lipp, Tommy Summer, and Tap Tobias. Approximately 25 PC students were present.

The Spartanburg BSU's invited the PC boys out to the different girls' schools for supper just preceding the meeting. A Hallowe'en party was held later that night. There were more than one hundred students in the fellowship.

Frosh Group Prepares '54 Student Directory

The work of the freshman SCA cabinet gets underway with the preparation of the student directory for their current academic year.

Greg Elam, editor, announced that the directory should be printed and in the hands of the students by the Christmas holidays.

The newly elected freshman cabinet, the seventh in the history of the college, has begun the compilation of data of the directory, an annual publication begun last year. This publication will list all student organizations and officers as well as campus and faculty telephone numbers.

The purpose of the directory is to satisfy the need of the student in contacting the various individuals and organizations associated with Presbyterian College.

Other activities in lure for the freshman group include a religious program to be presented in conection with the Nativity story at a chapel period near the beginning of the Christmas holidays.

The cabinet will also assist the senior cabinet in the annual Religious Emphasis Week this year.

Tours to Take Choir Through Southeast

The annual extended spring tour will carry the PC men westward to the Mississippi. Concerts in Birmingham, Tuscaloosa, and Andalusia, Ala.; Vicksburg and Hattiesburg, Miss.; and Lafayette, Alexandria, and New Orleans, La., will highlight the spring tour.

The week end trips will see the glee club in Georgetown, Eau Claire, Abbeville, Laurens, Camden, Rock Hill, Spartanburg, Hartsville, Union, Florence, Lancaster, Sumter and Newberry.

The choir will hold a marathon practice session next Thursday in preparation for the opening week end trip to Georgetown and Eau Claire, November 20-21. Immediately after practice Dr. and Mrs. Edouard Patte wil entertain the men with supper at their home.

Stumps Give Dinner For Canterbury Club

The members of the Canterbury Club were dinner guests of Dr. and Ms. A. B. Stump last Monday night. A spaghetti supper was served and a short meeting was held afterwards at which dates for future meetings were set for the first and third Mondays in each month.

Trips to Carolina, Converse Wofford, and Winthrop Colleges were planned for the near future. These deputations will be made on Sunday nights.

An election was held, and the first and second vice-presidents elected are Sylvia Sykes and Anne Kilpatrick.

The next meeting will be held on November 15. Plans for the Christmas party on December 6 will be discussed.

Lipp Chosen Head Of Freshman SCA

Bill Lipp of Frankfort, Ind., was elected president of the Freshman SCA Cabinet at a meeting Thursday night.

Other officers elected at this meeting are Wiley Keller of Charleston, vice-president, and Guice Potter of Anniston, Ala., secretary-treasurer.

The senior cabinet recently named Bill Dantzler of Birmingham, Ala., and Edward Hay of Wadmalaw Island as advisers to the freshman group. They will assist the freshmen cabinet in its projects for the year.

Mail Boxes - for You

During the summer the student mail boxes were completely repaired for the convenience of the students. Considerable expense and labor were involved in alleviating the situation of last semester when mail had to be called for personally during specified hours.

During this first quarter of the year, however, damage has already been done to some of the boxes. This is a serious problem, for it not only involves destruction of school property which is forbidden by the constitution, but also an offense against the Post Office Department and the government.

It takes little time to open a box by combination, and the penalties are stiff for tampering with the mail. It is well to remember that the boxes are placed here in an effort to be of service to the students. Don't let abuse of this service lead to its withdrawal.

A Job Well Done

The students again have demonstrated their willingness to share in the work of the college community of Clinton in the very encouraging response to the Community Chest drive. Aside from the charitable good derived from the Community Chest donations, this generosity on the part of PC students and faculty serves to cement the relations with the townspeople of Clinton.

All in all, an excellent job has been done and the effects will not be unnoticed.

Lawmen Here Monday

The college will have on its campus next week officers of the law enforcement groups in the state. These men will be here to receive additional training in the newest phases of law enforcement. It is their job to protect the rights and liberties of the citizen.

It should be considered a privilege to have these men on our campus and we should extend to them every courtesy. We should remember that in the final analysis it is we who will benefit from their training.

Melvin's Mumbles

If all you guys don't get you a pair of long-handles you can't stay in this league in this weather. I don't know what style they're wearing this year. The "pin stripe" might be back in.

Do you fellows know that little guy named "Sack" who lives up on third floor Smyth A? Some of the boys told me he was out doing the town the other night with Coach Sloan's sister. You don't reckon he is thinking about going out for basketball, do you?

It looked like a PC homecoming up at Winthrop last Saturday night. I didn't know so many boys made the trip. Even old "Chief" Lord was up there in his "hot" '37.

I passed by Smyth "A" the other day and heard Bill "Ham" Hamilton sing, "I'm back in the saddle again." Sometimes you just can't stay away, can you?

I was enjoying a little chow over in Judd's Cafe when I heard a fellow come up to Warren Berry and ask him to date a friend of his Friday night. I almost dropped over when I heard him say, "I'm sorry, but I'm going steady." You can imagine my surprise. I guess even the strongest give under pressure.

You fellows get your blankets and girls and come on out and Hose" to another victory. See let's cheer our "Battlin' Blue you on the fifty.

I got a little P. S. to throw in here. I hope our fine little watch-charm guard, Tommy Warren, will be able to play tonight. I heard he was injured, mortally that is. What can a fellow do when his girl tells him she has "found someone else"?

Sweden Stands at Head In Education of Children

By SAM WORKMAN

Sweden boasts having some of the best cared-for children in the world. Every year each child who falls into a responsible age group is entitled to a free holiday trip to any place within the country.

Swedish children have free dental treatment and free school lunches. A family receives so much money—about $14—at quarterly periods during the year for each child in the family to insure that all children in the country are receiving the various things they need.

As you would expect in a system like this, there are always individuals who take advantage of such handouts. The Anderssons told the story of some man there in Harnosand who made his family his business—he was said to have some ten or twelve children.

Since we were thrown with students so frequently during the summer, naturally we gathered quite a bit of information about the educational system. First, we noticed how much emphasis had evidently been placed upon handicrafts and homemaking in these young people's trainng. Most of the young Swedes did oil paintings, work in ceramics, wood carvings, and all sorts of textiles with complicated design.

In addition to all these signs of their skill in handicrafts, all of these students seemed to have had such a good preparation otherwise. These students who were university material all had studied at least four or five languages and could speak two or more fluently.

In the field of education th Swedes seem to be more inte ested in the group than in th individual. The young Swed does not have much of a choic as to what he will do in lif Their guided education pro gram begins after the child ha been in school about fou years. You simply must quali fy in abilities and capabilitie or else. All educaton, second ary or higher, is paid for b the state—providing you hav the material upstairs.

In early summer you see ma young people wearing wh caps. This signifies that th have passed the studentia exam nation. This examination equivalent to a junior college d gree if you can compare t American Education System wi that of the Swedes. The perso should be about seventeen eighteen when he receives th degree. Incidentally, to achie the distinction of qualifying the studentia examination i receive quite a boost in soci standing because so few Swed attain this honor.

One thing that was pointe out was the fact that universiti and schools of university level d not advertise. Of course, th would go without saying in state supported system. I thin everyone who has heard an thing about Sweden is aware o the fact that there is supposed to be no illiteracy in the cou try. This is quite true but th does not mean that everyone re ceived a good education. In fac it is almost imposible for eve an average child to get even mediocre education.

Fragments of a TB Sack Dream

By JACK EDMUNDS

"Jack, Jack."

It was True Blue. I heard him bounding out of the sack in the next room. He rushed into my den, where I was plugging at the books.

"Study, man, study," he yelled.

"Why?", I asked him.

"I just had my weekly opium dream, Jack, and was it grotesque. I'm gonna stay off of that dope, but you have got to study and get us graduated this year. I want to get a long way from here."

"Wha's your all of a sudden hurry, True?"

"I dreamed that I was here twenty years from now."

"What's so bad about that?"

"Okay, you asked for it. Sit back, Jack, and give a listen."

So I sat back and listened to True Blue relate his vision.

THUS BEGINNETH A DREAM

I dug down the plaza in my 353 horsepower, V-18. Noticing the dignified looking students, I wondered if I had missed PC and was on the Harvard campus. It was 10:15 and this was the first time I had returned to the campus in years.

I stopped my rod, hopped out, and began a tour of the school to see what changes there were.

On the southeastern lawn stood St. Thomas Chapel. Assembly was beginning and as I watched, a robed faculty proceeded into the chapel to the strains of "Guadeamus Igitur."

As I walked down toward the library, and the office of the chancellor, I noticed that every student had on nothing less than a dark suit and tie.

From across the way came an old true blue prof of mine, smiling Al Cruickshanks. On questioning him I found out that the "squeeze" had been put on the students, and everything was strictly formal now—Oxford style.

I shook hands with the "Campus Crier," Warren Berry (knew his voice would pay off some day), and listened as he made a few proclamations:

(1) All cars will be outlawed from the campus.
(2) There will be no more cigarette smoking by students, and all those caught bootlegging "butts" will be subject to a fifty pound fine, payable to Mrs. Taylor, Keeper of the Privy Purse.

(3) A faculty committee will be appointed to check all dormitory rooms and tear down questionable pictures. (They used to tell me to tear down the picture of the chorus girl from my wall. I told them it was no chorus girl . . . . it was my mother.)

(4) A similiar committee shall be formed to censor all Blue Stocking articles and cut any words stronged than "Beat Stetson".

(5) All students making "A" in Bible will be rewarded with a subscription for a year to the "Presbyterian Monotone."

(6) Any student caught frequenting "Ye Olde Charlie's Pub" will be dealt with directly by Deputies of the Student Parliament.

(7) No week end passes will be given this semester. Saturdays will be spent in the game room, playing cribbage, or in the stables, rubbing down the polo ponies.

I walked into the building and observed a few classes. I saw one improvement from '55. The history and economics departments had been increased. There was a record breaking, all-time high of three professors in each of these departments. No more classes now with sixty students; the minimum per class is fifty-five. That's so nice. Now the profesors even have time for lunch, sometimes. It's a good thing those history and economics professors were True Blue. They kept pounding the knowledge into our heads, despite the odds.

I had seen enough. I threw down my cigar so as not to make anyone mad, walked out of the building across the plaza, and got into my rod.

"Jack, as I woke up I was pulling into Rue de la Broad, not looking back at old P College."

I laughted at True and told him that for that dream to come true, the country would have to be controlled by a dictator of some sort.

"That's right," he said.

"It's impossible", I laughed, "that just couldn't happen at PC. It couldn't change that much."

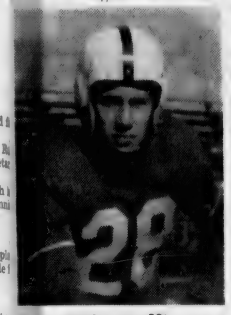
Blue Hose Will Entertain Stetson In Johnson Field Clash Tonight

• PC Goes After Fourth Victory

The Battlin' Blue Hose play host to Stetson University of Deland, Fla., tonight at 8:00 P. M. This will be the second home game for the Hosemen and a large crowd is expected to attend.

After taking consecutive wins over the Citadel and Catawba, the Hosemen are rarin' to go. A win over the Florida boys will give the Socks a 4-3 record and push them above the 500 mark.

The past two games have found the PC'uns combining a strong running attack with an equally impressive attack by air. The results have been seen in the past scores and improvement has continued week by week.



Once again Harry Hamilton will be doing the taming for the Hosemen while the running end will be held down by Eddy Brockenbrough, George Blue, Ken Webb and Gene Altman.

In the line we have capable mainstays in Luther Shealy, Frank Boulware, Walter Yates, Tommy Warren, Lee Frierson, and Bob Harrington. The ends are well-manned by Joe Counts and Bob Jackson, both capable flankmen.

The Stetson eleven is expected to depend on both passing and running power and this should be a wide open gridiron tussle from start to finish.

In past statistics, PC has played Stetson on 7 occasions and won 6, lost 0, and tied 1. The Hosemen have compiled a total of 90 points to 30 for the Stetson eleven.

Pi Kappa Alpha downed Theta Chi, 15-0, in the first intramural football game of the week on Monday, Nov. 1. Leland Brown opened the scoring in the first quarter with a safety.

Later Brown set up a touchdown on a 50-yard pass play to Guy Misenheimer. Tommy Stallworth then pased to Brown for the TD. The extra point was good.

In the last quarter Brown passed to John Tennant to complete the scoring. Dick Loveland was outstanding for the losing team.

The second game found Sigma Nu victorious over the Non-frats by a 13-0 score. Late in the game Sigma Nu broke the ice on a pass from Bill Taylor to Bobby Vass for the first score. Vass ran for the extra point.

On the kick-off after the touchodwn, Doug Dellinger covered the ball in the end zone for the final TD.

Outstanding for the Non-frats were John Knox, Billy Fulton, Steve Beckman, and Robert Garren.

Catawba Falls Easy Prey To Superior Sock Eleven

• Brockenbrough Takes Individual Honors

With the Blue Hose breaking loose for their third period TD's, Presbyterian College defeated the Catawba Indians by a 33-13 score at Salisbury, N. C., last Saturday night.

Eddie Brockenbrough was the individual star of the game as he gained 107 yards rushing and scored two of the five touchdowns of the night. In the second quarter he dived over the double stripes for the first six points. Midway of the third quarter Brockenbrough again traveled into pay dirt as he circled his end for 16 yards.

The third period brought about a grand scoring spree on the part of the Blue Hose. Blue circled his end to hit pay dirt from one yard out after he had taken a pitchout to set up the TD. Late in the third period Altman received a TD pass from Hamilton to score six points.

With the score 26-0 in favor of PC, Catawba scored two touchdowns against the second team. Swanner burst through center for the first TD. A few minutes later McKelvy scored as he caught a 30-yard pass from Carter. Carter scored the extra point as he sneaked over with the pigskin.

In the fourth quarter Harry Hamilton broke through the Indian line on a quarterback sneak which completely fooled the Indians. After going through the line, Hamilton raced 73 yards down the middle of the field to score the last PC touchdown. This climaxed the scoring of the night with PC leading 33-13.

In addition to the five TD's Blue kicked two extra points and Hamilton split the uprights for the other point.

HOSEMEN DOWN CATAWBA, 33-13

The Battlin' Blue Hose trounced the Catawba Indians on last Saturday night and in so doing, raised their won-lost record up to the 500 mark. The Socks have risen victorious in their past two games and hope to make a clean sweep with their remaining games against Stetson, Appalachian, and the annual Thanksgiving classic with Newberry.

ON THE HARDWOOD

Shifting a little now from football to the on-coming basketball season, we find Coach Sloan's boys going full steam in the gymnasium.

Last Friday afternoon found these men matching skills in an intra-squad basketball game. The squad was divided into two teams and the scrimmage was carried on by regular game rules.

The first team, composed of Bill Toole, Eddy Weil, Bob Burgess, Ron Ragan, and Dave Thompson went against a second team made up of Chuck Sloan, J. C. Gosnell, Wyatt Aiken, Arnold Stone, and Bruce Thompson. The first group emerged victorious, 96-64, in a hard-fought game.

Leading in scoring for the first team was Dave Thompson with 25 points, followed by Bill Toole who had 23. For the second team Bruce Thompson was high with 26 points followed by J. C. Gosnell and Chuck Sloan with 12 points each.

This game was especially impressive in that the team average was exceedingly good for pre-season scrimmage. The team average for the first ten men was well above 60 per cent in field goal and free throw attempts.

SOCKS TO FACE STETSON

The Hosemen again enter a game as the favorite when they meet Stetson University tonight at 8:00. This will be the second home game for the PC eleven, and they will be trying to better a record of three wins and three losses.

Although Stetson has won only one game of the season, it has met rugged competition. Davidson and Wofford have been the weakest teams which the Florida squad has encountered up to date.

Great PC Sportsmen . . .

Sixteen-lettered Wilson Never Saw Clemson Win

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

Charles W. Wilson, former 16 letterman in four sports at PC, is the eighth nominee in the parade of former great PC athletes.

Considered to be the greatest all-round athlete to over play at PC, Charles played fullback and end on the football team, forward and guard on the basketball five, shortstop on the basketball nine, and on the track team threw hurdles.

While starring as the fullback on the outstanding Blue Hose of 1925-27, Wilson helped the PC cause tremendously as the Blue Hose never lost to the larger Clemson team in the four years he was at PC.

In his freshman year, the Blue Anklets ripped through the Cubs of Clemson by a 55-0 score. The next year the Blue Hose, in Wilson's first year on the varsity, squeezed by the Tigers by a 14-9 score. With the great passing combination of Jimmy Stamps to Charley Wilson working perfectly, the Blue Hose defeated the Clemson Tigers 14-0. Climaxing his great college football career in 1927, the Tiger-Blue Hose football battle ended in a scoreless deadlock. This was the year that the Blue Hose played the Iron Men as they defeated three teams in seven days. On Saturday they defeated Wofford. The following Thursday the Citadel fell before the powerful Blue Hose. On Saturday the unpredictable was performed. This was a victory for PC over Oglethorpe.

On the basketball court the story was the same. Wilson played both forward and guard for Coach Johnson's winning five. With Wilson's superb passing and shooting PC downed some of the best teams of the Southeast.

When time of the year for baseball rolled around, Wilson was "Charley on the spot!" As shortstop of the Blue Stocknge Wilson gained the respect of all who watched PC win game after game. When he walked up to the plate with a big stick in his hand, the crack of the ash against the horsehide could be heard over the park.

Along with baseball in the spring he also threw hurdles on the track and field team.

Although he excelled in the sports field at PC, Wilson was active in extra-curricular activities. He was a member of the student council in 1926 and 1927. Also in his junior and senior years he was a member of the Latin Club.

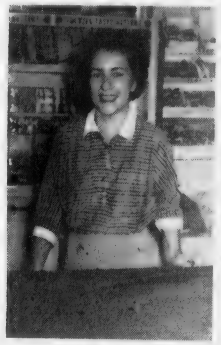
Outstanding Musician Graces College Canteen

Mrs. Norman Sloan, wife of PC's basketball coach, is the College Dame who is presented by the Blue Stocking this week.

Mrs. Sloan was born in Indianapolis, Indiana, where she attended both elementary and high school. While in high school, she was a member of the glee club and a cheer leader for three years. She was also a runner-up in a state musical contest and attended the Jordan School of Music through a scholarship which was awarded to her.

During her senior year in high school, Mrs. Sloan placed third in the Miss Indianapolis contest.

Mrs. Sloan sang frequently in light opera performances in Indianapolis. She had a major role in a production of Sigmund Romberg's "Student Prince."



After graduating from high school Mrs. Sloan became the recipient of a scholarship from the Curtis School of Music in Philadelphia for her vocal abilities. She attended this school for a year and then enrolled at the University of Indiana. During the next year she studied at the University.

After another year at the Jordan School of Music, she married Norman Sloan in 1948. At this time, Coach Sloan was enrolled at North Carolina State College where he was majoring in physical education.

When Coach Sloan was graduated, he and Mrs. Sloan moved to Clinton, where he became the basketball coach at PC.

Since second semester of last year the Sloans have managed the College Canteen in the SCA building.

The Sloans have two children —Debra Kay, three and one-half years old, and Michael Craig, one and one-half years old. Mrs. Sloan is an active member of the First Presbyterian Church Choir and the Music Club of Clinton.

Dormitory Construction to Begin Soon

Marts and Lundy to Conduct Study for Future Development

The Presbyterian College Board of Trustees has authorized construction of a new dormitory and initiation of a study toward future development of the institution, President Marshall W. Brown announced today.

Work on the new dormitory, estimated to cost approximately $200,000, and with facilities for about 100 students, will start within the next few months. It will be ready for use at the start of the new school year next fall.

President Brown said he also received trustee approval to employ the nationally known firm of Marts and Lundy to conduct a study to determine other needs of Presbyterian College and to assist in planning for its future development.

Approval of these plans came at a special meeting of the Board of Trustees held on the campus last Friday. The decision of the administration and the trustees was for immediate action, so that the urgently needed dormitory will be ready as soon as possible and the course of further development may be charted early.

Dr. Brown, making the announcement to alumni, friends, and church leaders on the occasion of American Education Week, said:

"The Board of Trustees made provision for a building committee to work with your president in proceeding with the construction of a new dormitory to house approximately 100 students. It will cost about $200,000. Approximately one-half of this amount has been obtained from churches in the controlling Synods of Georgia and South Carolina, and numerous other congregations have pledged their support once the work is underway."

The program to renovate and expand dormitory facilities at Presbyterian College moved at full stride forward during the past summer with the complete remodeling of Laurens Dormitory. It now offers living accommodation unsurpassed on the campus, Dr. Brown said. He pointed out that when the new dormitory is completed, PC will have adequate rooming space for the first time since World War II. Waiting lists of applicants have been maintained during all of this post-war period.

The president said construction on the new dormitory will begin as soon as the building committee selects an architect and approves his plans. Dr. William B. Ward, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Spartanburg, serves as chairman of the PC Board of Trustees.

Elections Scheduled For Junior Vacancies

The student council announced today that nominations for a student councilman from the junior class and also a junior vice-president will be held next Wednesday, Nov. 17. The final election will be held on Friday, Nov. 19.

Both of these offices were held by Paul Marshall of Sumter who recently withdrew from Presbyterian College.

The entire student body will vote on the student councilman, and only the junior class will select the junior vice-president, according to the spokesman for the student council. He urged the student body to come to the polls next week to vote for these replacements for important positions in the junior class.

PC's veterans and transfers end a week of Bo-rat activity tonight with a pep rally and bonfire before the Appalachian game tomorrow night.

PC Battalion to March For American Legion Head

• Event Marks Unit's First Public Appearance

The Presbyterian College ROTC battalion will have its first public dress parade next Thursday, Nov. 18, when it marches through Clinton in honor of the national commander of the American Legion, Seaborn P.Collins.

Collins is on an annual round-up of membership in some of the cities of South Carolina. The visit to Clinton is occasioned by the fact that his mother, the former Mrs. Rosa Hipp, was reared at Thornwell Orphanage.

In addition to the PC military unit, the parade will include the Clinton High School band, the local Blue Birds, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, and the beauty queen of Laurens County.

The Price of Freedom

"The condition upon which God has given liberty to man is eternal vigilance." In this brief statement an eighteenth century thinker has set forth a simple, yet often neglected truth.

Thirty-six years after the signing of the Armistice ending the first world war, the average American regards his freedom as something which he deserves and which can be taken for granted. In such a state of mind foreign ideologies easily prey upon his mind and take a hold in his thinking.

One of the important problems facing the American people today is the retaining of their way of life against the attacks of the Communists. No soft complacency will do this.

The American must, first of all, understand what his freedom is and what it means. There must be a sober realization that freedom is not cheap. It is a priceless heritage paid for by the lives of courageous and dauntless men who have spilled their blood on the battefields of the world. Anything paid for with human lives has a value which must be guarded.

To the Communist his belief is his creed. He will stop at nothing to proclaim it. The "sit-back and do nothing" attitude of the American citizen must be altered if freedom is to win over the Communist forces. America must show that she takes her freedom seriously and will stop at nothing to guard it.

We cannot afford to let our most priceless heritage slip away from us because we simply are not conscious of its worth. History is full of the examples of empires which have fallen because of the laxity of the people.

Freedom begins with t he individual. Each man must be on guard against the forces of tyranny and oppression at work today. The light of freedom will only burn brightly when it burns in the hearts of all men.

Freedom, however, cannot be isolated. As one man has said, "We cannot be free until all are free." Freedom must be practiced and taught to the people of all the world if peace is to reign over the earth.

The fate of the world rests peculiarly in the hands of our generation. If we pass this opportunity up, the consequences could be disastrous. We must guard our heritage of freedom—we must live freedom if it is to survive.

Business and Ministry Are Top Career Choices

Careers in business and the ministry are most popular selections among students enrolled at Presbyterian College for the 1954-55 session.

These two careers have been the leading choices of PC students for the past number of years. The ministerial candidates, however, last year almost equalled students enrolled in the popular business courses, and this trend is being maintained again this session.

A total of 68 students listed business as their intended life's work in the 954 survey. Sixty-one have dedicated themselves to the field of the ministers.

Teaching, coaching, and medicine rank next in order of popularity for careers. A total of 35 students plan to teach, 22 are interested in becoming coaches and 18 plan to enter medicine.

As always, a large group of students—particularly among the incoming freshmen—is still undecided about the future. But among other careers which appeal to PC students are:

Dentistry, 15; law, 11; accountant, 9; engineer, 7; army, 7; science ,6; insurance, 5; agriculture, 5; nursing, psychology, mortician, designing, printing textiles, banking, dietetics, flying, and radio announcing.

Experiment Gives View Of World Situation Today

By SAM WORKMAN

In ending this series of articles of my observations and impressions while visiting in Sweden this summer, I would like to pass on to you some information about The Experiment in International Living, the organization through which I was able to go abroad.

First, it was quite interesting to see how different these people were in habits, customs, and manners, but the more interesting or perhaps surprising thing was that after I got over the shock of these differences and stopped noticing them, I found that these people were basically the same as we.

Another experimentor has defined the experiment's interest more precisely: "The great problem in international relations and in everyday dealing with foreign people is that most of us tend to identify our traditional ways of meeting problems, or organizing life, and of reacting to situations as human nature' whereas actually all of it is learned. Other peoples have developed different solutions to the same universal problems, and consequently, have different human natures."

The Experiment was founded in 1932 in an attempt to find an answer to what has become the most pressing question of our times—"How can people of different nations—especially when they differ also in race, creed or language — understand one another well enough to see to it that their governments live peacefully together on the same planet?"

Another experimenter has said: "There are certain things the Experiment is and certain things it is not. No one who has read its printed material could ever mistake it for a tourist trip or a foreign summer school. Those are two of the things it certainly isn't.

The Experiment is many things to many people, and it is one specific thing to all of us—a practical, effective and vastly enjoyable way to prove to ourselves that international understanding and friendship can be attained. It brings international understanding down where people can do something about it. The result, if not world-shaking, is positive and concete."

(Ed. note: This is the last in a series of observations in Europe by The Blue Stocking's first-hand columnist, Sam Workman.)

Melvin's Mumbles

By JOE

I walked over to the canteen the other day and stopped to watch some of the boys expel some of their skill and also some of their "buffalos" their Paws sent them. Now if you want to get in on the latest "dirt" without reading the "Stocking All-American" then that is the place to get it. The local dead-eyes were discussing the trip some o f the boys made up to Montreat. Here's some of the things I overheard:

"Big Mamoo" Jim Fleming was really feeling his oats, so I understand. Jim and his "Meow" shirt really put him in good with the girls. He was voted the boy most likely to succeed, but didn't. It's what you don't do with what you've got.

Then there was a tie between the boys who were — shall we say, unfortunate. It was between Noble Collins, Bill Hawkins, and Bill Royal. Don't give up, boys. In this league we pitch 'til you win.

Old "loud mouth" Eddie Rayfield really struck gold. He is still walking around in a daze. It has been known to snow in the mountains.

At this point I had to move on. I had already lost this week's laundry money.

I hustled on over by Laurens Hotel and noticed Ken Webb carrying a big cabinet on his back. I stopped to see just what he was up to. He said, "I had to get some sort of filing system so I could get to my clippings when the boys came in to see me." I guess you can't beat organization.

Every time I am over in Spencer I hear Sam Cornwell running that is new to the slang world. around using some sort of word Say, Sam, what is "chub" and where do you get it?

Great PC Sportsmen

Adair Combined Sports and Brains

W. D. (Wild Bill) Adair, former basketball captain and baseball player at PC, is the ninth nominee in the parade of former great PC athletes.

Clinton has produced many athletes, but Bill stood out as one of the best to perform under the Garnet and Blue. As an all-round player on the basketball court, Bill had the unbelievable reach to protect the PC bucket and then pass off the ball to a teammate to start a Blue Hose rally.

In his freshman year of 1926 Bill was elected captain of the freshman quintet. After starring in his sophomore and junior years, he again received the honor of leading the Blue Hose as captain on the hardwood.

Because of his versatility on the diamond, Bill was extremely valuable to the Blue Hose as a utility man. Although he played almost every position on the field, his regular position was on the mound.

In academic qualifications Bill has no equal. He was a member of Sigma Kappa Alpha, honorary scholastic fraternity. He graduated in 1929 with the valedictorian honor.

In his senior year he served as battalion ommander of the PC ROTC unit. In a census taken by the Blue Stocking in December of 1928, Bill was found to be the most talented, best informed, most militaristic, and the man on the campus who has the most promise.

At present Bill is serving as Postmaster in Clinton.

Appalachian Game Pits Blue Hose Against Improved Opposing Team

Boone Men Hold Extra-Large Line

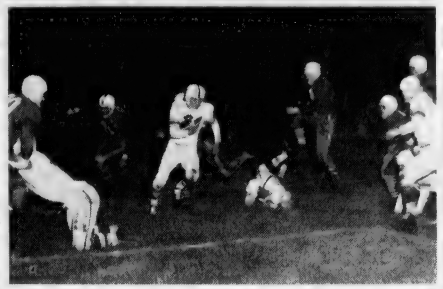
The Battlin' Blue Hose of Presbyterian College battled to a 28-7 victory over the Stetson Hatters and in so doing boosted their record to four wins and three losses. Seeking now to make it win number five, the Socks turn their sights on a strong eleven from Boone, N. C.

Appalachian has a much improved ball club over last year and fields an exceptionally larger line with hard running backs. They have compiled a fine record thus far this season and expect to prove tough opposition on this Saturday. They have a record of seven wins against no defeats and have received bowl bids in North Carolina and Tennessee.

Although hindered by losing Gene Carter and Bob Westenbarger for the remainder of the season and other temporary injuries, the Hosemen showed by last week's victory that they can be counted on for a brilliant performance.

Still improving in the running department and with Hamilton hitting on the passes, the Hosemen will be ready to roll on Saturday at 8:00 P. M.

The Hosemen have met with Appalachian on only two occasions and have split with the North Carolina eleven. The first was a 14-7 win in 1946. The Socks will be out for revenge for the 1950 game and make it the second win of the three games with Appalachian.



Coach Bill Crutchfield plans to start this lineup against the Mountaineers:

LE—Bob Stevens; LT — Lee Frierson; LG—Walter Yates; C—Frank Boulware; RG — Luther Shealy; RT—Bob Harrington; RE —Joe Counts; QB—Harry Hamilton; LHB—Ken Webb; RHB—George Blue; FB—Eddie Brockenbrough.

Theta Chi fell short 40 points with a team series of 748. They were led by sharpshooters Marion Lipscomb with a 162 series.

The second and third place positions will be fired Tuesday between Theta Chi and the Nonfrat team.

Sgt. Wayne Wood announced that the date of the awarding of the rifle trophy will be announced at a later date.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

PC RACKS UP WIN NUMBER FOUR

The Battlin' Blue Hose out-manned the Stetson Hatters in every field on last Friday night and rose victorious 28-7 in a football classic. Unfolding a brilliant running attack led by halfbacks George Blue, Ken Webb, and fullback Eddie Brockenbrough, the Socks ripped off long gains continually. Harry "The Sniper" Hamilton hit his ends quite effectively on needed occasions and the entire line settled down in the last three quarters and displayed iron-man strength on defense. The Hosemen now turn their attention up North Carolina way where they will take on a strong Appalachian eleven on Saturday night at 8:00 P. M. in Boone, N. C.

ON THE HARDWOOD

Basketball at PC is in full swing now, with several other exhibition games on tap before the regular season schedule is begun on November 29 with Atlantic Christian. The Hosemen face a tough 23-game slate which includes eleven home games. Teams which hold special interest include Erskine, Wofford, Clemson and Furman.

The Blue Hose lost only one starter from last year's quintet and should be tough for all competition in this the '54-'55 season. They will boast an experienced squad with needed depth in reserve strength. Here's hoping that this will be the "big year" for Coach Sloan and his boys!

PC Wins Fourth Victory By Topping Stetson, 28-7

• Hamilton, Webb, Blue Score TDs

With Ken Webb scoring two of the four PC TD's, the Battlin' Blue Hose defeated the Stetson Hatters 28-7 on Johnson Field for their fourth victory against three defeats.

Early in the second quarter, the Blue Hose were living up to the expectations by marching toward paydirt. Harry Hamilton set up the first TD by faking a pitchout and ramming his way through left guard to break out in the open to waltz off 53 yards before the Stetson safety man caught him.

Hamilton then pitched out to George Blue, who skirted his left end to cross the double stripes into paydirt from 18 yards out. Blue added the extra point to make the score 7-0 in favor of PC.

Midway of the second quarter PC continued to churn out yardage as they ground their way toward the goal. Webb climexed this drive by driving into the end zone from 10 yards out to score the second TD of the night. This time Hamilton added the point after TD to bring the score up to 140.

This score as well as the third TD of the night was largely due to the defensive iron men of the pigskin on the Stetson 20-yard line. Boulware recovered the line to set up the second TD. The third TD drive was started by Harrington, who recovered a Stetson bobble on his 35-yard line. By means of their superior ground gaining, PC churned 65 yards to their third TD with Hamilton going over for the six points from the one. Blue added the extra point to give the Blue Hose a 21-0 lead. Brockenbrough carried the mail most on this drive.

Again in the fourth quarter PC scored by means of a defensive maneuver. Ken Webb intercepted a Stetson pass and swivelhipped his way down the gridiron for 62 yards for the final TD for the night for PC. Hamilton added the point to increase PC's lead to 28-0.

Although the Stetson Hatters had been denied a touchdown by the Blue Hose alertness, they drove 70 yards for a TD in the last minutes. Dick Saltrick, who had been spraying passes all over of the game as he sneaked across the field, scored on the last play the double stripes. Stevenson booted the extra point to give the Hatters seven points against 28 for the Blue Hose.

Underclasses Pick Military Ball Group

In elections held at drill period last Monday, the freshmen, sophomores, and juniors in ROTC selected their representatives to serve on the Military Ball Committee.

The juniors chosen are Vicky Vierra, Ed Hay, and Ted Howie. Sophomores are Don Rickett and Charles Dukes. The freshmen representatives are Guy Haddix and Jimmy Newsome.

The Military Ball is sponsored by the PC Chapter of the Scabbard and Blade National Military Fraternity. The men chosen from the three classes will work with the Scabbard and Blade in sponsoring the dance. These seven men will represent their respective classes in the making of the plans for the dance.

Bill Tiller, commander of the PC Chapter, announced that plans for the dance will begin in the near future. Already the tentative date of March 4, 1955, has been selected for the dance.

Considered the social highlight of the year, the 1955 Military Ball promises to be a week end of fine entertainment for the PC student body.

Net Ace Morris Receives 1954 Jacobs Tennis Trophy

Allen Morris, senior from Atlanta, Ga., was presented the William P. Jacobs Player of the Year trophy by coach James Leighton in chapel Wednesday. This award is given annually to the outstanding Southern tennis player of the year at the Southern Championship Tournament.

Morris was selected for this award in merit for being the most improved player in the South last season. He was selected also for the largest contribution made to Southern tennis and for his outstanding sportsmanship.

Morris

Morris presented the trophy to Presbyterian College in appreciation for the aid given him for his tennis game. President Marshall Brown received the honored trophy for Presbyterian College and complimented Morris on his excellent work. Morris stated that he is especially proud of the heritage of the cup which has continued from the administration of Dr. William Plumer Jacobs, II, until today.

The names of many famous southern tennis champions appear on the treasured trophy. The names of Ham Richardson, Tony Trabert, Bobby Riggs, Billy Talbert, Bitsy Grant, and others depict the cherished heritage of the trophy.

Morris was selected to represent the United States on the 1954 U. S. Davis Cup Team, in honor of his outstanding play in past seasons. The number one player from PC won the Blue-Gray Tournament in Montgomery, Ala., last summer, downing Jose Aguero, topnotch netter from South America. Morris also defeated Astichi Maigi, Japanese Davis Cup player last season. He gained runner-up spot in the Southwestern Open Tournament, and reached the semi-final match at the Southern Championship Tournament in Atlanta, Ga., in the past season.

November 23 Set for SSCQ Test Deadline

Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Director of Selective Service, today reminded Presbyterian students that the deadline for submitting applications for the December 9 Selective Service College Qualification Test is midnight Tuesday, November 23, and that applications postmarked after that time cannot be considered.

Application blanks and information bulletins, with sample questions, may be obtained by students from the nearest local board. They do not have to write to their own local board to secure an application. Students are to mail their completed applications in pre - addressed envelopes to Science Research Associates, Chicago, Ill.

To be eligible to apply for the college qualification test a student must (1) intend to request deferment as a student; (2) be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction; and (3) must not have previously taken the Selective Service College Qualification Test.

The next scheduled test for this school year will be April 21, 1955. Students whose academic year will end in January are urged to take the December 9 test so they will have a test score in their cover sheets before the end of their academic year, at which time their boards reopen and reconsider their cases to determine whether they should be again deferred as students.

The present criteria for deferment as an undergraduate student are either a satisfactory score (70) on the Selective Service College Qualification Test or specified rank in class (upper half of the males in the freshman class, upper two thirds of the males in the sophomore class or upper three fourths of the males in the junior class).

General Hershey has emphasized many times that the criteria are a flexible yard stick used to guide the local boards and that the standards may be raised any time necessity for manpower demands.

Drs. Jones, Thompson To Write History of PC

A complete history of Presbyterian College is now being prepared in connection with the diamond anniversary of the college. Under the careful workmanship of Dr. Newton B. Jones, professor of history, and Dr. W. Y. Thompson, associate professor of history, this work is expected to be completed in time for the 75th anniversary of the founding of the college.

Dr. Jones has recently completed a paper on Dr. William Plumer Jacobs, founder of PC, which will afford much material for the forthcoming book. This paper was presented at the meeting of the Southern Historical Association by Dr. Jones last week in Columbia.

The material for this history of Presbyterian College is still being gathered and organized by the history department. The professors plan to have the material compiled and ready for the publishers by the end of the year.

Professor Jones has voiced a plea that anyone who has any papers or information relevant to PC history which might be of value in the book contact either Dr. Thompson or him.

Six Senior Gleesters Receive English P's

Last Friday evening six senior members of the Presbyterian College Robed Choir were presented with gold English P's, the highest award a singer can get while in the PC choir.

Those Gleesters receiving the keys this fall are Greg Elam, William Neville, Drayton Cooper, Bill McCutchen, Ed Rayfield, and Jack Edmunds.

Before presenting the awards, Dr. Edouard Patte, conductor of the choir, had a few remaks on the establishing of the tradition of the keys. Pate explained that the awards were presented on the basis of the faithfulness in service to the choir during the singers' years in the organization.

"Give Us That Due Sense of All Thy Mercies"

"We bless thee for our creation, preservation, and all the blessings of this life; but above all, for Thine estimable love in redemption of the world by our Lord Jesus Christ. And, we beseech Thee, give us that due sense of all Thy mercies, that we show forth Thy praise, not only with our lips, but in our lives."

In this ancient prayer is the example of Christian thanksgiving. Man, totally dependent upon God for life, has an eternal obligation to follow His will in service.

As the holiday season approaches when man remembers the first Thanksgiving Day in this country, he can readily see the blessings given to him by God.

Creation itself, being and living, is God's first great gift to man. In it man partakes of the world which He has prepared.

Surely preservation in a day such as ours is an important blessing. Throughout terrible global wars in which thousnands were killed, God has preserved us. He has spared our homes the ravages of invasion and the horror experienced by the Europeans during the second world war.

Even the smallest, unnoticed things, the simple enjoyments and pleasures of life are blessings from God. All that we have is His, for truly in Him we live and move and have our being.

The greatest, yet unmerited gift bestowed by the Father upon us is the gift of His only Son for our salvation. In this act of mercy He opened the door of eternal life to us. All the hymns of praise and thanksgiving ever made can never tell the wondrous love of God in giving to man this supreme gift.

Thanksgiving Day, like so many religious holidays, can easily be turned into a day of personal pleasures. There is a general muttering of how thankful we should be from the lips of many, but these utterances without backing are useless.

If we are to be truly thankful, we must show forth God's praise in our lives by giving ourselves to Christian service, by following His will in every act, thought ,and word. Only sincere thanksgiving—praise that is shown, not only spoken—will be acceptable to Him who did not spare His own Son in order that we might have life.

An eighteenth century writer has stated the truth in one of the well-known Thanksgiving hymns:

"We thank Thee, then, O Father,
For all things bright and good,
The seed-time and the harvest,
Our life, our health, our food;
Accept the gifts we offer,
For all Thy love imparts,
And what Thou most desirest,
Our humble, thankful hearts."

Approached with the right understanding this Thanksgiving season can be genuine. Praise by living in Christian service shows the true spirit of Thanksgiving.

Child Faces Bleak Last Christmas In Korean Leper Colony This Year

(Editor's Note: This article was written for and published in The Daily Californian, Berkeley, by a former reporter who is now stationed in Pusan with the Public Information Department of the 7th Transportation Command. He is a June, 1953 graduate of the University of California, with a major in journalism. This article is distributed to about 600 college newspapers throughout the country by the Associated Collegiate Press.)

By Private Jim Dempsey

Today I made a trip over muddy back roads to a leper colony located about 10 miles outside of Pusan. Seeing is believing, they say—and I saw.

I saw what few human eyes have seen. I saw the tailings of humanity. I saw 1600 of the saddest people on the face of the earth.

There are a lot of nasty places in Korea, but this one really takes the cake. Here human dignity has hit a new low. Scantily clothed, underfed and housed in shacks, these people have nothing to live for. They are truly "the forgotten people."

They live in the mountains away from civilization. It is a little town—the town with no name, Korea. It's very peaceful there. You'd never know that 1600 people are dying.

Take six-year-old Kim Sook Ja, for example. She's a healthy-looking girl. You'd never guess that this will be her last Christmas. Of course not—how would you know that the dreaded disease is systematically going about its deadly work inside her frail body.

Kim doesn't know, either. She just plays with a raggedy doll someone gave her. She doesn't know that is what took away her mother and father will soon take her. She plans to see Santa Claus many more times.

And who has the guts to tell her otherwise? Who has the guts to go around to 400 other children and tell them that they'd better play hard while they still can—that they had better hurry and live fast, because leprosy won't wait.

But even in her last days, Kim doesn't have it easy. Life is hard, even for a six-year-old. She lives in a small, crowded room with five or six other people. She spends her nights on a straw mat, searching for warmth that just isn't there. What chance has a straw mat and one worn dress against a bitter Korean winter?

Her play is confined either to her well-worn raggedy doll or the mud puddles. No one ever comes to see her, nor can she go see the world she has never known. She must stay behind those big red and yellow signs that say: "Keep out—leprosy-keep out.

The only people Kim sees are those five or ten "sick people" that come to the gate of the town each day. They never come in. There is no room. They must go back to Pusan to spend the rest of their agonizing days. Even Kim is better off than they.

Hunger also plays a big role in her little life. Most little girls her age get about six handfuls of rice a day. Kim gets four. And it's barley, not rice. Second grade barley at that. She doesn't know that outside her little world that type of barley is fed only to horses.

The people sometimes grow a few vegetables but there is never enough to go around. Kim eats her barley, and for her, it's the only food in the world. She doesn't know about ice craem cones, banana splits, pop corn and movies. How could she?

Kim doesn't know much about dying. She has a hard time figuring out why some of her playmates have suddenly "gone away." Her childish mind can't understand why others—young and old—can go away from her little world and she can't. Everything comes hard for Kim.

She doesn't know that the only reason most of them are dying is because of a lack of medicine. Words like diazone, propone, and DDS mean nothing to her. She doesn't know that these "big words" could bring her about fifty more Christmases.

But others know. They know that they can't get enough of it to treat any but a few of the cases. They know that there just isn't enough to go around; that as a result, the curable cases—like Kim's—become incurable by the time they get the medicine.

But Kim can't see the vicious circle. She doesn't know that her mother and father might be with her still if they had had those "big words."

I told Kim that maybe, as a Christmas present, I could get some people in the United States to help her and her friends; to send some of those "big words"; to send food and clothing.

I told her that someone might even be able to send some toys for her and for the other children. I promised to get her some things from that world that she has never known. I didn't have the guts to say otherwise.

After all, it's Kim's last Christmas.

True Blue, reporter extraordinary, has been given a hot tip on a big story at a resort town deep in the Piedmont section of the state.

Immediately after finishing the story on state politics in Columbia, he decided to buzz down to the fabulous little village 65 miles from the state capital, and nose around and see just what famous people were there.

We find him in his jitney, now, burning down Highway 76, going westward. After a nice hour's drive he pull into that famous resort town, Clinton-on-the-Duncan.

Turning left on Rue-de-la-Broad, he cruised down the "main drag" to the hangout of all VIP's. We see him pulling into a parking space between a Jaguar and a Cadillac Fleetwood. Placing a press card on the band of his pork-pie, he leaps from his car and crosses the street.

Pulling up to the curb beside him now, we see the WVPC sound truck. True is handed a portable hand mike and . . . uh, oh, just as I thought . . . he's going to broadcast from here.

"Good morning ladies and gentlemen, this is True Blue, again speaking to you from the College Country Club, paramount meeting place of the social set, founded in 1880. On the banks of the famous Duncan River, stands this gathering place for world reknowned figures. Let us tour the grounds now and catch a glimpse of a few of these famous personages.

"I see to our right, the famous Countess Amanda, ever surrounded by her sutiors. Widely recognized as the intellectual pace-setter of Spain, the lady is reported to have libraries full of priceless manuscripts, and dozens of admirers.

"Over by the pool, lime rickey in hand, stands the world famous writer "Lloyd C" Davis, author of Magnificent Grotesquess. Fingering his Winston, Mr. Davis is listening to the chief economist of the president's cabinet, Al Cruickshanks. Al has on his high water boots is carrying his portable bi board with him on which draw his charts. Poor fe would be lost without his ch I guess.

"Let's stroll over to Morris Memorial Ten Courts. I see coming out of club house, "Big Bill" Thom son, mighty mite of ten fame from the west coast. is rumored that "Big Bill" an ox-history professor.

Over on the 18th hole ar group of soldiers-of-fortune back from Arabia. The "Mean Mick" McGuire, and world famous rifleman, "B News Benny" Woods. They h as their caddy today, Red M shall, CWO, USA. Let's w the ma fond "all the way, R and move on to some of the distinguished personages of club.

Lounging on the fender of English Austin, looking over cricket match is the flame-h ed playboy from Pennsylvan Gregory Van Elam. Greg flew over from the contin yesterday to have a cocktail the club this afternoon with old friend, C. Drayton Coop general manager of the club. Cooper walks toward Greg now. He is attired in a wh imported flannel slack suit his Scotch grain pipe, ever trademark, protrudes from mouth.

An interview with the famous gentlemen would be but they no doubt are engag in personal conversation.

My time is up for today, this is True Blue returning to the studios of WVPC.

We follow True back to jitney, and watch him as lights up a "stogie", starts rod, and digs off to Charlie's phone in a story to the Sock.

True Blue sends his wishes a happy Thanksgiving to all fair readers. He and I are goi see if Atlanta is still there, we'll see you next week.

I hope all of you PC supporters are justly proud of our "Battlin' Blues." They surely did show those mountineers how to play a game of football.

I would like to make a suggestion to Robert Odum. Next time you decide to go for a bicycle ride you ought to pick a little faster wheel. Maybe you are just a little out of shape.

I'm been hearing Tommy Warren going around saying, "Warren's the name and women is the game!" You'll have to explain the rules to us some time, Tom.

I understand the Winthrop-PC Club has another member. Blair Baldwin is now a member in good standing. From now on anyone not attending a called meeting of this organization will have to hand in a written excuse signed by his doctor.

Blue Hose Play Host to Newberry Indians In Thanksgiving Day Bronze Derby Classic

Presbyterian Seeks Final Win

The Battlin' Blue Hose of Presbyterian College will once again meet the Newberry Indians here in Bailey Stadium in a Thanksgiving Day classic. This rivalry was begun back in 1913 and after a 7-7 tie last Thanksgiving, the Sox are ready to make this 1954 final gridiron affair, their fifth straight victory and bring their season's record to six wins and three losses.

Newberry has a good record up to date and with several key men recovering from injuries, will be up to full strength on next Thursday afternoon. Grover Davis and Danny Branham were ailing in last week's 14-14 tie with a strong Troy State eleven, but both should be ready to go by Thanksgiving.

PC, however, has showed continued improvement each week and in defeating the previously undefeated Appalachian, 14-7, boasted their record to six wins against three defeats. This victory over the North Carolinians also gave the Hosemen four victories in a row.

With an open date this weekand three days to prepare for end, the Blue Hose have a week this all-important battle and bring home the Bronze Derby plus a few scalps from the Indians.

Combining a brilliant offensive machine and an ironman defense the Blue Hose had clipped off huge hunks of yardage while opponents found great difficulty in pentrating the strong Blue Hose forward wall. Leading the running attack are halfbackers George Blue and Ken Webb, full back Eddie Brockenbrough and quarterback Harry Hamilton. Anchoring the Blue Hose on defensive and displaying rugged football every minute are guards Luther Shealy and Walter Yates, tackles Lee Frierson and Bob Harrington, ends Joe Counts, Bob Stevens and Bob Jackson.

In the long history of the series, PC holds a decided edge on the Indians, meeting in 3 encounters, the Blue Sock teams have won 25 games while loosing only eleven. The two teams have tied on three occasions and the Hosemen have completed a total of 547 points while the Indians have registered 314.

In the annual Thanksgiving football battle with the Newberry Indians, eight PC seniors will conclude their gridiron careers under Blue Stocking colors.

Halfback George Blue and co-captained the Blue Hose this season and are among those who will stow away their cleats for the last time at PC.

Both guard posts will be vacated by Luther Shealy and Walter Yates. Shealy, last year's co-captain, second team All-State, and mentioned Little All-American hails from Pacolet. Yates, a 180 pounder from Norfolk is a fireball lineman. He is an aggressive, spirited performer and a hard tackler.

center Frank Boulware have

Flankmen yearing the blue and white jerseys for the last time are Joe Counts from Brunswick, Ga., and Charles Twitty from Charlotte, N. C. Counts, a excellent pass receiver, is a ball hawk type flankman and a constant defensive threat. Twitty, one of the fastest men on the team, is also an excellent receiver and good all-around ball player.

Robert Harrington, a 205 pound senior from Mont Clare, has another year of eligibility and may perhaps see service with the Hosemen in the 1955 season.

Harry Hamilton, star back from Seneca, will also play his last game Thanksgiving Day.

Tennis Team Journeys To Ft. Benning Match

Presbyterian Eleven Double Unbeaten Appalachian, 14-7

• Hamilton, Brockenbrough, Blue Score

Presbyterian College's Blue Hose broke the Elks Bowl-bound Appalachian Mountaineers unbeaten record by downing them 14-7 last Saturday night at Boone, N. C.

With one minute to go in the first quarter, Hamilton climaxed a 55-yard drive by scoring from three yards out on an option play. Hamilton set up the Blue Hose TD by passing to Blue for 12 yards and to Webb for 20 yards. Blue booted the pigskin through the uprights to score his first of two extra points.

Midway of the second quarter Appalachian tied the score when Pennell passed to Ollis in the end zone for 20 yards and six points. Ollis converted to tie the score 7-7. Appalachian received possession of the ball by recovering PC's fumble on their own 48-yard line.

Midway of the fourth period Eddie Brockenbrough rammed his way for nine yards through center into paydirt, capping a drive that started on PC's 18-yard line. Brockenbrough carried the mail throughout the 82-yard drive by breaking away on sprints of 14 and 15 yards. Blue converted to raise the score to 14-7. Three times the Blue Hose made bids for paydirt only to advance to the 15-yard line as the Mountaineer line held steadfast.

Boone Grid Mentor Lauds Blue Stockings

"Presbyterian was definitely the best team we've played this season. And that boy (Harry) Hamilton, their quarterback, he's great—isn't he?"

These are the words of Appalachian coach E. C. Duggins as reported to the Winston-Salem, N. C., newspaper.

He continued, "We weren't off. I think our boys played a good game. I think both teams played a good game. They were just a little better. And say—wasn't that a clean game."

During the whole game PC was penalized five yards on three occasions, and Appalachian was penalized five yards on two occasions. According to one writer, they don't get much cleaner.

In a letter to Blue Hose head coach Bill Crutchfield, Duggins said, "We do not like to get beaten, but when we do, it is a pleasure to be in competition with a team like yours."

Before the PC game, the Boone, N. C., team had not been beaten or tied this season. Appalachian has already wrapped up its third North State crown by whipping all six of the other members of the league.

Genevan Painter Plays Role of PC Choir Mother

The Blue Stocking personality spotlight swings this week to Mrs. Edouard Patte, wife of Dr. Edouard Patte, professor of sociology.

Mrs. Patte was born in Geneva, Switzerland, as Aymee Patry. Her father was an outstanding Swiss lawyer, and a colonel in the army of Switzerland.

In her youth she attended private schools in her native land, and upon completion of this phase of her education, she entered the College of Calvin in Geneva. Later she entered the Faculte der Lettres at the University of Geneva. She also traveled entensively throughout Europe, and spent considerable time in Rome and Florence, Italy, where she studied art.

Mrs. Patte says her main interest has always been in social work. While she was still in Europe she was an active member of the Junior League in Geneva. She was noted for her work for underprivileged children and young women in Geneva.

Afte her marriage 21 years ago to Dr. Patte, she became actively engaged in church work. As an interesting sidelight to her marriage, she remaked that Dr. Patte had been a fraternity brother to two of her brothers during his college days.

She carried on the duties of a minister's wife while the Pattes were in the active ministry in Switzerland and the United States. During the war years on the continent she accompanied her husband in his work as an International YMCA executive. This carried the Pattes throughout Europe visiting concentration camps, and through the United States visiting prisoner-of-war compounds.

Since Dr. Patte came to PC as a professor and choir director, she has become known as the Mother of the Choir because of her unselfish and untiring efforts to continually look after "her boys" of the choir. Every member of the choir looks upon Mrs. Patte as a "second mother" because of her understanding manner.

Besides her work with the choir, her interests include painting and landscape aritstry. She is also a member of the Century Club in Clinton, and a member of the College Dames. Her church affiliation is with the Reformed Church of Switzerland, although she attends the First Presbyterian Church in Clinton.

Bucketmen Prepare for Atlantic Christian Opene

• Four Freshmen Spark Team

Pre-season indications are that the Blue Hose of the hardwood may have one of the best seasons in history. If the talent on hand materializes, PC will have an all-round, well-balanced ball club.

Under the able tutorship of Coach Norman Sloan, the Blue Hose started at the beginning of the first semester working out in practice sessions in order to be a smooth-working quintet by the September 29 opener with Atlantic Christian College.

Dave Thompson, a junior who was All-South Carolina forward last year; Bill Toole, captain and defensive ace; and Ron Ragan, sophomore with an eagle eye for the net, lead the field in pre-season estimation. Other lettermen back from last year are: center Bob Burgess, soph; center Bruce Thompson, center Arnold Stone, and guard Charles Sloan.

The Sock Salutes . . .

PC's '54 Winning Gridmen

When the Bronze Derby returned to its Blue Hose home on Thanksgiving day, the Blue Hose football team completed one of the most successful seasons in recent years.

This victory gave the Blue Hose a six out of nine winning score in the 1954 schedule which included five straight wins.

For an unwavering will to fight, for sportmanship at its best, for teamwork and team spirit, for hours of unceasing practice, for putting all into a game for the school they represent, the Blue Stocking salutes the gridmen of '54.

The eight senior players who ended their football careers last Thursday deserve a great deal of credit for their continued effort in putting the Blue Hose on top. Every year valuable senior players leave hard-to-fill gaps in the squad and these 1954 seniors are far from being an exception to this fact.

Freshmen this year have shown the willingness to practice and play their best when called upon. For a great many, the first year is primarily a training period for greater varsity achievements. The freshmen on this year's team have proved to be sparkplugs for the whole squad by their effort and its results.

A group which is integral to a football team—a group which is often forgotten, however—is the little squad of managers, trainers, and equipment men. These men put in hours every day of the week in various jobs, all of which count in the final result of the team as a whole. These men deserve recognition for the giving of their time and work in a task which, though very important, is often thankless.

The coaching staff certainly merits a genuine expression of praise for its leadership in the outstanding record of this year. These men had a hard task before them in shaping the team into an effective working machine. In short time the concentrated effort these three men—Crutchfield, Sloan, and Schembechler—prepared the grid team to meet and defeat two-thirds of its opponents.

All of these men—players, coaches, trainers, managers, and equipment men—make up the football picture. The Blue Stocking is proud to salute this entire team for giving to Presbyterian College an unforgettable football season unmatched in determination and teamwork.

A Working Control Board

Another group which has been quite important in the student campus life this semester is the Freshman Control Board. A necessary force in orienting the college life to freshmen, this board has taken a firm grasp and helped to shape a class of high school heroes into college men.

We have seen the results of a slack and non-working board in years past. This year, however, the board has fairly meted out its punishment and rewards and in the end helped the freshmen become adjusted to the ways of college life.

This Freshman Control Board under the direction of Pete Sloan has done a very commendable job. A more spirited freshman class has resulted from the planning and work of these men. Such work will see continued effect in the spirit of the student body in the years to come as these freshmen take their places as the student leaders.

Gleesters Prep for Big Show

By JACK EDMUNDS

"Good evening sports fans. This is your old sports announcer, 'Dizzy' Blue, bringing you a practice session of the Presbyterian College Blue Throats, last year's mythical champions of the Treble Clef.

Victorious in their first two starts this season, the 30-voice squad is practicing tonight in game uniform, preparing for their Southern tour of the 1954 season.

Leaving Saturday morning, they will appear in a ten-game slate over a period of nine days. Thuogh this is considered a physical strain on these valiant 'knights of the notes', the rugged training and conditioning they have undergone this past month should make the tour a breather.

In the press box with us this evening is the coach of this great squad, the man voted coach of the year' in '53 by the United Press Musicians Guild, Ed Patte. Let's see if Coach Patte has a few words for you team supporters.

"At theese time I cannot see why my boys did not make All-American."

"Thank you, Mr. Patte."

As the coach descends to the playing field let's go over this star-studded line-up.

Bulwark of the line for his fourth straight season is 'Mighty Mo' Cooper from Sumter. Weighing in at 300 pounds, Cooper was bass of the year last year in South Carolina.

The double quartet ten second backfield (they can run the scale in ten seconds) includes several freshmen nemises this year. However, the starters, the 'Four Hoarsemen', are all veterans.

The team was greatly crippled earlier this week by the announcement of the release of last year's All-American first tenor, Tommy (the horse) Stallworth, to Military service. Despite the 'pull' of Coach Patte, the shifty harmonizer's first loyalty is to his country which he proudly serves through ROTC.

Back in top shape after a severe voice strain is that will-o-the-wisp, pile-driving fullback, Lord, a star in the Blue Throats' post season tory last year in the 'Ludens Bowl', at To North Dakota.

Also up in the press box this evening is gleester scout. From the Fred Waring organ tion, he is Andy Elam, one of Waring's Penn vanians. He is reported to have his eye on swivel-hipped speed merchant from Newbe Billy Neville. Billy, this year, has been shi to 'Reader' to give depth in that position.

Not out on the field yet is 'Dynamite" Dant versatile triple-throat, whose benefit to the sq lies in his ability to sing three voices with strain. 'Dynamite' fumbled a note in last wee victory over Georgetown and is getting a ha tongue-lashing from the coach.

The managers are about packed for the t They have black game uniforms and red shou stoles for everyone. They also have ample sup of lemons for half-time energy and medic throat pills for the relief of pre-game tension. medicine kit is filled with ammona capsules victims of the terrific heat of South Georgia, throat sprayers for those brave few who give t all in fortissimo on each play.

Neville Memorial Stadium is well lighted w by 120 G.E. 60 watts. (I counted them in cla my sophomore year). In the corner, gathe around the Steinway tackling dummy, is the cond tenor section, getting last minute brief on "running of the melody." The rest of the p ers are gathered around Coach Patte, who is giv them a last minute pep talk. He is very fired because a third string Second Bassman has practice to go to Winthrop.

The squad is keyed up to a 'high C' and raring to hit their Presbyterian foes these n nine days. The prospect is for another undefea season for these mighty Blue Throats.

So long for now. Think I'll jog down to concession stand for a cup of hot lemonade.

One 1954 PC graduate is enrolled at Union Seminary in Richmond, Va., and two are studying at Southeastern (Baptist) Seminary in Winston-Salem, N. C.

The new first-year Columbia men include: Robert Allman, Gordon Bradford, John David Campbell, Jr., Joe Conyers, Paul Crouch, Curtis Crowther, Lucius DuBose, Foster Edwards, Bill Flannagan, Charles Gahagan, Dennis Ketchem, Fred McDaniel, Marcus Prince, III, Robert L. Erskine, High Point, Catawba, Furman To Match Strength With Blue Stockings

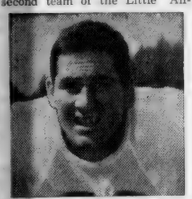
The Blue Hose quintet will clash with the Flying Fleet from Erskine College on the latter's home court tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The Blue Sox will be out to seek revenge from Erskine, which took two close decisions from the Hosemen last year.

The Fleet has a well-rounded team with adequate height at the center and forward positions. The guards main fast and hit on set shots exceptionally well.

On the other hand, the Sloansmen, paced by high-scoring forward Ron Ragan, have an experienced unit. Displaying a fast-breaking team combined with pin-point hitting ability, the Blue Hose will give a good account of themselves in this important battle which should prove a test for both squads.

North Carolina Bound

The first part of next week will find the Blue Sox heading up North Carolina way where they will meet two strong teams from out of state. The first encounter will be with High Point College on December 7, and the following night will find the Sox at Salisbury, N. C., where they will meet the Catawba Indians. Both of these teams were strong last season and losing few lettermen, should prove strong competition for opponents this year. High Point has rated high in conference play for the past few years.



Play Furman Here Saturday

Winding up their road games with Catawba, the Hosemen will return home to meet the Purple Paladins from Furman University on next Saturday night.

The Hosemen dropped one game to Furman last year by a one-point margin and hopes to take them Saturday on their home court.

Battlin' Blues

HOSEMEN SCALP INDIANS 20-18—DERBY HOME

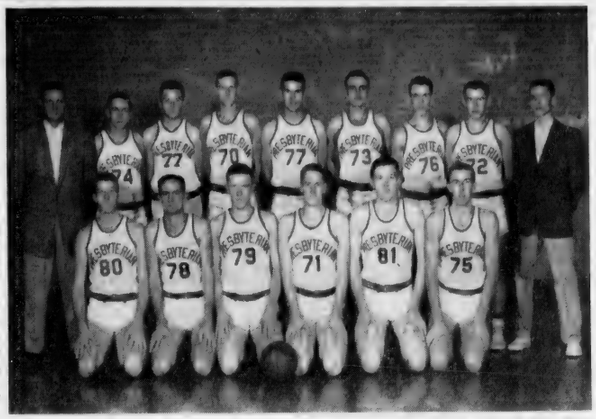
The Battlin' Blue Hose made the Thanksgiving holidays complete with a rousing victory over Newberry in the annual Bronze Derby classic. In defeating the strong Indian eleven, the PC'uns boosted their season's record to six wins against three losses.

Trailing the last three minutes of the football game 18-14, the Hosemen began a drive on their own two-yard line which only ended when the Sox hit paydirt 98 yards away. Spearheaded by the passing of Hamilton and a 46-yard sprint by Butler, a 20-yard TD pass from Hamilton to Blue climaxed the drive and left the spectators amazed in their seats. The Hosemen kicked to Newberry and the Ironmen dug in on defense until the whistle sounded ending the game; once more the Bronze Derby is at home again.

COACHES AND TEAM DUE PRAISE

Congratulations are in order at the end of this, a great football season. With the outlook quite dim at the beginning of the gridiron season and with injuries occurring as it progressed, Coaches Crutchfield, Schembechler, and Sloan turned a small, undermanned team into one of the most talked-about elevens in the state. After dropping games early in the season to Clemson, Furman, and Wofford, the Battlin' Hose turned on the steam and combining a strong running and passing attack, rolled over Davidson, Citadel, Catawba, Stetson, Appalachian, and Newberry. Congratulations once again on a job well done.

HOSE TO PLAY FURMAN HERE NEXT SATURDAY



The Sloanmen end next week's three-game slate with a home play on Saturday night against a strong Paladin five from Furman. To all fans, this is a game of much interest and this year should prove to be no exception.

Although losing their great scoring ace, Frank Selvy, the Purple Paladins have a well-rounded team, led by high-scoring Darrel Floyd. Floyd averaged over twenty-three points per game last year and is the same type ball player that Selvy was.

On the other hand, the Blue Hose quintet will be without the services of high-scoring Dave Thompson. The Sox will once again lack height but are expected to make up for this in hustle, spirit, and ability to hit the bucket.

This game should be a thriller from start to finish and the Leroy Springs gymnasium will in all probability be filled to the brim when the Presbyterians meet the Baptists.

Ragan Tips 34 Points

Paced by Ron Ragan with 34 points, the Presbyterian Blue Hose downed Atlantic Christian College 89-79, Monday night at Leroy Springs gymnasium in its season opener .

Until six minutes before the end of the game, both teams fought nip-and-tuck, with the lead changing hands several times. At this point the Blue Hose pulled away to a 13-point lead. In the last few minutes Atlantic Christian closed the gap to 10 points.

Bill Beacham, Atlantic Christian center, led his team offensively as he clipped the net for 17 points.

All-South Carolina forward Dave Thompson remained on the sidelines because he was scholastically ineligible.

Hamilton-to-Blue Aerial Feat Thrills Thousands at Thanksgiving Derby Game

Coming from behind in the last minutes of play on Thanksgiving Day, the flaming Blue Hose of Presbyterian scalped the Indians from Newberry, 20-18, and regained the Bronze Derby before a near capacity crowd of 4,200 on Johnson Field. Harry Hamilton's southpaw aerial to George Blue in the end zone climaxed a sensational 97-yard drive to give the Blue Hose a 20-18 advantage with only two minutes and 20 seconds left in the game.

Newberry took over on their 13 after PC had punted. With Paul Davis, Ray, and Bessinger carrying the mail overland and Brabham tosssing to P. Davis, the Indians marched 87 yards down the warpath to draw first scoring blood. Brabham received the honors as he sneaked across the double stripes from two yards out to climax the drive. Grover Davis attempted the conversion, but it was blocked by Counts of PC, leaving the Tribe with a 6-0 advantage.

Midway of the second stanza the battlin' Blue Hose started rolling toward glory land from their 47-yard line. With Hamilton tossing to Counts and Brockenbrough, Blue, and Hamilton carrying the pigskin to the 10-yard line, the Blue Hose were not to be denied a TD. In three tries Brockenbrough crashed over the double stripes into paydirt to tie the game at 6-6. The educated toe of George Blue split the uprights to give PC a 7-6 lead.

Ray took the kickoff and danced down the Newberry sidelines 47 yards before being tackled on the PC 34-yard marker. With Father Time against them, the Indians took advantage of this golden opportunity to go ahead by driving goalward in three plays after the kickoff. Morgan passed to Maksim on the five who rammed his way into the end zone to put the Indians ahead 12-7 with only seconds left in the first half. Again Davis attempted the conversion, but to no avail.

Midway of the third quarter the flaming hot Blue Hose started goalward from their own 34-yard line. With Hamilton shooting the pigskin to Counts and Twitty and Blue, Brockenbrough, and Hamilton lugging the leather on the ground, the Blue Hose were not to be denied. Hamilton sneaked across into glory land from the one to put the Blue Hose ahead 13-12. Again Blue's toe added the extra point, giving PC a 14-12 lead.

Early in the fourth quarter the Indians, with all their war paint, roared toward the land of great riches from PC's 34-yard marker. They gained possession of the pigskin on the 34 by means of a PC punt. With Dufford, Davis, and Haselden carrying the mail, the Indians had a first down on the 12. Then Dufford passed to Blanko in the end zone to put the Tribe out front, 18-14. Again Davis' attempt was not good.

On a punt exchange, Ray of Newberry dashed and danced down the sidelines 47 yards to the PC 20. From here the Indians continued on the warpath. However on the three-yard marker, the inspired Blue Hose threw up a rock-ribbed defense that stood like a stone wall. With Brockenbrough and Hamilton on the ground and Hamilton to Stevens in the air, the Blue Hose started rolling. Gene Butler, taking a pitchout, spun, twisted, and galloped 45 yards to the Newberry 29 on a spectaculer field run to set the stage for Hamilton's winning pass to Blue in the end zone. This pass was good from 27 yards out. For the first time Blue's toe failed to split the uprights, but it was not needed as PC commanded a 20-18 lead.

It was in Rio that Mr. and Mrs. Glover met and became engaged. At that time, Mr. Glover was employed by an English textile firm's Brazilian office.

In 1941 Mrs. Glover returned to the United States on leave. She went to Canada where Mr. Glover had been transferred, and they were married in Ottawa.

The Glovers returned to Brazil in 1943 where they remained three years. In 1946 they went to England and Mr. Glover resigned his job.

Mr. and Mrs. Glover came to Clinton in 1947 when he accepted a position with the college in the Spanish department.

The Glovers have four children, three girls and a boy. Elizabeth, 11, and John, 9, were born in Brazil. Jean, 6, was born in Clinton. The newest addition to the family is a girl born on Nov. 27.

Mrs. Glover recently held the positions of secretary to the academic dean and also secretary in the athletic department.

KA and Spencer Cats Annex I-M Victories

An 8-6 win gave Kappa Alpha the only intramural victory last week. KA scored first on a long punt by Al Morris that went into the end zone where Bobby Vass was caught by Dee Parker for a safety.

Later KA tallied a TD on a pass from John Fesperman to Morris. Sigma Nu's touchdown came on a Vass to William Oliver pass.

On Tuesday KA won its third straight game by trouncing PiKA in a 20-0 decision. Early in the game Morris set up the first TD on a spectacular catch of a long pass by John Fesperman.

Other KA touchdowns and extra points were made by Morris, Fesperman, and Ted Howie.

The Spencer Cats dumped the Non-frats Wednesday, 12-0. Bob Hill set up the first TD on the opening play by taking a pass from Jim Bryant. Joe Dabbs went over for the second score.

In the second Wednesday game the Ministerial Club forfeited to Sigma Nu.

Hose Quintet Trims Tige To 81-75 Tune on Tuesda

• Ragan Chalks Up 35 Points in Game

Presbyterian College staved off a last quarter rally by Clemson Tuesday to salvage an 81-75 victory, the second of the season. It was Clemson's opener.

Presbyterian built up a 60-40 third quarter lead, but didn't reckon with the sharp shooting of the comeback-minded Tigers, paced by guard Bill Yarborough, who made 17 points in a final quarter flurry. Clemson narrowed the advantage to a 77-75 score with a minute remaining in the contest.

Five successive free throws made by Presbyterian's Blue Hose four by Bob Burgess Burlington, N. C., sewed things for the visitors.

Yarborough set a new Clem scoring record of 34 points, byterian's Ron Ragan hit on per cent of his shots for points.

Marts and Lundy Conduct Campus Survey; Dormitory Construction to Begin Soon

A study aimed toward the future development of Presbyterian College was initiated this week by the firm Marts and Lundy.

Floyd Freeman, a representative of Marts and Lundy, will begin his survey Monday. The survey will cover a period of six weeks and will extend, primarily, throughout the two supporting synods of South Carolina and Georgia by the time it is completed.

Other institutions have found these studies to be most helpful in planning for their future development, and it is hoped Presbyterian College will be able to launch a broad program of its own within the near future.

Dr. Brown has already met with the newly appointed dormitory building committee, and this group is proceeding with its work as quickly as possible. Several architectural firms have been contacted, and a decision on the architect is expected shortly. Work will begin immediately thereafter.

SCA Plans to Give Directories at Party

The PC student directory, which is annually drawn up by the SCA, will be distributed at the Christmas party after the Wednesday night skits.

The directory contains an alphabetical listing of all PC students, their class, campus address and home address. Faculty and administration members, their addresses and telephone numbers and all campus organizations and fraternities with their officers will be included.

Greg Elam directed the work on the directory, and members of the Freshman Cabinet and student body assisted in preparing it.

No Sock Next Week; Staff Extends Greetings

Christmas holidays will begin at 6 PM, Thursday, December 16. School will be closed for seventeen days and classes will resume Tuesday, January 4. Due to the holidays this week's edition will be the last until January 14, of next year. The staff of the Blue Stocking extends to the faculty, administration, and student body best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

The meeting will take place Jan. 5 at 7:00 p. m. The PC faculty is invited to attend.

Fraternities to Present Talent

The highlights of the pre-holiday season will begin Wednesday, December 15 in chapel with the Freshmen SCA cabinet's Christmas program. That night, there will be a special Christmas supper in Judd Dining Hall and afterward, fraternities and other campus organizations will present informal skits for the student body.

The members of the freshmen cabinet have been working hard to give the student body a Christmas message for the holidays. The theme of this year's presentation will be "What Christmas Means To Me", and will be featured by soloist Mrs. Norman Sloan. This is an annual project of the freshmen cabinet.

The Christmas dinner will begin at 6:00 p.m. Wednesday night. The menu will consist of roast turkey, nut dressing with gravy, asparagus with cheese sauce, buttered whole kernel corn, whole spiced beets, and cranberry sauce. There will be a choice of toss salad with French dressing, congealed fruit salad and tomato aspic on lettuce. The dessert will be a choice of mince meat pie or fruit cake.

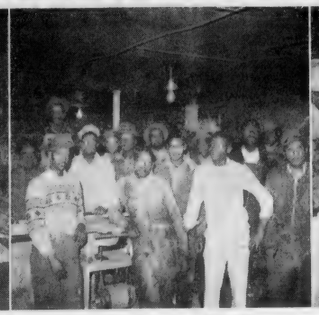
The annual Christmas Dance will be held tonight from 9 til 1 at the Clinton Armory. The dance will feature Gerald Carrigan and his orchestra. Dress will be semi-formal.



Tomorrow night after the PC-Furman game, students will again go to the armory for dancing from 9 til 12. The music will be furnished by Ben Ballenger's Combo, a well-known group from Spartanburg.

Tickets will be $3.00 for both dances. If tickets are bought separately, they will cost $2.00 for each dance. Tickets may be purchased from any member of the IFC. This will be the last dance until next semester and from advance sales a large crowd is expected.

Eighteen Maintenance Workers Put in 800 Hours Weekly

Standing at the rip saw, Mr. Beatty cuts a plank for a dormitory step.

Gathered in the shop for a noon recess, members of PC's maintenance crew enjoy congenial fellowship after a hearty lunch.

Engaged in a favorite pastime, two checker sharks take notice from 'the dean' while associates look on.

Laura Richards sweeps one of the parlors of the SCA Building.

Laura Richards Has Longest Service Record; Has Served College Continually Since 1942

James 'Dean' Sturkey Heads Ground Crew, Is Chief Electrician and Machine Repairman

Eight hundred hours is the amount of time spent per week on college grounds and buildings by the eighteen members of the Presbyterian College maintenance staff.

Very little is ever said of the maintenance people, who perform such important tasks as keeping the college buildings clean, caring for the grounds, firing stokers and boilers, and repairing broken equipment.

Heading the janitors in length of service is Laura Richardson, the only woman on the maintenance staff. Laura has served 11 years and keeps the SCA Building and the Jacobs Science Hall clean swept and tidy. She also helps with numerous campus parties during the year.

Two good workers who have been with the staff only a short time are Junus Cunningham and Enoch Richardson. Junus keeps Smyth A and C sections clean and has been working six months. Enoch joined the staff in August and keeps Smyth B in good shape.

George Price, who has been working three years, is janitor of Laurens Dormitory. He sweeps the floor and tidies up each week morning, and in the afternoon he mops and does minor repair work.

Spencer Dormitory and the gym offices are the responsibilities of James Fleming, two years service. James received a broken foot in a fall last year, but he is doing a good job this year of keeping Spencer and the gym offices clean. Henry Jones, two years service, keeps Neville Hall clean. He sweeps the halls and classrooms and straightens up all furniture.

The library and all administration offices are kept in order by Booker Burton. He has been working four years and keeps the grass cut and the yard around the library neat.

Willie Byrd, with nearly two years service, keeps the athletic area clean. He sweeps the gym, and takes care of the pool. Besides this, Willie keeps Johnson Field well cut and trimmed. Archie Smith, six months service, is janitor for Caldair House.

Arthur King, with three years service, and Sam Copeland, with two years, are the firemen of the maintenance staff. Arthur and Sam fire the stokers and boilers of Smyth Dormitory, the library, the gym, Calvert House, and the main boiler plant. Each week they alternate the morning and afternoon shifts of eight hours. During the summer and early fall, Sam and Arthur take care of the grass and shrubbery on the campus.

Heading the grounds crew is James Sturky, or "Dean" as he is called by everyone. "Dean" has been on the maintenance crew for seven years, and during that time he has done many different jobs. At present he is chief electrician and sometimes he repairs machinery. He "takes over" when the plant manager is occasionally absent.

Robert Campbell, nine years service, and Bob Rice, four years, form the truck crew which hauls equipment and carries leaves. Robert is truck driver, while Bob is truck "dog", loading and unloading materials. In their spare moments they clip hedges or cut up leaves with grinding machines.

William Taylor has two years service. He is chief carpenter of the staff and does most of the minor construction jobs on the campus. James Willie Priestly, nine years, helps with repair work and is pole climber for the staff.

H. B. Sanders, who has been on the staff a little more than a year, is chief painter. He handles all painting and plasters cracked and broken walls.

The uniting force behind the maintenance staff, which effectively coordinates it into a smoothly running machine, is Mr. Oran F. Beatty. He has done an outstanding job of service to the school with his staff, and he deserves our hearty thanks for the many improvements which have been made on the campus.

Mr. Beatty is plant superintendent and supervises all work done by the maintenance staff. Mr. Beatty, an ex-civil service employee, has been on the staff since 1948. He is justly proud of his staff, which did most of the work of renovating Laurens Dormitory and finished a week ahead of schedule in spite of delays and hot weather.

In praise of his workers, Mr. Beatty said they have saved the college much money in construction work and repairing and that he has to "threaten a needle shot" only once in a while to get speed.

He thinks the staff is the most congenial group of workers that could be assembled, there never is a grouch among them. They get along well with each other, making the crew "like one big, happy family on the yard." If you want to see them in action drop around to their annual Christmas Party in the chow hall kitchen Thursday night, December 16.

The Rediscovery of the Christmas Spirit

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the fields, keeping watch over their flocks by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them,

"Fear not, for behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

This is the story of the birth of Christ. It can not be improved, nor can we find a new story.

Christmas is the birthday of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. God loved the world enough to grant a second chance by giving us His only begotten son.

Since the Nativity is one of the sacred celebrations of the church year, the question inevitably arises concerning the commercialization of Christmas. Have we commercialized Christmas? Even the most casual observer discovers that almost every community has succumbed to the commercial side instead of the true Christmas spirit. We should strive to overcome such a business-like attitude toward Christmas.

Christmas should not be centered in stores or in shopping crowds but in the hearts of all people. Let's not allow commercialization to crowd Christmas out of our hearts, because that is the only place where Christ can live.

Many like to think that Christmas is for the children only, but Christmas is for everyone. As we grow older we should realize more and more what Christmas is, and we should express joy that Jesus came to live among men.

We have made Christmas a time of giving and of receiving gifts. We do not give full attention to the most wonderful gift ever made. God gave His Son, "that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have eternal life."

God sent His Son to earth as a token of His love for us. There is no love greater than God's love. Why not make love the supreme Christmas gift? Love, friendship, warmness of heart, and humility of spirit are gifts that can not be bought, but these are the very things that we all need. It would be well if we could all give and receive such gifts for Christmas.

Our family groups can aid in drawnig us nearer to the true spirit of Christmas. The singing of lovely old Christmas carols is an Christmas tradition which will live in our hea and our hearts forever.

Our world changes from day to day, Christmas has not changed and never will. though there are many things which tend make us forget Christmas, we will never for it, for, along with His Son, God gave us a pr is of "peace on earth and good will tow men."

Let us all begin the holiday season with prayer:

"We confess that we have made the Chri mas season a time of buying and selling m than a time of telling the glorious good n of Christ's coming to earth. We have made a time of expecting gifts from others, more t a time of expecting Thy great and wonder Gift. We have made the Christmas season burden to be borne, more than an experienc having our burdens borne of Thee. Forg our folly, we pray, and grant us grace to deem Christmas, for Christ's sake. Amen."

Let's take Christmas out of the mar place and put it back into the hearts of men.

'Rear Window' Stars Jimmie Stewart as Sleuth

By STEVE BECKMAN

Alfred Hitchcock, the man who is known for his spine-chilling motion pictures, does it again! "Rear Window", is due to open the 4th. and 5th. of January at the Broadway Theatre. This movie has given the screen more memorable moments of thrill than all the rest of Hitchcock's pictures combined.

The star of "Rear Window", James Stewart, known for his action parts, literally sits it out in Hitchcock's new technicolor suspense thriller. In this exciting journey into human passions, Stewart has the roll of a famed still photographer who is confined to a wheel-chair because of a broken leg. With nothing to do all day Stewart preys into the affairs of his neighbors, with the help of his high powered telescope.

The many different personalities found in the show is enough in itself to make the picture enjoyable. The climax is reached when one dark night, while gazing from his window, Stewart sees what he believes to be a murder. From then on, "Rear Window" moves at a whirlwind pace. Finishing is such suspense that it leaves every nerve in one's body screaming.

The End of Rat Season

I want to be free, said the Freshling
"O'ho!" Said the sorry Sophomore . . .
While the others chuckling
Asked "Please tell us more."

"I should like more than just a figure,
That pride of the Fresh went on,
I should like to grow bigger and bigger,
Until I can lick Pete Sloan.

I don't want to be a shoe slave for any upperclassman,
I don't want to have those brown marks on my fingers;
I want to run free like the other Freshmen
As free as the Football players.

Now the Curious End to the fable
So far as the rest ascertained:
They searched from the gym to the dining hall table,
But only his signs remained.

With the change over in sports, I notice there has been a change over in publicity. Ron Ragan or "Argentina Red", as he is sometimes called, has borrowed Ken Webb's cedar chest to keep his press clippings.

Steve Beckman and Willie Neville have been initiated into "The Royal Order of the Shaft". Welcome new members.

It has been brought to my attention that the members of The Leory Springs Country Club are planning a private Christmas party. The only outside quest are a few female friends from the Mineral Springs Estates.

Jim Woods and Jim Newsome are having a private battle to see who can get the most shafts this year. Newsome has a slight edge at this point of the battle, three to two. Not bad for a Freshman.

TB Has Christmas Party

By JACK EDMUNDS

I walked into our room the other day to find True Blue hurriedly decorating the suite for his annual Christmas party, always the highlight of the Yuletide season.

He had colored paper strung all over the room, adding a lively color to the pale green walls. All the furniture had been moved to make room for the gay crowd that would be arriving shortly.

In the middle of the room sat two large vats, filled to the brim with egg nog. Beside the vats were five 100-cup boxes of Dixie Cups, three trays of goose liver sandwiches, and a dozen boxes of "King Edwards."

"What say, Apple", True greeted me as he stood with folded arms sizing up the room.

"Okay", I told him.

"You gonna be here for the party, Jack?"

"Guess so. When will it start?"

"As soon as the two o'clock classes are over and will last until drill in the morning."

I got out while the getting was good and went down to watch the Blue Hose Basketeers work out.

When I got back that evening everything on first floor A section was in full swing. I had to go across the hall and borrow a coat and tie before True would let me in, but when I finally squeezed through the door, the joint was rocking.

I carefully crept past him and mingled with the group sipping egg nog and discussing prev ing conditions on the campus. Leading the d cusion was "Diamond Charlie" Dukes, fabul society gambler, who has set up his tables in corner of the room for the amusement of Tru guests.

Also at the party were the two super jewel salesmen from the third floor, leading retailers the Hickock Co., W. Anson Hamilton and J. Pa Newsome, attired in charcoal suits and red str ties. The two elite gentlemen had set up their d play in the bedroom.

As the evening progressed, certain acts of tertainment were presented, much to the amus ment of all the guests.

From the second floor was imported a wild a mal act straight from the wilderness of Nor Carolina. The creature was semi-domestic a was handled only by its trainer, Francis (bro 'em back alive) Mayes. I believe he called thing a crawley, or something like that.

A few of the elite of the faculty were the also. In rare form was dashing Dick Adams, w lectured on his crusade to Spain.

Thus went True Blue's Christmas party. Hop hoping all you lads live it up over the holidays a have yourself a party, too. Let's not forget, thou the side of Christmas other than parties and e nog; and let's come back with a humble spirit 1955, to a humble but great little college.

Hosemen Play Furman Here Tomorrow, High Point Thursday

Strong Opposition Expected

The Blue Sox quintet, after returning home from North Carolina games with Catawba and High Point, train their sights on the "big one" with Furman University tomorrow night. An overflow crowd expected to witness this spectacle, which for many years has attracted the attention of South Carolina fans.

Furman has proven in their 103-101 loss to William and Mary that they have a high-scoring unit, and with seasoning since that time, should prove rough opposition. It was in this game that the Paladin scoring ace, Darrell Floyd, dropped in 53 points. This sounds like Floyd could possibly be following in the footsteps of the all-time great Frank Selvy.

The Blue Hose, off to a fine season thus far, are expected to be ready for the Paladins in every field. Led by high-scoring forward Ron Ragan, the Hosemen have needed experience and determination which make every basketball team great.

Last year, the Sox dropped two games to Furman. One of these was a thriller played in Charlotte, N. C., which the Paladins won by one point. The Sloanmen will be out for revenge on tomorrow night at eight o'clock in the Leroy Springs gymnasium.

Play High Point Thursday

Another home game on next Thursday will find the Hosemen entertaining High Point College from High Point, N. C. The Hosemen were previously defeated by the North Carolina team 100-94, on last Tuesday night.

In meeting High Point, the Sox meet an experienced unit which is strong competition in the North Carolina Conference year in and year out. Although last year's team was somewhat weaker than previous ones, the High Point quintet this year has recruited six Junior College stars and in so doing, jumped in rank to one of the powers from out of state.

Toole Leads Blue Defense

Fighting off a inspired rally by the Erskine Flying Fleet in the closing minutes of a thrilling Homecoming basketball game, the Blue Hose squeaked by the Fleet by a 84-83 score before an overflow crowd in the Erskine gym.

Forward Ron Ragan tipped the net for 27 points to lead the Blue Hose offensively. Although losing by one point, Erskine posted the individual higher scorer of the afternoon as Forward Julian Robinson dropped 31 points through the basket.

Hose Drop 100-94 Thriller to High Point

Ragan Fires 44

Forward Ron Ragan dropped in 44 points in a losing cause against High Point College as the High Pointers came back strong in the second half to down the Blue Hose 100-94.

Leading 51-39 at half time, the Blue Hose could not control High Point's Bill Huegele as he began hitting the hoop after intermission. Ragan's brilliant shooting and rebound work kept the Blue Hose within shot of the High Point score.

With 18 field goals and eight free throws, Ragan was the individual high scorer of the night with 44 points. Bill Huegele, with 13 field goals and one free throw led the High Point quintet with 27 points.

Great PC Sportsmen . . .

Weldon Led Blue Hose As Player and Coach

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

Lawrence (Coon) Weldon, former great halfback and pitcher for the Blue Stockings and former Washington Red Skin defensive halfback, is the tenth nominee in the parade of former great PC athletes.

On the gridiron Coon was one of the best ponies of the Blue Hose backfield as he carried the mail for first downs and touchdowns. Although the Blue Hose had a 3-6 won-lost record in 1936 because they played large colleges that were out of their class such as, Georgia Tech, PC's gentlemen of the gridiron topped the "Little Four". Coon Weldon was called on time after time to carry the pigskin into the land of the milk and honey. Weldon climaxed his college football career by displaying his talent before a capacity Homecoming crowd of old grads as the mighty Blue Hose dumped Wofford 20-7 in the season final.

As Father Time turned the sport to the great national pastime—baseball—Coon was ready and able to bear most of the responsibility of the mound duty. When he was not toeing the rubber, Coon was patroling the outer garden in right field. On April 16, 1937, Coon set a state strikeout record by breezing the last strike by 19 Furman Hurricane batters as he pitched his mates to victory.

Upon receiving his diploma, Coon immediately advanced into professional ball. Although not reaching the majors in baseball, Weldon played defensive halfback for the Washington Red Skins for a couple of years. Here Weldon displayed another of his many talents, the art of kicking field goals.

In 1946 Coon Weldon returned to his alma mater to coach the Blue Hose on the diamond. Again he showed his desire to win as he enstilled into his players pep and steam to lead them to a winning season.

After leaving PC as head baseball coach, he went to Sumter to teach school and coach high school baseball. From there he went to Portsmouth, Va., where he still lives.

When Coon was enrolled in the hallowed halls of PC, he was a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity and the Block P Club. In his Senior year he was elected Vice-President of the Block P Club and was voted the Most Handsome in his class.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

The Blue Hose are off to a fine start this season as they boast a 4-1 record up to this date. Although missing the services of Dave Thompson, last year's outstanding forward and pointman, the Sox have a team which should make a strong bid in "Little Four" play.

Up until the Catawba game on Wednesday night, the Hosemen have been a high-scoring unit. They were held in check by Catawba's holding the ball and playing "cautious" basketball.

The games won by the Blue Hose include Atlantic Christian (87-79), Clemson (81-75), Erskine (84-83), and Catawba (67-56). The only loss was to High Point College (94-100).

RAGAN STILL HITTING

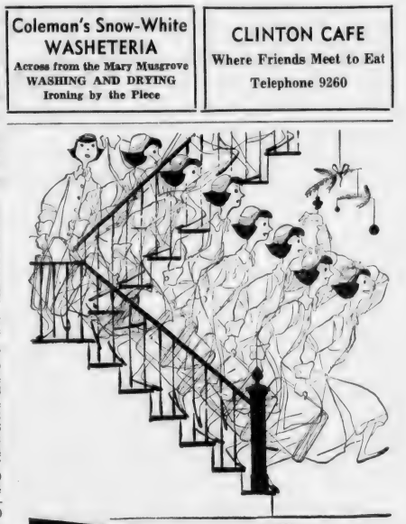
The Blue Sox have been led in scoring by forward Ron Ragan from Indianapolis, Ind. Hitting from outside on most occasions, Ragan has a sharp eye for the basket. He is also outstanding on rebounding and can drive well when guarded tightly. In the five games played this season, Ragan dropped 34 points in the bucket against Atlantic Christian, 35 against Celmson, 27 against Erskine, and a booming 44 against High Point. He came down hill against Catawba in the last game, hitting for only 16 tallies. Nevertheless, Ragan leads the team with an average of 31 points.

OTHERS PLAYING WELL

Other members of the basketball team are playing heads-up ball and form a well-rounded team with plenty of fight and determination.

Guards Eddie Weil, Bill Toole, and Chuck Sloan all move the ball well. Each of these men have a good eye for the basket on long set or jump shots. Weil is second only to Ragan in top scoring honors.

Moving on to the forward and center positions we find them well manned by Ron Ragan, Bruce Thompson, Bob Burgess, and Arnold Sloan. These men work well from the corners and under the bucket. Burgess and Thompson are right along with guard Weil in total points.



The freshman players are improving rapidly and Bob Stevens, up from football last week, should add power to the Hosemen.

Navy and Marines Plan Cadet Flight Program

The Navy recently announced openings for nine candidates per month from Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina, and North Carolina for Navy and Marine Corps flight training, leading to designations as pilots and commissions as Ensign in the Navy or Second Lieutenant in the Marine Corps.

In order to qualify for flight training a candidate must be between 18 and 25 years old; unmarried; have completed, or be able to complete within four months, 60 semester or 90 quarter hours academic work at an accredited college or university; and be physically qualified.

Flight training begins at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla., the "Annapolis of the Air" and advanced training is taken at the Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, Texas.

Upon completion of flight training, Naval Aviation Cadets are commissioned in the Navy or Marine Corps, according to their choice, and serve thirty months active duty.

The Navy's flight training program offers a great number of choices for assignment, and amount of time spent on active duty. A limited number of commissions in the Regular Naval establishment are available for pilots who apply and are accepted. This selection is voluntary and based on the individual's record in the Navy.

Making inquiries or taking qualification tests does not obligate an individual. Candidates are enlisted for pilot training only which is voluntary in all respects.

Trustees Give Nod to Frat Buildings

The Blue Stocking

Vol. XXXIII Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., January 14, 1955 No. 13

College Purchases Property At Fifth and Holland Corner

Dr. Marshall B. Brown, president of Presbyterian College, announced Wednesday afternoon at a press conference that plans have been finalized for the construction of fraternity lodges.

Dr. Brown stated that much time has been spent by a special committee set up by the Board of Trustees to study the matter of fraternity housing and that their recommendations have been accepted by the board.

According to his statement, fraternities may begin construction of their houses whenever they are able to raise the necessary amount for the financing of their houses. The total cost of the houses is expected to be $12,000 each, half of which is to be payed by the fraternity directly, and half to be borrowed from the college by the fraternity.

According to the minutes of the Board of Trustees meeting of November 5, 1954, it was brought out that the fraternities would have ten years in which to repay their debt, and at that time the houses will become the sole property of the college, after which time they will be leased to the local chapter at a minimum rate.

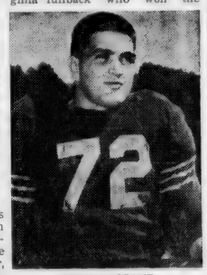
In order that the groups may begin their lodges as soon as possible, the college has purchased a lot on the corner of Holland St. and Fifth Ave., diagonally across from the parking area in the rear of Bailey stadium.

A representative from each fraternity has met with Dr. Brown to discuss the housing matter and each group has categorically approved the proposal of the committee.

Members of the special trustee committee are P. S. Bailey of Clinton, J. C. Todd of Laurens, and R. M. Vance of Clinton.

Jacobs Banquet Tonight Honors Three Outstanding Grid Blockers

Football's unsung hero, the blocker, receives his annual tribute here tonight at the Jacobs Blocking Trophy banquet, an occasion which marks its 27th anniversary.



Since the first award was given in 1828, the Jacobs trophies have spread to South-wide prominence in honoring the best blockers throughout this great region.

Some 250 sportsmen are expected to assemble in the Presbyterian College dining hall at 8:00 p. m. for this occasion which has become a tradition on the Southern gridiron scene.

Sports Editor Furman Bisher of the Atlanta Constitution is scheduled to deliver the main address at this 27th anniversary meeting. The trophies will go to: South Carolina Fullback Bill Wohrman, double-winner for the second straight year as the best blocker in the state and in the Atlantic Coast Conference; West Virginia Guard Gene Laomne, Southern Conference recipient; and Mississippi State Fullback Charles Evans, Southeastern Conference winner.

The late Dr. William P. Jacobs II—who blocked as a student on Presbyterian College's first football team in 1913 and later rose to prominence as an educator, publisher and industrialist—decideded back in 1928 to recognize the unselfish role of the man who leads interference for the ball carrier. When he instituted a trophy that year for the best blocker in South Carolina, it was the first such award in the nation. The banquet is now sponsored by William and Hugh Jacobs of Clinton in memory of their father, the late Dr. Jacobs. Three Clinton civic clubs—the Exchange, Kiwanis and Lions—are co-operating with the Jacobs brothers in this event.

In addition to the three winners, Tommy Allman, West Virginia fullback who won the

GENE LAMONE

Southern Conference award last year but was unable to attend, is expected to be here. Other special guests will include the head coaches and sports writers of the state and members of the three Clinton civic clubs.

Each winner of the blocking awards will receive a trophy with his name inscribed along with past recipients, which rotates among the schools of the winners each year. The individuals are given keys for their permanent possessions.

John Holland Hunter of Clinton will serve as master of ceremonies for the occasion. Guests will be welcomed to Presbyterian College by President Marshall W. Brown, and to Clinton by Mayor Hugh L. Eichelberger. Presentation of the awards will be made by William and Hugh Jacobs.

Press On Toward the Mark

Ring out the old, ring in the new—this old, often-quoted phrase can be a gem of living if men will apply it to their daily lives. In this first issue of the new year, 1955, we would like to take a stand urging every man at Presbyterian College to make this the best year yet. As the apostle Paul would say, "Forgetting what is behind, let us press on toward the mark."

The secret of this concept is to begin the year fresh as a clean slate. The past year certainly had its weaknesses, failures, and disappointments. But by forgetting these and resolving that they shall not be repeated we can go forward to greater experiences.

With examinations only a few weeks away, every student has a chance to prove himself. By his preparation for this testing he can make a first step for improvement in his college work. Though few seem to realize it man has moral obligations to study. Failure to exercise one's talents and resources to the fullest is the same as the man in the parable of Jesus who took his talent and hid it in the ground, thereby working his own damnation.

1955 stands as a year of unlimited possibilities if we will exercise our powers to the fullest. The quality of work, the attitudes we take, and the influence we cast all share in the total value of this year in our lives.

The college has already taken steps to increase the physical plant of the college. However, the mental and spiritual health of the institution depends in a great many respects upon those who fill its ranks. A college is more than a group of ivy-covered buildings. It is a group of living minds and souls dedicated to the advancement of learning and the increase of true religion.

Unless we do our share to fulfill our obligations here, Presbyterian College cannot continue to go forward and this year will end as a dream unfulfilled.

Let us resolve to do our share to fill the days of this year with activity and worthwhile achievement. He will succeed who plays the game of life with high purpose and, standing defeat as well as victory, presses toward the mark. Let's make the year of opportunity the year of realization!

For the Mending of Lives

The value Americans place upon the life and dignity of each individual is not just a civics course platitude. It is a genuine and unique characteristic of our society.

Those who have traveled abroad—as tourists or servicemen—know that in many lands the sight of the miserable and ill, huddled in alleys and doorways, is so common that it passes almost unnoticed. In the United States the life or death of a single person may become a matter of national concern . . . a young girl lost in the woods, a kidnaped baby, a child trapped in a well.

We do not attempt to put a price on a single life nor the value of mending it. We know that here we are dealing with the priceless.

Similarly, we refuse to accept the inevitability of disease and suffering. We band together and fight them. An outstanding example of this is the fight against polio through the March of Dimes.

In this fight millions of men and women, believing in their individual importance and in their collective strength, have joined hands in typical American fashion. They move forward with unfailing determination, buttressed by the knowledge that today's research is pointing the way to tomorrow's victory.

For the fight against polio . . . for the task of mending lives . . . give to your 1955 March of Dimes.

Time has been flying since the last time I saw you boys and so has the news. I've heard so much news I don't know if I can keep it all straight or not.

Don Goodman's girl got a wedding ring for Christmas. Isn't that nice. The only trouble is he didn't give it to her. Have you tried Limestone, Don?

Heart-breaker Nobie Collins got a slight jolt over the holidays. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" I always say. I recommend you to Columbia College.

The "Gold-dust Twins", Hay and Dantzler, are giving Winthrop the rush these days. I've been trying to tell you boys "thar's gold in them thar hills." You go get 'em, though!

Here's the quotation of the week as overheard from Dick Ropp as he was walking across the campus, "I'm just obsessed with girls." That's truly a "Magnificent Obsession", Dick.

I understand that "Boogie" Brice is running for the boy "most likely to succeed" of Laurens, S. C. With the help of the "law" he might make it.

The local "SS" troops got hold of young Jimmy "Hi" Newsome Tuesday night and he really looked a mess when he came in.

We've got a few "congratulations" around here for some of the boys on the campus. First goes to the new family on the campus, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Morris. Also to Al for his fine showing at the Sugar Bowl, even though he was at a handicap. Second goes to those boys who invested all they had in one of those diamonds: Bill Littlejohn, Ralph McCaskill, and Gene Carter.

Blue Hose Hit Citadel Tonight; Will Meet Rollins, Indians, Bears

Thursday Clash at Newberry Pits Bronze Derby Foes Again

After returning from the lower part of the state where the Blue Hose will wind up this week's schedule with the Maroons of the College of Charleston tonight, the PC quintet will return home for a full three-game slate which is on tap for next week.

The first of next week's games is a home affair in which the Sox will entertain a strong Rollins team from Winter Park, Florida. The Rollins five has shown power in the State of Florida and will be out to string up victories over out-of-state teams on their tour through the Carolinas.

On Thursday night, the Hosemen move down to Newberry where they will meet the Indians of Newberry College. Although displaying a weak team up to date, the Newberry team has shown improvement. This is a game in which anything can happen and is filled with rivalry from start to finish.

The following night, the Blue Hose are on the home court once again. Providing the opposition this time will be a strong Mercer Bears team from Macon, Ga. This team is expected to be one of the toughest faced by the Hosemen this season. Always a powerhouse in the Peach State, Mercer is feared by all opponents and has boasted a fine record for the past few years.

Tar Heel Teams Hand Two Defeats to Socks

Two strong North Carolina teams handed PC its second and third defeat of the season in a Tar Heel jaunt last Thursday and Friday.

With Forward Don Harris leading the way, the East Carolina Pirates defeated the Presbyterian Blue Hose 81-70 to remain undefeated for the season in six games at Greenville, N. C., January 6.

Gaining the lead after six minutes, the Pirates stayed ahead all the way, leading at the half 39-28. Although Ron Ragan matched Don Harris with 27 points to tie for individual scoring honors, the Blue Hose could not match the scoring of the Pirates.

With a terrific last half scoring spree, the point-happy Atlantic Christian quintet defeated the Presbyterian Blue Hose 102-89 to capture its 14th straight home game at Wilson, N. C., January 7.

Although in a losing cause, forward Ron Ragan was high man in the total point column with 35. John Marley was high scorer for Atlantic Christian with 28 points.

Forward Ralph Moore led the Erskine attack with 26 points. Bruce Thompson was second to Ragan in scoring with 23 points for PC.

'54 Best in 8 Years

Twenty-two Receive Varsity Grid Letters

Twenty-one PC gridmen and a team manager have been awarded letters recently for their work in making the 1954 season the Blue Hose's best in eight years.

Dr. Walter A. Johnson, athletic director, announced approval of the list of monogram winners recommended by Head Coach Bill Crutchfield.

Of the 21 gridiron stars, eight are seniors; two are juniors; five sophomores; and six freshman. The team manager who received the letter is also a senior.

The list of PC's Blue Hose grid lettermen for the 1954 season is as follows:

Seniors—Halfback George Blue of Union; Quarterback Harry Hamilton of Seneca; Ends Joe Counts of Brunswick, Ga., and Charles Twitty of Charlotte; Tackle Robert Harrington of Mont Claire; Guards Luther Shesaly of Pacolet and Walter Yates of Norfolk, Va.; and Center Frank Boulware of Rock Hill. Manager, Spencer Johnson, Statesville, N. C.

Juniors—Fullback Gene Carter of Concord, N. C.; and End Bobby Jackson of Charlotte.

Sophomores—Fullback Eddie Brockenbrough of Charlotte; Halfback Gene Butler of Conway; Quarterback Felder Cook of North Charleston; Tackle Lee Frierson of Arcadia, Fla.; and Guard Tommy Warren of Allendale.

Furman, H-P Fall In Pre-Holiday Games

Two wins over Furman and High Point brought the pre-holiday season to a close on December 16. Eddie Weil and Bruce Thompson led the scoring in these matches.

Coming from behind to knock out a Furman 20 point lead, the Presbyterian Blue Hose turned on a savage attack in the last half with Eddie Weil leading the way, to defeat Furman's Paladins 83-82 in Leroy Springs Gym December 11.

With Furman leading by a score of 55-37 as the second half began, the Paladins boosted their margin by a 59-39 count after a minute's play. At this point the Blue Hose caught fire and began the assault. In the last 19 minutes of play Weil scored 20 of his 25 points.

By this great effort Weil surged ahead of Furman's Bob Thomas to become individual high scorer of the night. Weil scored nine goals and seven free throws to Thomas' ten goals and four free throws for this honor.

With Guard Eddie Weil hitting the net from the outside and Center Bruce Thompson ringing the hooper with his hooks, the Presbyterian Blue Hose dumped the High Point quintet 110-84 Thursday night, December 16, at LeRoy Springs Gym for their sixth win against one defeat. Together Weil and Thompson accounted for 71 points of the Blue Hose 110 as Weil led the individual scoring column with 38 points. Crockett, High Point center was the big gun offensively for High Point as he tipped 16 points through the net.

Because of the close guarding of Bill Huegele, Ragan fouled out early in the second half and only scored 17 points for the night.

Netters Continue Pre-Season Training

Winter preparation continues with the Blue Hose championship tennis team in preparation for the big spring season ahead.

In a pre-holiday match with Ft. Benning, the Stockings downed the Army men, 9-4. In the singles matches, Morris, Brownlow, Jackson, Geel, Sumner, and Watson. Doubles winners were Brownlow and Potter, Jackson and Berry, and Gee and Watson.

In a pre-season report Coach Jim Leighton stated that this year's team will be far ahead of last year's. He said, "Harvey Jackson, ineligible last year because he was a transfer student, should boost the team considerably. Guice Potter, a freshman, is sure bet for the first six and one of the most likely prospects we have had at the college, and we will unquestionably gain strength from our other new members. We are particularly happy to be able to announce that we have lined up some important matches to be played on the PC campus, including Cornell, Harvard, Rollins, Miami and others.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

HOSEMEN LEAD IN STATE PLAY

The Battlin' Blue Hose boasted their record even higher with their 88-75 win over Erskine College Wednesday night. Currently leading the state in basketball, the Blue Hose have an unblemished record in state play with four S. C. wins and no Palmetto losses. The Stockings have emerged victorious over Clemson, Furman, and have registered two wins over the Flying Fleet of Erskine.

These wins were especially impressive since all three of these teams rank high in South Carolina and are tilts filled with rivalry from start to finish.

Last year the Hosemen dropped two games to Erskine and Furman and split with the Clemson Tigers. The revenge-seeking Blue Hose have certainly won the "big ones" and revenge has never been sweeter.

Holding an 8-3 record in all games played, the Hosemen are looking for even better things to come.

RAGAN, WEIL, AND THOMPSON HIT FOR HOSE

With the basketball season nearing the midpoint, three of the Blue quintet are still leading the scoring. These players are forward Ron Ragan, guard Eddie Weil, and center Bruce Thompson. Ragan is setting the pace with a hot 27 average. He is followed by Weil, hitting for a 19 average per game; and Thompson with 17. With many games yet to be played, these men still have time to better their marks and finish the season with even better averages.

OUT-OF-STATE TEAMS STRONG

Judging from games played thus far, the Blue Hosemen have found strongest opposition in out-of-state teams. The only losses suffered by the Hosemen have come at the hands of North Carolina teams. The first loss was a 100-94 game to High Point College. The cagers bettered this score by downing the High Pointers in a pre-holiday thriller. However, they fell victim to the expert games of Eastern Carolina and Atlantic Christian in a Tar Heel jaunt which brought the loss record up to three.

Blues Make Top Showing In Two Exhibition Rounds

The Stocking quintet basketeers won two easy exhibition games on January 3-4 from Piedmont and Greer-Victor.

Greer-Victor Falls To PC

In Greer, January 3, Presbyterian College bested Greer-Victor, 102-95 in an exhibition game, led by Ron Ragan's 29 points the excellent clutch play of the Blue Hose squad.

With less than two minutes of play, the score was tied and PC began cracking with the pressure to pull away to their final seven-point spread in a flurry of snow-birds and jump shots.

Greer-Victor's Hall Huey fired 26 points to pace the home-standing Rockets and Wayne Godfrey contributed 24.

Hosemen Trip Rangers 110-94

Presbyterian College's Blue Hose whipped the Piedmont Rangers, 110-94, in Piedmont, Jan. 4 in an exhibition basketball encounter.

Ron Ragan was PC's big gun, hitting for 26, Bruce Thompson also scored 20 for the Hosemen.

Piedmont's Truman Hill was the night's big star, threading the hoop to the tune of 38 points. Ernie Chambers and Paul Nye hit 17 each for the Rangers.

Presbyterian (110)—Ragan 26, Aiken 2, Burgess 6, Stone 10, Thompson 20, Lipp 17, Toole 1, Gosnell 14, Weil 6, Sloan 8.

Halftime score: Presbyterian 51, Piedmont 47.

RAGAN

Thompson Leads In Monaghan Thriller

Firing a two-point jump-shot from inside the foul circle with only seconds remaining in the game, PC's captain Bill Toole broke up a 102-all deadlock and gave his Blue Hose mates a 104-102 decision over Monaghan, December 31, at Monaghan.

BRUCE THOMPSON

Monaghan's Ken Pittman led the individual statistics with 33 points. Bruce Thompson was high scorer for the Blue Hose.

Presbyterian (104) Ragan 25, Stone, B. Thompson 27, Aiken, Lipp 9, Burgess 16, Toole 16, Gosnell 7, Sloan 4.

Monaghan (102) Pittman 33, Pigg 15, Crain, Gordon 22, Kirkpatrick 2, Brown 4, Newton 11, Jones, Moody, Fowler 11.

Neung Kwon Suh Begins College Work Here Soon

By DRAYTON COOPER

The arrival this week of Neung Kwon Suh has given the Presbyterian College campus an international flavor. Suh is a native of Seoul, Korea, and will be enrolled as a freshman in the spring term.

The personable young Korean comes here from Kyung Bock High School in Seoul where he graduated last spring. During his high school years, Suh specialized in the study of economics, the course in which he plans to major while here at PC.

Speaking of his future plans, the new student stated that he wants to go on to graduate school, perhaps Columbia University, and continue his study of economics.

Suh studied English six years before he came to America; it is taught in both the middle and high schools in Korea.

The Young Korean is very enthusiastic about Clinton and Presbyterian College. He says that both are well suited to his likes. He feels that he can study better in a small community than in a large university atmosphere.

Suh is a member of the Presbyterian Church and a strong Christian. All of his family are Presbyterians also, his uncle being pastor of several Korean churches.

NEUNG KWON SUH

He became interested in Presbyterian College through an American missionary in Korea who is an alumnus of this school.

Although American customs are very much different from those in his native land, Suh likes

Hal McIntyre's Orchestra Plays On Annual Military Ball Week End

• IFC to Hold Saturday Dance

The nationally popular dance band of Hal McIntyre will be featured at PC's annual Military Ball, which will be held Friday night, March 4, from 9:00 P. M. til 1:00 A. M. at the Clinton Armory.

McIntyre, an ex-Glenn Miller protege, will bring one of the country's most popular college dance bands to PC for the top dance of the year. Besides engagements in top night spots of New York, Chicago and Hollywood, McIntyre's band is currently recording for M-G-M records and has appeared in several Columbia musicals.

Beautiful Jeanne McManus is the featured vocalist with the McIntyre band.

The brilliant sax solos of McIntyre, subdued reed voicing, and bright clipped brasses are combined into a 14 piece band with a style all its own. It is ranked with the greatest college favorites of all time.

The activities of the week end will begin at 4:00 p.m. Friday afternoon with a formal battalion parade and review on Johnson Field.

The Scabbard and Blade, which is sponsoring the Military Ball, will have a banquet at Roddy's for members and dates. The dance will begin at 9:00 p.m. and will be highlighted by a saber arch and a reviewing line.

Saturday night, the Inter-Fraternity Council will sponsor an informal dance from 8:00 p.m. until 12:00 p.m. at the Clinton Armory.

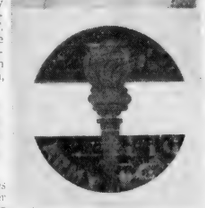
Blue Sock Elections Set for February 11

Elections for editor and business manager of the Blue Stocking will be held Friday, February 11, according to a statement by student body president George Blue. The polls will be open in the rotunda of Neville Hall from 9:00 a.m. until 2:00 p.m.

Nominations will be made by the present staff at a staff meeting at 1:30 p.m. on February 7. Those men nominated by the staff will be voted on by the entire student body as outlined in the student body constitution, Article VII, Section 3, A.



Blue stated that petitions for nominations of persons other than those nominated by the staff may be submitted bearing a minimum of fifty names for the candidate petitioned.

The candidates for the offices of editor and business manager may be either from the rising junior or senior class. The qualifications for these positions are that the persons nominated have an average of at least "C" with not more than one "E" for the preceding semester and a clear conduct record.

The Blue Stocking elections are held the second week of the second semester according to the student constitution regulation as outlined in Article VII, Section 3.

As a courtesy to the senior class, freshmen, sophomores and juniors are asked to allow senior registration to be completed as early as possible. Seniors are asked to register promptly at 9:00 A. M. if they wish to finish early.

All seniors who expect to graduate in June should check with the Registrar at their earliest convenience to determine their degree requirements and to outline their next semester's program.

Miss Jeanne McManus, vocalist, and Hal McIntyre, orchestra leader, will set the pace for the annual Military Ball week-end, March 4-5.

Think -- About Others

Consideration for others is a necessity in a college community. Few people would be purposefully discourteous to a fellow student, but a great number are perhaps unconsciously inconsiderate.

Examination time is a hectic week for most college students. If a man has failed to study during the semester, it is particularly hard for him to "cram" for the final. Yet even the consistent student expends a more than normal effort in studying.

Unlike some schools, Presbyterian College does not have a quiet period which is enforced. The college depends upon the integrity of the individuals to know when to study and upon their consideration for those who are studying even if they themselves are not engaged in the task.

Even slight noises can distract a person who is tryng to concentrate. Needless to say, "ole fashioned hoedowns" and loud radios, horn solos and ensembles have no place during exam week. It is well to remember that your lack of thought can cause some student who has poor study habits or who is easily distracted to make a lower grade.

Well-meaning Carusos, radio lovers, and future Eddie Arnolds can enjoy themselves and their entertainment in some secluded spot, but let the man who wants to study do so!

We should keep in mind that dormitory walls (and floors) are not sound-proof. It is not a matter of "Well, I paid my money and I can do anything I want in my room." It is a matter of simple courtesy and consideration. If every student will think before he does something which may distract a fellow student's studying, it will help the situation considerably. Just a little forethought can prevent harsh words and hard feelings and is guaranteed not to lower grades.

Sock Elections Coming

Within a few weeks the old Blue Stocking staff will be out of the way and a new, fresh group will take over one of the most fascinating, even though it is one of the most demanding, works on the campus. It is up to the student body to select men to head their paper who will be willing to put time and effort—and a lot of it—into producing a weekly publication.

The power of the press is often underestimated, but as many agree is one of the most forceful organs of organized living. We have all seen examples of poor management and good management, poor writing and good writing. Therefore, it is imperative that the student body select an editor and business manager who can and will do their jobs. This is no time to think of club or fraternity loyalties, but of the final good for the school. Petty jealousies have no place when the good of the Presbyterian College student body is in the balance.

Think when you vote on February 11 and elect the men who are best qualified—not because they are your roommates or fraternity brothers—but because they have what it takes to do a superior job in giving you a newspaper of which you can be justly proud.

Dum Vivimus Servimus

College Seal Dates to 1915, Designed by Tommy Pryse

The burning torch, upholding a scroll with the Latin motto, "Dum Vivimus Servimus" inscribed on it came into being back in 1915 as the Presbyterian College seal. Col. Thomas Pryse, of Beattyville, Ky., originated the trade-mark of the class of 1915.

Later College administrators felt the need of a distinctive seal for the institution. It was only a logical outcome that the seal of the class of 1915 was adopted.

Its originator was the editor of the '15 yearbook, and historians have assumed that the figure was designed as a feature of the college annual.

Col. Pryse, in addition to being the PaC SaC editor, was the manager of the first PC football team coached by veteran Walter A. Johnson.

In those days, the school was encumbered with the name "Presbyterian College of South Carolina", and the seal bore the inscription "of S. C.". But, when the Presbyterian Synod of Georgia joined with the Synod of South Carolina in helping support Presbyterian College, the cumbersome "of South Carolina" was dropped and the figure assumed the shape and inscription it now bears.

Exams Halt Sock

There will be no Blue Stocking next week because of final examinations. The next issue will come out on February 11. That issue will be the final issue for the present paper staff. The new staff will begin publication on February 18.

Only Joking . . .

"Darling, I have missed you!"
Her voice was full of pain.
So she lifted the revolver
And fired at him again.

Senior: You oughta take chloroform.

Sophomore: Yeah, who teaches it?

Teacher: What do you call a boy who drives a car?

Student: Well, that depends on how close he comes to hitting me.

I wrote to her every day for two years and what do you think was the result? She married the postman.

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

The brothers and pledges of Alpha Sigma Phi enjoyed a stag supper at Blazer's last Friday night.

Extensive plans have been made for the smoker to be held on February 11. The chapter has secured new draperies for the fraternity rooms.

KAPPA ALPHA

Brother Keith Baker of York was elevated to Beta Pi's Number Two position this week during the brothers' meeting held on Wednesday evening. Baker succeeds Brother Jim Lever, also of York, who is scheduled to graduate at the termination of the fall semester. The meeting was postponed from Tuesday until Wednesday in order that it might fall on the date of the Convivium—the celebration of the birth of Robert E. Lee—which was held before the brothers' meeting began.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

At the last meeting brother Doug Arnette presented his fraternity pin as a memorial to be given to the best pledge of the coming semester. Also plans were made for a stag supper immediately after school resumes for the second semester.

"Roll em!"

I heard the noise as I came in the front door. When I got to the room I was afraid to go in.

I tried the door but it was locked. I knocked, though, and the sliding panel quickly opened and two beady eyes stared out at me. The door finally opened and I saw that the beady eyes belonged to the third floor terror, "Sarge Tsacrios". Sarge was standing on a Florida grapefruit case and was adorned in his lovely fatigue cap. Sack, as he is so affectionately called by his "roomies", growled, but let me pass as he casually shuffled a deck of cards.

I wiggled through the printing presses and got to True Blue, standing on the other side of the room. The little garnet ghost was shouting orders left and right.

"What's up?" I yelled above the noise.

"Exams coming up and I'm publishing all the skin notes in here."

"Where did you get the equipment?"

"Jack, I had it hauled in to start running off copies of my book, but the exam schedule came out so I had to convert the presses to run 24 hours a day—strictly on "student aids."

"It's all nice, True, but what's it gonna get you?"

"Money, son, money. I'm pulling out in a few weeks, Jack, so I need travel money."

"Didn't know you ever bought a ticket."

"Oh, this isn't for tickets. It's for my club car expenses."

"Then that's okay. By the way aren't you worried about faculty interruption."

"Oh no! I have the place well disguised."

"How about showing me around?"

We passed through the crowd into the next room. The retail store was located in the rear window where the screen had been knocked out. In the Bible section, I saw leading the major prophets line, "Busy Boogie" Brice, as usual, too busy to study. All the Bible courses scrolls were neatly tacked to the inside of a Revised Standard Version, and sold for a mere $3.53, tax included.

Some of the more wealthy students could afford to buy the exams themselves, of which True had a limited supply.

We passed through the section of the room that was printing irregular Spanish verbs on cigarette paper. True warned the students that it was useless under John Sobey but there was a great demand nevertheless.

The red buzzer warned the approach of a student council member. The presses immediately shut down and True sipped a cool Canada Dry until the green light came on again.

A group of slight-of-hand artists wire working over in one corner trying to figure out a way to buck "clever Clarence" Thayer, "the man with the month long tests." They weren't worried with the problem of passing; tehy just wanted to get through.

"True, I've got to move on old boy."

"Going up town, Jack?"

"Might, why?"

"I'll go up with you. I want to check the train schedules."

"Why, True? You're not going anywhere."

"Got to be going pretty soon, Jack; I've just about worn out my welcome. Let's go so I can come back and keep check on these presses."

I could see that TB had a well-knit organization. It was all nice and he expected a nice profit, but I knew he wouldn't succeed. Who would buy from him? After all, PC's got an honor system . . . lest we forget.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

WOFFORD TUSSLE COULD BE TOUGH:

The Blue Sox will face a much stronger team in height than in previous years (with the exception of "Daddy" Neal, of course). The Terriers have controlled the backboards to an average of 70.6 per cent in their last five games. These rebound artsits have been cleaning the backboard quite effectively. The Terriers rely for their strength on 6' 3" Donnie Fowler, 6' 5" Craig Templeton, 6' 4" Jack League, and 6'6" Paul Reinarty.

Wofford scorers have been led by Fowler with 201 points. He is closely followed by Templeton who has netted 112 points.

Judging from these statistics, the Blue Hose can't afford to miss on next Saturday night. In the past games, the Hosemen have had high pecentage in field goal attempts. The Terriers could possibly need more than rebounding to worry the Sox when the Methodists meet the Presbyterians.

HOSEMEN STATE CHAMPS:

Hopes are riding high with students and PC fans as the basketball season progresses. The Blue Hose have an impressive 12-3 record with no state losses. They still face obstacles before reaching the heights, but Coach Sloan's squad has picked up strength as games have been knocked from this year's schedule. The coach and team are certainly to be congratulated on the fine job they are doing.

BIG YEAR FOR TENNIS AT PC:

Tennis is a sport which brings much recognition to PC year in and year out. Even bigger things are in store for the PC netters and fans this season. Included in this "big year" are home matches with the great teams from Harvard and Yale. Other strong tennis opponents will be Miami, Rollins and North Carolina.

Led by Al Morris, Davis Cup player, the tennis team should gain another state championship in '55.

Tennis is not a "spring sport" at PC. Although the matches are played during this season, the coldest days will find the teams out on the courts. The members make the rounds in the summer tournaments. This determination and love for the sport is one of the leading factors in making the PC tennis team great.

Ironman Stamps Aided In Powerful Hose Plays

By LAWRENCE YOUNG

Jimmie Stamps, former four-star athlete at PC, is the eleventh nominee in the parade of former great PC athletes.

Considered to be the best forward passer in the state and one of the most graceful players ever to don pads, Jimmy quarterbacked Coach Johnson's 1926 team to a 7-2 won-lost record and second place in the state and also second place in the SIAA.

The great passing arm of Jimmie Stamps won many a ball game for the Blue Hose. His favorite target was Charley Wilson. He not only had an educated arm, but an educated toe as well. At Furman he dropkicked a 45-yard field goal to help the Blue Hose to victory.

Jimmie lived in the age of all-around athletes. He not only played football, but pitched and played right field on the baseball team, ran track, and played forward on the basketball court.

Jimmie was also a member of the famous Iron Men, as they defeated three football teams in seven days. On Saturday they defeated Wofford. The following Thursday the Citadel fell before the powerful Blue Hose. On Saturday the unpredictable was performed. This was a victory for PC over Oglethorpe.

In extracurricular activities, Jimmie was as active as in sports. He was president of his freshman class; secretary-treasurer of the student body in 1926 and 1927; a member of the student council in 1924, 1925, 1926 and 1927; presdient of the Georgia Club in 1925 and 1926; and vice-president of the Pan-Hellenic Council in 1926 and 1927.

Theta Chi, PiKA, Sigma Nu, Profs. KA, Cats Take Hoop Wins

Sigma Nu, Spencer Cats, Kappa Alpha, Theta Chi, Faculty, and Pi Kappa Alpha teams emerged victoriously in intramural basketball games played this week.

Leading the slate was the first game on Monday when Sigma Nu downed the Faculty 58-50. Top scorer for the winners was Bill Taylor with 16 points. For the Faculty Norman Sloan pumped in 24 to lead the losers.

The second Monday game was close all the way with the Spencer Cats finally winning by a 36-33 margin. Bob Hill with 12 and Robert Young with 10 led the way for the Cats. For the Gym team, J. C. Fowler had 8.

Tuesday found Kappa Alpha defeating the Fulton Five 73-53 with John Fesperman dropping 25. For the Fulton Five it was captain Billy Fulton leading with 21.

Theta Chi outscored Caldair 50-32 to remain undefeated in Tuesday's second game. Dick Loveland had a total of 17 points. Wilson Livingston led for the losers with 9.

On Wednesday Sigma Nu ran up the highest one-game total by trouncing Alpha Sigma Phi 112-51. Jim Regehr was tops for Sigma Nu with 28; and Tommy Turner led the losers with 18.

The second clash saw the Faculty led by sharp-shooting Ed Shembechler and Norman Sloan crush Pi Kappa Phi 76-28. Earl Alford led the losers with 15, while Shembechler was high scorerer for the winners with 28.

The Spencer Cats kept up their winning ways by beating the Ministerial Club 59-47 also on Wednesday. Robert Young hit 19 for the Cats, with Don Daniels leading the Ministers with 20.

Pi Kappa Alpha, led by Tap Tobias with 13 points, outscored Alpha Sigma Chi, 63-29, Thursday. Turner again led the losing team.

Sigma Nu remained undefeated by stopping the Non-frats, 74-38, with Regehr leading the way with 20 in Thursday's game. Top loser was Bill Royal with 9.

PC Trounces Braves In Little Four Game

Presbyterian's Blue Hose walloped Newberry 88-53 in a Little Four game in Newberry that saw the visitors jump to a 27-point lead at the half.

Four Presbyterian players hit in double figures in rolling to the triumph. The Hose never were threatened after taking a 10-point lead in the opening minutes.

Ron Ragan led PC scorers with 25 points. Ted Spotts was tops for Newberry with 19 points.

Citadel Falls Prey To Superior PC Team

With forward Ron Ragan hitting the net for 23 points in the first half and 15 points in the last half, the Presbyterian Blue Hose coasted to a 93-72 basketball victroy over their arch-rivals, the Citadel Bulldogs, at Charleston last Friday night.

Because of greater height than the Cadets, the Blue Hose controlled the backboards. Forward Jerry Gayewski was high scorer for the Citadel with 12 points while Ragan led the Blue Hose with 38 points.

Bears Visit PC Tonight, Wofford Plays Here Next

Georgians Brings Strong Bucket Team

The Blue Hose of PC meet the Mercer University Bears tonight on the home court. The Georgia team packs a power-house and is expected to prove tough opposition for the Hosemen.

The first of two all-important basketball games with the Terriers of Wofford College will be played here in Leroy Springs Gymnasium on next Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Wofford has a scrappy team which was greatly aided this season with the addition of three men, each averaging six feet four inches or better. The Terriers have improved tremendously since the beginning of the season. Among their wins, some of the more impressive have been over High Point, N. C., The Citadel, and Rollins.

In each of these games, Wofford has shown that the Blue Sox could have trouble on their hands when the two teams clash on Saturday. This is always a contest in spite of statistics or past records. Anything can and does happen. For instance, last year the Blue Hose had taken both games from Woford in regular play, but were nosed out by the Terriers in the Little Four Tournament in Spartanburg.

Ragan Fires Top In Charleston Tilt

Led by forward Ron Ragan, the Indiana-studded Blue Hose swept the College of Charleston Maroons off the court with a 111-62 victory last Saturday night at Charleston. The boys from the Hoosier State scored 92 of PC's 111 points.

Ron Ragan and Eddie Weil scored 30 and 22 points respectively to lead the Blue Hose to victory. Roempke, pivot man for the Maroons, was high scorer for the College of Charleston with 19 points.

Morris Now Ranked No. 18 in Entire U. S.

During the Christmas holidays, PC's Allen Morris, winner of the annual player of the year sportsman award, was ranked No. 18 by the USLA. The climaxed a brillant and colorful college tennis career by Morris at PC. As number one player on PC's State Champion Tennis teams for two years, Allen has only lost three matches in college competition. In addition to these honors, he has won the South Carolina Intercollegiate championship twice.

Last year at this time he was ranked 27th nationally. By his outstanding play during the past season and the summer, he jumped nine places in national prominance. Currently he is ranked No. 2 in the South Behind Ham Richardson of Tulane.

Current PC Fashions Stress Ivy League Look

By JOHN KNOX, Fashion Editor

The style of today's fashions is centered around "the look." Dashing in from the East, the new style has infatuated every college student at Presbyterian. Designed to make the student feel out of place, everyone capable of the price has found himself pondering over the "look" at his favorite clothing establishment.

Each generation is blessed with its different outlook on the styles of the day. The college student finds himself dressed in the "look" that supports a few memed with a look into the future. ories of the past, and also is tim-

Nothing pleases a student of styles more than to out-dress his cohort at a social or other such function. Some experiment with outlandish contrasts, while others prefer the mollified outlook, but each has his Ivy League background. The latest tweed topcoats are purchased in order that one might find himself far above the prosaic styles.

At Presbyterian the apex of unique dress lies in the Triboard Yacht Club. Headed by the king of modern day attire, W. Anson Hamilton, the styles are set up through him, and students have tracked his styles to the letter. If Mr. Hamilton possesses a charcoal suit and red stripe tie, every student's wardrobe must inhabit such an eloquence. If Mr. Hamilton expresses the need for more foulards in Clinton, his desires are quickly quenched.

The runner-up in style at PC this year is Hamilton's companion, J. Paul Newsome. In taking careful note of such a radical soul, one finds Mr. Newsome extremely sagacious in his assortment of wearing apparel.

Traveling with the two erratic gentlemen make a person feel very conspicuous. Replacing the Levis and T-shirts that are customary for a short journey, they come dressed in tweed sport coats which are overshadowed by their gold monogram flasks which tend to occupy most of their time.

Trying to make an entrance into modern wearing apparel is cool Dr. John W. Stevenson. Supporting a hand-made weskit, he has "the look" in mind and could give his fellow stylist, Mr. Lloyd M. Davis, a run for his money.

Mr. R. F. Ropp has blossomed into the fad with his casual flannel pants and tweed coat and has been classified as having "the academic look" by Mr. Hamilton. Special attention should be given to Mr. Jim A. Tisdale, according to Hamilton, for he is very unique with his camel's hair sport coat.

Jack B. Edmunds must be recognized for his always, "I've got a date" look. With the ownership of such a common apparel as Levis, Jack deserves the title of "Best Dressed."

Pork-pie hats cover every leaguer's baldness this year and are the distinguishing feature of "the look." While cordovan is the formal shoe style, a hand-woven loafer gives comfort for the Ivy Leaguer at informal gatherings.

The Ivy League look has its foundation at Presbyterian and will continue its growth, but when it's time for "the look" to be replaced by a new style, Presbyterian will be ready with the rest.

Early March Date Set For Dorm Ground Break

• Asheville Architectural Firm Employed

President Marshall W. Brown has announced that he expects ground to be broken on the project of the new men's dormitory for Presbyterian College some time during the first week in March. The architects have agreed to have the building ready to use at the start of the first semester next fall.

Detailed specifications will be given to contractors around the middle of this month, Dr. Brown said, and the contractors' bids should be returned by the latter part of the month.

The architect for the new dormitory, estimated to cost approximately $200,000, is the firm Six Associates, Inc., of Asheville, N. C.

The new dormitory will have housing facilities for about 100 students. Present plans are to build the dormitory directly opposite the Jacobs Science Hall and next to the SCA Building.

Approximately one-half of the cost of the dormitory has been obtained from the controlling synods of Georgia and South Carolina, and numerous other organizations have pledged their support once the work gets underway, according to President Brown.

Dr. Brown has also pointed out that when the new dormitory is completed, PC will have adequate rooming space for the first time since World War II.

Dr. Bellingrath Teaches Greenwood Classes Now

Dr. George C. Bellingrath, PC's academic dean, is currently conducting several adults discussion classes on present-day problems at Greenwood Community School. These discussion classes consist of questions on current adult and teen-age problems and discussion by Dean Bellingrath and members of the class.

The Community School, which is under the auspices of Lander College and the State Department of Education, was established by the Greenwood Parent-Teacher Association in 1947. A wide range of courses is offered in the annual school varying from sociology or English literature to floral arrangement or household finance.

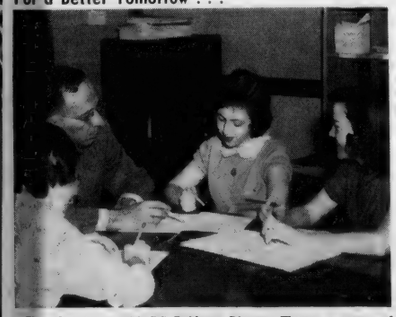
'Keeping Posted' Is New Publication



The Public Relations department of Presbyterian College has unveiled its newest publication, "Keeping Posted on Presbyterian College." The four-page brochure-style periodical is sent regularly to persons interested in the development of PC and other independent church - related schools.

"Keeping Posted" is prepared monthly under the direction of Ben Hay Hammet, head of the public relations department. One of the features of the bulletin is an article introducing the various faculty members to the public. The brochure also carries brief news articles about events here at the college.

The circulation of this bulletin is not limited to alumni and Presbyterians, but is sent to all persons interested in colleges such as Presbyterian.

Hammet stated that anyone who wishes to be added to the mailing list of the magazine, or to comment on any of its articles should address their letters to the Department of Public Relations and Alumni Affairs.

PC Guidance Center Completes First Semester Service to Youth

The Guidance Center of the Synod of South Carolina, located in the PC Administration Building, completed its first semester of service to the young people of South Carolina this month. The center, which was opened in September, 1954, has helped over 300 high school and college students and numerous adults with various vocational and personal problems.

High school juniros and seniors who need help in planning their life work or in selecting college courses, college students whose vocational goals are indefinite, and adults who are changing jobs have been helped by results of various tests which the center conducts.

Various aptitude tests including business, education, clerical work, medicine, and engineering, and tests on personality traits, vocational preferences, and intelligence quotients are offered. The tests are free of charge to the people of the synods of Georgia and South Carolina as a service of the Presbyterian Church. (U. S.)

The Guidance Center is one of a number of such centers established in recent years within the bounds of the Southern Presbyterian Church. The program had its beginning in presbyterial and synodical committees about five years ago, and it was actively planned three years ago.

Eight centers are currently operating in seven Southern states, and four others will soon be completed. They will be located at colleges of Christian education, and they have arisen because of the conviction that choice of a vocation is of deep religious siginifcance.

It is the purpose of the denomination to give its young people the full advantage of tests and information in the field together with personal assistance of a trained Christian counselor. All the directors of the Guidance Centers are Christian psychologists who are qualified in the field of vocational testing and counseling. A master's degree and two years of experience are required.

The director of the center at PC, Dr. Clarence R. Thayer, came from Arkansas with 25 years of experience in the ministry and in teaching. His staff consists of a personal secretary, Mrs. Richard Griffith, and an assistant, his wife.

The Guidance Center is open from 8:30 A. M. until 5:00 P. M., six days per week. Students are urged to visit it and take advantage if its resources upon appointment.

"Somewhat Loudly Sweep the String"

Traditional among newspapers is the custom of the editorial "swan song" in the last issue under their management. So as the time has come for us to bow out and give over to a fresh and enthusiastic new group, we conform and give our conventional valediction.

We can think of no honor which has been a greater challenge to us than that of publishing The Blue Stocking for a year. We deeply appreciate the faith which you have shown in us and the cooperation which you have given. When we took over last February, we were inexperienced in the work of college journalism and only through the help of the student body, the faculty and administration and all those who have in any way contributed to our well-being have we been able to publish these issues.

We sincerely believe that the newspaper is one of the integral parts of a college community and has a dynamic influence upon its inhabitants. As a record of happenings at the college, The Blue Stocking reflects the life at Presbyterian College.

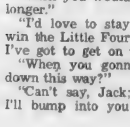
We would be unfaithful to one of the basic tenets of the code of journalism—truthfulness—if we said that putting out a newspaper is not work. It is work and plenty of it. It means late hours, weak eyes, and at times frayed nerves. Yet all of this seems to vanish when the first issue rolls off the press each week.

We realize that the scope of our work has been limited and imperfect. There have been countless phases of the newspaper which many of our readers could have improved upon. We appreciate your criticism when it was intended for our improvement. Nothing has been more helpful to us than constructive criticism.

We feel that the year in which we have been privileged to publish this paper has been a momentous one. It has seen a great many improvements for Presbyterian College. It has been a great year in sports with the naming of a Davis Cup tennis star, an All-South Carolina basketball forward, and the best football year in eight seasons.

We have seen marked changes in the physical plant of the college. From the renovation of Laurens dormitory to the approval of plans for a new dormitory and fraternity lodges, the word has been progress. In academic and social life as well as in other phases we have seen Presbyterian go forward.

So as we come to our last issue there is somewhat of a feeling of nostalgia. This year has been full of rich experiences which will not be forgotten. Perhaps this gives us license to digress from the strict rules of journalism and seem somewhat sentimental in this "swan song." Using a cliche which is true regardless of its constant use, there is something about the smell of printer's ink, and the sound of the presses rolling that gets in your blood after a year of work so that this experience is marked indelibly in your life.



A newspaper is a prime example of team work, and it was only through the co-operation and labor of a loyal and diligent staff that we have been able to bring your paper to you. To all who have in any way helped us, we are grateful. We express our genuine appreciation to each member of the staff for their efforts. Particularly are we indebted to Ben Hay Hammet, adviser to the Blue Stocking staff. When a coach is to a team, Hammet has been to the Sock. His expert technical advice and suggestions have been the backbone of this publication this year.

To the man behind the scenes, the one who actually gets the Stocking ready for the press goes our special thanks. He is Mr. Harry Layton, associate editor of The Chronicle. He has given tirelessly of his time and work in preparing this paper weekly.

We extend our hearty congratulations to the new editor and business manager and their staff. We believe they have been wisely chosen and will give to the readers of The Blue Stocking a very commendable paper. We urge them to stick behind them and give them co-operation and encouragement such as you have shown us.

So as we lay the pen down for the last time let us say simply that we appreciate the opportunity and privilege of serving our Alma Mater which has been given to us. It has been a memorable experience from which we have reaped benefits which will be of unestimable value in the future. We have enjoyed the year and hope that in some measure we have helped to uphold the traditions and ideals of Presbyterian College—DUM VIVIMUS SERVIMUS.

TB Bids Adieu

By JACK EDMUNDS

"Toothbrush?"
"Scripto?"
"That just about gets it, Jack."
"Here go."
"Yep"
"The Comet pulls out tonight and I have to be on it."

It hadn't seemed like a year since he walked into my room that night with a cigar in his mouth and roused me out of the sack, telling me how he was going to rejuvenate the campus. Well, it has been a year now, and he's packing up to leave. And there hasn't been much change . . . or has there?

No. Not really. A lot has happened but it's still PC (even if you do have to tear down the "Marilyn Monroe Calendars" now). And even as True Blue packs his suitcase to pull out on the train, I know down inside that True Blue can never leave PC.

He may pack up; lock, stock, and barrel, and move on out, but the spirit will never leave; for it has never left. The spirit has been here since 1880, and just because he came back for a year in person is no sign that he wasn't here all the time. Neither is it any sign that he won't always be here.

Folks say the spirit was down this year. Yet where are we? Smack dab in the middle of the most successful atheletic season in years. In time to come, folks will say one football season that the old Blue Hose aren't what they used to be. And you know what will happen? Sure as snuff the Hosemen will come through over Clemson in a "startling upset victory", or some other feat to make folks eat their words. Yep, there will always be True Blue spirit as long as there is a Presbyterian College.

"Sure you got everything, True?"

"Just about."

"Wish you would stay a while longer."

"I'd love to stay and see PC win the Little Four Tourney, but I've got to get on up country."

"When you gonna get back down this way?"

"Can't say, Jack; pretty soon. I'll bump into you somewhere."

"Hope so!"

"Tell me something, Jack."

"Okay."

"You don't reckon I've hurt anyone's feelings this past year, do you?"

"I hope not, True."

"The profs and administration?"

"I guess I'll know when I find out whether or not I graduate."

"I tell you Jack. I didn't mean to hurt anyone's feelings and I didn't mean to say anything to make people mad. And if I had it all to do over again. I'd write the same thing and even more if I could think of it."

"I'm with you, True."

"It was all for a laugh, Jack, and I hope a few people got some laughs out of it. It was corny; maybe even a little shady (perish the thought), but I figure it's all in the way people took it when they read it. And if anybody's mad about it, you know what I say?"

"What do you say?"

"I say the devil with them."

I watched him as he threw his last change of clean underwear in his little bag . . . as he slowly zipped the bag tight . . . as he opened the desk drawer, pulled out his old cigar stub, stuck it in his mouth and lit it . . . as he tossed his battered old derby on his head.

We walked out of the room and out of the dorm, down past B section, C section, and over toward the tennis courts. He took one last look at Morris' backhand.

"Better go, Jack, before I get thrown out. I've done enough damage for one year. So long, kid."

"See ya. True."

He walked by the canteen and on down the plaza, the smoke from his cigar curling upward. He stopped by the Presbyterian College sign for a minute, then walked off toward town.

"There goes True Blue", I said aloud.

And as I turned to walk back to the room, a voice yelled from a window somewhere in Spencer, "GOT A RIDE TO WOFFORD SATURDAY???"

And I knew that True Blue had not really gone.

This Week Pays Tribute To Nation's Emancipator

By SAM WORKMAN

If you have had time just to browse around in the library any time this week, the various authentic Confederate items found in the reading room might have furnished suggestions for your remembering some of the things you have learned of this period in history. The Civil War period brings to mind many places, incidents and people.

At this time of the year, however, the copy of the Charleston Mercury declaring "The Union Dissolved" would probably preferentially suggest that great personality of American history—Abraham Lincoln. Such a thing would be quite appropriate for this is the week set aside as Lincoln Week.

The evolution and development of the many services and ceremonies that go into the make-up of what is now known as Lincoln Week had their origin back in 1866. On Feb. 12, 1866, with the playing of a part of "Il Trovatore" by the Marine Band, the first formal celebration of Lincoln's birthday was held in Washington, D. C.

Following this first ceremony many organizations through the years in several areas of the country held annual memorial ceremonies in honor of Lincoln. However, such organizations were concentrated in the eastern part of the country.

By the time of the hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's birth in 1809, the memory of Lincoln had grown into a cherished and rich heritage for the people of the United States regardless of geographical situation or political adherence.

Lincoln's Secretary of War reported to have said as he looked upon the lifeless face, "He now belongs to the ages." This prediction made back in 1865 has gradually through the years come to be accepted by the world. Lincoln is now upheld by countless numbers as "the great moderate apostle of liberty."

Well, I guess now that exams are over we can shave again, put on some clean clothes, and try to gain back that weight we lost during our "time of trial." I sure am glad to see those things over.

Have you boys heard what Sam Cornwell is going to do? He has talked that girl of his into getting "hitched" this spring. How about that! He might as well, he doesn't spend any time on the campus any more anyway.

Now look here, you boys have got to get on the "stick" and get these dates lined up for the Military Ball. I tell you it is really going to be "on". I heard that even "Maw" Fleming is going to have a date. That means everybody has to have a date now.

Our congratulations to Johnny "Buck" Davis and especially to Mrs. Johnny "Buck". They added a new little buck to the home during exams.

Ron Ragan doesn't have too much trouble making those points on the basketball court but he is having it rough trying to run up a score with Sylvia Keep on, Ron, and maybe you can come through with a free shot before the game is over.

I think Tommy Warren has been reinstated at Winthrop. He said things were a lot better this week-end. He did live rough up there for a little while though.

Somebody finally made him swallow his statement about Winthrop qualifications.

Battlin' Blues

By Dee Parker

HOSE CONTINUE TO SET RECORDS

Still riding high, the Battlin' Blue Hose remain as one of the nation's top scoring basketball teams. These cagers threaten to establish several all-time records in PC athletic annals.

Thus far, the Socks have proved most impressive in their won-lost record. Their record features nine straight triumphs over South Carolina foes without a singe loss. If the Blue Hose continue in this fashion throughout the remaining three games, they might easily have the best record in many seasons and equal the 1951-52 season of 11 victories against 4 losses.

Looking at the team as a scoring unit, the Blues have maintained an average of 90 points per contest. The team has scored a grand total of 1,717 points, which rates among the five top offensive teams in the country and is ten points higher than the present college record.

OVER-ALL RECORD

STATE VICTORIES: Erskine, twice (84-83, 88-75); Clemson, twice (81-75, 92-75); Citadel (93-72); Wofford (96-74); Newberry (88-68); and the College of Charleston (11-62).

OUT OF STATE VICTORIES: Catawba, twice (67-56, 65-37); Atlantic Christian (89-78); High Point (110-81); Rollins (107-81); and Mercer, twice (100-71, 82-80).

RAGAN LEADS IN SCORING

Forward Ron Ragan, sophomore from Indianapolis, Ind., is still leading in total points. He has an average of 29 points per contest with three regular season games remaining and at least two games in tournament play. Ron could continue to boost his average and appears certain to obtain a new individual school record. Outstanding on rebound also, Ragan would be an asset to any basketball team. He is followed in scoring honors by Weil and Thompson.

BACK THE BLUES

The Hosemen have shown high in the basketball sportlight and deserve the support of every student in the remaining three games. The spirit has been great this season and we should all make a special effort to be present at the remaining games with Wofford, Newberry, and Furman. Each of these are important contests, so let's show our interest and spirit by our presence at the games. It's been a long time since we defeated Furman in Textile Hall and Wofford is always trouble on their home court.

Solid Senders . . .

Leading the PC quintet into the final games before the decisive Little Four Tournament are (l. to r.): Sharpshooters Eddie Weil, Ron Ragan and Bruce Thompson.

Hose Play Wofford Tomorrow; Meet Indians and Paladins Soon

• Two Little Four Games Slated

The Battlin' Blue Hose journey over to Spartanburg tomorrow night where the scene will be laid for the last Little Four battle before the tournament on Feb. 25-26. The Terriers of Wofford College will furnish the opposition in this rivalry-filled contest. The Hosemen and Terriers have had one previous encounter in which the Hosemen were victorious 96-74; however, when the Terriers are on the home court anything can and does happen.

Last year the PC'uns had taken two games in regular season play only to fall before the Terriers in the first round of the Little Four Tourney. Since the Blue Hose defeated Wofford, the Terriers have downed Stetson by a twenty point margin. The Hatters are the team which skinned by the Hosemen 81-80 on last Saturday night. This game in Spartanburg should lift the screen to one of the best games of the '54-55 season.

The Socks will return to the Leroy Springs Gymnasium for their last home game on Wednesday night. This encounter will be with the Indians of Newberry College who are currently holding a 0-3 record in Little Four play. The Blue Hose have defeated Newberry on the latter's home floor earlier in the season

Saturday night will find the Blue's racing a strong Paladin quintet at Textile Hall in Greenville. This contest is expected to draw capacity crowd and will wind up the season for the Blue Hose in regular season play. On Dec. 11 PC defeated Furman 83-82 in a thrillre which saw the Blue Hose come from behind to capture a one-point victory. All previous statistics and records point to the fact that a game equal to the first will be seen in Textile Hall next Saturday night when PC tangles with Furman.

Sloanmen Stop Bears By Close 82-80 Score

The time-table jinx struck down the Mercer Bears Wednesday when Presbyterian took a basketball thriller 82-80.

Mercer's Tommy Mixon poured in 27 points.

The Presbyterian leader, Ron Ragan, hit 10 field goals and 15 free tosses to take scoring honors with 35 points.

Hatters Top Quintet By One-Point Margin

Although Ron Ragan hit the hoop for 36 points, a field by Ted Cassidy in the last 15 seconds of play gave Stetson an 81-80 court victory over PC, Saturday night, Feb. 5, at LeRoy Springs Gym.

The Blue Hose led all the way until this fatal shot by Cassidy. At the end of the first half, PC led by a 46-36 count.

High scorer for the night was Ragan with 36 points. Cassidy hooked 26 points to lead Stetson to victory.

Socks Rip Terriers In Little Four Clash

PC's amazing Blue Hose virtually wrapped up the Little Four basketball title by trouncing the Wofford Terriers 96-74 to win its victory here on January 29 and to stay undefeated in state play in eight games.

Although the margin of victory was wide, the final score failed to indicate the fiercely contested nature of the game. During the first half the two teams matched point-for-point until the final two minutes.

The the Blue Hose poured on the steam to lead at halftime 43-33. After the half Wofford was never able to close the gap and at the same time PC opened up to finish victorious with a 22 point margin.

Ron Ragan led the PC scoring with 25 points and was followed closely by Eddie Weil with 23 points. Paul Reinartz and Donnie Fowler led the Wofford attack with 16 points and 15 points respectively.

From Whence Cometh My Help ...

Students pray as whole world kneels before their Maker

Prayer Day to be Observed In Neville Hall Sunday P.M.

O Lord, from whom all good things do come, grant to us, Thy humble servants, that by by Thy holy inspiration we may think those things that are good, and by Thy merciful guiding may perform the same; through our Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

The Universal Day of Prayer for Students will be observed on the PC campus Sunday afternoon at 3:00 P. M. in the Radio Forum Room of Neville Hall. Students from all denominations are invited to attend the meeting which is sponsored by the World's Student Christian Federation.

The World's Student Christian Federation is composed of independent associations and is in the life of local and national Christian organizations in the universities and colleges of the world.

Every year, the WSCF calls not only its members, but all Christians everywhere to join in common intercession for students and Christian work among them in all parts of the world.

The purpose of this day of pray is to express in unison that which lies at the heart of every effort to realize the wholeness of the Church: The worship of God, the one and only Father of all.

Marine Corps Commission Cites Authentic Signature

Among PC's large collection of books, pictures, and manuscripts is an early Marine Corps commission, granted in 1807, and signed by Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States.

The rare and interesting document commisssioned Thomas H. Pinckney as a second lieutenant at Washington, D. C., on July 21, 1807. The Marine Corps was then thirty-two years old. Lieutenant Pinckney is believed to be the son of Thomas Pinckney, who was a Revolutionary soldier, governor of South Carolina, minister to Great Britain, and president of the South Carolina convention which ratified the Constitution in 1776.

Yellowed with the age of nearly one hundred and fifty years, the mounted sheet is framed and hangs on the wall in Lt. Colonel Smith's office.

Although cracks appear on the document, all writing and engraving is clear. The red seal of the Department of the Navy, although somewhat grayed with age, is well preserved.

The commission was designed by the firm of Aiken and Herrison, Jr., and S. Lewis, Sr., engraved it. Both were Philadelphia companies, and did excellent work on the document, which is 13 inches wide and 17 inches high.

It is expected that the commission, officially signed by President Jefferson and dated July 21, 1807, will continue as part of the collection of documents at PC. The Marine Corps headquarters at Washington, D. C., has recently shown considerable interest in it. If the college ever disposes of the document, the Marine Corps has indicated that it would like to place it in the USMC Museum at Quantico, Va.

Key Honors Outgoing Staff

TO THE OUTGOING BLUE STOCKING STAFF:

The Blue Key Fraternity wishes to congratulate Ray Lord and his staff for the outstanding job they have done in the past year. The service that they performed and the reputation they made is one of which the college can be proud.

During this time the publication they turned out has received the Associated Collegiate Press' highest rating, the All-American Honor Certificate.

We, the Blue Key, feel that recognition should be given this hard-working staff of "unsung heroes", as the business manager, managing editor, typists, proofreaders, and others who combined their talents to do this admirable job.

BLUE KEY FRATERNITY

It Is Presumed

"Preamble: It is presumed that any student who matriculates at Presbyterian College is willing to conform to a pattern of gentlemanly behavior, of mutual trust, and honor; that he shall deal honorably with his fellowmen. Specifically not being given to lie, to cheat, or to steal, constitutes the Honor System."

These words are from Article X of the Presbyterian College student body constitution entitled, "The Honor System." The ideal was achieved on the Presbyterian College campus on March 26, 1954, when 78 per cent of the student body affirmed their allegiance to the Honor System in a vote which strengthened and revised the constitution.

The thrill of the ideal has now dimmed, and the actual has stepped in. The Honor System must be supported with even more enthusiasm, lest a tragic weakening trend occur.

The primary purpose of the improvement of the Honor System was not to accept it but rather to embed into our minds an honorable nature which could be instilled in all our actions as Christians. We should welcome it as an essential part of the Christian doctrine.

Fear of losing friendship has become a problem in the past, but it must be remembered that the fear instilled in us today should be supplemented with the desire for an unblemished conscience in the future.

Dr. John McSween, former president of Presbyterian College, once said, "An honor system which needs the proctership of the faculty or the authority of the administration to enforce is a farce and unworthy of the name."

As students, we have accepted this system by endorsement. Have we endorsed this acceptance in our minds?

Looking Ahead

For the confidence and trust placed in us, and for the privilege of working for the student body, we, The Blue Stocking staff, express our heartfelt appreciation.

We look forward to serving the student body of Presbyterian College, of which this publication is a vital part, and pledge ourselves to uphold the principles of truth, honesty, and decency, which are the watchwords of self-respecting newspapers.

Constructive criticism will be welcomed by the editor and staff as we strive to fulfill the high honor placed upon us. We pledge our utmost endeavor in attempting to continue the distinguished progress of the Blue Stocking.

Origin of the Absurdities

By ROBERT REYNOLDS

(Author's Note: After having given the best part of my life to Science, I came to realize that the things I had done had amounted to nothing, for all worthwhile discoveries had been made before my time, and I had merely been rehashing the work of my predecessors. My dissatisfaction lasted only a short time, though, for I discovered that no working classification of the human race had been made. While not desiring to detract from the honor of my distinguished colleague, Herr Linneaus, I humbly present to the world of Science, and to the world in general, the following treatise. Clintonii, Southi Carolinae, Fev. 30, Annus miribilius 1955.)

Generally, very generally, speaking, there are two kinds of people in the Human Kingdom (Dominius Homos), those who do and those who don't or rather Superciass A and Sublass C. The A's are those humans who possess visceral fortitude and are not satisfied with the mediocre life. They are the perfectionists, the Toscaninis of this world, and their entire existence is one of continual struggle for the Highest. Subclass C is a degenerate species, which is still in the lower stages of vertebrate evolution. The C's are content with the modicum; just enough to get by is what they desire.

Since classification, rather than judgment, is the purpose of this treatise, I have recorded only the diagnostic characteristics which place humans in either class. And also, I have endeavored to experiment with specimens close at hand in order to attain a more objective view.

I met my first specimen while living in Astorville. This dear lady was a paragon of perfection. Her house, flowers, lawn, dog, daughter, maid, and husband had to be perfect in order to live with her. There was a cause for this perfection mania—she suffered from "socialius climbus." One day she gave a card party for some of the girls. For a week before the important event, Mrs. Snoot washed and blitzed her house with such fury that I thought surely she was helping Hercules in Aegea. THE day arrived. Mrs. Snoot scrubbed and perfected until the hour of the party. After a few hands, she went into the kitchen to get refreshments. She didn't return. The girls went to see what was the matter. There on the floor lay Mrs. Snoot sprawled out like a big amoeba. She had had a "tickerus Siezus." I don't know what happened after that, but the girls called less frequently and merely greeted her on the street when they had to. Why, I don't know, but maybe they did not want to get her all excited and her slithering off to limbo. I know of no place for Mrs. Snoot in my classification as she is under A, for I do not think that anyone worked so hard, nor deserved to be the as much as she.

I met my next specimen while attending nassus University. He was an uncouth and not so bright. He was enrolled in the ture School, and, in my opinion, was quite fit. His intended vocation was likewise for such a nitwit; but I suppose he was tak Arts Course because the profession he was ing in demanded that he have the ability rectly speak and to effectively write the language. Yet, he made no efforts to do his ments, and the best sentence he ever wrot "Mrs. Tuff is recuperating nicely after the but her neck is still in the doctor's hands." class C, order "impossibilius," is the best do with him.

Clara Iturbirace was another specimen. was a delightful girl. I knew her in high Also, she was a pianist—coolly. If you don lieve me, ask her teacher; and if you don her word, talk to her mother. More souls lifted to ecstasy, and more innocent cum mutilated, by that brilliant virtuosa tha anyone else, probably.

Her unusual powers made her in constan mand for performances at the local New of Music Society, where the ladies of the gathered to talk, to sip tea, and to eat cha little biscuits with ham. She also played f high school choral club and with the town band. Oh yes, every year at the annual show, she accompanied the Six F Quartet. did not lower her prestige, for she was great ask her teacher, her mother, or Clara Where she performed was of no importance really mattered was that she played. The performance of hers that I heard was at the eral of a deacon of the First Pharisaic Asse The poor fellow was sent into the nether delightful strains of "Claire de Lune," by De —with the tremolo on. Here I must admit a fa As you know, Science does not have all the wers. I tried, but in vain, to classify her, bec the absence of any homologus homos prev my doing so. Anyway, she was a philistine and what can be done with them?

All right you guys, time to start dodging mud pies again. Ol' Gus has set up his stoolies around the campus, and if you're not careful, you'll have the whole reading public on your back.

Speaking of backs, here are just a few poor souls who have exposed themselves to the Ole' Gash.

Hey, "Kenny Lee" Webb, how is it that Atlanta girl told you that she was coming up to the Military Ball? You've only been dating her three months and haven't kissed her yet! Well, you know how it is with football and all that . . .

Don't let this get around, but I hear tell that Johnny Tennant found his long lost pledge pin when he pinned his girl last weekend. How about that, Johnny?

While slinking past Smyth A the other day, I found out that Don Rickett has finally gotten in up at Winthrop. What will all the "Happyville" wim do now, Don?

Once in a writer's life time, there comes the "Big Scoop". At such a tender age, I have already gotten mine, believe it or not: Chris (One Alone) Patte has got a date coming up for the "Dogface Fox-trot." Ah, Spring.

Heard out at the Varsity, from the middle sister of the Sloan family: "I sure do wish that Charles was here to help me with my English homework." Will all English majors named Charles, who frequently are found at the Varsity, please step forward and blush?

Well, Troops, that about wipes the old colyum clean for this trip.

Y. O. Why Comes Back

By DRAYTON COOPER

It was late last Saturday night after the Wofford game when I heard a loud clanking noise outside my room over in Spencer Arms.

There was a hard knock at the door—"Slide under!", I called. Whereupon, the door was flung wide, and there he stood.

"Whatcha say, Kat?" He greeted.

Taking a quick double-once-over, I noticed the pork-pie at a jaunty angle atop his head, the faded Block P sweater, grey flannels, and dirty white bucks. From his mouth there protruded the chewed stump of a cigar; his eyes had that tell-tale road map look; you could tell he'd had a party.

Feeling that introductions were in order, I did the honor.

"By the way, Y. O. Why's the name", he casually remarked. "If you've got room for me in a bureau drawer around here, I'll pull in with you for awhile."

"Don't mind if I do." He started unpacking his gear. As he pulled his stuff out of the battered old weekend bag, I glanced at the travel stickers—Kenilworth Hotel, Waldrof Astoria, Louie's Liquid Lunch, and other from numerous well-known vacation spots. After he had squared away, and crawled in the sack we started telling my sophomore roommate about the old days.

"Hear you jokers have a new dormitory over at Laurens. Don't guess they go in for shooting shotguns over there like Jere Cook used to do."

"No, it's rather quiet these days. Hawk-nose Neville and his crew keep the place pretty well under control."

"How do you remember that, Y. O.? You weren't then?

"Oh yes I was. I've been a long, long time—you just always notice me. Yeah, been around a long time."

"Well how did you Lou, and True?"

"They ain't the only ones, —I buddied around with Myth, too. Yeah, we really to have the balls. Seems guys on the Blue Sock always needing a ghost writer. Blue Hose To Meet Furman In Bid for State Championship

Game to Top Off Season In Textile Hall Tomorrow

The Battlin' Blue Hose will invade Greenville's Textile Hall tomorrow night for the second encounter with Furman University this season. The Paladins will be out to avenge the Dec. 11 outing, in which the Blue Socks thrilled the hoarse spectators by winning 83-82.

Looking back to last season, we remember that we did not play Furman one our home court. The first game of the series was played in Charlotte and saw Selvy and company edging the Hose 67-66. Later in the season, the Paladins downed the Stockings 114-89 in Textile Hall. Pictures taken during this battle later appeared in Life Magazine with an article about Frank Selvy.

This year, scores are running just opposite of those of Furman games last year. Although Furman may be slightly favored, the Blue Hose will move into the "Hall" confident of a victory and the mythical state championship.

Not only will a Blue Hose victory mean one of the most successful seasons in many years, but it will also mean the mythical state championship for PC.

The Blues have won ten straight state contests and are assured of at least a tie for the championship. The hot Hosemen have defeated every team in the state during regular season play except the University of South Carolina, who is not on the schedule. However in a pre-season game with Carolina, the Battlin' Blues won 105-99.

Shealy Receives Award For All-American Honor

One of PC's most outstanding athletes, Luther Shealy, was presented with an All-American certificate at the Presbyterian-Newberry game Wednesday night. Shealy, a four-letter man in football, won the coveted berth on the Associated Press Little All-American team for his outstanding play as guard on the Blue Hose team of this year.

Since his first game here four years ago, Shealy has been a key man in the forward wall for the Blues. He has contantly played in the Iron Man role, staying in the game for the full 60 minutes. This year, despite several injuries that seemingly hampered his playing at times, Shealy was in the game scrapping in the line for the full game.

Jim Anderson, sports editor of the Greenville News, made the award, representing the AP, of which his paper is a member.

He also was named this week to the All-Sigma Nu football team. Sigma Nu selects its All-American team each year entirely of members of the fraternity.

PC Stops Newberry By Top-Heavy Score

Presbyterian's nationally ranked basketball team crushed Newberry 123-51 Wednesday night. The ball game opened first with the Blue Hose taking a 61-19 lead at half-time.

Newberry never recovered from the opening shock and with Ragan, Weil, Thompson, and Toole hitting the basket, the outcome was never in doubt. Coach Sloan cleared the bench toward the end of the game to give the reserves experience. The Hosemen looked good and should be in top shape for the big game with Furman Saturday night.

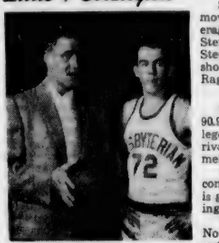
Targetmen Near Year's Final Match

The PC riflemen are nearing the final stages of firing the third Army Area Matches. The match is fired in four stages, three of which they have completed.

Results so far show 76 points overall improvement over over last year's score, which is encouraging since placing fifth in the Third Army Area last year entitled the team to participate in the National Rifle Matches.



Seven members of the rifle team are touring to Greenville Saturday, Feb. 19, to compete in the Piedmont Small bore Gallery Match, sponsored by the Greenville Army Reserve Advisory Group.

The team's first shoulder to shoulder match for this year will be fired on Feb. 25 at Wofford College. The two matches should give the team practice and experience before entering the state match which will be held at The Citadel on March 4.

Final results have not been received from the William Randolph Hearst Trophy Match which was fired earlier in the season.

Postal match results so far this year show a good report of 25 wins to 8 losses with 18 matches remaining for this season.

Swimming Pool Opens, Yates Guards Swimmers

The athletic department announced this week that the college swimming pool will be open each afternoon from 3:30 to 5:30 There will be a qualified lifeguard on duty during these hours.

In announcing the hours of the pool, it was stated that because of interference from other athletic events, the pool will be open only to male members of the campus, the faculty, and their children.

The pool is located in the Leroy Springs gymnasium.

Blue Hose Quintet Tops Wofford, 83-77

Led by the rebounding of Ron Ragan, the ball handling of Bill Toole and the shooting of Bruce Thompson, the powerful PC basketball team defeated Wofford, for the second time this year, 83-77.

The lead changed hands several times, but the Blue Hose finally broke into the lead in the last five minutes and were never headed after that. The game started off with many fouls being called on both teams, but it finally settled down to the close ball game that was expected.

The next time the two teams meet will be at the Little Four Tournament held in Spartanburg February 25-26.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

By Cecil Geddings

RAGAN NINTH IN NATION

Sophomore forward Ron Ragan from Indianapolis, Ind., has moved up to ninth place among small college scorers with a 29.4 average. The statistics do not include the games played last week with Stetson, Mercer, and Wofford. In these games Ragan hit for 36 against Stetson, 36 against Mercer and 25 against Wofford. These efforts should pull Ragan toward the top among small college scorers. Also, Ragan continues to lead the Blue Hose in total rebounds.

TEAM AMONG TOP FIVE IN NATION

The high flying Blue Hose have been dumping in an average of 90.9 points per game to rank second in the nation among small colleges. This average is only about 4 points below that of our state rival, Furman, who at this time is leading the nation in that department.

Looking at the field goal percentage, we find that the Blues have connected on 552 goals in 1235 attempts, for a 44.7% accuracy. This is good enough to keep the Hose in third place in the national standings.

The Hose as a team are to be commended for these amazing feats. No individual can be given this credit. It took teamwork, determination and the great coaching of Coach Norman Sloan to produce the fine team here at PC. To show our appreciation and team spirit let's all make a big effort to journey to Greenville for the Furman encounter which will end the regular schedule, and then go on over to Spartanburg and help the Blue Hose take this year's Little Four Championship.

A AND B UPPER-STATE TOURNEY

Fans all over the state will pile into Leroy Springs Gymnasium next week to witness some of the top High School talent in South Carolina in action.

Games will begin Tuesday afternoon and run through Saturday. The twenty-eight top class A and B boys and girls from seven upper-state districts will be battling it out for the title.

Coach Walter Johnson points out that this is the eighth straight year this action has been staged here at Presbyterian College. Since there will be overflow crowds at many of the games, let's show our courtesy to the paying visitors by seeing that they all have seats, even if it means giving up our own.

PC Host to Tournament For Upper State Teams

Presbyterian College will play host to South Carolina's upper-state high school basketball tournament for Classes A and B on Feb. 22-26, Athletic Director Walter A. Johnson annnnounced today.

The twenty-eight top boys and girls teams from seven upper-state districts will compete in this elimination meet to be held in PC's Leroy Springs gymnasium. Winners will qualify for the championship tournament in Columbia the first part of March.

Teams throughout this area are concentrating this week upon their respective district tournaments for the right to move up to next week's upper-state meet. Those districts whose champions will be sent to PC for the regional elimination are: District 1, District 2, District 3, District 4, District 10, District 11 and District 13.

Dr. Johnson pointed out the 1955 tournament will mark the eighth straight year this action has been staged at Presbyterian College. He said:

"We are happy to entertain this fine group of young athletes again this year. Presbyterian College believes in the physical development of the individual, as well as in his mental and spiritual growth, and we are always pleased to do anything we can to co-operate with the athletic programs of our high schools."

Practice Continues At High Spirited Gait

Football is in the air as the Blue Hose continued their Spring workouts under the direction of Coach Bill Crutchfield, and assistant Ed Shembechler.

The prospective gridsters for next season have been hard at work each afternoon on the practice fields, brushing up their stategy on the gridiron.

The PC'uns have spent most of the time sharpening up since the drills started, but some time has been devoted to scrimmage sessions. The Blues will face tough Lenoir Rhyne in a practice game in the near future; this will give the new players a chance to get the feel of the game, and also will give the coaches a chance to look at the team under game conditions.

So far, there have been only minor injuries to cramp the small squad, and it is hoped that this good luck will prevail. Previously, the Blue Hose have been greatly hurt during their spring sessions by the loss of key players because of injuries. This year the greatest hindrance has been bruises and strains.

Dr. W. P. Jacobs Founded College and Orphanage

The unfaltering faith of Reverend William Plumer Jacobs created Presbyterian College. This school, however, stands as only one of several notable achievements and enterprises which were originated and sustained by the faith of this man of God.

Dr. Jacobs, the son of a Presbyterian clergyman, was born in York, South Carolina, on March 15, 1842. He died in Clinton, South Carolina, on Septmeber 10, 1917.

William Plumer Jacobs graduated from Charleston College when quite young and entered Columbia Seminary at the age of nineteen. He was a serious student, yet he wore a smile until the time of his death. In 1864, though still a young man, he was grounded in the principles and examples of high-minded men.

It may be said that not a week nor even a day passed during his mature lifetime that Dr. Jacobs did not write something for the public to read. He founded and largely wrote the contents of four regularly issued periodicals.

He was admired by the South Carolina Presbytery as pastor of the Clinton Churches, and, at many times, he served churches in the vicinity until his Clinton congregation of forty-seven members grew into a large pastorate. He was Clinton's First Citizen during his entire lifetime. He was active in promoting civic projects before the Chamber of Commerce was dreamed of.

Thornwell Orphanage is, of course, his chief creation and represents his exclusive and personal achievement. His desire to found a home and school for fatherless children apparently came to him in 1872.

The college was founded primarily to supplement the education of the children of the orphanage. After a decade, from 1872 until 1882, Dr. Jacobs' thoughts concerning higher education took definite form. A charter for Clinton College was established for a brief period. Presbyteries gradually offered to share in the operation of the college, and its name was changed to Presbyterian College of South Carolina.

Dr. Jacobs' Library is maintained in the college library as a memorial to the beloved founder. William Plumer Jacobs was a great man and left to his successors large responsibilities. As time passes, each new addition to Thornwell and to Presbyterian College is a further actualization of his dream and his boundless faith.

Mr. Montgomery offered the following advice: "If you are offered a marijuana cigarette, take it. Do not smoke it, but take it to the police or some responsible person at once. That is the only evidence that will stand up in court."

Narcotics Education, Inc. is a national non-profit organization, with headquarters in Washington, D. C. Its purpose is scientific education for the prevention of narcotic addiction and alcoholism.

Net Team Picks Morris As Captain

At a meeting of the tennis team, held last week, Allen Morris was unanimously selected captain for the coming season. Morris is expected to head the powerful PC tennis team for his third straight year. Although Bill Bradley, No. 5 man last year, was lost by graduation, a number of promising freshmen have filled in adequately.

The most promising of the frosh players is Guice Potter of Anniston, Ala. Potter has shown signs of becoming one of Presbyterian's leading players.

Following close behind Potter are Gene Gee, junior college transfer, Sonny Sumner, South Carolina high school champion, and Scott Watson, No. 2 man under Potter in high school.

With warm weather rolling around, the boys are out every afternoon fixing up the courts and going through long hours of practice. When the time for the first match comes around, PC students should see some top flight tennis.

Political Emphasis Week Revives Students to Hear Special Address

• Congressman Richards to Speak •

The International Relations Club announces that they will sponsor Political Emphasis Week the week of April 25-29. This was decided at their last meeting, Wednesday night, in the Radio Forum Room in Neville Hall.

Prominent speakers from the national scene, as guests of the IRC, will deliver special addresses in chapel exercises that week.

One of the speakers scheduled to be heard that week is the Honorable James P. Richards, Congressman from South Carolina, and Chairman of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs. His address will be on April 29.

A new term is being sought to replace the old phrase, "Political Emphasis Week," which unduly restricts the scope of this series.

The International Relations Club is composed of persons who are interested in past and present political affairs.

Members in the IRC are selected each semester by competitive examination.

Parade Friday Begins MB Fun

Next Friday afternoon, Mar. 4, the Presbyterian College ROTC unit will stage a formal dress parade at Johnson Field at 4:30 P. M., as a part of Military Ball festivities.

At that time the Scabbard and Blade, Honorary Military Fraternity, will tap ten cadets from the junior military class for membership. Sponsors of regimental officers will be presented, and an honorary battalion "commander" will be selected from the sponsors.

At the dance senior cadets and their dates, along with members of the Military Ball Committee, will be introduced while marching out under a Saber Arch.

Dance Weekend Set for Two Nights

The Military Ball is playing like a little rabbit and hopping up on us. Next weekend, Mar. 4, will be here before you kats know it, so be sure to line up those kittens for two nights.

The IFC is throwing their blowout on Saturday night, Mar. 5. Hal McIntyre, the man who blows real cool music, will toot for both balls.

IFC Prexy, Bill Unthank, had this statement to make to a Sock reporter this morning, "It'll Be ON!"

All students are reminded to get with the beat on March 4 and 5 for the annual Military Ball and the IFC Hop.

The dress for the troop maneuvers on Friday evening will be strictly formal. Cadets have their outfits for this gala occasion already taken care of by Uncle Sam. For non-dog-faces, formal is defined as tuxedo if you have it; dark suit if you don't.

The same rules of haberdashery apply to the IFC dance on Saturday night. If you have a tuxedo, don't leave it hanging in the closet. If you don't have a tuxedo, hang yourself in the closet, or join your friends in a suit.

Tickets will cost fraternity men as well as non-frats $3.00 on Saturday night.

Reminder . . .

Chapel period next Tuesday has been set as the deadline for submitting pictures of Military Ball sponsors to the Blue Stocking office.

Photographs of sponsors for the company commanders and for the members of the Military Ball Committee are necessary.

Quarter Ends Saturday, Grades Head Homeward

The first quarter of this semester ends tomorrow, Feb. 26, and report cards are again drawing near. It was announced early this week that D and E grades must be in to the Registar's office by Tuesday, Mar. 1.

All D and E grades will be mailed home next weekend, and advisers will get them shortly thereafter.

Trustees Assemble For Winter Meeting

Officers of this board, composed of clerical and lay leaders chosen by the controlling Synods of Georgia and South Carolina, are: the Rev. William B. Ward of Spartanburg, chairman; George E. Hoyt, of Atlanta, vice-chairman; and Ferdinand Jacobs, Sr., of Clinton, secretary.

Time Will Tell...

Fraternity Men Say 'No' To Approved Lodge Plan

A Blue Stocking survey revealed this week that the majority of fraternity men at PC are not in favor of the building of fraternity lodges under the plan which has been approved by school officials.

Because of the large number of interviews and because of the importance of the question, those interviewed will not be quoted directly. Rather, an attempt will be made to group the attributes for and the objections against the plan as the students have stated them.

First the fact must be established that the large majority of the fraternity men are highly in favor of the idea and plan of a fraternity row at PC.

However, many feel that this dream which has been in the thoughts of fraternity men for many years should not overcome the reality of future problems which might eventually bring a tragic end to those involved.

Present location of fraternity chapters was a point in which many differend. One student stated that a definite disadvantage could be overcome if fraternity quarters were all centrally located.

Yet, this question was asked: Will all chapters be able to build in the near future in accordance with the plans presently submitted?

This question brought to light another problem; certain fraternity lending agencies are not in favor of lending funds to institutions which will own no equity in the property involved.

A number of men are satisfied with the final plan as it has been presented and welcome it as an opportunity to further the prestige of Presbyterian College fraternity life.

Many others believe that this desire for prestige is not worth endangering future fraternity men with the problems concern-

You Need Christ

When the students of Presbyterian College begin to move into chapel next Tuesday to begin the 1955 Religious Emphasis Week, they will see painted over the door of the chapel the theme for the week: "You Need Christ". These three words will mean different things to different boys as they take their seats. To some it will mean another week of "church going", something you have to go to because it is required and the attendance is checked. These will say that a group of fast-talking preachers have come on the campus, and it will be a good chance for the students to get out of a little class work. Yes, for a few this will be the attitude taken toward Religious Emphasis Week.

However, this is not the attitude taken by the majority of the students. As most of the people hunt for their seats, B-17, S-9, etc., they will have other thoughts running through their minds. Many of the boys have looked forward to this week as a time when prominent ministers can come on our campus to r e g e n e r a t e our hearts, minds, and souls to a better life for Christ.

These boys will welcome the opportunity to attend all scheduled meetings, prayer groups, and dormitory discussions. They will enjoy getting to know these visiting ministers, talking to them, and sharing ideas and interest with them. This is the group who can help make this REW a success and help the speakers to reach those who do not have a very high regard for our REW.

The theme for the week was chosen by Dr. Ben Lacy Rose, main speaker for the week, and approved whole-heartedly by the SCA. The theme, "You Need Christ," is one which fits every person on this campus: all kinds of students from business through pre-med to pre-ministerial. PC is called a Christian College, yet it needs to grow much closer to Christ. No matter what work a person is engaged in or from what walk of life he may come, he needs to have Christ with him. This is a fact that should be understood by all people. Dr. Rose knows the problems and crises that college students have to encounter; therefore, in developing his theme he will bring us the answer to these problems.

Our class-room speakers have offered some very interesting as well as very fitting topics for discussion. The Rev. F. B. Mayes has such topics as: "You Need Christ In Your World Life, In Your Social Life, and In Your Private Life." The Rev. Ed Watson will discuss "The Christian Formula", "Who Are You and Where Are You Going?" and, "Your Faith and Your Future." The Rev. C. E. Piephoff will bring us discussions on "What Can This Jesus Do For Me?", "Why Should I Need This Jesus?", and, "Does This Jesus Need Me?" It can plainly be seen that these topics have something in them which can help everyone of us.

Gentlemen, this week beginning Tuesday morning and going through Friday morning is YOUR week, so make the best use of it. We haven't called these distinguished ministers here just to give them something to do; the faculty isn't giving us the use of their class periods so they can take a holiday. These ministers have plenty of work to do without adding more by coming to PC for a week, and the pro have more work to give us now than th handle under a normal schedule.

There is a purpose behind this week goes deeper than many of us can realize. we are a small Christian college support the Presbyterian Synods of South Carolin Georgia, but we need strengthening so w be able to stand in times of trial when fall.

There will be some who will not want tend these meetings for various reasons are the very ones who need to meet Chr most. If any of you know of some of thes ple, then take a few minutes and tell them REW means to you and what it can me them. Encourage them to arrange a pe conference with one of our speakers. they may help them "find Christ, the Onl wer." The SCA is in charge of the pl and operation of REW, but the SCA can sibly make this week a success without f operation from the students.

You can help the SCA and yourself by ing someone else. If the right word can be en to just one boy during this week tha change his life to a life in the service of then REW will have been a success on our pus. Remember, Dr. Rose will need hel class-room speakers will neeed help, you lege needs help, and you need help, the Christ. So let's all pitch in and make this a spiritual regeneration on our campus. Be me, we need it!

Y. O. Why Suggests

By Drayton Cooper

(Mr. Why, eminent journalist and man-about town, left his abode in Spencer Arms early this week to attend the Mardi Gras at New Orleans. The purpose of his mission was to get everything in readiness for the invasion by the Croakers later this Spring. As he left Clinton, Mr. Why said, in words of a great American, "I shall have a column ere I return." This morning, just in time to make the late editions, a telegram of some length was placed on the editor's desk. Upon opening the Eastern Onion packet we found his column.)

Dear Readers,

This New Orleans is quite a berg. The Mardi Gras has been real, really it has. I bumped into an old friend down here the other night at some little bistro down on the Rue de Royale. His name was I. M. Fulluvit; he's employed by some kat named Marts, Lundy, or something like that, and he was just bubbling over, with suggestions, for the betterment of PC, that is. Well, dear readers, if you deciphered what I meant in that last sentence, you're a better man than I am. Anyhow, here's what he said:

"Yorick ,old friend, I have been traipsing up and down Georgia and South Carolina interviewing pipple about what they think should be done to improve P College. Seems the jist of what everybody wants is this:

"1. All persons connected with the Blue Stocking should be given dark glasses, Hollywood style, to protect their eyes from all the glare created by the brilliant three thousand watt desk lamps in the staff room. The administration should also appropriate Bermuda shorts, Glover style, for them to wear when the heat gets unbearable from the solar heating system recently installed in the modern SCA building where the Sock originates.

"2. There is absolutely no need whatsoever to have the all-steel, asbestos coated fire escapes from Neville Hall because everyone knows that noble structure will never burn. Why, only last Fall they had a little blaze up in one of the fraternity rooms, and try as they did, the old place just wouldn't go.

"3. The residents of Spencer Arms should be allowed to draw firing pins for their M-I's, the mouse situation is getting increasingly worse over there. However, another solution has been suggested: one of the residents of this classic hostelry tried puting the picture of his room-o's girl in front of the hole, and they say it worked wonders.

"4 Grass definitely should be planted behind all dormitories. The boys who park their cars there really don't care if they have their cars torn up while parked on the broad expanses of Wunway Avenue, they just think they do.

"5. The English department should inaugurate more classes in modern poetry. There is an untapped wealth of blooming young poets running wild at PC. To find the fruits of their labor, all it is necessary to do is to meander through the halls of Ye Olde Charlie's Public House and listen to their charming little limericks.

"If this were done, I strongly suggest that a special classroom be set aside It should bear this on the door: In Memoriam, English Literature.

"6. An outdoor arena should be built by all means, to accommodate the huge crowds that gather when the PCuns have their friendly little tete-a-tetes with the Clinton boys. These are most charming little sessions, and if there were enough space, so many more onlookers could enjoy the spectacle."

That is the report of Mr. Fulluvit. As he handed the copy to the loyal Blue Socker in New Orleans, he enclosed a set of tickets to Ugandiboodle, British West Africa, for Oliver and Cooper, and mentioned that he thought the climate there would be invigorating.

(Editor's note: When last seen, Messrs. Cooper, Why, and Oliver were hotfooting it out of town. Hot in pursuit were a couple of guys named Anderson and Beatty; it should be a good race.

Guzzle Phith, new editor.)

Mud Pies

By GUS GASH

Um boy—(flop, slop) I love to make these ol' mud pies. (slop, flop) I've gotten hold of all kinds of mud to make 'em out of this week—my agents have really been on the stick! Well, no sense in letting these things go to waste —let's see who is standing with his back turned this time.

Looks like Dick Marshall gets the prize for the social blunder of the week. Seems like he went to pick up his date for the Furman game and was met at the door by her Mother, who introduced herself as Lillian McCabe. Dick, trying too hard to put his best foot forward, said, "How are you, Lillian?" Lost: one set of social graces, belonging to Dick Marshall.

"Butter Bill" Taylor has given up his 'Lander Love" and is looking for greener pastures. Better watch him, girls!

I've heard that "Doc" Rea, Willie Fulton, Lawson Hope and Jim Fleming have dates coming down for the dance. If they can, we can!

What is this about "Twilight" Boulware? Seems that he was caught dashing off three skins of "goo" to some chick up at Winthrop! Watch it, Frank, Spring is for the young man's fancy!

"Tap", what is with this sixteen year old lovely down Sumter way I heard that you were in cahoots with? What is you all's song? "Young at heart", maybe, huh?

Well, I had better lay off for this week, and give these guys time to wash the mud off before the week-end.

By the way, do you feel like someone is watching you? Maybe I am!

Laugh Awhile . . .

Jerry: I just heard why Solomon had a thousand wives.

Terry: Why?

Jerry: Well, he figured that when he came home at night, at least one wouldn't complain about a headache.

George: "I proposed to that girl and would have married her if it hadn't been for something she said."

Fred: "What did she say."

George: "No."

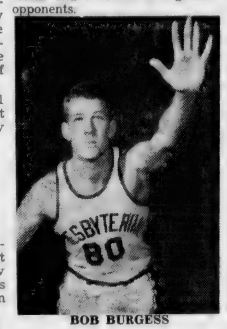
Presbyterian Socks in Top Form For Little Four Tourney Tonight

Top Rated Hose Battle Newberry Indians; Flying Fleet to Meet Wofford at 7 P. M.

Presbyterian's high-scoring Blue Hose will meet Newberry tonight at 9:00 P. M. in Andrews Field House. The first game will begin at 7:00 P. M., and will pit Wofford's Terrier's against Erskine's Flying Fleet.

The Blue Hose took the regular season crown by bowling over each of the Little Four participants in both meetings. This gave PC a 6-0 record. Wofford and Erskine were deadlocked for second place with 3-3 marks. Newberry was winner in the Little Four competition.

The Little Four tournament had its beginning in 1950, when Wofford produced its only winner. Since then, the Hosemen and the Flying Fleet have each clinched two championships, the Blue Hose in 1951-52 and Erskine in 1950-54. The Fleet has been in the finals twice and both times has been victorious. Presbyterian has gone into three final games and lost only one. The Terriers have reached the finals each year since 1950, only to be defeated each time, with the exception of the first year.



Predictions made on the tourament have ranked the Blue Hose as favorites. However, the Terriers proved last year that they play ball, when they edged the Hose 96-97. They are an improved team; and if records run true to form, they will be plenty of trouble for our Hose.

The championship game will be played at 8:15 Saturday night between the winners of Friday games.

Hose End Regular Season Ranked Among Top Five

Ninety-one Point Average Posts New Basket Record

The Presbyterian College Blue Hose basketeers ended their regular season play against Furman at Textile Hall in Greenville Saturday night. Despite the 87-110 loss to the Paladins, the Blue Hose compiled a record of eleven wins and one defeat against all opponents.

BOB BURGESS

The Blue Hose cagers ranked among the top five in the small college scoring race with a total of 2,092 points in 23 games. This was good enough for 91 points per game average and a PC record. The Host topped the 100 mark five times during the year.

Forward Ron Ragan stripped the nets for 664 points for an average of 28.8 points per game another PC record. Ragan's average ranked him among the top ten individual scorers in the nation.

Freshman guard Eddie Weil and sophomore center Bruce Thompson both averaged in double figures. Weil hit 409 points for a 17.8 average, and Thompson hit 355 points for a fifteen point average.

Captain Bill Toole turned in a top performance with an average of eight assists per game, and he also scored 193 points for an 8.4 average. Forward Bob Burgess rounded out the starting lineup and averaged eight points per game and a total of 173 points.

The remaining members of the squad and their scoring totals are: as follows: Center Bill Lipp, 125; Guard J.C. Gosnell, 62; Guard 62; Guard Charles Sloan, 61; Forward Stone, 42; and Forward Wyatt Aiken, 6.

Furman Tops Quint; Thomas Scores High

A crowd of over 3,000 fans witnessed the game of the week at Textile Hall in Greenville Friday night, as the Purple Paladins played host to the Presbyterian College Blue Hose.

Center Bob Thomas paced the hot Paladins to a 110-87 victory over the never-say-die Blue Hose with an outstanding 38 points, revenging an earlier season loss to the Big Blue.

Furman's Darrel Floyd dropped in 33 points for the night, second only to the inspired Thomas, who acounted for 28 of Furman's rebounds.

PC's scoring ace, Ron Ragan, had trouble finding the basket at Textile Hall, but walked off the court with an impressive 23 points to lead the Hose in scoring for the night.

Flashy guard Eddie Weil followed Ragan with 15 points. Forward Bob Burgess pushed Weil for a close third with 14 points, while Bruce Thompson contributed 11 to the total.

The pace stayed sizzling after Furman jumped to a 13-4 point lead in the first four minutes of the game. The half found the Blue Hose trailing by a score of 37 to Furman's 52. The Paladins led after the half 86-70. With less than seven minutes remaining in the game, Furman went into a possession play and caused the Blue Hose to go for the ball. This meant fouls.

Near this point in the game only three of the starting five Hosemen were still on the court, because of expensive fouling. The benched pair were scoring ace Ron Ragan and expert playmaker Bill Toole. The three starters on the floor were charged with four fouls each.

Furman also had two starting men out on fouls near this same point of the game, Ruth and Bailey.

Captain Bill Toole.

"We did not have the determination needed to win. I don't think we hurt our usual percentage too much, and Furman proved to be able to hold down their number one rating by their shooting percentage. I think that Thomas was by far their best player for the night, and that Furman has improved on their rebounding but not on their schooling. We were not at a high to the point of choking up; however, this and the officiating together had some effect, but was not the cause of our loss."

Bob Burgess, senior member of the team:

"Furman was up more than we were, and we did not play the game that we were capable of. I think that Thomas and Fraley were outstanding for Furman. We are putting all that behind us though, and looking forward to take the Little Four Tournament."

Riflemen Place High In Piedmont Gallery

Seven members of the PC Rifle team toured to Greenville, last Saturday, to participate in the Piedmont Small-Bore Gallery Match, sponsored by the U. S. Army Reserve Center.

The match was fired according to individual National Rifemen Association classifications.

Franklin Sapp and Phillip Cannella fired in the Expert class; William Neville, Arthur Pue, and Charles Kinsey in the Sharpshooter; Chris Patte, Marksman; and freshman Henry Pigg in Tyro. The firing results were as follows out of a possible score of 600:

Sapp—549, second place in the trophy match; Patte—548, third place in the trophy match; Cannella—541, second place in the Expert class; Pigg—498, second place in Tyro class.

The remainder of the team did very well to place high in their classification: Neville—537; Pue —525; team captain Kinsey—513.

The team has gone to Wofford today for their first shoulder match preparing for the State Match on March 4, at Charleston.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

LITTLE FOUR TOURNAMENT

The Hosemen will enter this year's tournament as big favorites. A championship will mean a lot to the team, coaches, and student body. In addition to the honor of winning, the team will receive a trophy presented by Crutchfield's, Inc., of Spartanburg. For permanet possession of this trophy a Little Four team must win for three successive years. So let's all show our beloved Blue Hose that we appreciate their effort this year by filling Anderson Field House both nights. And we will make ready a place in the trophy case for the Crutchfield trophy.

BASEBALL GETS UNDERWAY

The great National Pastime began at PC last Tuesday as the Blue Hose took the field for the first outdoor practice. The Hose are expected to field a very much improved team over the one of last year. The Hosemen "Niners" record last year stood at 10-12. The team picked up some big wins, however, such as the 6-4 win over the very strong Rollins Tars. Many rookie prospects have turned out, including some fine pitching talent, which the Blue Hose sorely need. Lost from last year's staff is top winner Guy Misenheimer, and the top reliever Bobby "Ace" Matthews. The first game is only about three weeks away, so we'll take time out now to extend our best wishes to Coach Schembechler for a very successful sason.

Track Team To Chapel Hill

Presbyterian's very fine track team will travel to the University of North Carolina campus this week-end to compete in an indoor meet with teams from all over the nation.

The team, under the direction of Coach Lonnie McMillian, has been working hard since the first of January to prepare for this year's rugged schedule.

The team will be competing with non-conference teams such as Navy, Army, Yale, and others. This will be a big test for the Blue Hose. The best of luck to each individual in his respective event.

PC Trackmen Travel To Pre-Season Event

A group of ten trackmen and Coach Lonnie McMillan will represent Presbyterian College at the Carolina Relays which will be held in Chapel Hill, N .C., Saturday. The team left the campus today and will return Sunday. The boys making the trip are Jim Hancock, Bob Falls, Wyatt Aiken, John Fesperman, Jim Woods, Herbie Laws, Bobby Vass, Delane Johnson, and Johnny Armstrong.

Dr. W. G. Neville Holds High Rank In Leadership

Although Dr. Neville's work in the college was short, it was successful. PC's seventh president will long be remembered for his consecration to duty and his Christian fidelity.

Dr. Neville was born in Oconee County, South Carolina, July 2, 1855. Dr. Neville's early schooling was in his own community. He spent four years at Newberry College and Adger College in Walhalla.

He studied two years at Columbia Seminary, 1878-1880, and finished at Princeton Seminary in 1881. Dr. Neville received the honorary degree of Doctor of Divinity from Davidson College and LL.D. from the University of South Carolina.

Dr. Neville had three qualities that united to bring to him the confidence of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. He was a tireless worker when duty was placed upon him. He combined a striking courage with gracious diplomacy. The regard for his abilities led to his presidency of the College to which the Presbyterians of the state had pledged their allegiance. He was selected for the presidency of Presbyterian College by the new board of trustees created by the Synod in 1904.

Dr. Neville gave three years of effort to the institution at a time of transition and of hopeful experiment. His service for the College required much labor. His travels, speaking appointments and his frequent engagement in counseling on behalf of the school entailed strain and effort which was scarcely realized by himself or others. He rapidly extended the patronage and appeal of the College far beyond local bounds.

Within the short period of his tenure, much was done in the way of material equipment. Judd Dining Hall, Laurens dormitory, and a president's home were constructed and paid for.

The Administration Building was erected while he was in office. Endowment and scholarship funds were given through his solicitation.

It was fitting and appropriate in later years that the Neville Chair of Bible Instruction should be named as a memorial for him. PC's Neville Hall is a namesake granted in his memory

His death, June 8, 1907, was a tragic loss and brought great sorrow. His end came suddenly and in the mids t of a busy life.

The memory of William Gordon Neville will long be cherished in the Synod of South Carolina as pastor. His name will be linked always with his life story of the College for which he dedicated his life.

Choristers to Sing In Spartanburg Sunday

The Presbyterian College Robed hoir will make two week-end appearances Sunday.

The college singers will present their concert of sacred music Sunday morning in Spartanburg and in Donalds Sunday evening. Dr. William B. Ward, minister of the First Presbyterian Church, Spartanburg, is the chairman of the Presbyterian College Board of Trustees

To Receive Bids On Campus Dorm

The Architects for Presbyterian College's new dormitory early this week sent out building plans to contractors for bidding, President Marshall W. Brown anniunced this week.

Construction should begin shortly thereafter in order to have the dormtory ready for use at the start of PC's 75th session next fall, the president pointed out.

The firm Six Associates, Incorporated, of Asheville, N. C. serves as architect for the dormitory which is estimated to cost approximately $200,000. It will provide facilities for almost 100 students when completed.

ed in such a large endeavor.

The main point of the plan questioned by those interviewed is that at the end of a ten year period the lodges will become the sole property of Presbyterian College, after the chapter has paid back, with interest, the total amount of the investment.

President Marshall Brown stated that this is not a pressing issue, and that the college has secured property merely to accomodate fraternity building plans in the future.

(Editor's note: The opinions expressed herein do not necessarily reflect the opinions of the editor or his staff. Signed letters to the editor on this subject will be welcomed, and outstanding letters will be published).

Religious Emphasis

All of the guest speakers will be available for conferences during the week. Also daily prayer services will be held at 6:45 A. M. and 5:15 P. M. in the Radio Forum Room all next week for the benefit of the students.

For the benefit of those who wish to come early to the evening worship services, a fifteen-minute song service will be held beginning at 7:15 P. M.

At the evening services all fraternity attendance will be checked and a plaque and trophy presented to the group with the highest over-all precentage in attendance.

SCA president Stallworth concluded, "I earnestly hope that every student and faculty member will work and pray that this will be a week of deep spiritual significance, and that we will all find during this eperience that Christ is the real answer to all of our needs."

McIntyre and Band To Present Sax Solos

One of the biggest dance weekends of the year will be highlighted tonight from 9:00 P. M.-1:00 A. M. by the annual Military Ball, which will be held at the Clinton Armory, featuring Hal McIntyre's nationally popular orchestra.

McIntyre, an ex-Glenn Miller protege, will bring one of the country's most popular college dance bands to PC for the top dance of the year. Besides engagements in top night spots of New York, Chicago and Hollywood, McIntyre's band is currently recording for M-G-M records and has appeared in several Columbia musicals.

Beautiful Jeanne McManus is the featured vocalist with the McIntyre band.

The brilliant sax solos of McIntyre, subdued reed voicing, and bright clipped brasses are combined into a fourteen-piece band with a type all its own. It is ranked with the greatest college favorites of all time.

The battalion review, which was held this afternoon at Johnson Field, presented a colorful picture of PC military life to many of the weekend dates on the campus. Ten outstanding men from the junior military class were tapped for Scabbard and Blade membership, and presented, during the review.

The Military Ball tonight will feature a sabre arch for members of the Dance committee and their dates, and the Scabbard and Blade and their dates. McIntyre's orchestra is expected to furnish smooth dance music for PC cadets in their dress uniforms and their formally dressed dates. Parties and get-togethers are planned by the various fraternities to follow the dance.

Saturday afternoon most of the fraternities will have parties or picnics until the IFC dance, which begins at 8:00 P. M. The dance will again be featured by McIntyre's orchestra, and will last until midnight.

Dress for the IFC dance will be formal, PC style (Dark suits for PC men, formal or cocktail dresses for their dates).

Trustees Name Two Ministers To Honorary Doctor's Degrees

Piephoff, McLeod, Frampton To Receive Awards in June

The Presbyterian College board of trustees named three PC alumni to receieve honorary degrees and reelected two of its officers at the regular winter board meeting here Tuesday.

Chosen to receive honorary degrees at the June commencement exercises were the Rev. Cliff Hill McLeod of Sumter, and the Rev. Clarence E. Piephoff of College Park, Ga., both honorary doctor of divinity degrees; and G. Creighton Frampton of Charleston, honorary doctor of laws degree.

The Rev. William B. Ward of Spartanburg was reelected chairman of the Presbyterian College board of trustees, and J. F. Jacobs, Sr., of Clinton was reelected secretary - treasurer. Elected to be the new vice-chairman was the Rev. Harry K. Holland of Marietta, Ga., who succeeds George B. Hoyt, of Atlanta, in this position.

A study of the PC athletic program brought unamimous approval by the board, with particular reference to the unusually high scholastic standards required of entering athletes. A committee, headed by Dr. Holland, praised the program as "an asset of inestimable value to the institution."

The trustees also heard various reports made by PC President Marshall W. Brown and board committees, and they gave Dr. Brown a rising vote of appreciation for his work with the institutions.

In being chosen for honorary degrees, both McLeod and Piephoff were cited for their outstanding leadership as ministers. McLeod, a 1938 honor graduate of PC with a Master of Theology from Princeton Theological Seminary, serves as pastor of Sumter's First Presbyterian Church, and until recently served on the PC board of trustees. Piephoff, a 1922 graduate with a Master of Theology from Columbia Theological Seminary, is pastor of the College Park Presbyterian Church and moderator of the Synod of Georgia. He formerly taught at PC and Darlington School of Rome, Ga., and served as assistant to the president of Thornwell Orphanage.

Frampton, a 1927 graduate of PC, was cited for his outstanding leadership in the field of public school education: as superintendent of education for Charleston County, for his work on the South Carolina textbook commission and his service as recent president of the South Carolina Education Association.

Scabbard 'n' Blade Taps Ten Members

The National Society of Scabbard and Blade tapped ten junior cadets this afternoon at the ceremonial parade on Johnson Field.

The following cadets were tapped: Eugene R. Altman, Kenneth N. Baker, Edward L. Hay, Theodore C. Howie, Robert C. Liles, John McLean, E. M. Matheson, J. Arnold Stone, Vickey S. Vierra, and Ernie F. Wahl.

The Scabbard and Blade was founded at the University of Wisconsin by five men in 1904, and since then the total membership has risen to 61,429. The Scabbard and Blade is located on the campuses of 131 leading colleges and universities which have Reserve Officer Training Programs under the Army, Navy and the Air Force.

The purpose of Scabbard and Blade is primarily to raise the standards of military education in both colleges and universities, to unite military departments in closer relationship, and to produce good and efficient officers. The cadet elected to the Scabbard and Blade must be "an officer and a gentleman."

It was on the 18th of April, 1953, that the members of the Cadet Officers Club became the Charter members of the Scabbard and Blade on this campus. H. Jack Sharpe, the Corps Inspector, and Cadets from Wofford College initiated the first members of PC into the Scabbard and Blade.

Economics Top Major Of Student Selections

At the beginning of the second semester at Presbyterian College, there are 444 men and sixteen women enrolled, completing a total of 460 students. This figure is six less than last semester's tctal. South Carolinains comprise sixty-five per cent of the rollment and North Carolinains and Georgians account for twenty-six per cent of the student body. The eleven other states which are represented on the campus compose the remaining nine per-cent.

Economics is the major of 173 students at PC. This is followed by thirty-seven history majors, thirty-six English majors, and hirty Bible majors.

Remember . . .

Our minds have been enlightened this week with a theme which applies not only to students of Presbyterian College, but also to peoples of all nations of God's world.

Each year we are afforded the opportunty to set aside a week in which we focus our entire campus life to Christ and His teachings.

Some factions of the world's population are given only a faint taste of the New Testament teachings, Yet, through the aid of missionaries they develop faith which sometimes is much stronger than the faith on which our great country was based.

We have become accustomed to colossal ideas which have corrupted our ideals and which have made all our striving a complete loss.

Some have said that a college education gives us a lease on youth. Our minds are being trained for future contacts with persons who may not have had the opportunity which has been presented to us this week.

Many with whom we will associate in later years may not be convinced of this theme.

It is up to all of us to see that this theme is maintained in our lives, and we should strive to project it to the persons with whom we associate in our various occupations.

We are ministers, whether or not we enter the field of Christian ministry. And we should show the world its need of Christ.

Let us keep this need in our minds, hearts and prayers, and this tremendous influence which has been presented to us this week will not die.

Thanks . . .

The Blue Stocking salutes the Battlin' Blues and those associates who have supported them. Congratulations are sent especially to:

Bill Toole, captain of the basketball team, for his spirited action and his excellent sportsmanship.

Ron Ragan, for his excellent shooting eye and for keeping us in the winner's circle.

Chuck Sloan, for his long arms and body energy which have confused all opposing teams.

Bruce Thompson, the keystone of the winning quintet.

Eddie Weil, for his first year of excellent college basketball and for his superb accuracy.

Coach Sloan, who has given his time, talent, and energy in coaching the team to the Little Four Championship.

Life Can Be Miserable

By "CHAZ" JOYNER

This is the story of a typical, average, sub-normal PCun and of his courageous search for a date for the Military Ball. This typical, average, sub-normal PCun was named "Soph" Moore.. Since this character is both typical and average, one might suppose that he was a sophomore. Ahhhhh, but you're jumping to conclusions. "Soph" Moore was a freshman.

His "Old Lady", or roomo, as freshmen still call them, was a spoiled, pampered, soul named M. T. Stein. M. T. hung around with an illustrious character named "Bud" Wisor, who was a nice clean-cut American boy, from ear to ear. Together, they raised much cain. We shall not elaborate on these gentlemen further, as they have nothing to do with my story, anyway.

As I said, the Military Brawl was forthcoming, and "Soph" figured he oughta have a doll here for the occasion. Besides, even T. Toteler over on second floor Laurens and "Kreeschawn" Patte had managed to put the date on a chick. How could he, a real Rudolph Vaselino, if there ever was one, afford to show up stag? I believe the fact is reasonably well established that he wished to have a date.

At the open social sponsored by UN KAPPA PEPSI, he had met a rich wench from Converse named Lotta Moola. Lotta had the mon, and that wasn't all. But that's another story. Her reply to his letter was short and to the point. "Get somebody else." He later found out she was pinned to an S. O. T. at Wofford.

Perhaps he could date that Queen up at Piggs, who sent him that lovely Valentine. She definitely knew there was going to be a dance on, all right. Still, the last time he dated her and tried to get a little loving that slap she laid on him left a lasting impression; and he didn't care for a repeat performance.

His roomo offered to get him a blind date at Winthrop, where lassies have always been friendly to PCuns (and we like yawl, too). But the poor lad had nothing to wear with a Blue except his genuine Grand Army of the Republic uniform, which he was saving for Old North Ball.

Even the local co-ed, Sonya Cowboy, said she had already made other plans. Seems like she always has other plans.

Then, one day, sitting in the classroom of Professor R. U. Savedbrother, he got a sudden inspiration. Why not ask Livvy Tupp, that pigtailed-tressed cat-gal from Limestone?

He dashes down to Charlie's Pub to see Hypocrite, that pseudo-ministerial student who is probably the world's greatest authority on Limestone.

"I warn you," spake O. U., "Limestone is the lair of the late daters and the den of the heartbreakers. But if you be determined to go through with this wild hair, you may have a good time. There's an old saying that if you cast a penny to the rock quarry up at Limestone and it comes back up, your date is pure."

Of course, the last time "Soph" dated a Limestone filly, she'd called up on the deck of the Christmas Dance to announce that she could not come because of a basketball practice. Then at Homecoming, his date informed him upon the arrival that she'd have to leave immediately after the dance, because her mother had just died. But this would be different.

If you see "Soph" Moore this weekend, and he's in the stag line, (stagger in and stagger out) don't rib him too much. Remember, it could happen to you. Many the heart that is broken after the ball. Lah-tee-dah.

Y. O. Why Meets the Girls

By DRAYTON COOPER

With the Free-Loading Scabbard and Blade, who are inviting all these nice looking heads up to their annual ball, which is being paid for by the Military Battalion, Yorick has decided to give a few hints to all the fellows who have never attended a dance here at PC. These little tidbits of knowledge have been gleaned after years of experience with these blowouts at PC. Anyhow, this is for all who may be interested, whether they have been to a dance here before, or not.

There are always present at such functions various and sundry types of young females; therefore, a catalog for the uninitiated shall be in order. Here goes:

(A) The Genuine Katgirl. This is a real article; she can be classified by her short, cropped, peroxided hair. This breed of female can usually be found inhabiting the area around the front of the bandstand. If anyone chooses to dance with one of this variety, he can rest assured it won't be for long. All the cool Kats know her from last Summer down at Ocean Drive and are often eager to chat with her about all the old times down behind a beer can last year. If you can't do a triple backbend, four somersaults, a jack-knife dive, and come back into the dirty shag without missing a beat, stay away.

(B) The Snow Queen. Now here's a doll. This phylum will be easily recognizable by the low-cut gown she'll be wearing, and by the come hither glances she'll be passing. When you tell her your name, she always gasps as if it were her last breath and says, "Why I've been just dying to know you." While you dance she tickles the back of your neck; this always makes for excitement. If someone breaks "and they will" she'll give you the old "So sorry it had to end so soon" look, and should you ask her for a date next week, she'll just laugh.

(C) The Lover. This variety is practically married to someone. She never listens, and won't catch your name; when you dance she looks over your shoulder to see where Lover Boy has gone. WARNING: these will sometimes look pretty good, and may bear looking into. A good procedure is to ask, "Who are you dating?" She'll tell you. Then ask, "Are you pinned to him?" If she says yes, you say, "He's a pretty good fellow." If she says no, say, "Hummmm."

(D) Miss Brains, or Looks-Are-Only-Skin-Deep - Conservation-Counts-Too. If you don't want to hear sections A through Z of the Encyclopedia Brittannica quoted to you verbatim, stay away. This type is easily spotted: she'll have those sunken eyes of the scholar, that lean hungry look that Shakespeare talks about, and will be talking the ears off whomever she's with.

(E) Finally, there are these unfortunates, the "Won't - You-Dance - With - My - Date - Old-Friend" type. These are usually blind dates some poor soul has gotten stuck with. Take a quick look. Then cast your eyes mournfully to the ground, shake your head pitifully, and murmur something about your sick mother, or a fresh wound, or something. By all means, DON'T DANCE WITH HER; if you do, you'll still be doing it come one o'clock.

That's the catalog of the various types of wim that'll be cown for the dance. Now it doesn't include the others, The Sweet Young Thing, The Innocent Maiden, The High School Harriet, The Society Belle. It'll do, however, for the time being.

Now, here are some tips on dance procedure:

Ask every girl you with to have a Coke: it your feet, kills time, and be there are some dark corne the Armory.

If your date has the head earache, toothache, or back in the vicinity of 2 A. M., just might be, now mind there probably won't be there just might be, the bility that she's going to date on you.

Also nine miles north of ton, just off the Spartan highway, there's a spot just steeped in history. the scenery is most enchan and where submarine race held nightly. The name of Horseshoe Falls, a charm little spot.

Finally if your date calls day afternoon about three that her grandmother is sic the president of the won't give her permissio leave, don't lose any sleep it. The Royal Order of Shafted Souls meets each every dance weekend at the vate banquet room aroun Charlie's. They have a few, take off for the dance at C son, and usually find their

If you will kindly clip article and place it in your band when you leave for dance, you'll probably come for the better.

Additional New Volumes Spur More Avid Reading

By ROBERT REYNOLDS

According to Miss Burts, librarian, 60 new books have been added to the library. There is an endless variety in this new group; there are works ranging from historic fiction by Frank Yerby to delightful children's stories by Irma Black.

There are three books on the fiction list which prove to be very exciting—just what you need for a quiet Sunday afternoon in the sack. The first is "The Searchers," by Alan LeMay. This book runs the gamut of passion—from tender love episodes to heart-rending adventures of a poor girl after an Indian massacre.

Another stirring piece of fiction is Winston Graham's "The Sloane Gamble," "a novel of Cornwall in the day of smugglers." Any similarity between this novel and "Jamaica Inn" is purely coincidental. But it is good reading. Recommended especially as parallel reading for English 1 and 2 majors who are tired of reading Jack London.

The best in non-fiction is Norman Vincent Peale's "Power of Positive Thinking for Young People" Young people, what do you want out of life—health, happiness, wealth, a beautiful wife, a better job? All of these can be yours. All you have to do is think with a plus sign in your aqueduct of silvius. Pealism is jazz religion at its finest. You don't have to do anything—just think. You can't afford to miss this book go by. Get hot, hep cats, sharpen up your wits. Think POSITIVELY.

POTLIGHTING SPORTS

HOSE PROVE THEMSELVES BEST IN TOURNAMENT

The Blue Hose proved their superiority in Little Four play by eating Newberry and Wofford for an over-all record of 8-0 in conference games.

The Blue Socks, reluctant after clinching the title, hoisted Captain Bill Toole to cut down the net as a victory gesture. To this, Wofford student body disagreed and came on the court in an attempt to stop Toole. Seeing trouble in the making, Coach Sloan ordered the Blues from the court. When the court had cleared, Wofford's captain, Donnie Fowler, displayed great sportsmanship by helping down the partially cut net and presenting it to Toole with his congratulations. The fans gave Fowler a hearty round of applause.

RECORDS TOPPLE IN WIN OVER NEWBERRY

Sophomore forward Ron Ragan collected a record 43 points and senior Bob Burgess tossed in 35 in leading the Blue Hose to a crushing 150-91 record-breaking win over Newberry in the first round of the Little Four tournament. The 150 points was a new record, betting the 108 posted by Wofford in 1953. That was the same year Buddy" Neal of Wofford set his records which Ron Ragan topped this year. Ragan's one-game total of 43 was four points better than Neal's 39. Sixteen field goals by Ragan was two more than Neal's fifteen. Also Ragan's 2-game total of 78 points broke Neal's 2-game total.

The total game score of 241 broke the 202 points posted in PC's 100-101 win over Wofford in 1951.

TEAM CLOSES SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Battlin' Blue Hose closed one of the most successful seasons since Norman Sloan has been here as coach. The Hosemen, playing the NAIA tournament in North Carolina, lost a hard-fought 100-96 game to top-seeded Lenoir-Rhyne of Hickory, N. C. Presbyterian College was the only school from South Carolina participating in the tournament.

In all games played the Blue Hose held a 20-6 record. They were Little Four champs and shared the state title with Furman. This is a very great achievement and the team along with Coach Sloan is to be commended. The entire team will be intact for next year except for the loss of forward Bob Burgess of Burlington, N. C. Burgess was one of the top men in the Hose lineup all year, and he will be sorely missed. Although the hosemen are losing Burgess, they will have all-state forward Dave Thompson back in the lineup next year. We'll be looking forward to another great season next year.

Warm Weather Again Attracts Net Team Lovers

• Team Faces Miami Squad

With the arrival of warm weather, the first sport attraction at PC is the tennis court. This year's powerful net squad is again preparing for the tough schedule. Presbyterian faces Miami and Rollins, two of the top five teams in the country.

Following close behind are North Carolina, Virginia, Yale, and Duke. With such strong teams facing them this season, the PC squad has been practicing hard all year and is now beginning to show top form.

According to Coach Leighton the team, even without Jackson and Brownlow, will be stronger than last year's. Number One man, Allen Morris should go undefeated. We are facing the toughest college schedule of any team in the country, but the boys have been practicing hard an dhave shown fine team spirit.

Presbyterian is the only team in the nation to play Miami three times. Miami is rated No. 1 nationally.

Coach Leighton stated also, "Among the players on the squad, Guice Potter has shown more improvement than any other player at PC in one semester."

The ladder isn't complete yet, but the following players will play in order: Morris, Macatee, Hunt, Potter, and Berry. The No. 6 position has not been decided.

The doubles teams are unsettled to date.

Blue Stockings Conquer Terriers In Little Four Championship Tilt

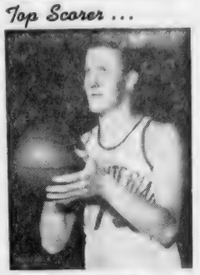
Hose Go Undefeated In Conference Basketball

Presbyterian College won the Little Four Conference championship with a 94-87 victory over Wofford in Spartanburg Saturday night. In winning the title, PC remained undefeated in conference play.

Big guns for the Blue Hose were Ron Ragan and Bruce Thompson with 36 and 28 points respectively, while Wofford's center, Paul Reinartz, led his team with 29 points.

Wofford pulled away from the Blue Hose early and at one time had a 35-26 lead. With accurate shooting and determination the Blue Hose overcame the Terriers' lead and held on until they were tied 71-71 late in the game.

With Ragan leading the way the Hose pulled away for good, and the championship was theirs. This was the first championship for the Blue Hose since they defeated Wofford 84-76 for the 1952 title.



Ron Ragan's 79 point total for both tournament games snapped a record of 70 points set by Ellerbe Neal of Wofford in 1953.

PC ended the season with eight win and no losses in conference play. Wofford had four wins and four losses; Erskine had no wins and seven losses.

Ragan Selected As All-Tourney Captain

PC's great scoring ace, Ron Ragan, was the number one choice on the Little Four all-tournament team, and was selected for honorary captain. Ragan was chosen after leading his team to the championship and breaking three individual records during the tournament.

Others on the team selected by coaches were Craig Templeton, Dennis Mathis, and Donnie Fowler of Wofford, and Ed Blanko of Newberry.

Those chosen on the second team were Thompson, Toole, and Weil, of Presbyterian; Moore, and Robinson, of Erskine; and Reinartz of Wofford.

Schembechler Quits, To Take Post in Ohio

Coach Ed Schembechler has resigned his position as assistant football coach. He leaves today to accept the position of assistant football coach under Doyt Perry at Bowling Green University in Ohio.

Coach Schembechler coached one year at Ohio State, and after serving two years in the army, he came to PC.

Coach Schembechler was Graduate Assistant at Ohio State when he met Perry, who was then backfield coach there. Perry, now Head Coach at Bowling Green, sent for Schembechler as his assistant. Schembechler will coach only football in his new position and he relates that he will serve in somewhat the same capacity there as at PC.

Coach Schembechler says, "I've enjoyed my stay at PC very much, and I appreciate the cooperation of the faculty and students. I will always have a soft spot in my heart for PC, and I hope the good spirit always remains the same."

Johnson, Hancock Place In Track Finals

Presbyterian's track delegates to the relays held at Chapel Hill, N. C., last Saturday showed promise for the coming season.

Two men reached the finals, and two more placed. Jimmy Hancock reached the finals in the high hurdles as did Jim Wood in the low hurdles. Delane Johnson raced to third spot in the 60 yard dash, and Bobby Vass placed third in the broad jump.

Considering the competition, the showing of PC's speedsters was very good, and the cindermen should have a fine season.

Hose Beat Newberry In Opening Encounter

PC's Blue Hose reached the finals of the Little Four tournament with a 150-91 victory over Newberry Friday night. The Hose broke four tournament records in routing the Indians.

Ron Ragan, high scoring PC forward, accounted for two of the records by scoring 43 points and hitting a total of sixteen field goals. Ragan's total points broke a record of 93 set by Wofford's Ellerbe Neal in the '53 tournament, while his total record of fourteen which was number of field goals broke a also set by Neal in the '53 tournament.

The total score of both teams, 241 points, bettered a record of 202 established in the PC-Wofford game in 1951. PC's 150 points smashed a record of 106 scored by Wofford in 1953.

The Blue Hose were never in danger as they raced to the win, their seventh straight in the conference. Bob Burgess added a scoring punch of 35 points in the record breaking battle.

Cone and Blanko led Newberry with 36 and 23 points respectively.

Parade of Presidents . . .

Dr. Robert Adams Rated Prince of Honored Men

The Rev. Robert Adams, D.D., third President of Presbyterian College, was born in Eatonton, Georgia, on Mar. 23, 1852, and died in Griffin, Georgia, where he was acting as supply pastor, on August 3, 1930. Dr. Adams was rarely esteemed at his full worth except by those who had the privilege of knowing him intimately. Those who enjoyed this privilege came to know him as a prince among men, a loyal friend, a worthy leader, and a devoted Christian.

He was graduated with honors from the University of Georgia at Athens, Georgia in June, 1873, and after teaching for a year, he entered Columbia Theological Seminary, then located at Columbia, S. C., completing his preparation for the gospel ministry in 1877.

After serving several fields, he took charge in November, 1895, of the First Presbyterian Church of Laurens, S. C. where he served most acceptably for twelve years. He was greatly beloved by his people in Laurens and during his ministry there, the church almost doubled in membership.

On June 6, 1903, he began his service at Presbyterian College as a member of its board of trustees from Enoree Presbytery.

In June, 1907, following the death of Dr. William Gordon Neville, who was President of the college Dr. Adams was elected to the Presidency of the college, a position which he accepted only after repeated urging by members of the Board. His predecessor was for some years pastor.

Assuming the presidency of the college on September 26, 1907, Dr. Adams rendered distinguished service to his church and to the college. His unusual ability, his careful scholarship, his devotion to duty, and his eminent sense of fairness in his dealings with both faculty and students won for him the love and admiration of all those with whom he came in contact. However, after three years of noble service, the call to return to his first love, the pastorate, became so strong that he insisted upon the acceptance of his resignation.

He married Miss Doria Hammond, of Milledgeville, Georgia, a woman of splendid traits of character who proved a great help to her husband in his work. All six of the children are active and useful citizens, and one was in the graduating class of 1937.

Dr. Adams preached and he lived the gospel of Jesus Christ. He left behind to call him blessed a multitude of those to whom he had broken the bread of life. His influence was always for the good.

Kappa Alpha Leads In Race for Trophy

The Kappa Alpha Order is leading in unofficial returns in the attendance for the trophy at Religious Emphasis Week services. At press-time today, figures were only available for two nights of the three-night campaign, and as these were tabulated, they showed the KA's to have a definite lead on the next contender.

The percentages of the first two nights' services have been compiled as follows: KA, 85%; Alpha Sigma Phi, 89½; Sigma Nu, 83%; Pi Kappa Phi, 83%; and Pi Kappa Alpha, 75%. There were no figures available for the Theta Chi fraternity.

The complete figures should be available early tomorrow, a spokesman said this afternoon. As is the custom a trophy will be awarded the winning group in the near future by the Student Christian Association.

'Prince Valiant' Worse Than 'Knights of the Round Table'

"The ten worst movies of 1954" were listed in the Emory Wheel, "The South's Most Independent Collegiate Newspaper," by columnist Harry Custer. His choices:

"Desiree"—The ladies were costumed attractively, making the scenery quite intereting, but we will never be able to accept Napoleon as a great lover.

"Demetrius and the Gladiators"—They should have left well enough alone. "The Robe" was enough.

"The Adventures of Hadjii Baba"—We could never figure out how those tire tracks got out in the middle of that desert.

"The Egyptian"—We don't know just where they dug this one up. Sex in spectacular proportions.

"The Vanishing Prairie"—Just a remake of "The Living Desert," but an Oscar should go to those prairie dogs. And that lady buffalo really put herself into her performance.

"The Barefoot Contessa"—A fairly good movie, but it had the most disappointing scene of the year.

"Beau Brummel"—So what was all the fuss about?

"Prince Valiant"—Just another one of those medieval horse operas that seem so popular today. We could have listed dozens of others.

"Phffft"—The New Yorker best summed this one up: "Ptui."

"White Christmas"—Bing Crosby should just retire, take it easy and never make another movie—how much money can he get? Danny Kaye saved this one from being a complete flop.—ACP Feature Service.

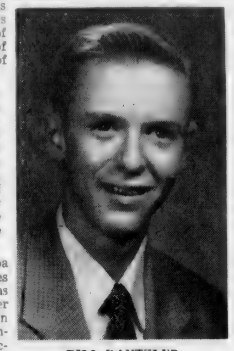
Dantzler Named to Head SCA, McLean Voted as Vice-President

• Lord and Parker Also Elected

Bill Dantzler, Birmingham, Ala., was named Wednesday by popular student vote to the post of Student Christian Association president for the coming year. He outnumbered John Compton of Marion for this top campus post.

John McLean of Anderson was elected vice-president in this same election. Ray Lord of Dublin, Ga., won the position of SCA secretary. Dee Parker of Laurens is the new treasurer.



Dantzler, who served as chairman of World Relations in this year's cabinet, succeeds Tommy Stallworth of Atlanta, Ga., in this post. Dantzler is a member and former president of Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity, a member of the Robed Choir and former business manager of the Blue Stocking. He was also on the freshman SCA cabinet.

McLean, a member of Kappa Alpha Order, succeeds Charles Pavitt of Charlote, N. C., as vice-president. He is treasurer of the junior class, Sgt. Major in the ROTC battalion, and a member of the Ministerial Club. McLean was recently selected for membership in Scabbard and Blade Military Fraternity and is a member of the Block P Club. He is also a member of the rifle team and the track team.

Lord, who follows Jack Edmunds of Decatur, Ga., as secretary, was chairman of public relations on the SCA cabinet this year. During the previous year he was music chairman. A member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, Lord is former editor of the Blue Stocking. He is sports editor of the 1955 PaC-SaC and managing editor of this year's Knapsack. He also is a member of the Robed Choir.

Parker, who steps into the position of Jim Fleming of Charlotte, is a member of Kappa Alpha Order. He now holds the post of Blue Stocking business manager and was formerly sports editor of the paper. He is a varsity baseball player and a member of the Block P Club.

BILL DANTZLER

Sigs Name Taylor, Ware to Lead Frat

Zeta Theta chapter of Sigma Nu fraternity elected officers for the coming year at their last meeting. Named to succeed Pete Sloan as Commander was Bill Taylor, of Greer, S. C. Billy Ware was elected to succeed Bobby Vass as Lt. Commander. Perry Hogue was elected recorder, succeeding Taylor.

Cliff Waddell was reelected treasurer, and, because of the heavy responsibility of this office, Jim Regehr was elected assistant treasurer. Mac Matheson was elected Inter-Fraternity Council representative.

Baptists Plug Missions Work

"Christ For All" is the theme of the first annual Mission Emphasis Week, to be held Mar. 14-18, according to John Compton, President of the Baptist Student Union, which is sponsoring the event.

The chapel speaker for Monday will be Charles Pritchard, a Presbyterian Missionary to the Congo, who is presently on leave of absence to continue his studies at Presbyterian College.

The chapel speaker on Wednesday will be Dr. David Mein, president of Baptist Theological Seminary at Recife, Pernambuco, Brazil.

Friday's chapel speaker will be Dr. John McSween, former President of Presbyterian College.

At a special Monday night vesper service at 6:30 in the chapel, the movie, "Missionary To Walker's Garage" will be shown. This is an outstanding film production by the Broadman Press.

The regular student body morning prayer meetings at 6:45 each morning in the Radio Forum Room will be devoted to Mission Emphasis Week.

SFC James Knight To Replace Sgt. Wood

The Presbyterian College Military Department announced this week that SFC James W. Knight of Logansport, Indiana, has been added to the staff of military personnel here.

Sergeant Knight is a veteran of thirteen years service with the Army. His last assignment before being transferred to PC was at Camp Gordon, Ga. Before that, he saw active duty in the Fart Eastern theater for three years, and during World War II, Knight was in the European Theater of Operations.

The new instructor is married, and is the father of two girls. The family will reside here in Clinton.

Professor Harris Receives Injuries

Dr. John W. Harris, professor of English at Presbyterian College, was seriously injured in a fall in his home last Sunday evening. He suffered a broken leg and shock.

Dr. Harris suffered the same injury two years ago in a fall from a ladder.

His classes are being met currently by other members of the faculty.

Regrets . . .

The editor regrets that there was an insufficient supply of Blue Stockings to complete the mailing list for Mar. 4, because of the number of issues consumed by the overflow crowd on The Military Ball weekend.

Dorm Construction Begins in Few Days

Construction on Presbyterian College's new dormitory is expected to begin within the next week, President Marshall W. Brown announced. Indications were that it would cost $223,660 and will provide room facilities for 96 students. The goal is to have the dormitory ready for occupancy at the start of the fall semester next September.

Bids on the dormitory were taken from nine of the leading construction companies in this area. They were opened Tuesday and considered by Dr. Brown and the building committee of the Presbyterian College Board of Trustees. The indicated cost figure of $223,660 was based on acceptance of the lowest bid submitted.

Informal ground-breaking ceremonies are planned as soon as arrangements have been completed with the contractor. The new dormitory will be placed next to the present Student Christian Association building and across the Plaza from the Jacobs Science Hall.

Dr. Marshall W. Brown announced in chapel last Wednesday that the college is still in need of several thousand dollars to complete the budget for the dormitory construction.

In speaking on the plans, he remarked that the highest bid received by the the school was $253,000. Brown acted on instruction of the Trustees and signed the contract to build with the lowest bidder.

Twenty-eight Students Qualify for Dean's List

Nineteen Make Honor Roll; Nine Others Round Out Roster

Twenty-eight students have been named to the Dean's List for last semester, it has been announced by G. Edward Campbell, registrar. To qualify for this select group a student must have at least a 2.4 grade-point ratio, or above, for the semester's work.

All students named to the honor, and have a 2.6 ratio or better, are given unlimited cuts up to twelve for the following semester. The majority of Dean's Listers this semester have qualified for the privilege of extra cuts.

The Registrar released the following students as those making the coveted list:

George Dailey, Guy Haddix, Ray Lord, Carter Martin, Edwin Rayfield, James Regehr, and Tommy Richards.

Also, Charles Whisnant, Sam Workman, Frank Young, Marcus Adams, Sam Cornwell, and John Hall.

Also, Bill Hamilton, Edward Hay, Herbert Laws, William McCutchen, Robert Reynolds, and Fred Thompson.

Other students who made the Dean's List, but who failed to collect enough quality points for the Honor Roll are Jeanette Blanton, Frank Burgess, Fred Burns, Gene Butler, Perry Hogue, Charles Johnson, John Knox, Tommy Stallworth, and Shirley Sumerel.

The annual Dean's list bnaquet, held each year in honor of students with qualifying averages, has not been given a definite date as of press time. It is scheduled to occur sometime in the late Spring, however.

Sorority Gals . . .

Coeds Reorganize Local Sorority

The movement to reorganize the defunct Alpha Psi Delta sorority was brought to a climax this week when final plans were laid for its rebirth.

The group plans to reorganize on a local basis. Their plans for the future include closed socials, open socials, and a girl-break dance, to enable the boys to become acquainted with the sorority.

All the coeds have expressed an interest in renewing the social sisterhood. The two girls who have led the organizational drive are Shirley Sumerel of Laurens, and Frances Winn, of Clinton. The coeds have been generous in devoting their time to help reorganize the group.

When asked about possible national affiliation, Mrs. E. H. Hall, adviser for the group, said, "We plan to remain as a local group, unless the girls wish to petition a national group later."

The movement was given added impetus this week when Professor K. N. Baker cleared the eligibility of all the girls. Local alumnae have pledged their support of the members in the effort to revive the society.

It was pointed out that the new group will be required to abide by the rules governing all fraternity activities, as laid down by the Inter-Fraternity Council.

Poor Manners

Emily Post, famed etiquette adviser of all time, has set forth rules for proper manners which govern our formal actions. These rules must be followed strictly in order to maintain social prestige with our fellow man.

Most of us follow these rules of etiquette, but many of us do not use the God-given common sense for which we have no written rules, especially in the instances in which we deal with people on the campus and in the town of which we are citizens.

A hospitable lady of Clinton kindly offered to open her home last weekend in order to entertain a student's date for the dances. After preparing for the young lady's visit, the hostess received a delayed shock when the weekend was completed and she had received no word from the student or his date. This act displayed a great selfishness and carelessness which is inexcusable. Of course, this does not express the attitude of the majority of the student body.

Other instances of the lack of courtesy are exhibited on campus each day. In Chapel, whether or not we enjoy the speaker, we should be polite enough to keep our mouths shut, commonly speaking, while others are perhaps striving to listen. A feeling of disgust and ill comfort overcomes the audience and the speaker by the constant mumbling of an ill-bred, unconcerned person.

We often grow weary during the stress and strain of college activities, but this weariness should not cause us to become uncontrollably rude during the worship of our God in song Many of us hiss and boo when we are asked to stand to sing hymns of praise to God. We turn "thumbs down" not only to the muscular anguish we suffer when rising, but also to Him Who made us.

We are not perfect; unavoidable mistakes place us in delicate situations. Yet, common sense should guide us to better manners.

It's a little late for snow, but Ed Stultz is knee-deep in it. Looks like Jackie really did a job!

Question of the week—the nurse down at Hay's Hospital inquired about the state of Charlie Graham's date's "health." 'Nuff said to those who know.

Move over, stags. Herbie Laws has joined the ranks again. Don't worry, Herbie—it gets well after a while.

No wonder "Sack" Tsacrios couldn't get anywhere this weekend—his date thought he was engaged! How come you didn't tell us about this, "Sack?"

No, Jim Fleming, Charles Dukes is not "Gus Gash." Nice try, though.

Well, back to the trees and shrubbery. Watch what you do —we are!

DOGGONE

What this college needs is a good canine mascot.

There is definitely a lack of some animal object to bear the brunt of columnist's jokes in the Blue Stocking, of an animal to be classified as the Spirit of Ol' PC, of an animal to wear the colors of the school at the athletic encounters of the school, and of an animal to troop the lines at drill in the morning.

This has not always been the case. Several years ago there was a little fellow who ran around the campus looking quite like the canine hero he was, the emperor of the world of Dogdom, Tojo.

Perhaps the most famous mascot PC has ever had was the one and only Psycho. Now Psycho was no ordinary pup, he was respected by one and all. Each morning at exactly 0800, Psycho could be seen preparing the troops for their morning inspection; he always got in the Battalion Commander's hair, because he was Psycho, they didn't remove him from the ranks.

Immediately after drill, our hero would make his way to class in Neville Hall and listen intently for an hour. When the 9:50 class rolled around, his hangover usually had the best of him, for he would always meander over to the Canteen to hang around with the boys until mail call. The rest of Psycho's day would be spent in leisure activities, sack time, chow, and the other diversifications of PC fun.

Prof Sets Record, 38 Dates

A Baylor University history professor here is resting up after dating 38 coeds in one weekend.

Any hopes for a quiet Friday, Saturday and Sunday were lost when he was presented with a signed schedule by the damsels who had plotted his time among themselves. The bachelor professor was the winner of the university's "Garrison Dating Contest."

Dates, beginning at 4:00 o'clock Friday afternoon, included luncheons, dinners, breakfasts, one-hour coffee and mail dates, several Sunday church dates, seventeen trips to local restaurants for meals and refreshments.

Nine extra young ladies were on a waiting list, in the event of cancellation of any date due to illness.

To the question of what possible effect this overwhelming gesture might have on him, "It may be the turning point of my life," he stated to Baylor Lariat reporter Joyce Chelf. "Instead of a recluse I may become a Casanova," he said.

The Lariat reported that rumor had it that all the professor's history classes received a cut on Monday, in order to allow him to recuperate from milk, ice cream, hamburgers, coffee, grapefruit, and other edibles consumed on the hour every hour.—ACP Feature Service.

Y. O. Hogs the Spotlight

By Drayton Cooper

Editor's Note: Mr. Why, outstanding syndicated columnist for the Blue Stocking, has come down with a bad case of Spring fever. His fever is not the usual run-of-the-mill brand, however—Why has the Spring sports fever. Last week, after recupreating from the dances, he accepted an invitation to attend the National Headline Writing Contest, sponsored by the Bleary Eyed Headliners Association of Whatchimacallit, Wisconsin. The prize for the best writer was a 30-pound slug of unmelted babbit from which the champion could cut his favorite headline.

As we begin the column, we wish to inform you that this is an on-the-spot version of exactly what happened, written by Why's side-kick, and kinsman, I. Dunno Why.

48 Point Erbar Stadium, Whatchimacallit, Wisconsin . . . Special to the Blue Stocking.

Tonight we are about to witness the greatest event in all journalism, the annual Headline Writing Contest. It's a great night for it, there's a nip in the air that should be to the advantage of all contestants. The night is a crisp, cool Wisconsin evening; the smell of cheese is drifting into the stadium from across one of the lakes that bound the great arena here in this small mid-western town.

The crowd is tense. Nearly 96,000 avid newspaper fans are here to witness this colossal event. What a show this will be! Among the throng is a group of supporters that has come all the way from Clinton, S. C., a town of 8,000 people located in the Piedmont section of the state. The moral standards of this town are equal to any in South Carolina. These rabid people are here to cheer on their hero, Yorick O. Why.

There's a hush that's falling over the multitude now; they sense that the main event is about to commence. The ring announcer steps to the microphone to introduce the finalists in this year's competition; the spotlight plays on him. There's a wild cry as Why's name is read out . . . women scream; men go berserk; it's easy to see he's the favorite.

The announcer and the referee give the typists their last minute instructions, explain the ground rules to them, and the classic of the century will soon be underway. Not since the days of H. O. Myth has there been such interest in writing headlines. Loyal Blue Stocking subscribers will remember that Myth copped the National event back in '48 and has been the uncontested champ ever since. This year he gave up his claim on the title when it was rumored that the last Headline bout held in his home-town of Glutout, Ga., had been fixed.

Now they're ready to go . . . the ten-round main event for the National Headline championship, between P. U. Pydog of the Wofford College newspaper, and the world renowned Y. O. Why of the Blue Stocking.

The typewriters begin to rattle . . . there's a large screen in view of all the myriads of people here that'll be flashing an image of what these two geniuses write. There goes the first letter from Why's faithful old Woodstock, N . . U . . T . . It's coming a little faster now, the crowd senses the jump that Why has on his opponent; the beginning to cheer him on, NUT B . . O . . T . . S. There it is, the first headline, NUT S You should hear that crowd roar . . . guns ... hats are thrown into the air, the first round ... and Why has won it.

Now the two writers are hard at it again ... eryone is silent, waiting anxiously for the ... words. There goes that old beat-up Wood... of Why's. Here comes the first letter—B . . A . . T. That's the first word of this round. ... a writer this Why is. Look at that headline ... out of that typewriter! Here comes the ... W . . O . . F . . F . . O . . R . . D. That's it— Wofford. Wait a minute, what's that dis... ance? The Wofford manager is rushing on t... field, he's saying something about a foul or s... thing. THREE SENIORS LEAD PC CINDERMEN

Three very fine senior trackmen lead this year's team into their ...gged schedule which opens here in Clinton with the University of ...uth Carolina next week.

These boys are John Fesperman, from Waycross, Ga.; Bob Falls ... Rock Hill, S. C.; and Herb Laws, from Cleveland, Tenn. All ...ree have very good past records and are showing up great in prac... ...es. Fesperman was state champ two seasons ago in the two-mile ...ent and was edged out last year by USC's Garn McBride, who, incidentally, graduated last year. Fesperman also runs a top flight ...ile.

Bob Falls also was state champ in the low hurdle two seasons ago ...d last year was beaten by about an inch.

Herb Laws has steadily improved since coming to PC and has developed into a very swift 440- and 880-yard runner.

Also back from last year are the two state champions, Jimmie ...ancock, from Rock Hill, S. C., and Bobby Vass from Atlanta, Ga.

Hancock, a sophomore, was state high school title holder of the ...0 high hurdles, and in his first year at PC kept up his winning ...ays. His winning time in the state meet last year was 15.6 minutes ...nd this year in practice runs he has been clocked at 15.5.

Vass is a junior, and beside being state champion in the broad ...mp, he runs among the leaders in the 100 and 220 dashes. In the ...door meet at Chapel Hill, N. C., Vass leaped 22 ft. 11 in. to place ...ird. This jump out of doors would have covered at least 24 ft., ...nd that would have been a new state record.

Leading the dashmen this year will be the spohmore flash, De... ...ne Johnson. Johnson beat state champ Woodlee during a regular ...eet last year in the 100 and 220 dashes.

FOOTBALL TEAM LOOKS GOOD

The PC gridmen will boast the heaviest line since 1951 next year. ...he team as a whole will be much stronger.

The Spring practice session will end today with a game in Hick... ...ry, N. C., against Lenoir-Rhyne College.

The line especially has shown much improvement. Robert Har... ...ington, a senior, will return next year to play out his eligibility. ...lso back with the team after a season of absence is Wayne Shoe... ...aker, a rugged tackle. These two big men along with sopohmores ...ee Frierson, Alvis Poe and Tommy Warren, transfer James Lee, ...nd freshman Jim McLaughlin, will give the Hose a hard wall up ...front.

The backfield, sparked by the fine running of Gene Butler, will ...ive the opposition plenty to worry about. Injuries have hampered ...he backs this Spring. The most serious injury was a broken leg of ...alfback Raymond Johnson.

Coach Crutchfield will depend heavily on next year's freshmen ...also.

MAYS ELECTED GOLF TEAM CAPTAIN

Sophomore sensation Warren Mays of Thomasville, Ga., was vot... ...ed golf captain for the 1955 season. Mays was captain of last year's ...team which was co-holder of the state title.

Baseball Season Opens, First Game with Davidson

The Presbyterian College College baseball team will begin its season on Mar. 21 with Davidson at Clinton.

The team practiced three weeks in preparation for the inra-squad game last Saturday. The regulars from last year's team defeated the new players 9-4 in eight innings.

The highlight of the game was a home-run hit over the fence in left field by Luther Welch in the fifth inning. Pitchers Harry Hamilton, Le-Land Brown, Billy Johnson, and Johnny Tennant are welcomed back to the team this year. The openings left by graduates of the last year pitching ranks are being filled by J. C. Gosnell, Charles Malpass, and Bill Taylor. The catchers for the coming season will be hard-hitting Bill Tiller and the reliable Jennings Roberts.

The remainder of the infield is set with Luther Shealy and Marshall Tobias competing for the first base slot in the starting line-up. Tommy Reeves will be at the second base position. Bill Yearick, freshman from Miami, Fla., will be at shortstop; and George Blue moves from last year's shortstop position to third base, rounding out the starting infield.

Cecil Geddings will be the utility infielder. Luther Welsh at center field and Dee Parker in left field are two experienced outfielders from past seasons. LeVon Tanner will begin at right field with the squad this season.

Coach Guy Misenheimer, Jr., former Presbyterian College pitching star, stated: "With a lot of hard work from all of the boys and some good hustle, we will be a hard team to beat this year."

Netters Hit Road, Face Rough Foes

• PC'uns Meet Miami, Rollins

The Presbyterian College tennis team will journey to Florida next Saturday morning to begin a one week tour of three colleges. The first match will be held on Monday, Mar. 14, at Florida State College, Tallahassee, Fla., and will begin the regular 1955 season.

Last spring Coach Keith Pitchford guided the Florida State Seminoles to thirteen wins in eighteen starts against a standout competition. Coach Pitchford begins his second season as Seminole net mentor this year.

Rollins will play host to the Blue Hose netters at Winter Park, Fla., on Tuesday, Mar. .5. This match will be the most important clash of the tour, according to Coach Leighton.

With Alfredo Millet and Alberto Danel, the two Mexican Davis Cup stars who have led Rollins to a high rating in the national rankings in recent years gone by graduation, Coach Jim McDougall of Rollins faces a rebuilding job for the 1955 season.

The Chilean Davis Cup players, Memo and Eduardo Garcia will give the PC No. 1 doubles team excellent competition.

Allen Morris will face Memo Garcia in the No. 1 singles match.

The netters will face the University of Miami Hurricanes at Coral Gables, Fla., on Mar. 17 and again on Friday, Mar. 18.

Coach Bill Lufler, who is now in his seventh year as net coach at the University of Miami, will, according to Coach Leighton, present an unbeatable team.

Miami was rated as the top net team in the country last year.

Lufler coached for many years at Presbyterian College, where his teams rocketed to national prominence on the wings of a phenomenal record of 118 wins against four losses over a six year span.

The team will return to the campus in one week to face Erskine College on Tuesday, Mar. 22.

Almon E. Spencer Twice President of Presbyterian

Few men in the Presbyterian church divided him from the Church in the United States could be loved so much.

In the Presbyterian Church he rendered equally important service. He was an elder of the First Church of Clinton, clerk of session, moderator of the South Carolina Presbytery, and held the honor of being one of only three laymen who has ever made moderator of the Synod of South Carolina since the organization in 1861. He served in his high ecclesiastical office in 1914.

To the civic life of the city of Clinton he also contributed valuable service. He was a past president of the Chamber of Commerce, a charter member of the Kiwanis Club, and Chancellor Commander of the Knights of Pythias.

To the thousands of students who have passed through the portals of Presbyterian College in his forty-eight years of service, Almon Edwin Spencer was a friend, a beloved teacher, a companion, and a champion. It was of him that graduates usually asked first, for his scholarship, his goodness, his sterling character remain impressed in the minds of those who studied under him.

Dr. Spencer came from a fine stock of Presbyterians; he was born in Tuskegee, Alabama, in 1867. In 1888 he received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Centre College, summa cum laude. In 1897 he added to his education by earning a Masters at Centre, and in 1914 his alma mater honored him with an LL.D.

In 1890 he came to Presbyterian College, then just beginning to do the splendid work for which it has become famous. From 1897-1904 he was president of the institution, during one of its most trying periods, and again he served as acting president from 1910-1911.

Besides being an instructor of unusual ability, Dr. Spencer was often called to administrative positions in connection with the college. He was a chairman of the faculty, a Secretary of the faculty, a Treasurer of the Board of Trustees, and Vice-President of the College.

He saw every building which is now in Presbyterian College erected, and he was largely instrumental in the purchasing of much of the land which is now the college campus. He saw almost half a century of uninterrupted teaching, for none of his

Cinder Schedule Announced, Opening Meet With Carolina

The Blue Hose track team, coached by Coach Lonnie McMillian, is entering the polishing phase of its training for the 1955 track competition. The squad participated in the North Carolina State relay at Chapel Hill on Feb. 26, reached the finals, but placed for only four points. Freshman Wyatt Aiken, who ran, gave a good performance in the hurdles, placed second in the high jump.

Coach Mac, who is optimistically looking forward to a good season, relates that he hopes veteran cinderman John Fesperman will break the state record for two miles. "Fesperman has been working hard on the two mile event and he is improving, says Coach Mac." We lack depth in the javelin, pole vault and shot departments, but we should be strong in the hurdles."

March 19—USC at Clinton
March 26—Furman at Greenville.
April 2—Wofford at Spartanburg.
April 16—Mercer at Clinton.
April 23—Clemson at Clinton.

Council to Propose Constitution Changes

Cheerleaders and Drinking Among New Revisions Sought

Student Council President George K. Blue announced today that several changes in the Presbyterian College Student Body constitution have been recommended by the Student Council and approved by the faculty.

These much needed changes will be voted on by the student body during the regular chapel period next Friday, Mar. 25. Blue urged seniors and others who are excused from chapel to attend this meeting at which the changes will be fully discussed.

Blue also emphasized the fact that it will be necessary to have a majority of the Student Body voting, and that at least three-fourths of the number voting must vote in favor of the change.

The changes will be voted on separately rather than as a group. The student president urged students to compare the proposed changes with the articles as they are now worded in the Knapsack, student handbook.

The first change concerns Article IV, Section 1. It will read: The Student Council shall be nominated during the last week in April and elected during the first week in May.

It shall be composed of ten students.

Article IV, Section 2 shall be changed to read: The Council shall be composed of three Seniors, three Juniors, two Sophomores, and two Freshmen.

Article VI, Section 2, shall read: Cheerleaders: Interested persons shall declare themselves candidates, tryout the first week in March, and shall be nominated by the acting cheerleaders or by a petition bearing five names. The election shall be held the third week in March.

There shall be five Cheerleaders

They shall receive block letters and shall be made honorary members of the Block P Club.

They shall attend all football games of Presbyterian College (unless excused by Athletic Director) and shall uphold the traditional Presbyterian College spirit. In addition, it shall be their responsibility to lead organized cheering at basketball games.

In Article XIII, Section 6 shall be changed to read: Drinking: No student shall be while on the campus (including the Clinton area) or off the campus, (representing the college), found drunk, drinking, or having in his possession intoxicating liquors.

Section 9 shall be added to Article XIII and shall read: There shall be no vandalism on any other college campus by Presbyterian College students.

Article XVII will be changed to read: Amendments to this constitution may be proposed by the council or by a petition bearing the names of 50 students and if approved by the faculty, shall become valid (when voted upon by a majority of the student body and approved by three fourths of those voting.)

Blue emphasized the fact that the Student Council had made a serious study of the constitution and felt that these changes are very much needed. Voting, he restated, will not be in the ballot box as in other elections, but will be done during the chapel period with the votes taken up in order to facilitate tabulation after the student body meeting.

New Dormitory Construction Begins; Baker Company Has Contract for Job

• Ground Broken This Week for Building

Presbyterian College started work Tuesday on its new $223,660 ormitory. Contractor W. E. Baker & Son of Whitmire thus began ace with time to have the building completed for the start of C's 75th session next September.

nformal ground-breaking ceremonies saw Presbyterian Presint Marshall W. Brown and the ilding committee of the Board Trustees officially launch the oject. P. S. Bailey of Clinton, airman of the building committee, shoveled the first earth the company of trustees J. rdinand Jacobs, Sr., and Rob- t M. Vance, both of Clinton, d J. C. Todd, Sr., of Laurens.

The building is being constructed next to the Student Christian Association building, and across the Plaza from the Jacobs Science Hall.

President Brown expressed great satisfaction over the beginning of work on the new dormitory building, which is the most pressing need at Presbyterian College. He said he is especially pleased at the prospect of having it ready for occupancy at the start of PC's diamond jubilee anniversary next fall.

The dormitory, designed by Six Associates, Inc., architects of Asheville, N. C., will be a three-story building providing accommodations for 96 students. Its Georgian design, in keeping with the architectural theme of the campus, will feature a main front portico supported by six limestone columns and two smaller porticos at each end.

The second and third floors each will have 17 rooms, with comfortable living and studying space for two students in each room. The first floor, which has 12 student rooms, offers two special features in a two-room apartment and a student lounge.

Heating plans call for using steam heat powered by a gas furnace.

The start on the new dormitory marks the largest phase of a special program of the past several months aimed at improving and expanding living facilities at Presbyterian College. Last summer, Laurens Dormitory was completely renovated on the inside to provide modern and attractive accommodations in this building.

Editor Wants Snapshots

Something Lacking

Sigma Kappa Alpha, local honorary scholastic fraternity of Presbyterian College, had as its aim the promotion of greater interest in scholarship. The fraternity died in 1941 because of the extreme pressure of World War II, and, along with other organizations of the past, its interest was funnelled twoard the V for Victory symbol.

Believing that high scholastic attainment should be the ambition of every student, and that such attainment should be accorded recognition, certain students together with a committee from the faculty established the organization in 1925.

The fraternity has now been inactive for fifteen years. We have had no incentive, other than the Dean's List, to improve our work. The editor of the 1931 PaC-SaC had the following to say concerning Sigma Kappa Alpha and other bygone honorary fraternities: "Work in these groups assumes a delightful, informal tinge; indeed, work is no longer distasteful, having lost all semblance of task."

Interest in reforming Sigma Kappa Alpha must first be shown by the student body and especially by student scholastic leaders. This idea may prove to be quite foolish to many students who may presume that high point averages are achieved by a group which is completely out of the realm of normal campus activity.

In every walk of campus life there are men who have learned the secret of concentration, and men who enjoy achieving high scholarship. The student body should be interested in such a fraternity on campus and should deem it a great privilege to hold these men in high esteem for the work which they have accomplished.

Other institutions of higher learning have established chapters of scholastic fraternities. The need for such a chapter on this campus is great .

Membership in an honorary scholastic fraternity indicates to future employers the high intellect and character of which membership in such an organization exhibits. Presbyterian College should be able to bestow upon these men the chance for a possible step ahead, in honor of student scholastic performance.

Student leaders should present sizable interest in the re-establishing of Sigma Kappa Alpha, and the college administration and faculty may then realize the necessity of an honorary fraternity on campus.

Y. O. Chats With Squirrel

By Drayton Cooper

Spring has sprung! All the little birds have begun to sing! And there's a certain little squirrel named Pat who's teed off.

Now it seems that this little squirrel was taking life pretty easy until along came a mean, nasty old man and did something that upset her. You see, Pat is no ordinary little squirrel, she can throw an acorn down from the top of the tree and it'll bounce back. That's what makes her different.

Now you may think I'm talking about somebody in particular, but I'm not. At least that's what I'll tell them. I'm reporting in pure journalistic fashion an unprejudiced, unbiased account of exactly what this little squirrel told me t'other day.

It all started about six years ago when some fellows called trustees decided that what this college needs, besides a canine mascot, is a new dormitory. Now Pat was just starting out on the road of life about that time, and she had herself a nice comfortable home picked out at the top of a real big oak tree out on the drill field.

The only thing that bothered her was the noise that the Boy Generals made every morning when they came out to play war. But she soon got used to this, because she didn't like to sleep late anyway. Things rocked along just fine for Pat for several years. Then she heard rumblings. People began to murmur something about a new dormitory.

Like I sad, Pat is no ordinary squirrel: one morning while she was entertaining herself at her favorite pastime, bouncing up acorns from the ground ,along came her good buddy, Tojo, the mutt. She and Tojo carried on quite a conversation about things and stuff, but she was satisfied, 'cause he had told her that this new building wouldn't affect her.

But the other day, Pat was jolted out of a deep sleep when some great big old machine rattled the bottom of the tree she lived in. This scared her very much, naturally. To get a better view of exactly what was happening, Pat went running out of her tree-top. There she gaped in amazement as this little old red bulldozer was trying to push her tree over.

Well, it tried and it tried, but it just couldn't budge that sturdy oak. This gave Pat some encouragement. "They'll never tear my tree down," she said. But all of a sudden, another big red thing on wheels came up and tied a string to the tree, gave one big pull, and CRASH. Down came the tree. Pat cried.

After the initial shock was over, Pat got an idea. "I'll make the most of this," spake she. So Pat started taking bets at how long it would take the little machine with the broken teeth to tear down another tree. Well, nobody would bet because everybody had a better idea of how it ought to be done. Seems there is a Clinton local of the Sidewalk Superintendents' Union; all these jokers were right on hand giving free advice to the dozer operator.

As time dragged by, the building took shape. "So this is a dormitory," quoth Pat. "So this is what I've been waiting for these six years," quoth Edgar Wrenn. "So this is what I gave my all for," quoth alumni. "So this is where I'll live next year," quoth Soph Moore, Friend of Dumb Animals.

"But wait, Soph," quoth Y. O. "I hear they're going to put freshmen here next year."

And the cry was heard to ring out from all the other PC'uns who have waited for this dormitory six years, "THEY'D BETTER NOT!!!"

So ends another charming adventure of Y. O. Why.

Mud Pies

By GUS GASH

Men, I realize that Spring is coming on and all that, but let's not lose our heads over this thing. It's nice to be able to put stuff in the paper, so let's hold it down. Spring fever has already arrived on the P. College campus, as can be sen by scenes like the docking of the Tri-bord Yacht Club's fleet.

It's also rumored that the Spencer "Ombre" Club is planning to move to the plaza shade tree. However, things have not been so lax that we haven't any mud. For instance:

Dave "Twinkletoes" Collins has bestowed a dozen red roses on his lady friend down in Decatur. Looks like a blooming romance.

Mystery Man of the week: Hugh Betchman. We all wish him luck on his bulletin board Old South date, but now we find that he pinned a girl over in Laurens with his pledge pin. When do you find time to study, Hugh?

We're in luck! As soon as one campus romance falls through, another one comes in to take it's place. Arnold Stone and Shirley Sumerel just might be found picnicking at Lake Greenwood this week end. Good luck, Arnold!

'Nuff said for this week. Believe thee me, we'll see you around.

Tee Hee...

The easiest way to get to the top is to get to the bottom of things.

Two men, neither very bright were helping to build a house. One kept picking up nails, looking at them, keeping some and throwing the others away.

"Why are you throwing away so many nails?" asked his companion.

"Because they are pointed the wrong way. They have the head on the wrong end."

"You fool. They are for the other side of the house."

Organizations Flourish . . .

Golden Days of Old

Our puppies remember the days when the trees on campus were half their present size; when Smyth dormitory was new; when Leroy Springs Gymnasium featured boxing bouts and a modern swimming pool; and when grass grew in front of Spencer dormitory.

In those days of the past, organizations of many classifications flourished on the Presbyterian College campus.

First there were the honorary fraternities which formed an integral part of the intellectual life at PC. In these organizations, students found opportunity to indulge in matters of the mind without the tone of task which was more or less prevalent in any classroom.

Chi Theta was the honorary scientific club of the campus. Eta Chapter was established on the campus in 1925, and was a part of the national fraternity which was founded at Randolph - Macon College in 1916.

Interest in Chi Beta Phi was promoted in several ways. Individual members were encouraged to present to the society the results of their particular work; the professors of biology, chemistry, and physics were invited to speak, and round table discussions were held.

The South Carolina Beta Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta national forensic fraternity was established at Presbyterian College in 1922, and held the honor of being the oldest chapter in the state before being dissolved in 1941.

Intercollegiate debates were held between rival colleges in continuation of the Philomathean and Eukosmian literary societies which were formed at PC in the early 1900's.

Track Men Meet Carolina Saturday

Presbyterian trackmen will seek revenge on the only team to defeat them last year, when the Blue Hose entertain the state champions, the University of South Carolina, here tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 P. M.

The meet will pit in its feature attraction PC's Delane Johnson against Carolina's Tommy Woodlee in both the 100 and 220 yard dash events. Johnson defeated the USC ace in a dual meet last year, but Woodlee returned in the state meet to win both races for the championship.

Presbyterian offers strong threats in the dashes, hurdles, and broad jump. In addition to Johnson, the Hosemen will have in the dashes Bobby Vass who is also competing to break the state broad jump record.

Competing in the hurdles event will be Jimmy Hancock who will be relied upon to carry the load in the high and low events, also Wyatt Aiken, Jimmy Woods and Bob Falls will be in the hurdles to help add points in this field.

Herbert Laws and A. C. Reed will be competing in the 880 yard runs. Laws will also be in the 440 along with Bob Hill.

In the field events Robert Harrington and Bob Cothran will be on the shot and Jim Regehr on the discus. Other men in the field events will be Wyatt Aiken in the high jump, Jim Hooks in the javelin event, and Richard Johnson in the pole vault.

The course will last for two weeks, and classes will be conducted on Tuesday through Friday from 7:00 P .M. until 8:30 P. M.

Anyone desiring to enroll in the course is asked to contact Coach Crutchfield or Ed Pyron not later than Monday.

Miami Tennis Squad Trips Blue Hose, 8-0

The University of Miami tennis team, rated in pre-season polls as the nation's No. 1 squad, won its thirty-seventh straight victory yesterday, beating the Presbyterian College net team 8-0.

The Hurricanes have not lost a meet since 1952.

The No. 1 match saw Johann Kupferburger of Miami, trim Allen Morris of Presbyterian, second ranking player in the South, 6-3, 7-9, 7-5.

The team remained in Miami overnight for another match which was played this afternoon.

COACH MISENHEIMER STARRED AT PC

Head baseball coach Guy Misenhemer was an outstanding athlete in past years at Presbyterian College. Misenheimer, a big right-handed pitcher, is from Maxton, N. C. He came to PC after two years at Presbyterian Junior College where he starred in both football and baseball.

Misenheimer had his best year here as a pitcher last season when he led the Blue Hose hurlers with a 4-3 record. This was half of the eight wins, and they overcame some of the top teams on the schedule.

Misenheimer took over as head coach at PC after the resignation of Ed Schembechler. "Misie", as he is called by his players, has the team in top form and ready for the opening game with Davidson. He hopes to improve on last year's unimpressive 8-12 record.

TENNIS TEAM OFF TO FLYING START

The Blue Hose tennis team has hit the sunshine state with a loud clamor. Led by the south's No. 2 player, Allen Morris, the Hosemen whitewashed Florida State in the first outing of the season and then gained a 7-2 victory over the very strong Rollins Tars at Winter Park, Fla.

The team has three new men who have shown up well thus far. Freshman Guice Potter and Scott Watson from Anniston, Ala., have proved their skill against three strong Florida foes. Potter is playing in the No. 4 slot and doubles with Allen Morris Watson is the No. 6 man. Both of these boys have steadily improved, and Coach Leighton states that Potter has the potentialities of becoming an all-time great.

The other new player on this year's team is Gene Gee, a transfer student from Richmond, Va. Gee teams up with Warren Berry to present a topflight doubles team.

The netmen miss very much the services of last year's No. 3 man, John Brownlow, from South Euclid, Ohio. Brownlow is ineligible along with Harvey Jackson. Jackson, from Washington, Ga., did not play last year and was being counted upon heavily for this season's play.

Ragan is Most Valuable In Student Body Elections

PC's topnotch sophomore forward, Ron Ragan, was selected as the most valuable player for the Blue Hose basketball team during the past season by a vote of the entire student body, and he will receive a "Most Valuable Player" trophy which is given by the Broadway Theater in Clinton.

Ragan has completed two years of basketball at PC, and during the past season he was the number one reason why the Blue Hose compiled a record of twenty wins and six losses—the best in the history of the school.

Ragan finished the 26 game schedule with a total of 778 points for an average of 30 points per game, a PC record. As a freshman he scored 404 points for a two-year total of 1,182 points.

Ragan finished the season among the top ten scorers in the nation, and he is a good bet to be right at the top for the next two years. He is well on his way to a four year scoring total of more than 2,500 points, which is quite a feat for any basketball player.

If Ragan can keep up his brilliant shooting precentage, he should resch the 2,500 mark early in his senior year. His field goal accuracy mark has been better than 50 per cent in both his freshman and sophomore years. This fact makes a true measurement of his basketball ability.

Ragan was of great value to his team all season and especially in the Little Four Tournament, which PC won by defeating Newberry and Wofford. Ragan broke two tournament records and helped the Blue Hose break a third.

Dr. D. M. Douglas Saw Building Boom at College

Dr. David McDowell Douglas came to Clinton in 1911. At that time, there was a great juxtaposition of education and material prosperity in the South. For Presbyterian College, Dr. Douglas was the suitable man to meet an advantageous combination of circumstances which has not been equalled at any other time in the life of Presbyterian College.

Dr. Douglas was born at Blackstock, S. C., June 20, 1869, and died at Columbia, August 1, 1951. After receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree from Davidson College in 1890, he went to Louisville Seminary and to Columbia Seminary.

He received his Bachelor of Divinity degree from Columbia in 1899, and at the same time, he received his Masters degree from South Carolina College. He continued his studies at Princeton University and at the Princeton Theological Seminary.

The ideal which always controlled his spirit and practice in education was a union of genuine scholarship and Christian citizenship. His bearing as a Christian and as a minister of the Gospel was uncompromising, yet most graciously, combined with a knowledge of men of the world.

It was his energy, tact, and commandingly clear judgment that inspired his brethren within the church and gathered to himself wealthy friends outside of the immediate College circle. Within six years after his coming to Presbyterian College, Dr. Douglas had initiated many improvements for the school, including a $150,000 fund.

The assets of the college were considered by 1925, in view of prevailing notes, to be worth more than a million dollars. Smyth dormitory, Leroy Springs Gymnasium, and the athletic field were obtained through generous helpers.

Presbyterian College has yet to duplicate an era such as that of Dr. Douglas' presidency. His calm, clear, fine estimate of men, his generous and often humorous comments on persons and policies, made him as great a man as his love of God made him an outstanding person.

Half Million Spent at PC

Although most people regard PC as a small school, facts released this week by the Bursar's office show that over a half-million dollars is spent annually by the college for operational and maintenance expenses.

The exact cost of running PC for one year amounts to $528,039, or $58,671 monthly. Further breaking down shows that it costs $12,320 weekly, and $1,760 daily.

The lion's share of PC expenditures goes to pay the salaries of professors. Another big cost is the dining hall, which requires annually $146,586, or about 28 percent of college costs.

A noteworthy college expense is the cost of printing student publications, the PaC-SaC, The Blue Stocking.

Of the approximate $10,000 spent on Student publications annually, $6,333 is for the PaC-SaC, and $2,582 is for the Blue Stocking.

About 56 percent of the costs of operating PC, or $298,477 is paid by students. The remaining $230,000 comes from the supporting Synods of Georgia and South Carolina, and from personal contributions, athletic contests, and the college endowment fund.

Dr. C. R. Thayer To Lead Discussion

Dr. C. R. Thayer, Director of the Vocational Guidance Center at Presbyterian College, will be the leader of a discussion group at the annual South Carolina Presbyterian Synod Young Adult Rally which will be held at the First Presbyterian Church in Florence, Saturday, Mar. 26, from 2:30 P. M. to 7:30 P. M.

The theme of the rally will be "Forward With Christ—Through Faith," in keeping with the Presbyterian General Assembly's "Forward With Christ" program.

Dr. Thayer will present the theme "Faith Through Myself," in order to familiarize leaders with the Young Adult Program.

This will be the fifth annual Presbyterian Synod Young Adult Rally to be held in South Carolina since the movement was started.

Sigma Nu Opens Era, Begins Lodge Construction

Construction of PC's first fraternity house was begun Friday by Zeta Theta Chapter of Sigma Nu. The brick veneer building will be Georgian style architecture, similar to campus buildings, and it will be located on Harris Street, facing away from the baseball field. The 50x32 building will cost approximately $12,000. It is to be finished by June.

Foundations have been dug and poured and various building materials unloaded. Water and gas connections have been tapped. Much of the work thus far has been done by brothers and pledges in keeping with the plan unanimously accepted that each man donate eight hours work.

The house will consist of a chapter room, a television room, a kitchen, a ladies' lounge, and two bedrooms partitioned off from remainder of the house and all rooms will be gas heated. Floors will be of asphalt tile.

Four students will act as caretakers and will room in the building. Their regular room fee of $100 will go to the college as annual income on the college's $6,000 investment. After ten years the college will become sole owner of the house, being responsible for all outside maintenance, such as painting and roofing, and for all losses such as fire or storm damage.

Sigma Nu, which resulted from Alpha Lambda Tau's merger in 1950, is the youngest fraternity at PC. A leader in the drive for fraternity houses at PC, Sigma Nu is the first to build under the fraternity house program of the Board of Trustees.

Camp Director Speaks to Class

E. C. McDougald, director of the Simpsonville Youth Rehabilitation Camp, gave an interesting talk to the Sociology 110 section last week.

Mr. McDougald's knowledge of the problems of juvenile delinquency well qualify him for his job. He studied at New York University where he earned a B.A. degree in psychology, and an M.A. degree in sociology.

Before coming to Simpsonville, Mr. McDougald worked at a youth center in Harlem, N. Y., and on the staff of the South Carolina Industrial School in Florence.

McDougald spoke on the problems facing the director of a youth rehabilitation center, and of the dire need for men in that work.

He went on to graphically describe several incidents involving boys in his camp now. To

The angry snort of the bulldozer heard by students each morning dates back for many years actually; to the times when old Alumni Hall stood in the background of the campus: to the times when Neville Hall was the Administration building; and to the times when the "new" red brick building was being built at the front of the campus.

The flurry of the giant machines has given the campus new life. The dullness of the regular drone of activity is lessened by the continuous grinding noises which accompany all building projects.

To the rear of the campus the first fraternity lodge in the history of Presbyterian College is being constructed, bringing a new type of fraternity life to the college, a life which will eventually add zest to all fraternity activity.

The continuous effort of many good men and women throughout the Presbyterian Church has become a reality. These people have contributed their time, effort, and, of [illegible] their finances to the growth of Presbyterian College.

We thank the administration of the college and the many people who have contributed to the cause of PC progress in behalf of our brothers, sisters, children, and friends, who will be the benefactors of this great building [illegible] at PC.

Promises of a student lounge and auditorium can only be realized through our aid as future graduates of Presbyterian. Students in the future will be in need of the growth which is being displayed here at the present time.

When we come back to the campus as alumni, let's be proud of the progress of which we were a part and of the progress which will be a part of us in future years.

Congrats

The Blue Stocking congratulates the Sigma Nu fraternity for taking the lead in fraternity lodge construction at Presbyterian College. We thank you for being the first to begin the new fraternity era which has been in the minds and hearts of fraternity conscious men for many years.

Introducing . . . A Story

By CHARLES DUKES

The following is a two fisted story of the bounding main, [illegible] garnished with the salty seafaring terms that baffle us all. Our hero, Heathcliff Pimpus [illegible] stowaway, and his fearless [illegible] get warm, Marvin. As our story opens, Heathcliff and Marvin are seated at their usual table in the Rotten Shark Bar and Grill, sipping a cool Sea Foam Special and dreaming up new holds in which to stow [illegible].

At the precise moment that we [illegible] the mast cap of a top [illegible] causes Heathcliff and Marvin to sprint forth into the foggy, wet, waterfront night. Stealthily, the two young hearts tiptoe toward the ship as it churns up to the dock. Their breaths were choked within them on the [illegible] of the lovely craft. Marvin speaks:

"Hark ye, Heath, 'tis a lovely craft! Behold the truncled fashbeam and the Coca-Cola water marks!"

"Yes, Marv, and she has a lovely name too. The 'Robert E. Leaky.' Isn't it picturesque against those flying buttresses?"

"Uhhhhhhhh huh! 'alk about picturesque, look at that Old Salt lounging on the foc-sle, strumming his turtle-shell uke, and singing, 'Lubber Come Back To Me'."

"Man, man!" (Not to say, "Worm, Worm!")

The craft came surging closer and closer to the dock, and closer and closer, until the still night air is rent with a splintering crash of anguished timbers.

The unruffled sailors aboard [illegible] lovely craft simply secured [illegible] to a splintered piling; then as one man they vanished into the poop deck and collapsed in their sacks, utterly put out with [illegible] voyage.

All is quiet.

Heathcliff speaks: "Hark ye!" (Ed.—Isn't he salty?) "We can lay hold on the laraway mizzen arm and clamber aboard!"

"We can't. It's really mizzen!"

"Oh well," retorts the unashamed Heath. We can always hinny up the snarkle chock line."

And they did.

Marvin speaks in a pensive tone: "Heath, I would eftsoons think a best if we [illegible] away aboard the [illegible] the Robert E. [illegible]

Robed Choir Follows Traditions of Olden Da

By ROBERT REYNOLDS

In "Peace of Soul," Bishop Fulton Sheen wrote: "It is bad when a man loses his mind. It is still worse when traditions are lost."

In this jet age it is quite common to dismiss traditions as hangovers from the dark, dim past; things to be discarded because our neurotic wanderings must come first.

In the midst of this disregard for traditions, it is heartening to see that some organizations realize the inestimable value of past customs and incorporate them in their everyday activities.

The PC Robed Choir is such an organization. It is steeped in rich traditions which have grown up over the years; traditions which really are the vitalizing forces in this group and which are observed by all members.

Since the Choir occupies the limelight at PC this week, it is interesting to note some of the traditions which are esteemed by members of this grand organization.

One of the most important traditions of the Choir is the singing of the spiritual, "Old Time Religion," before each concert. Several minutes before entering the sanctuary, the Choir assembles for prayer, which is led by the minister of the church.

It is before the minister's prayer that the "Old Time Religion" is sung. On the last verse, the minister's name is included in the chorus. This always comes as a pleasant surprise to the minister and also puts everyone off on the right foot for the concert.

Two other songs, "Bless The Lord, O My Soul," by Ippolitov-Ivanov, and the hymn, "Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee," by Beethoven, are cherished traditions of the Choir. According to Dr. Patte, "Bles The Lord has always been sung by the Choir; and it shall be until I am gone.' 'Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee" is always used as the processional hymn.

Another tradition. Rac[illegible] Prexy, usually comes dur[illegible] Spring tour. This c[illegible] which tends to relieve th[illegible] caused by the long bus [illegible] initiated by violent [illegible] "Rack the Prexy! [illegible] Prexy!"

The president of the [illegible] overpowered by the [illegible] and is hoisted up into [illegible] gage racks. This practice [illegible] er humiliating to the p[illegible] but it is an interesting d[illegible] for the others.

Probably the most i[illegible] ant tradition of the [illegible] Choir is the Zeal of Zion. [illegible] Zeal of Zion, Inc., is an [illegible] pendent organization [illegible] the Choir and has as its p[illegible] purpose the spiritual de[illegible] ment of the Choir membe[illegible]

This group was started [illegible] years ago by Edgar A. Mo[illegible] ery and Dave Stone. Z[illegible] Zion has had many devo[illegible] pious leaders, including [illegible] Templeton and C. Dravton [illegible] er, III.

It is also an honored [illegible] that all freshmen and new[illegible] bers are required to set [illegible] stands.

There are two cryptic [illegible] ties within the Choir. [illegible] G C O A A. is made up [illegible] Choir members. The other [illegible] Backroom Boys, is a very [illegible] lect group. Their identities [illegible] activities are closely guar[illegible] secrets.

All new Choir members are [illegible] itiated. This rite is secret. [illegible] However, it's a very solemn [illegible] fair and begins with the ch[illegible] of "Marching To Zion."

Even the concerts end [illegible] tradition: the Stillman [illegible] is always sung after the [illegible] diction.

Thus, it can be seen th[illegible] PC Robed Choir is permeate[illegible] a rich heritage of living [illegible] ions which grows with the [illegible] and becomes part of all [illegible] members.

Y. O. Visits Alpha Psi Delta

By Drayton Cooper

Editor's Note: Mr. Why is still in hiding after last week's issue. His whereabouts have been kept strictly secret. This week's column, therefore, was written, with Why's assistance, by R. A. Oliver, editor.

With the recent reorganization of the Alpha Psi Delta sorority, I decided that this just like Mata Hari, smoking a paper could stand an article long cig, wearing a long black, about the local kittens. Well, slinky robe, and a veil. Real the story begins in the Blue Sock mystic like."

office last week . . .

"Why, I sent for you because I have an assignment of extreme importance, and you're the man for it. Now listen, you might not come back from this one; it's going to be mighty dangerous."

"Sure, Boss, I know, but I'm the man for it."

Why pulled the collar of his trench coat around his neck, took a long drag off the cigarette that dangled from his mouth; he listened intently to his orders; his only words were a quiet "yeah" every once in awhile.

"I want you to get inside an ASD meeting, understand?"

"Yeah."

Later on in the evening as I was busy headlining a story about the scandalous axe-murders that were being committed in Spencer, the phone rang. It was Why, and he was inside ASD.

"Boss, this is Why," he said in a hushed undertone. "I made it, but it was rough. I had to dress in a sweater and skirt and change my voice, but I'm here." I could tell he was pretty excited, so I wasted no time in grabbing my pencil and paper. "Take this down quick! Right in front of me is the main meeting hall.

"In the center is that Caldwell woman; she's president. Well, Ollie, she's lying on this couch, long cig, wearing a long black, slinky robe, and a veil. Real

"On the floor in front of her are two jars of incense, the smoke is filling the room. The lights are low. Over in the corner there's a card game going. I don't understand how they see the cards . . . wait a second." (Here he left the phone. In a minute he was back.) "Braille," he said.

"The prexy is calling the meeting to order. I'll hold the phone nearer her so maybe you can hear something."

"Ladies of the Mystic Order," she said, "a few routine announcements are in order at this time. The new ping pong balls have arrived, along with a new shipment of pool cues to replace that stale stuff." I could hear little squeals of delight. "These will be placed in the recreation room."

"Our new program is going forward. With such competent help as we have, I'm sure we shall scale the lofty heights of our previous group. In celebration of this, I suggest we throw a little party."

"Oh, I know what let's do," said one of the girls, "Let all the girls who are going steady pitch it for us who are not so fortunate, and give us some pointers on how they did it."

With this, Sylvia and Frances rose to a point of order.

"But I have a better idea," remarked one of the number. "Let's invite Nina back to give us a little course in how to catch a husband." This was greeted with cheers from all the apparent spinsters in the crowd.

Why hung up on me about this time. Later on he came dragging back into the Sock office, about 4:00 A. M. You could tell he'd had a hard time.

"Y. O., it was fun, wasn't it, listening to all those silly girls. I really got my kicks."

"Now look, Oliver," he remarked, I could tell he was peeved. "I don't say anything about your group, Un Tappa Keg, so you don't say anything about mine." With this he threw back his trench coat, and there was an Alpha Psi Delta pledge pin. "I was pledged tonight," he said.

I heard a noise out in the hall. Why and I just made it out the back window in time. As we rode off in the Glee Club bus, we could see Duck, Anne, Sylvia, Shirley, Frances, and all the rest of the girls screamng and wavng axes in the air.

"Well, it looks like maybe we'd better skip town till this blows over, Ollie."

"Yeah."

Baseball Team Opens 1955 Season; Veteran Players Make Strong Squad

Rain Cancels Davidson Game; Leathernecks Next Foes

The Presbyterian College baseball team opened its 1955 season with the Parris Island Marines at Parris Island Thursday, Mar. 24. The first regular season game with Davidson was called off Monday because of weather conditions.

The Hosemen, under the direction of Student Coach Guy Misenheimer, of Maxton, N. C., will field a fairly experienced ball club for its 20 game schedule. The battery of pitchers and catchers should be the strongest department at PC, but as usual this will not be known until the throwing arms of he pitcher are in shape.

Lefty H[illegible] ton of Seneca leads the [illegible]ound staff, which also include[illegible] veterans Lefty Johnson of Whitmire and Leland Brown of Sumter, and two sharp freshmen prospects in Charles Ma[illegible]ass of Clinton, and C. Gosn[illegible] Columbus, Ind.

Catching will be Jennings Roberts of Georgetown, and Billy Tiller, of Mayesville, two very capable men. The PC Infield will prove a smooth-functioning unit led by third baseman George Blue, of Union, a fiery little veteran playing his fourth year of first string baseball at PC.

Luther Walsh, of Mayesville, another experienced senior, has been moved from the outfield to shortstop. Tommy Reeves of Denmark, is back at second base and Luther Shealy, of Pacolet, comes in from his regular position in the outfield to hold down first base.

Blue, Welsh, and Shealy are expected to provide most of the offensive power at the plate for the Hose.

Dee Parker, of Laurens, is the only regular of last season returning to the outfield, and he is in center.

LeVon Tanner, of Hemingway, holds down left field and the right field assignment is expected to be shared by Pitcher Hamillon—when he is not on the mound—and Marshall Tobias, of Sumter. Cecil Geddings, of Paxville, will assist Blue at third base while freshman Bill Yearlick, of Miami, Fla., will assist Welsh at second. Johnny Tennant, of Rock Hill, and Bill Taylor, of Greer, should also prove invaluable on the mound staff.

Golfers Tee Off In First Match

Captain Warren Mays has the golf team in top shape for the first match of the season with Wofford on Friday. Mays said that the team is planning to better the 4-4 record of last year.

He also said that Clemson, The Citadel, and Carolina would probably be the teams to beat for the state championship. In a previous match, Clemson and The Citadel tied 13 and 1-2 to 13 and 1-2.

The probable starting lineup stands with Mays, Robert Odum, Gene Mabe, Waldo Dodson, Mitchell Mavromat, and Walter McConnell. Mays, Odum, Mabe, and Dodson are sophomores who showed their ability last year. Mavromat and McConnell are freshmen who show great promise for this year and the years following.

All of the boys have been working hard every spare moment, and the continued practice should net good returns. Odum stated that all the boys from last year were hitting the ball better this year, and that this should point towards a better season.

The team begins its quest for the state championship by traveling to Spartanburg Friday for a match with Wofford. They are all confident that they can take the match Friday and make a good showing in the state race.

Mays said that there would be a state tournament later in May to decide the state champions.

Hose Netters Beat Erskine, Miamians Gain Second Win

Presbyterian's high flying tennis team started on the road to another state championship Tuesday by crushing Erskine 7-0. In winning their third match of the year, the Blue Hose did not lose a single set to the visitors.

In the feature match PC's Hunt defeated Brown 6-1, 6-3. Hunt and Watson then defeated Brown and Parker in the feature doubles match.

The PC team had no trouble winning as Gee, Watson, Sumner, and Loveland took the other four singles matches. Sumner and Loveland took the second doubles match.

The team is hard at work now in preparation for an invasion by South Carolina on Thursday.

The summary:

Hunt, PC, defeated Brown 6-0, 6-3.

Gee, PC, defeated Parker 6-0, 6-1.

Watson, PC, defeated King 6-1, 6-1.

Sumner, PC, defeated Anderson, 6-1, 6-1.

Loveland, PC, defeated Grier 6-0, 8-6.

In the number one match, PC's Al Morris lost to Al Harum 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

The team finished a tour of Florida in which they won matches from Florida State and Rollins but were defeated twice by a strong University of Miami team.

The powerful Miami team, considered the best in the nation, was too much for the South Carolina state champs as they swept all matches except for one doubles. MacAtee and Hunt managed to salvage the number one doubles match by rolling over Kupferburger and Schaeffer 6-4, 6-3.

The summary:

A. Harum, Miami, defeated Morris 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Garrido, Miami, defeated MacAtee 6-4, 5-7, 8-6.

Schaeffer, Miami, defeated Hunt 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

Kupferburger, Miami, defeated Potter 6-1, 6-0.

D. Harum, Miami, defeated Berry 6-0, 6-0.

Buloso, Miami, defeated Gee 6-3, 6-0.

MacAtee-Hunt, PC, defeated Kupferburger-Schaeffer 6-4, 6-3.

A. Harum-Bulosi, Miami, defeated Berry-Gee 6-2, 6-4.

Hunt and Watson, PC, defeated Parker and Brown 7-5, 6-1. Sumner and Loveland, PC, defeated Grier and Anderson 6-0, 6-2.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

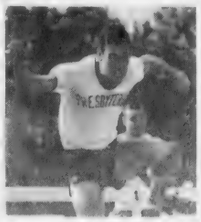
JOHNSON BEATS WOODLEE IN 220 DASH

Presbyterian's fleet sophomore dashman, Delane Johnson, beat USC's Tommy Woodlee in the 220 yd. dash during this recent meet. This was only the third time during Woodlee's college career that he has been defeated and all of these were at the hands of Johnson. In last year's dual meet in Columbia Johnson, then a freshman at PC, met Woodlee for the first time. He made his college debut in sensational fashion by upsetting the heretofore invincible Woodlee in both the 100 and 220 yd. dashes. Woodlee, the holder of the state record in these events, avenged these defeats by taking both races in the state meet.

This year's dual meet has put both boys on equal terms. Both have beaten each other three times. So now sports fans may look forward to this year's state track meet and the Woodlee-Johnson duel.

BASEBALL TEAM INVADES MARINE BASE

The Blue Hose baseball team left Thursday morning for Parris Island Marine Base and a two game series with Uncle Sam's boys. The Hose will be going after an opening season victory to get Coach Guy Misenheimer off to a successful start in his first season as head coach. Harry Hamilton, ace southpaw, will probably pitch the opening game.



Only three freshmen are on this year's team. Two of these three are from out of state. J. C. Gosnell, a smooth, righthanded pitcher from Columbus, Ind.; and Bill Yearick, a shortstop, from Miami, Fla. The other frosh is Charles Malpass, a fireballing right-hander from the State Champ Red Devils of Clinton, S. C. All other players are from South Carolina.

The Blue Hose will play eight straight days, excluding Sunday, starting Friday with Parris Island. Then Monday through Friday the Blue Hose Nine will be playing before home fans, with a three game series against Miami U. of Ohio and a single game with Furman and Citadel.

SPORTS ODDITY

For the first time in the history of college track an 890 yd. run became an event. This happened during the USC-PC meet. This event took place when the tape was placed 10 yds. behind the finish line. This error was not discovered until after the supposed 880 yd. race had been completed.

Carolina Beats PC By Slight Margin

[illegible] Track team ran up against state champion of South Carolina last Mon[illegible] [illegible] 53.1-3. PC matched Carolina in everything but the middle distances and javelin throw.

Presbyterian's top hurdler, Jimmy Hancock, showed his State Championship form as he blazed to a first in both the high and low hurdles. Wyatt Aiken and Bob Falls came in second in the highs and lows respectively.

The highlight of the meet was the meeting between PC's Delane Johnson and Carolina's Tommy Woodlee. Johnson was the only man ever to defeat Woodlee. ACC dash champion, last year and the dashes were expected to be close. Woodlee won the 100 and Johnson won the 220.

Bobby Vass won the broad jump and along with Aiken, John Fesperman and Richard Johnson provided most of the remaining points for PC.

Track Men Meet Hurricane Today

This afternoon Presbyterian College met Furman University in PC's second track meet of the season. Furman is expected to give a lot of trouble in the field events and distance runs, but, according to observers, they cannot match Presbyterian in the dashes and hurdles.

Presbyterian defeated Furman in a feature meet last year.

Presbyterian's strong showing against Carolina Monday has led many to believe that this might be a good [illegible] meet [illegible] The brightest prospects are in the dash and hurdle event.

Tennis Team to Meet Wofford Netters Today

The Presbyterian College tennis team rolls on toward another state championship by traveling to Spartanburg this afternoon. The Blue Hose will meet the Terriers of Wofford on the Terrier's home court.

The team is led by the state singles champion, Al Morris, and the doubles champions, MacAtee and [illegible]

Dr. W. P. Jacobs, II, Bore Name of College Founder

William Plumer Jacobs, II, bore the name of his grandfather. His grandfather and father, each in his own way and time, were lovers of men, notably cultured in personality, and gave a lifetime of splendid services to the Church.

William Plumer Jacobs, II, was born in Clinton, S. C., August 18, 1893 and died in 1948. He was the eldest son of James Ferdinand Jacobs.

Association with his own father and grandfather unconsciously quickened his natural gifts into a command of information and well ordered expression that made him remarkable for direct thinking and speaking.

After attending Davidson College for two years, he enrolled at Presbyterian College where he received his B.A. degree in 1914. Shortly after finishing at the college, which was founded by his grandfather, he married Edna Shockley. In 1933 he received the LL.D. degree from Southwestern University.

Aside from being an outstanding, public spirited, and active citizen of Clinton, from his young manhood he was interested and aided in the development of Jacobs Press.

As a past president of the Press, Dr. Jacobs established ethical standards and practices in trade where printing codes and methods were undergoing transformation.

In his political status Dr. Jacobs was a Democratic presidential elector from South Carolina in 1936. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce in Clinton. He was founder of the Clinton Building and Loan Association, which was begun in 1924.

Dr. Jacobs came to Presbyterian College in 1935 to succeed Dr. John McSween as president. He gave ten years of devoted work on behalf of the college when it was most difficult to raise funds. Through his efforts and those of his father, money was secured and buildings were erected.

Dr. Jacobs brought into being the first football team at Presbyterian College. Because of his love for football at Presbyterian, he was the donor of the Jacobs Blocking Trophy. The interests he held for tennis were unveiled when he was elected chairman of the Junior Davis Cup Committee.

A former president of the Southern Lawn Tennis Association, Dr. Jacobs gave unremitting effort and time to the development of tennis in the South as well as at Presbyterian College.

The development of sports and his attachment for and interest on behalf of the college continued unbroken throughout all his years, and his loyalty was unabated through all the changes that occurred.

Holland New Head Board of Trustees

Ward Resigns Chairmanship; Takes Virginia Church Pastorate

Dr. Harry K. Holland, of Marietta, Ga., and vice-chairman of the Board of Trustees, succeeds Dr. William B. Ward, of Spartanburg, as chairman because of the latter's resignation, President Marshall W. Brown announced this week.

At the board meeting earlier this month, Dr. Ward informed the board that he felt he would be leaving his church in the near future. The board then made preparations for Dr. Holland to become chairman, as it is customary for a trustee to resign from the board when he leaves the supporting synods. Dr. Ward represented a South Carolina presbytery on the 28 man board.

DR. HOLLAND

After consideration, Dr. Ward accepted a call from the First Presbyterian Church of Richmond, Va. He then submitted his resignation as chairman of the board to President Brown, and Dr. Holland immediately assumed the position of chairman of the board. Dr. Ward had served as chairman since March, 1954. He was re-elected for another term at the rgeular winter meeting this March. At that meeting Dr. Holland was elected vice-chairman. He will complete Dr. Ward's term, and will be eligible for re-election as chairman at the March 1956 meeting.

Dr. Holland, a native of Savannah, Ga., attended PC four years, receiving a B.A. upon his graduation in 1926. He then attended Columbia Theological Seminary and graduated in 1929, receiving a Bachelor of Divinity degree.

After serving as pastor of the Conyers, Ga., Presbyterian Church several years, he went to Charlotte in 1932. He was pastor of the Plaza Presbyterian Church in Charlotte for nine years until 1941. From Charlotte Dr. Holland moved to Raeford, N. C., where he was pastor of the Raeford Presbyterian Church until 1947.

Dr. Holland went to Marietta, Ga., in 1947 to serve as pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Marietta. He has served as pastor of that church since 1947. In 1953 he was elected moderator of the Synod of Georgia.

An active student government leader and athlete here in the late twenties, Dr. Holland received an honorary Doctorate of Divinity from PC in 1952. Dr. and Mrs. Holland now reside in Marietta, Ga. They have two children.

Dr. Ward, past chairman and active member of the board since 1950, was pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Spartanburg. A strong supporter of dormitory plans, Dr. Ward came to Spartanburg after filling pastorates in Orange and Madison, Va., and in Charleston and Elkins, W. Va.

New Dorm . . .

The architect's drawing pictured above is that of the new dormitory now under construction across the Plaza from Jacobs' Science Hall. Its three story facilities will house 96 students, and provide a two room apartment and a student lounge. It is being built by contractor W. E. Baker & Son of Whitmire, and will cost $223,660. It was designed by Six Associates, Inc., architects of Asheville, N. C.

A Present Evil

An evil recognized by all students is the waste of valuable time which can never be regained.

We are all able to sit back in our rocking chairs with a curl of smoke trailing to the ceiling, and a dream of self success.

We are kidding ourselves in each thought, desire, and longing when our time is spent in a dreamy nothingness, and action concerning these thoughts does not exist.

Movement should be made toward some of these hypothetical goals which are prominent in our minds. Only a genius is able to accomplish a goal without the constructive learning which is a vital part of higher eductaion.

The boards, nails, and rivets are each one a vital part of the new buildings which are being constructed on campus. These items are soon forgotten, but we place certain faith upon these small bits of matter for our safety and shelter.

The materials in the buildings are joined together for a common goal. Our learning should be united, pointing toward a goal of which we will not be ashamed in later years.

Learning is influenced by the environment in which we live. Many of us live in uncalled for situations on campus which can be corrected with nothing more than retaliation.

A terrible explosion in the middle of the night does not set the precise setting for study. These shocking explosions from fireworks set in the dormitories cannot be corrected by loud remarks from those disturbed or by weak pleas made publicly about the evils of fireworks.

These small pieces of dynamite could injure someone seriously. Do we ever think of this fact? Our living quarters are not exactly fireproof in the true sense of the word. and it would not be a great surprise to wake up early some morning trapped by flame and agonizing smoke.

Y. O. Why, Roving Reporter

By Drayton Cooper

Editor's note: The Blue Stocking's red hot roving reporter, Y. O. Why, is at present assigned to the Glee Club as special correspondent. Today's column was especially dispatched via short wave radio from New Orleans, La.

Howdy, Boss. Hope you get this copy loud and clear, 'cause I'm in a hurry, gotta catch one of those 3 a.m. tours of the French Quarters. Eddie Rayfield, the Norfolk Terror has been acting as the official delegate of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce all along this trip, but I believe these Louisiana gals have about convinced him that there is another state in America besides Virginia.

You should have seen these fellows operating in Birmingham. It was inspiring to witness. The way they impressed everyone was really great. However, the climax of the weekend was reached during the evening show when Charlie Joyner flaked out. You see, he had a date with this little doll, and well, you know how some people need attention.

Talking about show-offs, this guy McCutchen really gave all the folks a thrill over in Birmingham. You know these temperamental artists, Boss well, the pressure was so great on him, we didn't know whether or not he'd make it.

"Cool Daddy" Hill really lived it up here in New Orleans. The last time I saw him, he had a doll on each arm, heading for the French Quarter.

Blair Baldwin has had it so hard, though. He had one of these '55 Packards in Birmingham, and lo and behold, he drew a '55 Caddy in Meridian. They were both fully equipped with wim, too.

The thing that upset me most, though, Boss, was Dr. Charles Johnson. Seems that one of the dates he had came down with a bad case of the toothache. Charlie had to massage her teeth all night long—with his finger, from the, of course.

But enough of the dirt, sounds like I'm Gus Gash's thunder. Let's get down to news of the Glee Club trip.

All the Croakers seem to be holding under the strain. It's a hard fight for the people just don't realize what they go Why, all that food, and all those girls the scenery, it's enough to take their what they came for.

But for all the lonesome roommates, serted girl friends, I'd like to report all seem to be pulling through. They sorely, and long to return to the campus

What's this? My colleague, and com arms, Dashan Rammit, just came in wi last minute scoops—Here it is, then we for tonight.

Doug "You're Not As Young As You Were" Arnette is having a time convin the girls he's only eighteen. Seems h up some pointers on the suave remanis that Continental, John Sobey.

Frank Harrington wants everyone he's being true to his love—Hmm.

Dashan and I hear that Birmingham ing Vulcan's name to Vulgar.

Willie Neville has found another Na this time her name isn't Nancy. He says good back-scratcher.

Well, if all these Croakers here in Room will quit pestering me, I'll quit

Really, it's cool, the most, and the People just don't know how much missing all that school, but we'll be bou next Wednesday, so we'll see you then.

Oh, Boss, Cooper said to tell you-know but maybe we'd better not spring that card will convey the message better.

A Story, Continued

By Charles Dukes

We left our boys prowling around the deck of the 'Robert E. Leaky,' leaving themselves open to all manner of evil. Let us now return quietly so as not to startle anyone, and pick up where we left off.

But first, a flashback to refresh our minds as to the situation in general. It seems that Heathcliff, boy stowaway, and his pet worm, Marvin, have thrust their mendicant persons on a sailing vessel imported from the very latest edition of Moby Dick. And now, on with the story.

Heathcliff and Marvin trickled hither and thither, and after completing their cursory inspection they met the towering spinnacle girder.

"What say you, Marv?"

"Nothing. You know worms can't talk."

"Funny man. What did you find out?"

Marvin spoke: "I was so busy keeping an eye peeled (incidentally, there's a funny story about a guy slipping on an eye pee. Remind me to tell it some time.) for hostile swashbucklers, that I didn't get too much inspection done."

"Same here."

"Why don't we make a tour together, then?"

"O. K."

The examination was progressing nicely, until Heathcliff tripped over a bundle on the deck. But really, it was no bundle, exactly, because—

"It's a body!"

The decision, made while galloping across the deck, was that they should immediately and at all costs abandon ship. Heathcliff paused with one leg over the rail, with a faraway look in his eye.

"Why the faraway look, Heath?"

"Because that's where the dock is—far away."

"What?"

"We're drifting out to sea."

Both assumed the facial expression that adorns the physiognomy of a man who has just won the Queen of Spades in a Hearts game.

"We're sunk!"

"I've already cautioned you once about that mop bucket."

Marvin just stood there redfaced.

"You know," quoth Heathcliff, "I think that as long as we are here, we might as well find out what we can. Why don't we go make friends with that At least we know he ca us."

"O. K., buddy."

Heathcliff stood over t strate from with a close in his eye. He spoke: "Y Marv, this poor fellow wa tim of orange fever."

"How do you know, H

The Lost Art of Writing

We appeal to all suitors to think of what will happen from now when their girl friends look for some momento of past courting days.

What will they have to recall those honeyed phrases, that orous adjectives, those professions of undying endearment? say, many of them will not be able to recall those moments the courting arrangements were made over the phone.

How many modern Lotharios take the time to pen the loved a note for posterity (and possible evidence in a brea promise suit)? Very few as is proven by the terrible burd the telephone lines.

It's too easy these days to pick up the phone, dial a few nu and say in honeyed tones, "Hey, Mabel, whatcha doin' ta How's about you and me takin' in a movie, huh?" Write some like that on paper and Mabel will probably start looking for Romeo.

The trend toward less and less letter writing is not restric love messages alone. It is evident in other aspects of our eve life. Very rarely do we find people maintaining protracted hips by mail.

"I just hate to write letters" is becoming the password modern age. As a result, we wonder what biographers are to work with in coming years. When they choose to write of our generation, they will have to resort to some other me for the only letters that they will find probably will be in to magazine subscriptions, insurance premiums, and unpaid

In our instance we know of several examples where poor writing ability has caused some of our friends to lose jobs, fr and in an extreme case, a fiance.

When we entered the service, it was the first time that we actually forced to write letters of any length or for any great tion of time.

As a result of our lack of practice, we lost two girl friends ated the majority of our relatives, and finally wound up writ our mother writing to us.—ACP.

Captain Al Morris, of PC, did not lose a single game to Kegerreis in the second day's play.

Campus Visitors Have Favorable Views of PC

Two Cornell players and their coach were interviewed this week by a Blue Stocking reporter and asked several questions about their opinion of PC and of the PC tennis team.

Jerry Barrack and Don Iglehart agreed that PC is a nice small school, very pretty, with a good tennis set-up.

When questioned about PC courts and their preference of types of courts, Don and Jerry said that the PC courts were in very fine shape, being much similar to their own. Coach Richard Lewis said that the courts are in wonderful shape for early spring, and that the Cornell courts are not in very good shape this early in the season. All three said that they liked grass courts better.

Coach Lewis thinks PC has a very fine team with a very powerful first four men. Success will depend on the Nos. 5 and 6 and the No. 3 doubles. Barrack thought PC a very fine team, one of the best. Iglehart thought the Hose red. hot.

When asked how PC stacks up against other teams Cornell has played, both players said PC is one of the best they expect to play all year. They ranked PC with Yale and Princeton.

Coach Lewis said he was satisfied with the tennis Cornell played at PC this week. He was well satisfied for the length of practice, and he expects a great deal of improvement as the season progresses.

Parade of Presidents . . .

McSween Led College Through '30's Depression

College presidents are perhaps the strangest groups of men in mind, education, and character to be found in the United States. The old and rich colleges have no great difficulty in securing the best men for these high positions but the weaker institutions often try many more times before they can find the man who "fills the gap."

Dr. McSween, proven success as a pastor, stepped into the presidency of PC in 1928 for a career of usefulness to his denomination and to the educational interests of the State.

Dr. John McSween was born in Timmonsville, Nov. 13, 1888, to Mr. and Mrs. John McSween. His early schooling was in his own community.

Dr. McSween entered Davidson College in 1904, and he received his B.S. degree upon graduation. He entered the Columbia, S. C., Theological Seminary where in 1913 he received a B. D. degree. Dr. McSween continued his quest for knowledge by studying at the Biblical Seminary in New York and at the University of South Carolina where he received his D.D. in 1930.

In 1913 he was ordained as a Presbyterian minister which he most successfully upheld. He became pastor at Dillon and at a number of other Presbyterian churches until 1928 when he became president of PC. Dr. McSween carried the college through a period of depression which marked a time of grief to many colleges.

Dr. McSween is happily married to Linda Washington Crews and has four living children. A resident of Clinton, Dr. McSween is known for his pastoral life and his community leadership which has established him as a devoted Christian minister in influence.

In 1933 he left PC to become pastor of the Purity Presbyterian Church in Chester, S. C., where he remained for many years. He accepted the presidency at Tusculum College in Greenville, Tenn., and remained a worthy presiding officer for seven years.

Dr. McSween is not only a man of excellent ability and attainment, and a genuinely good man, but also a tactful man. His congregation at his churches, his faculty and students at his colleges, and his beloved friends will not soon forget the time and energy he put forth for the advancement of education.

Favorable Views of PC

When asked what they thought of Al Morris, and how he rated with others they had played, all three considered him very good. Barrack said hard-hitting Morris was the best he had played.

Coach Lewis believed Morris would beat any college player in the East. He rated Al along with Kranston of Yale.

About this same time another of the Blue Stocking roving reporters was interviewing the Miami of Ohio baseball players who completed a three game series here yesterday.

Coach Woody Wills is experimenting on this southern trip and will assign his charges to permanent positions on their return home. Co-captains Ron Tappan and Les Lincke related that PC was the friendliest college that they have visited on their Spring tour. They further related that the food was very good and that the campus was very attractive.

Coach Wills, who has only two seniors along with eight juniors and eleven sophomores, expects to have a much better team next year, but he is not looking any farther than this year at present.

Paint Job, Curtains Doll Up Chow Hall

Redecoration of Judd Dining Hall has just been completed under the direction of Mr. L. V. Powell.

The walls of the dining room have been painted marabou, and the window trimmings have been re-done in gleaming white.

New drapes have also been added. They are of saison print with varying shades of yellow and green and are capped with new white cornices.

The tops of the arched windows have been covered with plywood that has been painted to match the walls. The large rectangular windows at the South end of the dining room have been treated with transverse drapes at the top wih matching side panels.

It has been a policy during recent years to repaint the dining room every two years, changing drapes at least every four years. The outstanding factor in the redecoration is that the complete job, including the making of drapes, were done by regular college employees and students under the supervision of Mr. Powell.

The result has been an ideal redecoration while at the same time the costs were kept to a minimum.

Outstanding Signatures At Library for IR Week

A spokesman for the IRC announced today that, as a side feature of International Relations Week, the Mendenhall Collection of Great Signatures will be displayed from Monday through Friday at the Library.

The collection apparently is one of the rarest of its kind to be found anywhere in the South. Several personal autographs of men and women the world over—people who are quite famed in many areas of life—are included in this collection.

Among the signatures to be found are Winston Churchill, Mendes-France, McKenzie King, Harry Truman, Herbert Hoover, Dwight D. Eisenhower, Edward Duke of Windsor, Mohammed Naguib, Konrad Adanauer, Eleanor Roosevelt, Henry Ford, Douglas MacArthur, Chester W. Nimitz, and several other outstanding personalities ranging from statesmen, top military officals, Supreme Court Justices, premiers, dictators, and Presidents. South Korea President Syngman Rhee is included.

In the sports section, such famed names as George Herman "Babe" Ruth, Harold "Red" Grange, Walter "Red" Barber, Bill Stern, "Happy" Chandler, and Ted Williams are listed.

Movie personalities, including Walt Disney, Bob Hope, Ralph Bellamy, Gene Autry, Roy Rogers, Humphrey Bogart, will not be shown on this display becaues of their relative unimportance to the theme of the week.

Alumnus Killed; Loss Felt by PC

Word was received at Presbyterian College of the untimely death of Lieutenant Tommy Sheriff, 1953 graduate of the school. Details are only sketchy, but it is understood by his parents that he came to his death in a grenade accident while on training maneuvers.

Sheriff was from Orangeburg, South Carolina, and was married to the former Nancy Summers of Orangeburg. He was known around the college by his nickname of "Spook", a name that followed him through his days here and in the Army. He was the father of a seven-month old baby boy.

In his days as a student at PC Spook was very active in campus affairs. He was a member of the SCA Cabinet for four years, serving as treasurer and vice-president at various times.

During his last two years, Sheriff was selected as a Distinguished Military Student in the ROTC unit here. In his senior year he served as C company executive officer, and later as B company commander. He was also a charter member of the Scabbard and Blade chapter here, of which he served as treasurer.

He served his school also in the International Relations Club. As a member of Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity, Spook held various offices in the group. In recognition of his outstanding service to the student body, he was elected to the PC chapter of the Blue Key fraternity, national leadership and service organization.

In honor of his memory, Mu chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha will wear mourning patches under their pins. A special memorial service in the chapter rooms will be held Monday night by the members of the fraternity.

Word of Caution

This is addressed primarily to all students who operate vehicles on the PC campus. During the past few months there has been considerable increase in reckless driving, particularly on the campus proper. There is no need to go into detail of the dangers of haphazard driving, because any sensible person realizes the dire consequences resulting from such foolish actions.

Our campus is relatively small and the proportion of cars on the campus is large. This makes for certain areas of the school which are highly congested with vehicles. This fact is particularly true of the road leading out past the Science building and the library to Broad Street (Wunway Avenue). This road is narrow to begin with, but with cars parked on one side of it the space that a vehicle has to pass is decreased considerably.

For this reason, great caution should be exercised when driving around the Plaza. Not only do the parked cars offer a hazard, but people darting across the Plaza between cars are sometimes unnoticed until they are in the middle of the road itself. Thus, a swiftly moving car might not be able to stop in time.

Another thing which all drivers on our campus should observe is the signs which indicate that the roads leading around the Plaza are one way only. These signs are not put up for the beautification of the campus, but are meant to be heeded.

So, let's all use a little common sense when we get behind the wheel of a car, not only for our own safety, but for the safety of those around about us.

Just as Heath uttered his sage observance, a slight rending sound was heard in the distance.

"Hark, dawn breaketh!"

Anxious eyes were cast about to find a place in which to hide away. Finding a no more romantic aperture at hand, Heath and Marv lowered themselves through a space previously occupied by a rotten board. Pitch blackness closed around our stout lads. Having no other light handy, the ingenious Heathcliff rubbed two Boy Scouts together and kindled a small fire.

"What is this place, the crow's nest?"

"Wrong end, Marv. This is obviously the goat's nest. If you didn't have that cold in the nose, you could tell."

"It's beginning to come through, Heath."

"Have you got that bottle of 'Air Wick' in your Kellogg's 'Bat Man' belt? I knew that thing would come in handy one of these days."

"Oke, Heath."

"Hey Marv — have you got a blunt instrument handy? I think I hear a man-eating wild dog. You hear that growl?"

"It's my little tummy, Heath. I'm hungry."

"Oh. Now that you mention it, it is kinda hungry in here."

Just as Heathcliff spoke, the deck above began to heave under the busy feet of the crew members. Wild cries of "Straddle the magget rail" and "Hoist the flailing walliker"' assaulted the land-locked ears of our boys. Heathcliff carefully raised himself so he could gain a view of the deck.

"What do you see, Heath?"

"A lot of muddy feet."

"Oh well, just so they keep their shoes on you won't be able to tell it."

"Yeah . . . hey, you see this, Marv—the cap parrot on his shoulder saying 'Wa-ak! Mo Neki Hokey! Man, is he

Howdy friends. It's time for our blood letting session again. All you kats who misbehaved over the holidays and this week end, stand prepared. Y. O. Why's buddy, Dashan Lammit turned in the dirt to Gus this week, so there's no telling what'll come of it.

Seems Eddie 'Wildman" Rayfield made that big jump from holding hands over the holidays. Melvin predicted last semester this would happen, and to the dismay of all the female sex, it's finally happened. See Eddie for the gory details.

Did anybody see Sarah Caldwell up on the fire escape at Neville Hall the other night? Someone found her pocket book up there. I thought Cothran stayed on the ground.

Melvin Little really made out at the Pi Kappa Phi social Friday night. Seems he and Drayton Cooper pulled off some big deal with a couple of the gals. But what Dashan can't reconcile is why Cooper went to Winthrop Saturday night.??

Y. O. Why Salutes ROTC

By Drayton Cooper

This week Y. O. Why covered the star studded galaxy of military personnel at the red hot annual Federal Inspection. It is the honor of the Blue Stocking to present this ace account of the life of the Smith Guards at PC.

On the way back from the Rock Saturday night, Yorick whispered in my ear that he was going to cover the Spring inspection for the Blue Sock this week. Well, this sorta worried me cause you know how it is, we can't afford to lampoon the US Army very much—seems they don't appreciate it as much as other groups. He assured me that it would be a serious article so I said OK. The following is what he wrote:

PCuns, yours is a proud honor indeed to wear. You have hard fisted hell-for-leather, fit-to-fight, always-prepared Reserve Officers Training Corps unit protecting you. Theirs is a long and gloried tradition on the campus, and I'm here to relate it to the world.

To write this as pure dictated history would be boring, so let me speak in parables.

I too, was once a proud member of that cocky crew. I was a good soldier. One side of my white webing was always white —thank goodness it was the front; my shoulder patches were always pinned neatly and securely in place with good, first rate, shiny safety pins My piece (catch that military jargon) was always clean in the strategic spots, and I had a six digit number always handy in case I was asked for my rifle number.

I knew well the route from the infirmary back to my sack, and I had each tree spotted that would afford shelter from the keen eyes of the Light Colonel Gussie and of his "yes man", the Major. I always had a new and fresh supply of blotters for my shoes on the days of the big inspections. Yes, I am an old and calloused veteran of many hard campaigns.

But let us not dwell on the old '51 outfit. Let us rather speak of the brave, eager young men whose mission it is to defend our campus against any and every invader, to conquer and destroy him, be he Wofford Ruppy Dog, or be he a vicious Communist.

Once this semester, let's see, I think it was in December, my roomo got me out of the sack in time for breakfast and after that I ambled over to the drill field to watch the troops maneuver. It was truly a scene of bravery. Every now and then a rifle would be heard to fall and a cadet would go down with it. But they have no time for pity in he infantry; the medics would rush out, pick up the fallen Legionnaire and the unit drilled on. What devotion to duty!!

Again this semester I was roused from a deep sleep by he stirring strains of military music and the tramp, tramp of marching feet. I dashed to my window and gazed out into the early morning haze; there went the Raiders out for their new conquest of Johnson field. I was moved. Tears streamed down my cheeks as I envisioned all those brave souls facing the task ahead of them, but moving out undaunted by the fear that must have been in their hearts.

I felt I must show them my appreciation for their courage. So I yelled at the top of my voice, and scattered torn bits of newspaper down upon their heads. It was the nearest thing I could find to confetti. Then I chased it with water to show them that even the elements would not hold back these brave riflemen. What a stirring sight that made.

There was nothing left to do then but crawl back to the warmth of my sack and sleep peacefully in the knowledge that I, as well as many others, would be kept from harm by these staunch defenders of the Right. But it was not so peaceful a slumber for me as my dreams reminded me of the gruesome sight of icicles beginning to form on the youngsters' noses and frost crunching under their heels.

But Cadets, your place in the Sun has come and gone now; Federal Inspection is no more, you have had your glory, and truly, this was your finest hour. You have fought a good fight, and won the battle, Johnson field is yours. We are grateful.

In all seriousness, Tommy and the others in the batallion, Col. Smith and Capt. Rutledge and the sergeants, the parade was really something of which to be filled with pride. You have been kidded here, but now I am speaking out of sobriety: it was a great show, and we're all glad that you're a part of PC, a tradition here that all of us, future second-johns or future yardbirds, are proud of. It was your finest hour.

News Flush: All residents of Vetville are warned to have their china and other fragile goods firmly secured come next Thursday. Y. O. understands that there are going to be several big noises down for the day.

More Flush: Limestone's red hot newspaper, The Lantern, has agreed to call a truce with The Blue Stocking. Several representatives of the two papers met on neutral grounds last week and signed an end to the hostilities that have raged since last dance week end .

If this doesn't fill the space Oliver, you'll just have to print a joke.

Head of FBI Presents Guest Editorial for Sock

As a prelude to International Relations Week, we consider ourseves honored to publish the following information and remarks from the United States Department of Justice concerning Mr. J. Edgar Hoover.

"J. Edgar Hoover, the one man really feared by the Kremlin, entered the United States Department of Justice in 1917. In 1919 he was made Special Assistant to the U. S. Attorney General, and held that position until he became Assistant Director of the old Bureau of Invesigation, 1921.

Upon his assumption of the duties of the Directorship of the FBI in 1924, Hoover embarked upon a great revitalization and reorganization prgoram.

He insisted that every man employed by the FBI must be of good Moral, spiritual, mental, and physical character, that every man must have good social and educational background (probably two day hold degrees), and that every man must be a gentleman. They called his foolish. But today, because Hoover's efforts, the FBI is the most effective, most highly spected arm of the Federal Government.

Hoover was elected to membership on the National Board of the Boys' Club of America in 1943, and is a member of the Executive Committee on Public relations for the Boy Scouts of America. A life member of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, he is the author of a 1938 best seller, PERSONS IN HIDING.

The following letter was received by the International Relations Club from Mr. Hoover.

Dear Sirs:

When I was graduated from college, we were warned that we were facing a crucial and trying period, that democracy and our way of life were endangered, that the future was a troubled path. Ever since then similar warnings have been given, and I have often wondered whether such pessimism is wholly warranted.

Certainly, our Nation is going to be faced with major problems and even more certainly, we know the menace of Communism and Soviet imperialism is not a transitory thing. Yet, I have always viewed the years ahead with confidence, and I believe the students of our colleges should do the same.

It is important, vitally so, that every young man and woman be steeped in the history of our traditions. It will be discovered that our form of government is a continuous expression of faith in the individual and inherent belief in the dignity of man.

Without this faith, the continuance of our democracy is impossible. With this faith I am confident that we, striving together, can stand victorious against all the forces for evil in the world.

Faith then is the keynote and our hope, and only when our students become cynics and dupes of the illusory promises of false material security offered by the Communist slave state have we cause for real concern.

Furman Rallies, Drops Hose 5 to 3

Bud Guy pitched shutout ball for eight innings and led an eighth inning rally himself as Furman defeated Presbyterian College 5-3 last week.

The Blue Hose jumped to a three run lead in the first on an error and four of their seven total hits, but Furman retaliated with three runs in its half of the first inning and the game remained tied until the bottom of the eighth.

Guy permitted only three more hits in all while Leland Brown also settled down and blanked Furman for six consecutive innings in his eight hit stint. Brown retired thirteen batters in order and eighteen of nineteen through the seventh.

George Blue was the only Hoseman to get two hits while Tommy Reeves, Luther Welsh, Levon Tanner, Jennings Roberts and Harry Hamilton each collected one.

Because of the first retirement of Furman batters by pitcher Leland Brown the game lasted only one hour and 45 minutes.

Fesperman Tops Two Mile Record

John Fesperman, the fabulous two miler of the Blue Hose squad ran a 9:57.1 two-mile in the Mercer meet here April 16.

Fesperman, a senior from Waycross, Ga., was the state champion his sophomore year in the two mile event. He has won in all the meets this season, but this the first time that he has run under the 10 minute mark.

The state record, set in 1935, is 10:00.4. Fesperman's 9:57.1 run was more than four seconds under the old mark, but this will not go as a new record. Although the state meet will be held on the same track on which Fesperman was clocked, state rules require that all times be counted only when the track has been officially checked, which means during a state meet.

Fesperman said that at the end of his two mile record run, he was no more tired than usual. He said that he felt good during his run and knew each time he came around that there was a good chance to top the record.

Tanner Continues To Lead Hitters

LeVon Tanner, senior leftfielder from Hemingway, leads the Blue Hose nine with a lofty batting average of .421. Tanner has hit consistently all year and has contributed much defensively with his fine play in the outer gardens.

Serving offensive punches along with Tanner are Tommy Reeves, Harry Hamilton, Jennings Roberts, Luther Welsh and George Blue. Reeves and Hamilton are both hitting above the .300 mark, while Welsh, Roberts, Shealy and Blue are in the high .200's. Welsh and Tiller have driven across the most runs while Reeves leads in the runs scored.

On defense, the Hose have been led by Welsh and Reeves on the infield and Dee Parker in the outfield. Welsh and Reeves form one of the best double play combinations in the state and both have displayed fine play around the keystone sack.

Parker, in centerfield, has come through with some brilliant one handed running catches and has a rifle arm.

Johnnie Tennant and Lefty Johnson both have 1-0 records to lead the mound staff. Leland Brown and J. C. Gosnell have both turned in good work. Gosnell's two hit shutout over Furman stands as the top pitching performance thus far.

Brown, the hardluck righthander, leads in the earned run averages, allowing only five earned runs in nineteen innings.

Wood's Injury Hurts Track Chances

Jimmy Wood, PC's jack-of-all-trades, suffered a severe cut while pole vaulting last week. His injured foot received fourteen stitches, and he will be lost from the team for the state meet.

Wood was one of the strong men and heavily counted upon for points during the state meet.

George considers that his greatest thrill in football came when he caught the winning touchdown pass to defeat Newberry, 20-18 this year.

George has been elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, and is a member of the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity.

His leadership ability has been brought out in military as he was selected as a Distinguished Military Student and was tapped by the Scabbard and Blade.

George married Joyce Godfrey of Charlotte after she had attended a year at Limestone College.

Senior Blue is a membeg of the Sigma Nu fraternity and a member of the Block P Club.

George will join the infantry upon graduation this June. He will enter the coaching profession or join a business firm after his tenure is completed.

The Blue Stocking Makes All-American As Rated by ACP

The Blue Stocking

XXXIII Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., April 29, 1955 No. 24

• Sock Top-Rated for Ninth Semester

The Blue Stocking, under the editorship of Ray Lord, received its second consecutive All-American Honor Rating for the first semester 1954-55 period this week. All-American is the ACP's highest rating of approval for a college newspaper.

In making this All-American rating the Blue Stocking is one of three weekly newspapers from colleges in the entire nation with an enrollment of 500 or less to receive this honor.

Director Fred L. Kildow, Director of ACP's Critical Service, pointed out that scores have been checked by adding machine and double checked with score against rating.

All newspapers and guidebooks have been compared and studied by Assistant Director and Supervisory Judge Arthur M. Sanderson to give each entry as fair and as honest consideration as possible.

ACP analyzes each paper and rates it in its own classification according to enrollment and frequency of issue per semester. The Blue Stocking sent in copies of each issue published during the first semester of the school year 1954-55 under Lord's editorship.

The papers are placed under the critical eyes of the judges for a period of several months. They are rated on coverage, content and physical properties.

The Sock received superior ratings concerning news sourses, creativeness and sports display. The top rated newspaper received excellent ratings on ten other qualities.

Some of these qualities are balance, speech and interview, head line schedule, and printing.

G. D. Hiebert, ACP judge for the Blue Stocking, stated, "I noticed that as the semester progressed your writing, especially news stories, improved. Your coverage is thorough."

Since the beginning of the Blue Stocking at PC in January, 1920, it has received nine All-American citations. Many of the past editors and their staffs have made journalism their profession.

The All-American Blue Stocking staff of last semester includes Ray Lord, editor; Ed Stultz, managing editor; and Bill Dantzler, business manager.

Also Jack Edmunds, Tommy Stallworth, Sam Workman, columnists; Drayton Cooper, John Hall, Jim Fleming, Johnny Newsome, news staff; and Cecil Geddings, sports staff.

Also David Gettys and Glen Crofton, typists.

Ben Hay Hammett, director of public relations and alumni affairs, was faculty adviser for the award winning editions.

The Blue Stocking is printed by the Chronicle Publishing Company and all photographic engravings are made by Jacobs Brothers, Inc.

Blue Sock Drops From SCCPA Rolls

The Blue Stocking announces this week that it has dropped its membership in the South Carolina Press Association.

Former editor, Ray Lord, sent editions to be judged from the All-American issues of the Blue Stocking; yet the Sock received no recognition from the SCCPA at the annual convention.

The president of the SCCPA stated that the organization had no knowledge of the top rating of the weekly. Because of the lack of consideration and interest displayed by the SCCPA in the Blue Stocking, the editor has decided that the Sock should not remain in an association which he presumes from all indications, not newsworthy.

The paper dropped from the association under similar conditions in 1942.

At the recent convention, the present editor was selected for the award for the "Best News Story of the Year" in South Carolina collegiate newspaper writing for 1955.

Walpole New Veep Of South Carolina SCA

Ed Walpole, a rising senior from John's Island, was elected State treasurer of the South Carolina Student Christian Association this past weekend at the Spring Retreat at Camp Long, near Aiken.

For the past three semiannual elections, a representative from PC has held an office in the State SCA Cabinet. William Neville was elected president last spring. Jim Fleming was the State vice president during the past fall term. Ed Walpole, the present treasurer, will remain in office until the fall retreat.

Daniels Leads Ministers; Mitchum is Vice Prexy

Don Daniels, a rising junior from South Charleston, W. Va., was elected last night to succeed Herb Bailey, of Laurens, as president of the Ministerial Club of Presbyterian College. Other officers elected last night were: Clyde Mitchum, vice president; Waldo Dodson, secretary; Lyman Harris, treasurer: Bill Simpson, chaplain; Glen Crofton, historian.

Editorials : Features : Humor

Reminiscing . . .

As the thundering fire of the Howitzers fades off in the distance, let's stop to think about the possibility of true international relations with the world into which we will step in the next few months and years.

This well planned week has invoked upon the Student Body a consciousness of world affairs and our relation to the real problems which confront us as students today. Of course, we may read of the important decisions made by our government each day in the many daily newspapers of the state. These accounts do not seem real to us, however, until someone personally prods us with the stick of impending atomic war.

The blast of the big guns on campus this week brings to mind the year 1776 when our forefathers died on the battlefield for our noble republic. Americans won the War for Independence but were not satisfied to relax and let the world go by. As the population now increases more and more of us sit back, take things easy, and let the world events roll by without giving serious thought to our affiliation with the millions of people who depend on the United States for moral and financial support.

Presbyterian has truly shown its interest in government this week, and the many individuals who have cooperated locally with the field of International Relations deserve highest commendation.

True democracy is displayed when the high officials of our nation agree to speak to the Student Body of a small church supported school. We should be quite honored and thrilled to have related to us the opinions of the men who have been entrusted with the government of our land.

These men have come to satisfy the need of the people for the inside information which is usually lost in the scope of interest in situations which are local and more real to us as individuals.

Absolute interest is shown also by the speakers who realize our importance as men and women who will be a part of the plan of a democratic world organization in future years.

Y. O. - Ace Politician

By Drayton Cooper

If International Relations Week had no effect on anyone else, it really inspired the Sock's number one reporter to greater things. Yorick O. Why has decided that the thing for him in life is to be a politician, and is herein announcing his platform for office. Notice, he is not announcing an office for which to run; any would satisfy his vanity; this is just his policy, if elected.

These are excerpts from a major policy address by Y. O. Why, Esq., to the Voters Unlimited Society, in Podunkville, Ga. Mr. Why was in his element the day he made the address; there were fifteen representatives from the sheriff's office present, all the garbage collectors from South Georgia were there; Egory Grelam, president of the Relations Club was the moderator; another honored guest was Secretary Roberta Stevenson, secretary-at-large to numerous executives, and last but not least, a buck private from the home guard of the 47th Army Band was on hand.

The day was ripe for politics. As Mr. Why strode into the tremendous outdoor stadium, packed to overflowing with brainwashed children, a deafening explosion was heard; twelve kegs of blasting powder exploded in the local plant of the Hercules Powder Co. The crowd roared its approval as Why was introduced by Senator S. Jrom Blurmond, only man in the history of the U. S. Senate to be elected on a write-on ballot from P-ville.

The senator had been introduced by Congressman Henry Wadsworth Longfellow Smith, representive from the Umpteenth District, who had been introduced by Mr. Grelam, who had in turn been introduced by the private (not G. David).

As flash bulbs popped, newsreel cameras ground, reporters wrote, our noble hero, the humble politician, graciously went away from his usual routine and allowed himself to be photographed. Why suffers from the rare disease, complexis gretas garbos, which renders him unable to pose frequently for the cameras.

The crowd of plebians recognized what a great honor theirs was to have this honorable, humble, unselfish man in their midst. It was an inspiring sight.

When all the pomp and ceremony had subsided, the speech making began. Why's first words were terrific. He said: "It's terrific the way you people have turned out today. This reminds me of a joke I heard once . . . . ."

But enough of Why's trivialities. Here are a few of the warped planks in his platform:

ON LABOR: Avoid where at all possible.

ON CAPITAL: If anybody knows where any is, clue me in.

ON POLL TAX: Tax polls to the limit. There are plenty of them stashed away in vaults around here.

ON UNITED NATIONS: No comment.

ON UMT: Combine IBM, PDQ, REA, IFC, ASP, SCCPA, with UMT and let Dashan Rammit handle them.

ON THE DIOR LOOK: Let's not falsify the question.

ON THE ATOM: Share the secrets with Howard Hughes in return for full and careful inspections of his property (Jane Russell).

ON GEORGIA: Declare it a part of, well, no comment.

ON KARL MARX: Study his theory of Free Love.

It is upon these platforms that Why's political future stands. When closing his speech, he remarked, "I will greatly appreciate your vote. If elected I will strive."

Hoddo Rooty Rocky Lane! This week there is really dirty laundry on the line. Amidst threats to life and limb the Lily White Stocking presents again the rankest news this side of the cheese factory.

First of all, the axe fell on Chaz Joyner this week end. That's just the breaks old boy, you never know when its going to happen. And just when Gus had bought you a package of wedding presents.

I understand Mills Peebles has lost his jawsocker over a girl up at Winthrop. Congratulations, Mills, after I saw you in operation, I knew it'd have to come soon.

Little Billy Dantzler is all shook over one of those heads on the Croaker trip. It looks like the news from that fine, noble, democratic organization never ceases to flow in.

To show you what I mean, Chandler McCaskill is having one of the richest gals this side of the Mississippi up for the Masquerade Ball. She's flying up in her own private plane to be met here by her private chauffeur in her own private Cadillac. These preacher's kids have to look out for their families' economics.

Speaking of rich dolls, Noble Collins is writing to a little filly out in Texas that bathes in oil from her daddy's oil well. Right greasy girl, I hear.

Well, that's all the feelings we can hurt this week, our feeler is tired out. There is one more thing, though; so many people have asked me who I am, so I have decided to reveal my identity. Stand by, here it comes . . . . . my name is Legion, for I am many.

Hose Netters Are State Champs for 1955

• Blues Cop Singles Championship in Dominant Play

By TOMMY RICHARDS

Presbyterian College, as expected, goes into the finals of the South Carolina Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament today with a large lead. They have virtually clinched the tournament, and only the ceremony remains which will inaugurate last year's champs as the champs for the fifteenth consecutive year.

The Hose have completely dominated play in the tournament since 1938, and there seems to be no signs of a let up. At the same time Coach Jim Leighton has led his team to a berth among the top tennis powers in the nation.

ALLEN MORRIS

COACH LEIGHTON

A Blue Hose player will definitely take the singles championship because the three finalists are all representatives of Presbyteran.

Al Morris, member of the Davis Cup team, still stands as the likely winner. He will meet the winner of the Potter-Sumner match, which holds prospects of being one of the best matches of the tournament.

Morris advanced to the finals after beating his teammate Jerry Hunt 6-4, 6-3. Hunt had gained the semi finals by beating the College of Charleston's No. 1, Jack Fisher, in a hard fought match, in which he barely eked a victory 6-3, 0-6, 7-5.

Morris had previously eliminated another teammate, Gene Gee, 6-3, 6-1 and Furman's Price 6-0, 6-1. Gee defeated the No. 1 from the University of South Carolina, John Speer, 6-2, 6-3.

Freshman Potter, No. 4 man for the Hose, reached the quarter finals by beating Mitchell of Furman 6-1, 6-3, after he had stormed past Brown, the No. 1 from Erskine, in straight sets.

The only upset of the tournament came Tuesday when Freshman Sonny Sumner of PC took a very close match from Dick Macatee, also of PC. Macatee had been considered one of the favorites to face Morris in the finals. After Sumner and Macatee had both taken sets, Sumner, playing brilliant tennis, took the third set 6-3. Sumner reached the semi-finals by default.

The match between Potter and Sumner will be played today with the winner meeting Morris for the state title next Tuesday. Potter and Sumner have both looked very good so far, and their showings seem to indicate that PC will remain among the top powers of the nation in the coming years.

Morris and Potter have not only dominated the play in the singles matches, but their doubles team stand a good chance of taking the state title in that division; however, they will be faced by one of the finalist teams of last year composed of Dick Macatee and Jerry Hunt, both of Presbyterian.

Macatee and Hunt gained a shot at the title by defeating Furman's Mitchell and Price 6-3, 6-1, after they had trimmed Whitworth and Gantt of the University of South Carolina. The match for the title is rated as a toss-up; although Morris was a member of last year's championship team which defeated Macatee and Hunt.

Morris and Potter reached the semi finals by trimming South Carolina's team of Speer and Heinz in straight sets. They then defeated their teammates, Berry and Gee, 6-1, 6-2, to gain the finals and a crack at the title.

Because of PC's dominance in tournament play in past years, interest in the event was on a decline. Presbyterian Coach Jim Leighton advanced the idea of an invitational tournament from which Presbyterian College players would be banned. The South Carolina Invitational Tournament was started last year, and it was considered a success.

This year the team from the College of Charleston won the trophy with a total of 31 points. South Carolina was second with seventeen points and Wofford third with sixteen points.

Jack Fischer from the College of Charleston won the Invitational singles yesterday by beating Jim Bailey of Wofford 6-4, 6-3. Fischer then teamed with Bilton of his own team to defeat Bailey and Goodall of Wofford 6-4, 6-0 to win the doubles crown. Fischer weighs only 120 pounds, but he is a hustling bit of fury on a tennis court.

Clemson Trips Socks, Vass Is High Scorer

The Tigers from Clemson scored heavily in the field events Saturday to take a 75½-55½ track meet from the Blue Hose. The Bengals took first places in the discus, shot put, and high jump.

The Hose showed up well in the short dashes, sweeping all places in the 100 yd. dash and taking first and second in the 220 yd. dash.

Presbyterian junior, Bobby Vass, was the high point man of the afternoon with sixteen points. Vass took firsts in the broad jump and javelin and seconds in the 100 yd. dash and the 220 yd. dash.

The Blue Hose travel to Charleston to meet the Citadel Bulldogs Saturday.

Blue Hose Nine Stops Erskine's Flying Fleet Club

• Lose to Indians and Fort Jackson

The Blue Hose defeated the Erskine Flying Fleet 9-2 here Monday as pitcher Harry Hamilton limited Erskine batters to seven hits. Hamilton picked up a record win of the season against two defeats. Hamilton also aided the Hose cause with five for five at the plate, including a home run in the sixth with one on.

Three double plays were executed by Tommy Reeves, Luther Welsh, George Blue and Tap Tobias, as the quartet played heads-up ball for the Hose.

The Newberry Indians defeated the Blue Hose 7-1 in a Little Four Conference game Friday night. Wayne Boose held the Blue Hoso to three hits while Blue Hose hurler Leland Brown yielded seven hits to the Indians. J. C. Gosnell relieved Brown in the fourth and allowed only four hits and one for the seven total runs. Tap Tobias, who broke into the lineup, played creditable ball for the Blue Hose at first base.

The Fort Jackson Golden Arrows edged the Presbyterian Blue Hose 4-3 Thursday at Young Field in Clinton.

The Blue Hose drew blood first in the bottom of the second when shortstop Luther Welsh crossed the plate, but the Arrows retaliated in the top of the fourth when four runners came in for their total score of the game.

In the bottom of the sixth, third baseman Tommy Reeves walked and later scored for the record score of the day for the Hosemen. The Blue Hose hitting eye was still up to par as LeVon Tanner, Luther Shealy, Cecil Geddings, Jennings Roberts, J. C. Gosnell, and Harry Hamilton each gathered a hit.

Geddings, a flashy little hustler from Paxville, starting his record game of the season, played creditable ball for the Hosemen and was a key man in the double play executed by himself and his teammates, Tommy Reeves and Tap Tobias. Geddings also got a hit his first time at bat but failed to score. His next time at bat he was called out, but later made a sacrifice bunt.

George Blue, fiery third baseman for the Blue Hose, is out for the year because of an injury. Second baseman Tommy Reeves filled the injured Blue's position, while Cecil Geddings moved in to cover the keystone corner.

Pitcher J. C. Gosnell continued to look good on the mound as he limited the Jax to five hits.

The Blue Hose last and third score was made by Luther Shealy, the fast Hose centerfielder.

Linksmen Beat Wofford

The Blue Hose linksters won their second game and snapped a four game losing streak by dumping the Terriers of Wofford 11½ to 6½.

Robert Odum and Warren Mays tied for medalist honors with even 72 par totals to lead the way for the battling Blue Hose.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

By Cecil Geddings

Tennis Team Takes Fifthteenth State Title

The highly ranked Presbyterian Blue Hose tennis team entered the state tournament with fourteen victories in twenty meets. Playing some of the nations top teams, including Miami—the nations number one team—the Blue Hose have displayed great team play in bid for higher recognition. The Hose were among the nation's top five last year.

Led by the South's number two player, captain Al Morris, the team easily clinched the fifthteenth consecutive state championship. The Hose had the first four men from the team seeded in their playing order for the tournament: Morris, last year's state champ, Macatee, Hunt, and Potter in that order.

The team has just returned from a northern tour in which they encountered some very strong teams. They suffered four of the, total six losses they hold to date. The other two losses were at the hands of the nation's number one team, Miami. The Hose, playing almostentirely at home from Mar. 22 until April 7, boast an eleven game winning streak which was snapped by Duke on the northern tour.

The netmen have three remaining contests on the home courts, including a rematch with Miami.

Odum and Mays To Play In Golf Tourney

Robert Odum, of Waycross, Ga., and Warren Mays, of Thomasville, Ga., will participate in the Inter-collegiate Golf tournament to be held May 5, 6, and 7 in Athens, Ga. Mays and Odum will be swinging with some of the south's finest golfers. Georgia, Clemson, and Georgia Tech will all be represented. The three sophomore slammers are rated among the best in South Carolina. Odum has lost only one match, while Mays, team captain, has dropped only two. The two have scored consistently low in all matches, although the Blue team record stands at two wins four losses and one tie. Of these four defeats, three have been by less than five points.

The team leaves Thursday for Charleston and a rematch with the Citadel. They will come to Columbia Friday for the initial meeting with the South Carolina Gamecocks. The Blue Hose linksters will be underdogs in both meets.

Senior Personality . . .

Tommy Stallworth Leads Military Battalion in '54-'55

By JOHN KNOX

Tommy Stallworth, senior personality for the week, is one of the most capable and outstanding leaders on the campus. As past president of the SCA and present Battalion Commander of the ROTC, he has led his officers and cabinet in molding a high standard to be followed in the future.

Stallworth

Tommy attended high school in Atlanta, his birthplace. While in school he played football and ran track.

Senior Stallworth began his military career while in high school. After a year and a half of junior ROTC, he promised himself he would never participate in military activities again. Reversing his decision, he is now cadet Lieutenant Colonel of the ROTC program at PC.

Stallworth is a member of the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity, and a brother of Pi Kappa Alpha. He has been elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

Also, he is a first tenor in the College Robed Choir and a Distinguished Military Student.

He is pinned to Miss Mary Hopkins of Winthrop College. The popular couple is looking forward to some definite plans around August of 1956.

Tommy is majoring in Bible and minoring in English. His favorite Bible verse is Romans 8:31: "If God is for us, who can be against us."

"A Mighty Fortress is our God" is his favorite hymn.

He plans to enter Columbia Theological Seminary in Decatur, Ga., upon graduation in June. He would like to serve his time in the service as a chaplain.

Liggett & Myers Co. Sponsors Photo Contest

"Campus Stand-Outs" is the subject of a nationwide photography contest for collegiate photographers, it was announced today by the sponsor, Campus Merchandising Bureau, Inc., for Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company.

Any student on this campus may enter the contest and cop his share of the $1,000 prize money offered for the best photographs and captions describing a typical collegian. Entries must be the original work of the contestant and submitted in his own name.

Rules for the contest are as follows: entries must be made up of one 8x10 glossy photograph and a suitable caption not to exceed six words. The name and address of the photographer and each of the students in the photo must be included on a single sheet of paper attached to the photo. All entries must be mailed to Campus Merchandising Bureau, Inc., 299 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York, and must be postmarked no later than midnight, May 16, 1955. All entries become the property of the sponsor and none will be returned.

The subject of the photograph must be a personality stand-out—an individual student representing a campus type; i.e., "BMOC", "Man Voted Most Likely To . . ", etc. For examples of poses and captions, see the current advertisements for L&M Filter cigarettes running in college newspapers.

Patte and Turner To Lead Musicians

Chris Patte and Tommy Turner have been announced as the co-presidents for next year's Presbyterian College Robed Choir. The Glee Club departed from its usual practices this year because of the increasing responsibility of the two offices, president and vice president.

Other officers chosen for this year are Noble Collins, of Atlanta, as treasurer; Ramon Veal, also of Atlanta, as custodian; and Frank Harrington, of New Zion, as the new chapiain. Charles Joyner, of Myrtle Beach, will be in charge of the secular program for the second consecutive year.

Compton Installed As BSU Treasurer

John B. Compton, Jr., was installed as state BSU Treasurer for South Carolina at the BSU Spring Retreat, April 15-17 at Gaffney. The retreat was attended by approximately 250 students from the colleges of this state.

Those attending from PC besides Compton were Tap Tobias, president of the PC Baptist Student Union, Dick Caverly, Miss Barbara Smith, and faculty adviser, Mrs. Roslyn Martin.

Two Founders Scholarsh To Be Awarded HS G

Two $1,500 Founder's Scholarships have been added to the scholarship program at Presbyterian College, President Marshall Brown has announced.

The grants, to be awarded competitively to two high school seniors on the basis of intellect, leadership and character, will pay each student $375 per year for his four years of study at Presbyterian.

High school principals have been provided detailed information and application forms on the awards, and the deadline for applying is April 28. All high school seniors are eligible to take the preliminary tests, from which group 12 students will be selected to visit the Presbyterian College campus for interviews and other tests. Final decisions will be made on the basis of this visit.

President Brown, in announcing the Founder's Scholarships, said that Presbyterian College is interested in students who have superior intellectual ability and earnest scholastic purpose. He added:

The Blue Stocking
Distinguished for Its Progress
Vol. XXXIII Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., May 6, 1955 No. 25

Social Season Ends With Dances

Woodward Plays for Friday Affair; Torre Performs at Masquerade Ball

The IFC Formal will open the final dance week end of the year tonight at 9:00 P.M. at the Clinton Armory, featuring the Columbia orchestra of Woody Woodward. It will precede the State Track Meet tomorrow afternoon and the always popular Masquerade Ball tomorrow night.

The popular fifteen-piece Woodward orchestra is well known in college circles throughout the South, having played for numerous Georgia, Carolina, and Wofford dances. They have played in several Columbia night spots, most recently the Laurel Hill Supper Club.

Presentation of fraternity sweethearts and a leadout for all fraternity officers and all seniors and their dates will highlight the evening in the gaily decorated Armory. The dance will end at 1:00 A.M., after which many fraternities will have parties and get-togethers.

The State Track Meet will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:00 P.M. with a capacity crowd expected. Teams from all South Carolina major colleges will compete, with the University of South Carolina being favored to cop its second straight title. A fierce battle between Presbyterian and Clemson for second place is expected.

Six records may be broken in the 28th annual meet. The Gamecock squad will present four serious threats to the state marks, and Presbyterian will offer two others.

All of these contenders have record or near record-shattering performances behind them. But they must accomplish their feats in the state meet to have the new marks entered in the books. Presbyterian record hopefuls are two miler John Fesperman and broad jumper Bobby Vass.

Both of the PC performers have whipped the established marks in their respective events. Fesperman shaved almost four seconds off the two mile record of 10 minutes, 4 seconds in a dual meet against Mercer this season. Vass, as a freshman in the varsity state meet two years ago, sailed a full inch beyond the mark of 23 feet 3 7-8 inches. He won the event but his record could not be recognized because of a technicality.

The Masquerade Ball will be held from 8:00 P.M. till 12:00 P.M. at the Armory on Saturday night, featuring the music of Tony Torre's orchestra from Columbia. Dress for PC men and their dates is optional, and a wide variety of costumes and regalia is expected to be worn.

A prize of ten dollars will be given by the IFC to the couple judged most originally dressed.

SFC P. F. Jones Replacement in ROTC

SFC. P. F. Jones has been assigned to the Presbyterian College ROTC department to replace M-Sgt. Wayne O. Wood who is scheduled to leave the department at the end of this semester.

Sgt. Jones was last stationed at Camp Gordon, Ga., Second Infantry Training Regiment. He is the father of an eleven month old son.

The family presently resides in Clinton.

Where Men Are Made

A person who feels obligated to stand before an assembly and speak violently for the Christian principles upon which Presbyterian College was founded should not only be considered as fulfilling this obligation, but also as fulfilling his need of protest against the low moral element which is beginning to fill this campus.

We shall not try to re-hash the statements made by Dean Anderson, but rather build upon his statements from the student viewpoint.

We can all sense this immoral attitude when some vehement curse is hurled down the halls of the dormitories, usually over some triviality. Some shudder at the mention of God's name taken in vain; others merely pass it on as a sign of intense anger; others take it into their daily vocabulary.

All of us do not pretend to be perfect examples; but the Blue Stocking, as a separate entity, feels obligated to take a stand on these issues: a stand which should influence student "stockholders" to the betterment of the moral tone at PC.

Yet, many carry their fetish to such an extent that women seem to be lewd and unattractive when passionate and sensuous pictures cover the walls of their rooms.

How can anyone strive to be clean in thought when numbers of lewd pictures stare him in the face?

This is not a boot licking campaign toward the administration by the editor and staff. It is a campaign to bring the nervous desire of our generation down to a minimum.

We do not mind seeing a common thief expelled from school for stealing our material wealth. Yet, we sit back and laugh when certain people steal our moral peace from us.

We are then deprived of certain devices which afford pleasure and recreation to many, and the satisfaction of the gambling urge to few.

By this situation, we then should not blame those who are in authority above us, but rather blame ourselves for not setting the proper example for the few novices who look to us, consciously or unconsciously, for guidance.

We plead with the Student Body of Presbyterian College to uphold the high moral standards which were set forth by our founder.

Thanks

We wish to offer our thanks to Dr. Edouard Patte and the Presbyterian College Robed Choir for their splendid work this season. The word of God has truly been related in song to the many churches to which the choir has sung.

Greetings and Salutations

Presbyterian College extends a warm welcome to the many visitors on campus this weekend. We sincerely hope that you will enjoy yourselves while at PC, and ask that you return as frequently as possible.

We also welcome the prospective students who have come to survey the life on the PC campus. It is indeed a pleasure to have you acquaint yourselves with the friendliest college in the South. We offer a Christian education to you in hopes that you will make Presbyterian College your college within the next few years.

'A Man Called Peter' is Top Movie

By CHARLES JOYNER

"A Man Called Peter," which is coming to the Broadway Theatre beginning May 16 for a four day run, is one of the finest products Hollywood has put out in quite a while.

This dynamic film adaptation of Catherine Marshall's beloved best seller is easily one of the top films of 1955 and will undoubtedly be a heavy contender for next year's Oscar. It is the story of Dr. Peter Marshall, a Presbyterian minister, pastor of the "Church of the Presidents" and Chaplain of the U. S. Senate.

The performances in the leading roles are outstanding. Richard Todd, as the Scottish imigrant who became possibly the outstanding minister of our time, gives his greatest performance. Todd, a little known British actor, who received an Oscar nomination a few years back for his role as the troubled young Scot man, once again puts on his Scottish accent, and bids fair to capture that elusive golden statue.

Jean Peters, one of Hollywood's most versatile actresses, gives a performance of deep emotional understanding. Her portrayal of the woman who loves and understands Peter Marshall is a masterpiece of thespianism.

Les Tremayne, "The Thin Man" of Radio fame, was particularly good in a minor role as a troubled Senator, who finds God through Peter Marshall.

HAVE A WORD

By Perry Hogue

ALPHA PSI DELTA

Well, they might have had a meeting, but then again they might not have. You see, some people never get the word, and I guess that's what happened to all the little girlies. But we will say that they had their usual meeting at the usual time and discussed the usual business. Of course, that's unusual, isn't it?

ALPHA SIGMA PHI

The brothers and pledges of Alpha Psi are happy to welcome new Brothers Wyatt Aiken, Warren Lower and Gene Gee into their midst.

Elaborate plans have been made concerning the dances this weekend.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

The brothers and pledges of Mu Chapter are looking forward to the party that Dr. Salter is throwing for them and their dates Saturday afternoon. The party will be held at Lake Greenwood, and outside entertainment will be enjoyed by all.

The brothers and pledges of Mu Chapter, at this time, extend to the new Student Council the best of luck and pledge their wholehearted support of all they wish to do in advancing Presbyterian College further into the ranks of the finest shools in the South.

PI KAPPA PHI

The outstanding pledge of this year's pledge class was also selected. His name will be announced later. Plans for a forthcoming brotherhood initiation were also made.

KAPPA ALPHA

At the regular meeting of the KA brothers Tuesday night, the pledges gave their poems before the company of the brothers. The affair was enjoyed by all. Regular business affairs were included and the meeting was adjourned by the No. 1.

Y. O. Why Gives Tips

By Drayton Cooper

As the year draws to a close and the "Spring Madness" begins to set in around the school, Yorick O. Why feels that its time to write of things more constructive than in the past. Now please don't get the idea that he is a "party pooper" because he's not; in fact, he's seriously contemplating going into the business of manufacturing a handy container for holding water, and for the dispersion of said water upon the heads of lesser individuals.

The Why Manufacturing Co., with that astute financier and dollar-worshipper, Scott "J. P." Pennington as business manager, has come up with a new line of goods that is sure to revolutionize the water battle.

You may remember some months ago, Mr. Why placed before the Student Body a body of recommendations for the betterment of the dormitories here at P College; well, he has another that he would like to add to the list.

It is called The Little Jim Dandy Water Squirter. Now this handy device comes in a variety of styles; there is the small trial size, that contains only the bare essentials for a good water fight —a trash can (without holes in the bottom), and complete instructions for use. But to gain best results, the large, economy size, or the package deal, is to be preferred.

This large deal comes to its buyer complete with a three-hundred foot section of two inch fire hose, to be attached to the nearest fire plug; a high-pressure nozzle, to wash any intruders (student council members, professors, cops) down the stairs; a slicker and boots; and, last but certainly not least, a Mercury Super 10 Outboard engine and a racing shell to provide the utmost in enjoyment of the soaked halls of the dormitories.

The last item will be extremely attractive to those persons who, after having flooded the building, wish to continue the fun on into the night.

Spencer River would have made an excellent site for speedboat races Tuesday night. There was just enough water around on the floors to float a light hydroplane. For the real died-in-the-wool thrill seekers, added excitement could have been provided by shooting the rapids down the stairs in a canoe. If the sale of the items produced by the Why Co. bring in enough income, it has been assured by the directors of the concern that there will be an armada scheduled in the near future.

Now, in view of the festive event that is upon us tonight and tomorrow, Yorick O. Why is going to finish his column with some sage advice garnered from the dust covered volumes of the Blue Stocking of old.

These comments were published several years ago by Lou Kemia, The Blue Baby, son of Hit O. Myth, sire of True Blue, and grand-sire of Y. O. Why. Happy Dave Stone, for whom Lou wrote, had this published in his column of May 9, 1952. So, with due respects to Dave, and other respectables, we hereby submit this bit of disrespectable advice:

". . . . I think I'd better list a few rules for the boys here at PC:

"1. Everyone must wear some kind of clothing.

"2. Cellophane G Strings are prohibited.

"3 If you go as a baby, be sure to have milk in the bottle.

"4. It's too close to exams to go as professors.

"5. There will be no outboard motors or raisin cookies allowed.

"6. All animals, with the exception of pink elephants and PC Wolves will be prohibited.

"7. Fan dancers and bubble dancers must have fans and bubbles.

"8. Please don't go as yourself, especially professors at a party."

Well, that's it. We're back into the moth eaten pages of the Blue Stocking, and the Burs Art Museum to check out for you. I hope that everyone of you kool kats will be up this weekend. Remember, however, to keep it clean, if you're going to tap that thing 'bout waiting until after the dance to do it . . . we'll miss some of you fellows around here. Seriously, let's not get too wild, but dry, week end.

Now, off to Limestone for a filly.

State Meet to be Held Here Today and Saturday

The track men pictured above are Tommy Woodlee of the University of South Carolina, a record setting 100 yd. dash man, and Bob Falls of Presbyterian, a nimble high hurdles event winner.

USC, PC, Clemson to Vie for Top; Six Men Expected to Break Records

Presbyterian College plays host to the twenty-eighth annual state track meet tomorrow at Johnson Field. Teams from the University of South Carolina, Clemson, the Citadel, Furman, Wofford, Newberry, and Presbyterian will vie for the state championship.

South Carolina is a heavy favorite to win the meet for the third straight year. There should be a battle between Clemson and PC for second place, with the Citadel being the probable fourth place winner.

Last year South Carolina took the meet with 70½ points. PC was second with 33 points and Clemson third with 32 points.

South Carolina has a strong, well-balanced team, and they should have no trouble taking top honors. The Gamecocks are led by Tommy Woodlee, who is the team's top scorer with 63 points. Joe Silas, the big man with the discus, is second with a total of 42 points.

Woodlee has had a very successful senior year at Carolina. He runs the 100 yd. dash, the 220 yd. dash, and a leg in the mile relay.

In his last outing, Woodlee equaled the state record of 9.7 seconds for the 100 yd. dash. In a recent meet with Clemson, he bettered the state mark for the 220 yd. dash by eight-tenths of a second.

PC's threat to this dashman is sophomore Delene Johnson. Johnson's best time in the 100 this year is 9.8 seconds. The battle for first place in the shortest dash of them all should persist the whole length of the 100 yd. cinder path. By comparative times Woodlee is the favorite, but Johnson, with a good day, could very well pull a startling upset. Johnson will also oppose Woodlee in the 220 yd. dash.

The 880 yd. run should be a three-way battle between Roberts of Carolina, Mattos of Furman, and Laws of PC. Mattos should also afford high competition for Clemson's Carter in the one mile run.

Dick Bartulski of South Carolina, undefeated this year, has thrown the javelin beyond the state record of 184 feet. He stands a very good chance of topping this record in the state meet.

The discus shapes up to be a two-way battle between Hightower of Furman and Silas of Carolina. Hightower last week had a toss of 139 feet while Silas registered a 137½ foot toss.

Clemson's Austin Mitchell will be out to defend his championship in the high jump. He will be opposed by Lester of the Citadel and freshman Wyatt Aiken of PC.

Senior distance runner John Fesperman will be out to break the record of 10:04 minutes in the two mile run.. Fesperman has topped the record once this year, and he seems to be in top shape for the final outing of his college career.

The winners in the hurdles events should come from a trio of top hurdlers. They are Hancock of PC, Ficher of the Citadel, and Bowen of Clemson.

Bobby Vass, junior broad jumper from PC, should have no trouble winning the broad jump, and he is in a very good position to better Banks McFadden's old mark in this event. This year's state meet should be one of the best in the history of the event. The expected large crowd is in store for some very fine performances by some of the South's top stars.

Hose Swamp Citadel; Vass Is High Scorer

The Blue Hose of Presbyterian had no trouble in defeating the Citadel Bulldogs last Saturday by a score of 80-51. In winning, the Hose took ten of the fifteen events.

Bobby Vass was high scorer with sixteen points. Vass took firsts in the 100 yd. dash, the 220 yd. dash, and the broad jump. He also captured third place in the javelin event.

Dick Fischer took top honors for the Citadel with ten points. He won firsts in both the 120 yd. high hurdles and the 220 yd. low hurdles.

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

By Tommy Richards

HOSE PULL TRIPLE PLAY

Although the Hose baseball team lost a close six to five game to the Citadel Bulldogs last Saurday, they pulled a very slick triple play. With men on first and second and no one out, the Citadel coach called for a bunt to move his runners into scoring position.

Hose pitcher J. C. Gosnell, expecting the bunt, threw an inside pitch and charged the plate. The Citadel batter executed a very poor bunt which went into the air. Gosnell, on a very alert play, grabbed the ball from the air and threw to Tobias at first to double one runner. Tobias quickly threw to Blue at second for the third out. The Hose have played alert ball all season, and they have shown up well in all games.

NETTERS ENTER TOURNAMENT

Six of the Blue Hose tennis players left today for Anniston, Ala., where they will enter the Anniston Country Club Invitational tennis tournament. The tourament will feature some of the South's top players. Those entering from PC are Al Morris, Jerry Hunt, John Brownlow, Guice Potter, Harvey Jackson, and Scott Watson. Potter and Watson will be playing in their home town.

LOSS OF WOOD FELT

The loss of track star Jim Wood will be felt by the Blue Hose as they enter the state tournament this week end. Wood has been outstanding in his performances this year and in adding points to the Hose scores. He will be especially missed in the mile relay and the 440 yd. dash. Wood was also a competent pole vaulter.

Hose Trip Wofford Terriers

• Hamilton Holds for Six Hits

The Presbyterian Blue Hose downed the Wofford Terriers 7-4 here Monday in a little Four game.

Pitcher Harry Hamilton held the Terriers to six hits while striking out eleven batters and contributing two hits to the Blue Hose attack.

Presbyterian scored seven runs, six of them in the first four innings.

Pitcher Don Reeder of Wofford held the Blue Hose to six hits, but seven miscues from his teammates aided the Hosemen's cause.

Presbyterian's record in the Little Four Conference is three wins and four losses, which put the Blue Hose in second place running in the Little Four.

Senior Personality . . .

College Park Man Selects Minister's Job

Warren Berry from College Park, Ga., is the senior personality for the week. It was not until this past Easter that he decided his profession—the ministry. His strong character and friendly personality will certainly be an asset to him in this field.

He was born in Atlanta, where he began his tennis career. Senior Berry gives credit to Coach Jam Leighton who made him the tennis player that he is now.

BERRY

Warren is vice-president of the Blue Key National Honor Fraternity. He is a senior representative on the Student Council.

He lists as his favorite hobbies tennis, music, and June Hearn. He is engaged to Miss Hearn, who is an insurance secretary in Atlanta.

Berry is president of the Westminster Fellowship and past secretary of IRC.

He is a platoon leader in ROTC and will receive his commission upon the completion of summer camp this August. He is a member of the Block P Club and a former member of the Glee Club. He is also a member of Alpha Sigma Phi social fraternity.

Matheson to Head Inter-Frat Council

Mack Matheson, representing the Sigma Nu fraternity, was elected president of the Inter-Fraternity Council Wednesday night. He replaces Bill Unthank.

The vice-president of the fratrenty governing body for the next year will be Jimmy Hancock, of Pi Kappa Alpha. The outgoing veep is Luther Shealy. Elected to fill the post vacated by John Compton as secretary-treasurer is Arthur Pue, rising senior of Theta Chi fratrenity.

The other representatives are Sam McGregor, Pi Kappa Phi; Dick Marshall, Kappa Alpha; and Charles Joyner, Alpha Sigma Phi. The other outgoing representatives are Mills Peebles, of Alpha Sigma Phi; John Fesperman, of Kappa Alpha; and Bobby Falls, of Pi Kappa Alpha.

The IFC sets up the rules, and is responsible for their enforcement, for the various inter-fraternity and sorority activities on the PC campus. Each group elects its representatives, and it is from these men that the officers are selected.

Robed Choir Ends Year's Musical Trek

The Presbyterian College Robed Choir finished its season last week end as it played to receptive congregations in Sumter and Newberry.

This past week end marked the close of four years of singing activity for several of the group. At the practice session Sunday evening, the seniors were paid tribute by Dr. Patte and the underclassmen in the club.

This year, the Singers have traveled throughout the Southland, from South Carolina to Western Louisiana, covering six states, singing to Presbyterina churches. The year's activities were highlighted some weeks ago with a three day stop in New Orleans.

Another feature of this year's tour was a winter trip to Florida and South Georgia. The only remaining event on the Croakers' calendar is the annual banquet to be held next week in Judd Dining Hall.

Again, as in the past years, the Glee Club completely supported itself, placing no financial obligation on the college, and its members continued to rank as the highest scholastic organization on the campus.

Ballard Elected President of IRC

The International Relations Club elected Mack N. Ballard, Jr., of Charlotte, N. C., as its president for next year, in elections held Wednesday night. He replaces Greg Elam of Lansdale, Pa. Ballard was treasurer of the club this year.

Dick Mendenhall, of Athens, Ga., was reelected vice-president. The post of secretary will be held by Ed Pyron, of Atlanta, who succeeds Warren Berry, of College Park, Ga. Sam McGregor, of Greenville, replaces Ballard as treasurer.

Professor Alex Cruickshanks, III, was reelected Faculty Advisor.

A motion of congratulations from the faculty was read to the club for International Relations Week.

The club voted to give retiring president Elam an honorary membership key.

Election Today Declared Unconstitutional

Because of a discrepancy in the printing of the ots for today's Student Body elections, the re election has been thrown out. According to rge Blue, Student Body president, the election l be held Monday.

he ballots called for the election of a president vice president. According to the consitution, man receiving the highest number of votes will named to those two offices, in the order of the ber of votes. Under the system as it appeared ay, the person receiving the second highest ber of votes did not necessarily have to be ned the vice president.

Article IV, Section three of the Constitution the Presbyterian College Student Body reads part: "The senior representative receiving e second highest number of votes shall be e president."

A hypothetical example showing the fault of ballots was presented to the Council today in manner: John Doe receives the highest num- of votes for president. Joe College receives highest number of votes under the section of ballot marked vice president. Harry High-school, though, receives a higher number of votes in the third position as senior representative. Under the constitution he should be named as second in command. According to the ballots, though, Joe College would be the vice president.

Blue remarked that the council was not aware of the trouble that had been caused through this oversight, and expressed his apologies for it.

In the run-off election held last Wednesday, May 11, Bill Toole of Indianapolis, Ind., defeated John Compton of Marion for the third senior representative on the council.

Perry Hogue was selected over Monty Cook as junior class representative. Tap Tobias withdrew from the race.

Lawson Hope was automatically elected when Guy Haddix withdrew from the sophomore race.

In the first election held May 6, Edward Hay and Victor Vierra were elected for the senior class, and Tommy Reeves and Jim Hancock were selected as junior representatives.

John Knox was voted as one of the two top men for the sophomore class.

Essentials of Voting

The Blue Stocking sincerely congratulates the outgoing Student Council for the superb manner in which student affairs have been managed this year.

To the retiring Student Body president, George Blue, we offer our humble thanks for his noble representation of the Student Body during his term of office.

We offer our congratulations to the incoming Student Council and wish you luck in your new venture. The Student Body should be justly proud of the selection of leaders which have been wisely chosen.

We are very fortunate to be living in a democratic society where we may vote and elect whom we please. There has never been a restraint on Student Body elections here, and we should offer our thanks to God for our freedom to speak and to write our thoughts concerning matters of grave personal importance.

The Student Council has a great influence on individuals who are sometimes called before them. The councilmen then make decisions which may easily form or alter a person's outlook on life.

Because of the importance of these decisions, a great demand is thrown upon us when we are offered the right to vote.

However, elections can sometimes become unruly and thoughtless when we do not think before we act. This lack of thought sometimes leads us to bad situations.

Democracy should be pure and unblemished, and we should realize that our voting power is one of grave importance and that it is a power which can promote or destroy an issue.

Sometimes these issues concern democratic principles. These Christian principles underlying our American democracy should govern our minds as we vote.

With these principles in mind we should cast our ballot and be unfaltering in our decisions once we have considered and observed every angle involved.

This collective thinking has been a governing force in many of our national elections. We should, therefore, practice from the first opportunity of our power to vote, Christian democratic principles.

Here's to You

We deeply thank Coach Leighton and the tennis team for their excellent showing of talent and sportsmanship this year. We have been witnesses of some of the best tennis in the nation for 1955, and we are truly grateful for bringing the honor of the State Championship again to Presbyterian.

The Sock also congratulates the track team for copping third place in the State Track Meet and especially to John Fesperman and Bobby Vass who brought first place honors again to the Blue Hose.

Y. O. Why Goes West

By Drayton Cooper

This here is a story about one of these western characters who really was western; in fact, he was so far west he had to go a thousand miles east to get to Los Angeles. This cat was gone.

Well, as our story starts out, we see He Roe a-settin on the curb in this little jerkwater town in Californy called Mountville, or Monterey, or somethin like that. He's jest asettin' thar mindin' his own business when right out of nowhere sashays this good lookn' doll; now, He Roe, he's a real red-blooded Western cat, not like Roy Rogers or Gene Aultery, or some of them other fellows, looks her up and down and likes what he sees.

Somethin' pops in his mind and he gets up and starts kinda follerin' her like . . not so's she can tell it. Well, that's where he makes his mistake, cause when he gets to her house, a fine noble Victorian (how'd that word git in hyar?) structure, this real good guy a-comes out and asks him jest what he's up to, you know, what's he trying to prove and all like that. This here fellow's name is Joe, I think. Well, our trusty hero decides maybe he'd better not hang around much longer, so he hops the quickest freight train out of that dump.

Whereupon reaching home, he runs into Paw, who's busy botherin' with ice (the weather was sorta hot) and he also finds his brother and his (brother's) girl. Well, none of them quite understand ol' He. They all kinda think he's slightly tetched in the haid cause on account he don't like to get out thar in the field in the hot sun and pick lettuce.

Anyhow, that night his Paw and his brother got to gettin' on him for throwin' some ice down a sled to watch it fall, and they all got kinda teed off with each other cause ol' He likes to read numbers. Then they git to talkin' about ol' He's Maw who ain't been seen ,or least they think she ain't. But ol' He knows better, he got sense. And then ol' He gets up and leaves and goes meandering back to Mountville, or Mounteray, or is it King of the Royal Mounted?

This time he don't play it exactly smart when they tell him to leave, and gets the pure down stuffin' beat out of him. But he accomplishes what he wants, I guess. Later he comes back and talks to this "lady" (he's figured out it's his Maw what ain't been supposed to be seen) and wheedles out of five G's for a bean business he's goin' into. They must of had a shortage in Boston cause on account they had gone up to a nickel a pound.

Now ol' He's Paw done lost his wad of money on this here ice business and ol' He wants to help pay him back the dough he lost. He grows a whole mess of beans and gets the money and pays off the old man. But you see, what ol' He don't know is that Paw don't take to speculating on the market too much. I don't know why, I guess he didn' know a dollar is a dollar, but anyhow, he didn't like it. He just hauls off and tells ol' He that the money's got to go. This kinda jocks He for awhile, and he goes out and has a good cry. Now this is REAL funny, cause it ain't every day that somebody slaves and works to pay somebody back and then don't get his work appreciated.

Now comes the real touchin' part. He takes his brother who thinks his Maw is daid to see her and his brother kinda snaps and goes right slap dab offin' his rocker and starts pokin' his punkin haid through winders and the like. This sorta shakes Paw, too; he rears back and has a stroke of apoplexy right thar on the spot. Now that is AWFUL funny and everybody ought just to die laughing at this.

Well, whilst this is all goin on the shurf- is just a-settin thar takin it all in and finally he gets up and tells ol' He that he ought hit the road fer somepace back east of Eden. Well, ol' He kinda realizes he ain't done exactly right, so he says to his brother's girl who ain't his brother's girl no more, that he believes he'll do jest that, OK. Almost hardly, anyway, but not afore she, bless her heart, has done gone in and got through to Paw that maybe he was kinda the cause of ol' He's trouble. Then everybody forgives everybody else, and nobody knows for real what happened afterwards but they's got a pretty good idea that ol' He turns out to be a pretty good old egg and his Brother turns out to be not so hot and Paw, well, ol' Paw wasn't exactly long fer this world, bu who'd think he was 84?

That there kinda wraps up this old western story about ol' He and his problems. But what the purpose of this hyar little bit of the old West has been was to all the humorous souls who thought the flick up at the Opera House was so funny the other night some more to laugh at. That's the way hit is, tho'; what don't perzactly strike some as being a-tawl funny hits others as bein' down right fool. I guess that's the way it was with those pore souls who sat up and laughed their tom fool haids off t'other night. I guess I jist didn't look at it the right way. Well, if they want to really laugh at something, they ought to read Ogden Nash or P. G. Wodehouse, but then they probably wouldn't dig that a-tawl either.

Mud Pies

By GUS GASH

Howdy here friends, it's time once again for our little mud-slinging fest in the Blue Sock. This week, tho, I'm changing the name to the Lily White Stocking 'cause last week when we had such filthy stuff to run, the Honorable Editor said NO. Now that just wasn't nice, I don't think.

Well, here we go for broke. Eddie "The Norfolk Terror, The Wildman, The Loudmouth, The Cavalier, The Ripper" Rayfield really went ape last weekend. He even took his doll out to the Country Club (not Lake Thomas) for chow. Then what was really nasty, he kissed her right in the mouth.

Tommy Turner wouldn't let the circulation manager send a Sock to Flora Mac last week; I expect that girl's picture had something to do with it.

It looks like Cothran and Saran are really going hard these warm spring days. Let this still be a warning Bob, she's been hearing from Counts if you hadn't heard.

Geology Field Trip - 19

All the lads met in front of the venerable old Science Bu tige of the glorious past of old P. College. With mungy clip-boards, they waited patiently for the arrival of the p (You oldsters remember Dr. Stump, don't you?) "Well, w wants to give the teacher a lift? I couldn't get my car bet wife had to take some of the kids downtown."

A young field tripper turned another one and said, "You know Rickett, Jr., my pop says he can remember when Dr. Stump could get all of his children into one car. I can't even remember when he could get 'em all in one house!"

Dr. Stump withered the young lad with the same kind of look that he settled his daddy with when he asked "Can you short sheet cross bedding?" back in nineteen ought-fifty-five. Like father, like son. Let's just hope son makes better grades.

After counting noses, they all piled into the "Rods." Willie Neville, Jr., got his feelings hurt when Dr. Stump counted his twice—sure enough, like father, like son. After everybody got settled down, the bad driver set his automatic pilot on "Brushy Creek." Lights flashed on and off, sparks flew, and a small flag registered "Tilt." "I guess it's never heard of Brushy Creek either," mused the driver. However, he merely looked up the manual Ford-a-tomic Drive and the field trip was on, with everyone waving grandly to the hysterically cheering throngs that packed tht plaza.

Morris Wins at Anniston; Hunt Defeats Sam Daniels

• Hunt-Morris Drop to Willet-McCord

By BILL ROBERTS

Allen Morris, Presbyterian College's outstanding tennis player, added the singles crown of the Anniston Invitational Tournament to his many championships in Anniston, Ala., May 7-8. Morris accomplished this by defeating Bitsy Grant 6-2, 6-3 in the finals last Sunday.

Grant was a former member of the U. S. Davis Cup team and winner of the Southern Championship eleven times. Morris defeated John Wheeler 6-0, 6-1 on Saturday morning and Les Longshore 6-2, 6-1 Saturday afternoon. On Sunday morning he defeated Frank Willet, seeded No. 2, 6-4, 8-6 in the semi-finals.

Several Presbyterian players went to Anniston, Ala., along with Morris. Those who made the trip are Jerry Hunt, John Brownlow, Harvey Jackson, Bruce Potter and Scott Watson.

Hunt pulled a startling upset by defeating Sam Daniels 8-10, 6-4, 7-5. He was then upset by Potter in the quarter finals 7-5, 6-7.

In doubles, Hunt-Morris reached the finals only to lose to Willet-McCord 7-5, 6-4. Before reaching the finals they defeated the topnotch doubles team of Wade Herren and Les Longshore 6-4, 0-6, 6-4.

Herren and Longshore are ranked No. 3 in the South.

In his win over Longshore and Grant, Morris displayed some of his finest tennis.

Most observers agreed that this was some of Morris' greatest tennis, and he should win a lot of tournaments this summer.

Morris has high hopes for the National Singles held in Forest Hills this summer. Two years ago he almost pulled the upset of the tournament by taking the Australian Cup star Mervyn Rose five sets. It was only his inexperience that caused the loss.

Sports Question

The Blue Stocking begins a weekly contest, "Sports Question of the Week," with this issue. The contest will feature a general question on sports in each issue. The first three contestants submitting the correct answers to the sports editor will be rewarded by having their names printed the following week.

The question of the week:

Who is the oldest baseball player still active in the major leagues today?

Members of the Blue Stocking staff are not eligible to compete in the weekly contest.

PC Takes Third in State Meet; Vass and Fesperman Win Firsts

USC is First; Bartulski Breaks Record

The University of South Carolina Gamecocks won their third straight State Track Meet last Saturday before 2,500 fans. The Gamecocks amassed a total of 66 5-6 points to 53 for the second place Clemson Tigers. Presbyterian was third and The Citadel fourth with 31 1-2 and 10 1-3 points respectively.

A slow track held the day's activities to one record-breaking performance; that being a record toss by Carolina's Dick Bartulski in the javelin throw. Bartulski, a sophomore, threw the javelin 189 feet 7 1-2 inches to better the old mark of 184 feet 9 1-2 inches set by Blackwell of Clemson in 1935.

Carolina's Tommy Woodlee was high scorer of the event with 11 1-4 points. Woodlee took firsts in the 100 yd. dash and the 220 yd. dash, and he ran anchor man on the winning mile relay team.

J. B. Bowen of Clemson also took two first places. He captured firsts in both the low and high hurdles, nosing out Hancock of PC in the highs and defeating Fischi of The Citadel in the lows.

In winning, South Carolina won seven events to six for Clemson and two for the Blue Hose. The Gamecocks presented a strong and well-balanced team that showed up better than average in all events.

Although only one record was broken, others were threatened very seriously. After clearing the bar at six feet two inches in the high jump, Clemson's Austin Mitchell missed three very close tries at breaking the record of six feet three inches.

PC's Bobby Vass jumped a full foot farther than the present record in the broad jump only to have it forfeited because of a scratch of less than one inch. Vass, in his freshman year, had another record-breaking performance forfeited because the pit was a fraction of an inch lower than the take-off block.

The relay team from South Carolina missed breaking the record in the mile relay by five tenths of a second. The team, composed of Sonny Wilcher, Don Whetstone, Fred Roberts, and Tommy Woodlee, made the distance in three minutes twenty-two and eight tenths seconds.

Miles Carter of Clemson was four seconds off the record in the mile run, while Carolina's Fred Roberts was one and three tenths seconds off the record in the 880 yd. run, which he set last year.

In the 880 yd. run, Roberts got off to a fast start and was never caught. Rounding the last turn he was far ahead of his next opponent, Tommy Mattos of Furman, when Carter started a terrific kick that carried him within feet of winning the race. Had there been a few more feet in the race, Carter would have taken it.

Bowen, in winning the high hurdles, did not leave a single hurdle standing. He nosed out Hancock in a photo finish. In the low hurdles, Hancock missed his stride on the first hurdle and never regained it.

PC's brilliant two miler, John Fesperman, was out to break the record in the two mile run, but he could not lick the soft track and the 90 degree heat at the same time. However, he ran a beautiful race and was never pushed once as he finished far ahead of his nearest competitor.

Citadel Edges PC; Lose by 6-5 Score

The Citadel Bulldogs edged the PC Blue Hose Wednesday, 6-5, at Rebel Park in Charleston.

The Kanines scored on a very unusual play with the score 5-5 in the eighth when the batter failed to receive the steal signal. The runner on third proceeded to score while the batter bounced to third baseman Tommy Reeves; however the throw to first was not made in time, and both men arrived safely.

Pitcher J. C. Gosnell went all the way for the Blue Hose and pitched creditable ball.

Errors on both sides were scattered throughout the game.

Wofford Downs PC in Last Game

Southpaw Tom McIntyre pitched three hit ball as the Wofford Terriers played host to the Presbyterian Blue Hose, and gained a 7-0 win over the Hosemen.

Presbyterian's starting pitcher Harry Hamilton and utility infielder Cecil Geddings were the only Hosemen to secure hits from McIntyre. Hamilton had a double in the fourth and a triple in the ninth. Geddings singled to the outfield for his hit.

The game was the last of the season for the Blue Hose.

Mercer Bears Defeat PC Nine for 12-11 Loss

Mercer came out with four runs in the eighth to overcome a two run deficit and win the game .

SPOTLIGHTING SPORTS

By Tommy Richards

WOODLEE SHOWS GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

When the starter in last Saturday's State Track Meet elected to disqualify Hose sprinter Delane Johnson from competition in the 100 yd. dash for two false starts, Carolina's Tommy Woodlee left his position in the starting line and trotted up the track towards the officials' table. His aim was to get Johnson back into the race. Woodlee succeeded and Johnson was reinstated.

Johnson ran well and finished a close second to the winner, none other than Woodlee. This was a fine act of sportsmanship which helps to show that athletes are not bums as many seem to think.

SCRATCH FORFEITS RECORD

A fraction of an inch is usually not considered important, but Saturday it meant the difference in breaking a record and not breaking one. A distance of less than an inch cost broad jumper Bobby Vass a new record in that event.

Vass executed his jump and landed 24 feet and 3 inches from the take-off block, a full foot more than the present state record. Vass' near perfect leap was forfeited because he had scratched a fraction of an inch.

Fesperman is Track Star In Fine Four-Year Record

By JOHN KNOX

To those who have had the privilege of seeing a track meet at PC, the question "Who is the thin man who runs continually?" will come to mind. If he checks, he will find that it is John Fesperman.

John has an outstanding record in his specialty the two mile run. Having run approximately thirty meets, he has been defeated only twice in his four years as a Hoseman. With no special scholarship, he runs for pleasure and the mere fact that it occupies his time.

FESPERMAN

When asked why he did so much running, he responded, "It is a great thrill to win a race." He adds that he is happiest when the race is over and won.

He is president of the Blue Key National Honorary Fraternity and a brother of Kappa Alpha Order.

He has served on the SCA cabinet for three years and is a member of the Block P Club and is past vice president of the IFC and a member of the Scabbard and Blade National Society.

His greatest thrill came when he broke the school record for the two mile run with an unoffical time of 9.57. This time betters the state record by several seconds. It is considered an unofficial time because it was not run at the State meet.

"Fess", as he is popularly called, is pinned to Miss Anna McAlpin, of Blackshear, Ga., who is a sophomore at Queens College.

He will enter the Signal Corps upon graduation in June. He plans to be married and enter the banking profession after his time in the service.

Melvin Little Cops 'Best Drilled Cadet'

Melvin Little was selected today by the military department judges as the "Best Drilled Cadet" and also "Best Drilled Individual" in the ROTC cadet corps.

Company A received the "Best Drilled Squad" honor in the squad drill competition this morning.

B Company leads the competition thus far with 29 points. A Company is in second place with 25 points. The next three positions are in order: D. Company 22 points; C Company 13 points; and Band Company 6 points.

The Field Day events will be completed with the Platoon drill next Monday, May 16.

Croakers End Year; Banquet Slated Soon

The Presbyterian College Robed Choir will close its year next Tuesday night when it holds its annual banquet for the members.

This has been a yearly feature of the Glee Club and is looked forward to by all the members. This year's fare will consist of a bountiful supply of seafood, topped off with a temptingly prepared dessert.

Mr. Campbell, registrar, asked that all students who have not completed registration by turning in their cards, to turn them in so that a full tabulation may be had by Saturday noon. He also stated that any change in course must be turned in to his office by Monday.

Ferrene New VP; Lends Needed Hand

A new addition to the administration at Presbyterian College is O. W. Ferrene, who will fill the office of vice president in charge of development.

President Marshall W. Brown, in making the announcement, said Mr. Ferrene will assist in raising funds for the school. By travelling throughout the controlling Synods of Georgia and South Carolina, he will urge not only the churches but also friends alumni and supporters of Christian education to assist in the forthcoming development program.

Dr. Brown pointed out that this position is a new office created at the college to place even greater emphasis upon fund-raising and to assure a maximum effort in the edification of Presbyterian's expansion drive.

Vierra to Lead Cadets; Seniors Are Officers

Victor S. Vierra, of Mount Pleasant, has been selected battalion commander for thec oming year for the ROTC cadet battalion. Vierra, who will hold the rank of Cadet Major, is also the captain of the local chapter of the Scabbard and Blade, National Military Fraternity. He is also a member of Blue Key, National Honor Fraternity; a senior member of the Student Council; and a brother of Kappa Alpha Order.

Perry M. Hogue, of York, will hold the top noncom position. He has been appointed Battalion Sergeant Major, with rank of Cadet Master Sergeant. He is a junior representative on the Student Council, and a member of Sigma Nu fraternity.

New Facilities Near Completion

Biggest project currently underway at PC is the new dormitory, but a series of renovation and remodeling projects also are being completed.

The dormitory, a three-story structure to house 96 students, is being built at a cost of $223,600. This structure was to have been completed by opening day, but strikes in limestone quarries and tile workers held up work for five weeks. The architect indicated that there was little possibility of any part of the dorm tha could be used before November. E. R. Baker, the contractor, made unusual effort to enable the college to house 72 students on the second and third fuoors.

President Brown stated that Mr. Baker had fine cooperation from local sub-contractors and laborers who worked overtime, in order to finish the dorm as as soon as possible. When Dr. Brown was asked about the use of substitute materials, he declined, saying that he wanted the best. Mr. Baker, twice at his own expense, sent his trucks to get materials necessary to complete the job. These materials had been held up because of a truckers' strike.

Remodeling is near completion in Smyth Dormitory. Here, the bath facilities and stairways are in the process of renovation; floors and woodwork have been refinished and the rooms repainted. The 24 steel shower stalls which have been used in the tiled bathrooms have been replaced by tile which harmonize with the other construction.

The organic and analytical laboratories have received a $10,000 remodeling job. This project includes a new floor of concrete, new desks, fluorescent lighting, and repainted walls. The lab desks which have been installed offer the most modern features. They include chemically resistant stone tops with individual outlets for natural gas, vacuum and compressed air, electricity and water, special cabinets and losking devices, and individual student lockers.

Two Million To Be Raised; Both Synods Approve New Plan

A $2,000,000 diamond jubilee development program will be launched by Presbyterian College within the near future.

President Marshall W. Brown has announced that preliminary plans and arrangements already are underway for this 75th anniversary program.

The Synods of Georgia and South Carolina, which support and control PC, gave their approval to the project at their annual meetings in July.

The goal of $2,000,000 is a long-range objective to be achieved over a period of several years. An immediate goal of something less than one-half of this amount will be sought in the first phase of this program.

Three immediate pressing needs are to be met by the first phase. Presbyterian College has placed the building of a chapel-auditorium at the top of its priority list. Following this structure is the need for a student center, and additional funds for endowment to provide more scholarships and increase faculty salaries.

The development program which is in keeping with the Diamond Jubilee, will also tie in with the year of emphasis on Christian education, 1956 having been designated by the Presbyterian Church, US, for this purpose.

Nine Complete Work At Summer Session

They will receive degrees at the regular commencement exercises next June.

Five who completed work toward the bachelor of arts degree are Miss Ettta Rosannah Adams, of Joanna; John I. Allman, Macon, Ga.; James E. Bell, McConnells; Charles Ray Epperson, Winston-Salem, N. C.; and Harry R. Hamilton, Seneca.

PC Plans Convocation To Launch New Epoch

• Eichelberger Directs Plans for Event

Presbyterian College will sponsor a 75th anniversary Convocation in conjunction with Homecoming on October 14-16.

The general theme of this three-day program will be "The Dawning Renaissance," pointing ahead to the great era of promise which the future holds.

National leaders in several fields will come to the PC campus to develop this theme through these subjects: "The Renaissance in Learning and Culture," "The Renaissance of Peace and Prosperity" and "The Renaissance of Religion and Morality."

Most of the Homecoming phase of the program will be held on Saturday, October 15.

This activity will include an Alumni Luncheon, class reunions, a general meeting of the Alumni Association and a night football game between traditional rivals, Presbyterian and Wofford.

Alumni and Presbyterian leaders throughout the controlling Synods of Georgia and South Carolina will attend the diamond jubilee celebration. The Convocation is scheduled to begin on Friday afternoon, October 14, and extend through Sunday afternoon, October 16.

President Marshall W. Brown said the theme "The Dawning Renaissance" had been suggested by an observation made recently by Roger Babson, prominent author and economist who predicted the 1929 stock market failure. Babson said:

"I believe the world is entering a third great renaissance, comparable with the renaissance of the 15th Century brought about by printing and Bible reading and the renaissance of the 18th Century brought about by steam and shovel."

Vacation With Pay . . .

G. Edward Campbell, registrar of Presbyterian College, along with representatives of other colleges visited Fort Benning, Ga., this summer, where ROTC units of the various schools were undergoing summer training. Mr. Campbell is shown above with several of the Presbyterian College cadets and officers of the corps. Left to right, they are, Edward L. Hay, Johns Island; Ray Lord, Dublin, Ga.; Capt. J. H. Rutledge, assitant professor of military science and tactics; Campbell; Lt. Col. Francis V. Smith, commandant of the unit and professor of military science and tactics; James P. Fleming, Charlotte, N. C.; and Victor S. Vierra, Mt. Pleasant.

Five Groups Make PC Home

Five important Presbyterian church groups made Presbyterian College their center of operations during this summer.

They brought young people and adult leaders from both the supporting Synods of South Carolina and Georgia to the PC campus.

The 110th annual stated session of the Synod of South Carolina and the annual Synodical Training School of this synod provided the highlight attractions of the summer activity. Ministers and lay leaders attended the stated session on July 26-27 which is being held for the second straight year at Presbyterian College.

Women leaders from throughout South Carolina attended a training school on June 20-25 which makes its permanent home on the PC campus.

Two young people's groups also were annual visitors at Presbyterian College. The Senior High Leadership School for the Synod of South Carolina was held June 13-18, and the Pee Dee Presbyterian Conference was held June 27-July 2.

Both synods collaborated on a joint enterprise in the form of an Area Laboratory School for the Synods of Georgia and South Carolina. This program for training Sunday School teachers was conducted at PC on Aug. 7-13.

New Dorm for Girls Takes Calvert Home

Presbyterian College has added, among its many renovations, a girls' dormitory. For the first time in the history of the school, it is believed, Presbyterian has a building to house coeds.

The building to be used by the girls is the Calvert House. In the past this house has been used as a home by the professors. When the enrollment of the college leaped to a new high two years ago, part of the edifice was put into use as a dormitory for approximately a dozen students in addition to the two professors living there.

Calvert has been renovated on the second and third floors for the coeds.

THE BLUE STOCKING PRESENTS

Diamonds for 1955 . . .

Eyes are turned this week to new faces. Both new and old students, new and old members of the faculty have their wondering eyes focused upon one another. So what? So what of these new faces and this diamond jubilee year at Presbyterian College? How will these new personalities fit the occasion?

The Presbyterian College annual dated 1900-1901, The Garnet and Blue, states:

"The period of college life is brief, but it is an epoch which combines many happy days of youth with a few years of rapid mental development. Hence the memory of this time remains with us during our future years. The associations and friendships then formed are among our lasting possessions."

There has been no change in human nature since 1880, the date of the college's founding. The freshman class, even though smaller, was faced by the same basic problems as the class of 1959. We then deduct that, using the old cliche, "If they got through it so will I." But, some did not. Some were left in the mad rush of college life.

We must all admit that the major cause of all college failures is lack of proper study. Concentration is the key to study. All of us must remember that the course of study offered us in college is much more advanced than that offered in high school. We must remember also that the fundamental parts of concentration call for a settled mind, a quiet place to study, and above all, the ability to cast those things which are minor to study from our minds.

The seventy-fifth celebration will possibly give the student an insight to the problems encountered and solved in past years by the college administration and faculty. We can then realize the vast ocean of personal problems and fears which have been suffered by new students in the past. Then our problems seem less important to us when we project the past seventy-five years onto our present screen.

This screen has been brightened and dimmed in past years by the attitude and the capacity to shoulder responsibility displayed by the Student Body. Therefore, the success of the Student Body depends largely upon the attitude and ability of the new student faction. A determined freshman class will cause this seventy-fifth year to flourish as never before.

Y. O. Why Says "Howdy"

By C. Drayton Cooper III

Greetings, and a happy new year for all you fellows returning to the hallowed halls of ol' P College. To all the New Boys who are reading this tabloid of great renown for the first time, introductions are in order. Yorick O. Why, whose columns appear each week in this space, is a writer of extreme importance. In the past it has been the custom of the All-American Blue Sock to publish the works of outstanding writers weekly so that all students may share in the rich benefits of this gifted few.

To the freshmen who are entering PC for the first time, Y. O. reminds you of this: he is an exponent of the PC Spirit. That means that in these weekly harangues you'll be reading of the exploits of some of the characters we have here at Presbyterian. The PC Spirit is something we have at this school that no other institution has ever been able to come near to imitating.

It is the thing that makes PC'uns go to Clemson every year and cheer the Blue Hose on even though the odds are tremendous against us.

It is the magic inspiration that comes to every man here when time for the Wofford game rolls around; it is the thing that makes all fellows here brothers no matter what their fraternity or organization may be. This Spirit of which we speak is what fills the gym for basketball games; it's what makes a PC'un go away from Clinton nad spread the good news about our school. And it is also what makes the PC students stand out in a crowd for their gentlemanly behavior.

The Sprit of PC has been burning through the years; its flame has burned low at times, and has flared out in all its glory at other times. But no matter what the occasion, the Spirit has been prevalent. Perhaps the credit for keeping our spirit high could be given to many men that have been here in years past, but the lion's share of the credit would go to a man all you new boys will get to know before you have been here many days.

He is our own Walter Johnson. 'Coach has been at P College for a long, long time, and through the years he has continually inspired the men here at PC to keep their hearts high no matter what the odds may be. Freshmen, learn to know "Coach", he's a great man.

Now, we've had our serious paragraphs, it's time for our light side. As all of you Fresh are aware, it is highly important that you become popular with the other men here, especially with the upperclassmen. I would like to set out here some rules on how to be very, very popular with upperclassmen:

1. Own a red convertible.
2. Be a good conversationalist.
3. Own a red convertible.
4. Present a good appearance.
5. Own a red convertible.
6. Have a kid sister who dates.
7. Own a red convertible.

(Note: If the convertible is a Cadillac, disregard rules two and four.)

If you fresh can stack up to those requirements, you'll be sure to get a bid from each of the fraternities and really be a BMOC.

Now, since Honorable Editor is griping about this not being long enough, I'll intersperse some choice bits as seen from the lovely penthouse atop the beautiful Judd Hall.

PC is very lucky to be able to accommodate its returning students in such lovely dwellings as the Leroy Springs Country Club, and of course, the penthouse at Judd. I hear that Little Willie Roberts is so happy that he can live in the Club until he's going to turn over half of his clubhouse dues to the school so they can give him permanent residence there. Oh yes, Bill Dantzler has a sign over his bed in the penthouse that says, "Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."

We noticed a real cue-et crop of fresh girls the other day; looks like Little Red will have some competition this year . . . . By the way, Fresh (and upperclassmen), the Hole-In-The-Wall stays open 'til 2:00 AM . . . A hearty welcome to Katie and Bill Toole, it's good to have both of you back . . . . also the same to Pete Hay, another PC'un who, like MacArthur, has returned . . . . and to Bobby Burts, a man who teaches history but who, in the days of Kiker, used to make the Sock every week, especially when he gave a cut.

Congratulations to the Athletic Department for securing such an outstanding man as Russ Murphy . . . . congratulations, and a thank you, to Dr. Brown and the Trustees who have finally gotten the ball rolling with the most outstanding stride forward in the school's history . . . . flowers and a card of sympathy to all the fellows who got the ol' royal during the summer . . . . congratulations (again?) to all the fellows who tied the knot this summer . . . and a word of hope to the football team for tomrow night, let's win this one. If Mississippi Southern could beat Alabama, we can take Clemson.

Finally, a real gung ho welcome home for the graduates of the Summer session at Benning School for Wayward Boys; glad to have all you courageous defenders of the campus back home, it would have been dangerous to walk the streets at night had you not been here to stand watch over us.

Hose Meet Tigers for 37th Tilt Tomorrow

Crutchfield Inaugurates Two Unit System; Cook and Isger Are Platoon Quarterbacks

The Battlin' Blue Hose of Presbyterian College travel to the hills of Clemson for their 37th meeting with the Clemson Tigers. This series started in 1916, one year after Coach Walter Johnson arrived at P. C.

During this time the Hose have won four, lost twenty-nine, and tied three. PC last beat the Tigers in 1943 by a score of 13-12. This win came under the wise handling of Coach Lonnie McMillian.

PC's best streak came during the years between 1925 and 1927. During this period the Battlin' Blues won two and tied one.

Head Coach Bill Crutchfield plans to neutralize Frank Howard's "K" and "B" units with a two-platoon system of his own. With more depth than in the past season Crutchfield plans to field two complete ball teams. One will be led by letterman quarterback Felder Cook, and the other by Freshman Ron Isgre.

Coach Crutchfield has hopes that Cook will be able to handle the important quarterback chores in his T-formation. Cook was sidelined at the first of this season by an ailment that has bothered him since last season.

Crutchfield is also banking heavily on freshman Ron Isger from Clairton, Pa., who has been showing up very well in practice. Another freshman, 195-pounder Bill Aycock, has also showed much promise in practice.

The fullback position is ably manned by last year's leading ground gainer, junior Ed Brockenbrough, although he is being pushed by sophomore Ken Webb who starred as a halfback last year. Behind these two is freshman Jimmy Nichols of Decatur, Ga. Two lettremen are returning at the halfback positions. Junior Gene Butler and sophomore Mitchell Mavromat are small but both are good broken field runners. Backing these two are sophomore Johnny Armstrong, freshmen Tony Benson, and Jerry Yoder.

The ends are well manned by three lettermen and a transfer student. Lettermen Bobby Jackson, Ken Daughtry and Bob Stevens give experience and pass-catching ability to the end positions.

Transfer Don Douglas has also shown up very well in pre-season drills. Other promising flankmen are Ted Leaky and Richard Alexander.

Coach Crutchfield is quick to smile when you ask him about his tackles. Here he has size, speed, and experience. Robert Harrington, a choice for a pre-season All-State berth, has shown speed to burn and also packs a powerful punch.

Lettermen Lee Frierson and Wayne Shoemaker, both over the 200 mark, are more than adequate. Trey are backed by a transfer, James Lee, and freshmen James Kline, Ronnie Barnette, Jack Coppley, and Joe Negley.

Only one letterman returns at the guard positions. Tommy Warren, who played lots of ball as a sophomore last year, is being counted on for the right guard spot. Others returned from last year's team are Alvis Poe and Bill Tsacrios. Freshmen who are being counted heavily upon are Richard Shrigley, Alvin Hampton, Harold Lomax, and Ken Gardner.

Two lettermen top the list at the pivot position and both should see lots of action against the Tigers. Guy Haddix, who was shifted ot center during last season, and Jim McLauchlin, who lettered as a tackle, give needed experience in the center of the line.

This all adds up to a chance for another good season for the Blue Hose, who are out to better their 6-3 record of last season. New editions at the important assistant coach spots are Russ Murphy and Jerry Wampfler.

Look Out Clemson . . .

JV Games Scheduled

Head Coach Bill Crutchfield has announced this week that two junior varsity games have been arranged for this season. Gordon Military Academy of Barnsville, Ga., has been scheduled for Sept. 29 and Georgia Military College has been scheduled for Oct. 14.

Coach Crutchfield has hopes of scheduling more games during the coming years. He said, "These games will allow more boys to play full time active football games and will aid in increasing team experience."

The Jayvee team has not as yet been picked, but this will be done in the near future. Coach Crutchfield feels sure that these games will be a big help in a building program that has brought in a total of thirty-three freshman football players.

New Faces Added To Coaching Staff

• Wampfler and Murphy Assist

Two new coaches have joined the Athletic Department at Presbyterian.

Joining Head Coach Bill Crutchfield, who starts his second year at the helm, are assistants Russ Murphy and Jerry Wampfler.

Murphy, who replaced Norman Sloan as end coach and head basketball mentor, comes from the camp of the professional Baltimore Colts where he served as defensive coach last year.

His topflight gridiron experience also includes 14 years as a key assistant to Coach Snavely, first at Cornell University and then at the University of North Carolina.

Murphy has had a vast background of basketball experience, too, in both high school and college ,and once had as his assistant the now famous Clair Bee, national basketball authority. Murphy was cage assistant to Blair at Cornell. He received his BA degree from Colorado University, and his MA from Columbia University.

He was an All-Ohio and All-Mid - American Conference tackle at Miami University of Ohio, from which he received his BS degree in 1954. He spent the past year coaching three sports at New Philadelphia (Ohio) High School.

Wampfler served in the army for two months this summer before being discharged because of a back injury.

Sports Question

The Blue Stocking has a weekly contest, entitled the "Sports Question of the Week". The first bringing the answers to the sports editor each week will have their names printed in the paper the following week. If you cannot answer all three questions answer as many as you can. It is not necessary to answer all questions to win.

The questions are about teams and players that are or have been in the national sports picture.

What pitcher holds the record for shut-outs pitched in one season?

What modern day pitcher set a record when he pitched two consecutive no-hit games in 1938?

Walter Johnson, The Big Train, holds the record for shutouts pitched on opening day. What was the total number of shutouts he pitched in season openers?

BEAT CLEMSON

To start off fresh with a new column for a new year my first remarks are directed mainly to the freshmen, but it wouldn't hurt for you upperclassmen to take notice of the following.

So, most of you know we have been playing the Tigers from Clemson on their own field for quite a few years. The "ferocious" Tigers only waste their time playing us because it is a good warm-up for them. In the past that is exactly what it has been. Clemson never considers our "Battlin' Blue Hose" a threat when they travel to the hills for a "practice game."

In this writer's opinion this is the year for our P. College team. The team of this year has the depth and the manpower to turn the tables on a win taken-for-granted by the proud Clemson alumni.

This campus has been noted for its spirit in backing the athletic teams. Speaking for all the upperclassmen we do not want nor expect-this spirit to die. We expect you freshmen to feel a part of this spirit and also expect you to go to Clemson tomorrow night and whoop it up for the Blue Hose. We are after the Tiger's tail and we think we can bring it back . . . . GIN FRESHMAN.

POWER TO SPARE

Coach Crutchfield is loaded with talent at the fullback and tackle positions. With a shift of Ken Webb from halfback to fullback, Crutchfield now has two strong winners at this position. With Webb is Eddie Brockenbrough, last year's leading ground gainer. The tackle positions are well filled by three lettermen. Crutchfield said recently, "I wouldn't trade Robert Harrington for any tackle in the state." Running with Harrington are Lee Frierson, a starter from last year, and Wayne Shoemaker, a returner from the '53 team.

SHORT SHOTS

Congratulations to: Robert Harrington for being named to the pre-season All-State Team . . . . Allen Morris for tennis well played against the best this summer . . . . Felder Cook has returned to the team despite his ailments. Best of luck in the coming season, Felder . . . . By the way all you freshmen, let's go to the Cow College Saturday night and support our team . . . . Best of luck to our new coaches, Murphy and Wampfler .

Cadets Take Honors; Simmons Best Soldier

The Presbyterian College cadets made a good showing for themselves at the annual GMS ROTC summer camp. The PC'uns won more places than field day participants from any other school, and one was named outstanding cadet of his company.

Nelson Charles won the only first place, and that was in the BAR disassembly and assembly. Sam McGregor won second place in that event, and Chris Patte won third. The competition in that event was slightly stacked in favor of PC since five of the six contestants were PC'uns. The other contestants were Leslie H. Patterson and James R. Lord.

Frank Young won third place in the disassembly and assembly of the light machine gun. He won this over two other PC'uns, Charles Sloan and Edgar Matheson.

Al Morris, PC's outstanding tennis champion, won the tennis championship for the camp. He defeated his opponent in three straight sets without any trouble. He also, by formal board action, was designated a Distinguished Military Student.
